TWO-GUN ROBBER CLUBS HIS VICTIM IN $1300 HOLDUP

Electric Manufacturing Co. Officer, Slow in Handing Over Grip, Is Struck on Head.

COMMANDEERS AUTO TO ESCAPE POLICE

Grocery Firm Messenger Kidnaped When Waiting for Street Car and Robbed of $1850.

A lone "two-gun" robber had a lively time yesterday in obtaining a $1300 payroll from the office of the Killark Electric Manufacturing Co.

In the course of the holdup he struck the president of the concern on the head with a revolver, commandeered a passing automobile and exchanged several shots with a policeman in the get-away. He then forced the kidnaped motorist to drive him to a point on the Manchester road about 15 miles west of the city limits.

Entering the company's office, 3940 Easton avenue, shortly after 1 p. m., the robber found Joseph Desloge, president of the firm, alone. He flourished two weapons and demanded all the money in the place. When the president hesitated, the robber clubbed him on the head with the butt of a revolver and seized a small grip containing the payroll. Then running west to Warne avenue, he boarded a coupe occupied by a man and a woman and rode away on the running board, firing several shots as the machine sped past a policeman.

Tells of Flight.

The motorist, who said he was George Watson, "of Illinois," a guest at the Melbourne Hotel, related that he was driving past the electric company with Miss Hilda Sachritz of 4314 Evans avenue, when they noticed the excitement and turned back to learn the cause of it. As they passed the scene a second time, he said, they were accosted by a man who ran into the street with a revolver, and, leaping on the running board, ordered Watson to "Go ahead fast."

Watson drove west in Easton and at the robber's orders circled about until he had lost his bearings. In a few moments they passed Kennerly and Belleglade avenues, several blocks north of Easton and two blocks west of Warne. Patrolman John Hughes was stationed at that corner guarding some live wires which had been blown down by the storm at noon, and as the car approached him, the robber, apparently believing he was being pursued, opened fire on the officer. Patrolman Hughes fired back, several bullets striking near the occupants, but the machine continued on its way and the policeman lost sight of it.

Drove Out 15 Miles.

The robber, Watson continued, then got into the machine and compelled him to drive toward the western border of the city, and west on the Manchester road to some cross-road about 15 miles out." There, Watson reported, the man took two blankets from the back of the car, strapped them to the money grip with his belt, and after politely thanking the driver for the "lift," walked away. Watson drove back to the city, took Miss Sachritz home and reported to the police.

Messenger, Carrying $1850 in Lunch Kit, Robbed.

Earlier in the day two young robbers driving a Ford sedan kidnaped a grocer's employe in another busy uptown section of the city and drove several miles west on the Big Bend road, where they robbed him of an $1850 payroll.

Charles Grosser, 68 years old, of 105 Hampton avenue, was the victim of the holdup which occurred across the street from the Chouteau Trust Co., Manchester and [illegible] avenues. For many years it has been the custom of Grosser, who is employed by the George W. [illegible] Grocery, 5863 Manchester, to carry money to and from the bank in a tin lunch kit.

He had just left the bank about [illegible] a. m. yesterday and was waiting for a westbound Manchester street car, when the robbers drove up and ordered him into the car. Then, forcing him to sit looking out the rear window, they drove about the city for an hour and then into St. Louis County, where they took the lunch kit away from him and put him out. He walked to a nearby residence and notified the po-

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday: Upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys: A period of scattered showers during first half and again during latter half; temperatures near or below normal first half, warmer latter half.

New East Side Race Track Damaged in Yesterday's Gale.

Wind and rainstorm, which yesterday at noontime caused a drop of 21 degrees in temperature, from 92 to 71, resulted in damage of several thousand dollars to the property of the Fairmount Jockey Club, between East St. Louis and Collinsville.

As reported at the jockey club, which is preparing for a horse-racing meet in September, the storm wrecked seven frame barns and the paddock, or show building. The paper roofing of the steel grand stand was ripped off. Four barns escaped damage. About 200 men were at work, but all escaped injury.

In St. Louis the storm did some damage in the northwest section. Wires were reported blown down in the neighborhood of Grand boulevard and Easton avenue, and along North Broadway and Kennerly avenue. The only property damage reported downtown was the breaking of a plate-glass window at Stix, Baer & Fuller's store, the loss being placed at $500.

DAWES LEADS AN ORCHESTRA

Vice President Also Plays Piano While Wielding Baton.

By the Associated Press.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 25.—Vice President Dawes today reviewed the Thirteenth and Fourth Cavalry and the Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, U. S. A., at Fort D. A. Russell.

From Denver the party will proceed to Wagon Wheel Gap., Colo., where they will be guests of Col. A. E. Humphreys for a week.

Dropping his newly acquired title of "Great White Father No. 2," conferred upon him by the Sioux Indians here yesterday, Dawes last night assumed the role of music director and led an orchestra, playing the piano himself.

House Burns Every 3 Minutes in U. S.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Fire destroys 618 American homes every day or one every 3 minutes, it is shown by statistics gathered by the national board of fire underwriters during the last five years and published today. It was estimated that 50 per cent of the 15,000 deaths from fire, the annual toll in America, occur in dwellings. The total loss in houses burned for the period covered in the report was $322,310,604.

BOY, 4, AND MAN, 72, ARE KILLED BY AUTOMOBILES

Harold Green Run Over by Ford Coupe, Driver of Which Speeds Away After the Accident.

99TH MOTOR VEHICLE DEATH HERE THIS YEAR

Charles F. Becker Victim of Car Driven by Woman When He Steps Back to Avoid Another Machine.

Dead.

Harold Green, 4, 1118 North Leffingwell avenue.

Charles F. Becker, 72, 900 Market street.

Harold Green, 4 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Green, 1118 North Leffingwell avenue, was killed by an automobile in front of 2740 Gamble street at 6 p. m. yesterday. The automobile, a Ford coupe, did not stop.

Responding to a call of his playmates, the boy darted across the street as the coupe came east in Gamble street at moderate speed. The car knocked him down and ran over his head, fracturing the skull. Thinking the man at the wheel had kept on through ignorance of the accident, several witnesses called to him. His only response was to increase speed. Four men in another car pursued, but failed to overtake him.

The boy was dead upon arrival at the St. Louis Baptist Hospital. His death was the ninety-ninth motor vehicle fatality so far this year, as compared with 83 for the same period last year.

Woman Driver in Auto Fatality Says Accident Was Unavoidable.

Charles F. Becker, 72 years old, of 900 Market street, was instantly killed at Twentieth and Benton streets at 11 a. m. yesterday by an automobile driven by Mrs. Katharine Quante, 33, a widow, of 1813 North Seventeenth street.

Becker was crossing from the west to the east side of Twentieth street on the south side of Benton. In jumping back to avoid being struck by a northbound car, he was knocked down by Mrs. Quante's car as it turned south from Benton into Twentieth.

Mrs. Quante, who furnished bond for her appearance before the Coroner, declared it was impossible for her to avoid striking the man. The man's identity was learned through a bank book in his pocket. He was dressed in a blue shirt and blue overalls, and the bank book indicated he had a balance of $10 in the Northwestern Trust Co.

FLAG EMBROIDERED ON QUILT

For That Reason Mrs. Coolidge Refused to Autograph It.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 25.—Mrs. Coolidge does not intend to become a party to anything she interprets as misuse of the American flag.

The story came from White Court today that a group of Middle Western women sent in a quilt on which a large flag was embroidered and asked her to autograph it so it could be sold at auction. She did not consider a bed quilt an appropriate place for the emblem and returned it without her signature. Finally, when the women sent her a plain white quilt she affixed her name.

EXPERTS GET MORE THAN U. S. FROM TAX LAW, HOOVER SAYS

Says Congress Should Be Made to Reorganize Government System to Combine Groups.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—Lawyers and income tax experts collect five times what the Government collects from the income tax because of the necessity of explaining the tax laws to the public and because of the complicated structure of the governing Federal bureaus, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover said yesterday in an address to the Commonwealth Club.

"Congress should be made to reorganize the Government system and combine the various overlapping and conflicting groups," Secretary Hoover said. "There are too many governmental agencies overlapping each other and conflicting with each other, with a consequent loss of time by the Government and the public. Had the Veterans' Bureau been in one department, with a single Cabinet officer at its head, I doubt if we would have had the scandals that have marked the progress of that bureau.

"Many of the functions which the Federal Government now performs should be performed by the states."

FUGITIVE FROM LAW 26 YEARS

Texan Faces Indictment Charging Murder in Georgia.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., July 25.—After 26 years as a fugitive Will Jones, alias J. B. Jones, is on his way back to Whitfield County, Georgia, to face an indictment charging murder of W. M. Hannah, who was killed Sept. 23, 1899. He is going in the custody of C. P. Hannah son of the dead man; George C. Glenn, and Walter Cleckler.

The end of more than a quarter of a century's search came today when Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson honored the requisition for the extradition of Jones by Gov. Clifford Walker of Georgia. Jones was recently convicted at Denton and sentenced to 10 years on a charge of swindling in connection with a deal for the purchase of an automobile. Gov. Ferguson ordered him returned to Georgia as soon as possible to face the charge of murder. If he is freed, she said Jones is to be returned at the expense of Whitfield County, Ga. to complete his Texas sentence.

GIRL ROBBER GETS 15 YEARS

Young Man Accomplice Given Similar Sentence.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 25.—Harry W. M. Herring and Mrs. Helen Foster, each 21 years old, pleaded guilty to two highway robbery charges here today and were sentenced to serve 15 years in the penitentiary on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

Judge Southern passed sentence on the pair after hearing their confession that they had participated in 10 filling station holdups in the last two months. Lack of employment and a desire for money to buy clothing and luxuries led them to robbery, the pair told the Judge.

U. S. RADIO HEARD IN ALPS

Schenectady Program Picked Up by Experimenter.

By the Associated Press.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 25.—A radio program from station WGY, Schenectady, broadcast on a 40-meter wave length July 11, was plainly heard on one of the peaks of the Alps, Martin P. Rice, manager of broadcasting for the General Electric Co., announced today.

A message was received from Stanley McClatchie of Stuttgart, Germany, stating that while making radio reception tests in the Alps he picked up the WGY program at an experimental station in daylight. This is believed to be a record for daylight reception.

A NEW SITE FOR DIANA

Special to the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, July 25. — The purchase of four acres of land adjacent to the campus of New York University at University Heights was announced today by Chancellor Brown. On the highest section of this land overlooking the Hudson river and the Palisades, the Madison Square Garden Tower, with its statue of Diana by St. Gaudens, will be re-erected.

The new acreage will be used also as a site for the new graduate school of the university.

TRACING WOMAN IN CALIFORNIA 'DUEL' MURDER MYSTERY

Actions of Resident of Imperial, Who Knew Kirk and Truden in Maryland, Being Checked.

FOREST SEARCHED FOR OTHER BODIES

Officers Find Evidence Indicating That Other Men May Have Been Killed in the Feud.

By the Associated Press.

BRAWLEY, Cal., July 25.—Search for a third body in a marsh near Jacumba, checking of the movements of a prominent business woman from the town of Imperial who is believed to have known both men when they lived in Maryland and the revelation that Henry Kirk had been an expert pistol shot and an instructor at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, were today's high lights in the investigation of the deaths of Kirk and John Truden, which occurred almost a week ago.

Truden's body was found last Monday, a pistol bullet through the temple and a note in the pocket indicated that he had killed Kirk in a duel the previous Saturday, committing suicide himself later. The note said there had been bad blood between the two for six years.

David Kirk, brother of one of the dead men, and his father arrived last night from San Francisco. With their coming the first direct light was thrown on the death mystery which has baffled Imperial Valley authorities for nearly a week.

Both Had Military Service.

A slip of paper was located in Henry Kirk's handbag and written on it were the words "John Truden, Camp Holabird, Maryland."

Both of the dead men had been in the military service during the war. Henry Kirk was stationed at Camp Meade, Maryland, his brother said.

Kirk's father and brother declared that Henry was an expert shot with the pistol and that he had been a pistol instructor at the Naval Academy at one time. Both expressed the belief that Henry Kirk had been murdered and David Kirk said:

"We will investigate this cruel murder until the true facts of the case are revealed."

The county Coroner, the District Attorney and the Sheriff all assert the conviction that all the dead snuffed out in the mysterious Kirk-Truden feud have not been revealed. They are confident that at least one more body remains to be recovered and careful search is being made of the marsh back of Jacumbo near which the bodies of Kirk and Truden were found, the former with a bullet hole through the abdomen and back and the latter with a mortal wound in the head.

Clews Found by Officers.

In the rear of the rock against which Truden's corpse was found, propped up against it, was a bed of blankets which had been used. The blankets were not Truden's nor Kirk's, police say.

Nearby were scraps from a pair of gray trousers, evidently cut to pieces in a hurry. Neither Truden nor Kirk owned such a pair of trousers.

Scattered about were wisps of hair, evidently from the head of a man, long strands, but quite apparently from a male head. It was neither Kirk's nor Truden's hair.

These are clews to further mysteries and evidences of the presence of at least a third party in the locality when one or more of the fatal shots were fired, police say, but what the significance of the evidence, they are at a loss to explain.

A woman in business in Imperial, who is believed to have known both men in Maryland, is having her recent past movements closely investigated by the police and sheriff's deputies.

Wife of French Ambassador Impressed by Culture Here.

By the Associated Press.

HAVRE, France, July 25.—Mme. Daeschner, wife of the French Ambassador to Washington, and their daughters, arrived here on the liner Paris today to spend three months in France.

Mme. Daeschner, speaking of her experiences in the United States, said that anyone going there for the first time was struck by so much to see and study. She was impressed by the great elegance of American women, notably in New York, and by the women's quest for culture, especially in art.

FURNITURE FIRMS HERE INCLUDED IN NEW INDICTMENTS

Six St. Louis Corporations and Five Individuals Among 155 Under Federal Charges.

POSSIBILITY OF JAIL SENTENCES

Government Takes Action in Case of Companies That Had Failed to Enter Appearance.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 25.—New indictments against 155 corporations and individuals in the furniture cases in which the Government charges violations of the Sherman antitrust act, were returned today in Federal District Court.

The addition of many individuals connected with the associations of furniture manufacturers and the reindictment of many corporations, would permit of imposition of jail sentences upon conviction of the individuals, as well as assessment of fines of the companies, it was explained by Roger Shale, special assistant to the United States Attorney-General.

Some Fail to Appear.

The corporations named in the new indictments are those manufacturing dining room and bedroom furniture who were named in the original indictments returned several weeks ago and failed to appear and enter pleas of guilty. Shale said that approximately one-half of the members of the National Alliance of Furniture Manufacturers have already entered pleas of guilty and paid fines in excess of $200,000. For the other cases he promised every effort would be made to bring them to an early fall trial.

Among the 36 corporations and 35 individuals in the dining room furniture division were:

Corporations—The Brickwede Bros. Co., Marietta, O.; the Cron-Kills Co., Piqua, O.; Faribalt Furniture Co., Faribault, Minn.; Mizer & Papiman Furniture Co. St. Louis; Sextro Manufacturing Co., Cincinnati, O.; Showers Bros. Co., Bloomington, Ind., Bloomfield, Ind., and Burlington, Ia.; Steinman & Meyer Furniture Co., Cincinnati, O.; Wait Furniture Co., Portsmouth, O.; Wilson Furniture Co., Louisville, Ky.

Individuals Named.

Individuals—Fred M. Brickwede, secretary-treasurer Brickwede Bros. Co.; Edward Spooner, treasurer-general manager, Cron-Kills Co.; M. J. Hintsala, secretary, Faribault Furniture Co.; August Brettschneider Jr., president Sextro Manufacturing Co.; William E. Showers, president Showers Bros. Furniture Co.; Anthony G. Steinman, secretary-treasurer Steinman & Meyer Furniture Co.; Benjamin M. Dillon, president Wait Furniture Co.; George Chase, secretary Wilson Furniture Co.; Arthur C. Brown, secretary National Alliance of Furniture Manufacturers; William H. Coye, agent National Alliance of Furniture Manufacturers.

Missouri was represented by six corporations and five individuals, all from St. Louis. The list follows:

Central Furniture Co., F. W. Hanpeter Furniture Co., Holtgrewe-Vornbrock Furniture Co., Missouri Furniture Co., Joseph Peters Furniture Co., Wolf & Kramer Furniture Co.

Individuals—Mill Ritter, president, Central Furniture Co.; W. J. Hanpeter, secretary-treasurer, F. W. Hanpeter Furniture Co.; Otto Vornbrock, agent, Holtgrewe-Vornbrock Furniture Co.; Joseph Peters Jr., president, Joseph Peters Furnitue Co.; August C. Kuelker, secretary Wolf & Kreamer Furniture Co.

Others Indicted.

The following individuals were listed without addresses: F. Kirby Harris, president, Athens Furniture Co.; John Henry Heilman, partner, A. H. Heilman & Co.; F. H. Newmaker, owner, Phoenix Furniture Co.

Included in the indictments were 14 Michigan corporations manufacturing bedroom furniture and 14 individuals, one from each of the corporations indicted. Pennsylvania was represented by nine indictments for corporations and a like number of individuals. New York had four corporations and two individuals.

Ohio had five corporations and two individuals, and Indiana included three corporations and two individuals. The lists for the last two states follow:

FIGHT OVER $500,000 WILL WRITTEN ON A PETTICOAT

Los Angeles Y. W. C. A. Sues to Have Previous Document Recognized.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 25. — The Los Angeles Y. W. C. A. entered into a fight today to break a will written on a petticoat. The petticoat will was signed by George W. Hazeltine wealthy eccentric, the day before he died in a hospital here last March. It bequeathed $10,000 each to the proprietor of the hospital and the nurse who attended him and left the remainder of his $500,000 estate to his grand niece, Loraine Moody Richardson.

In their suit filed in superior court today the Y. W. C. A. and the Congregational Church Extensions Society alleges Hazeltine was unduly influenced when he made the petticoat will. They ask the court to set it aside and recognize a previous will in which Hazeltine bequeathed the bulk of the estate to his attorneys and $11,000 to the plaintiff organizations.

CITIZENS WARNED TO GUARD AGAINST TYPHOID FEVER

Picnickers Advised to Boil Water When in Doubt as to Purity—17 Patients in Hospital.

Moved by the number of typhoid fever cases, which has made it necessary to set aside a City Hospital ward for typhoid patients, Dr. E. A. Scharff, superintendent of the institution, last night issued a warning to citizens to be on their guard against the disease.

"Picnickers especially should be very careful to ascertain the quality of water before drinking it." Dr. Scharff said. "Well, cistern or spring water is likely to become contaminated by refuse, and the water from streams is usually unsafe to drink at this time of the year. In case of doubt as to the purity of water, users should boil it to insure safety."

There are now 17 typhoid patients at the hospital, more than at any one time for several years.

Veterinarians Demonstrate Method to Muffle Animals.

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 25.—Two goats lost their "bleats" and a dog his "bark" at the clinical demonstrations conducted by the American Veterinary Medical Association here yesterday.

Dr. Frederick R. Whipple of Peoria, Ill., described to the convention a method by which the same operation may be performed on other animals as easily as tonsils are removed at present from a human being. Humane societies are studying the results, he said, with the idea of saving the lives of many dogs that have made nuisances of themselves by innocent barking.

Full naval honors and a salute of 19 guns were given Gen. Pershing on his departure.

NINE MORE MEN INDICTED IN $500,000 WINE GRAFT

Maj. Percy Owen, Prohibition Director for Illinois, Indefinitely Suspended From Office.

NEW INVESTIGATION OF BEER RUNNING

Agents Uncover Alleged Warning by Enforcement Men to Breweries by Big Gong on Raiders' Car.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 25.—Maj. Percy Owen, prohibition director for Illinois, was indicted for graft and indefinitely suspended from office today. Ralph W. Stone a former director, Bernard Rumps and Albert Bennett former prohibition agents and four others were indicted with Owen.

All are accused of complicity in a $500,000 wine graft for which more than 100 other persons are already under indictment. The indictment of the director and his alleged associates was returned in the court of Federal Judge Adam C. Cliff.

A few hours earlier Lincoln C. Andrews, the new "Dictator" of the prohibition forces, had suspended Owen in an order telegraphed from Washington. The suspension order did not name a successor.

Two Conspiracies Charged.

Owen was named in two counts charging conspiracy to extort, and to violate the prohibition laws.

The charges follow in the wake of the recent sacramental wine scandal which resulted in a number of indictments a few months ago.

A special inquiry into sacramental wine permits and withdrawal in Illinois which began in March, 1924, led to today's indictments. Grafts and bribes in excess of $500,000 for the improper use of sacramental wines were charged before the grand jury.

The nine defendants were released on $10,000 bonds each.

Statement by Defense.

A statement by Wm. Goldstein, attorney for Owen, said that he is "innocent of the charges in this indictment," and that "at the proper time and place he is certain he will establish his innocence."

The attorneys charged the indictments were based upon the uncorroborated testimony of "criminals and bootleggers" and that Maj. Owen was denied the requested privilege of appearing before the grand jury to submit to questioning.

Leo Klein, Assistant District Attorney in charge of the investigation, said Owen, Bennett and Rumps were parties to a conspiracy to aid the illegal withdrawal of 500,000 gallons of sacramental wine, through which they sought to extort $200,000. Stone is charged with having collected upwards of $30,000 in cash, most of which was turned over to Owen. Schlau and Abelson was named as a collector who was dismissed because his services were unsatisfactory, and replaced by Stone.

About 200 wine dealers are awaiting trial on indictment last September growing out of the same investigation. Sacramental wine withdrawals aggregating more than $15,000,000 in 1924 started the intelligence unit in its quest of graft, bribes and corruption.

The others indicted are George R. Bruce, former Senator from the Twenty-third (Chicago) District; Harry Schlau, a salesman; Louis Abelson, a wine dealer; Dr. Louis Quabairi, head of the Basleglia Wine Co., and Morris Zimbroff, a wine dealer.

New Graft Discovered.

News of two new investigations more sensational than the wine inquiry escaped today the strict censorship that District Attorney Olson is maintaining.

Special men from Washington working under Patrick Roche and C. L. Converse of the Internal Revenue Bureau special intelligence unit, have uncovered evidence of staggering graft in tolerated brewing and alcohol running, it was said. Their evidence is to be given to the grand jury next week.

Higher-ups in the prohibition organization have collected more than $1,000,000 from Chicago breweries and alcohol distillers, according to evidence that the investigators are said to have prepared for the grand jury. The in-

'WORLD NEEDS A UNION LARGER THAN THE LEAGUE'

League of Nations Official Says Countries Must Join if Civilization Is to Survive.

PEACE EFFORTS HURT BY ABSENCE OF U. S.

Dr. W. E. Rappard of Switzerland Tells Institute of Politics of Faults Developed at Geneva.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 25.—If civilization is to survive, the countries of the world soon must join in a political unit larger than the League of Nations, and resembling it in character, Dr. William E. Rappard of Geneva, member of the permanent mandates commission of the League of Nations, said in a lecture at the Institute of Politics tonight. He asserted that the absence of the United States from the present league "was the most decisively unfavorable circumstance surrounding the birth of the league."

In the first of six lectures on "International Relations as Viewed From Geneva," Dr. Rippard, for four years a member of the League of Nations secretariat, pointed out that to study such relations was to study the league itself.

"I believe that the league's essential aim, the substitution of law and order for chaos in international relations, to be absolutely beneficient and so clearly in the line of human evolution, that no one but a madman or a criminal can repudiate it.

"As in the course of history, the instinct of preservation drove individuals into organizing their groups into states, so I am convinced states cannot indefinitely live together on the surface of the globe without organizing themselves into some kind of larger political unit for the mutual protection of its component parts.

Action Imperative.

"That as I see it, is but a matter of time. As a citizen of a country which witnessed at close quarters the destructive fury of the last war, I would add that it was high time they did so if civilization is to survive."

Approaching what he called a delicate question in the confidence of a student speaking to students, Dr. Rappard said that in the matter of America's relations to the League, there was "no inopportune truths," and that the desire of some League enthusiasts to disguise unpalatable facts had done more harm than good to the cause.

The League of Nations was in reality composed of three leagues, he stated, one to execute the peace treaties, another to promote international co-operation and a third to outlaw war. Of the first branch, he said: "Deprived of the immediate co-operation of America, which would undoubtedly have made for moderation, impartiality and justice, the council has too often used its unbalanced power in the national interests of its members rather than in the general interests of the international community. Thereby it has lost in public confidence what it has gained in public notoriety."

World Better for League.

He added, however, that Europe and the world were the better for this part of the league, but would be better still for a perfect league to execute more perfect peace treaties.

Dr. Rappard next described what had been accomplished by "the League to Promote International Co-operation," the spirit of friendly co-operation and honest compromise it had fostered in Geneva being perhaps the league's greatest achievement.

He said that American representation though unofficial and advisory, was none the less effective.

Of "The League to Outlaw War," Dr. Rappard said that it was the nearest approach to a league to enforce peace, the original idea of the founders of the League of Nations.

Fear of Militarism.

The statesmen of continental Europe fear the great military organizations of their countries growing out of the war may get beyond their control and "force the ministers out," Maj. Gen. Sir Frederick Maurice, chief of operations of the British general staff during the war, said in his address before the Institute.

"European statesmen have realized that as a result of the war armies have reached a point where they are beyond their control. These huge military organizations now under the State were undoubtedly the chief factor in bringing on the war and there now is a fear on the part of European statesmen that the military organization may take control of the State instead and force the ministers out."

Man is too stupid to solve the population problem by limiting population growth, Dr. Howard M. East of Harvard asserted at the opening of the round table conference on agriculture and population increase. He said that relief must therefore be sought in the increase of food supply.

The End of Wars.

When the League to Outlaw War shall have become universal in its membership, he went on, "and is generally respected in its aims, objectives and duties, war will be outlawed, but not necessarily rendered forever impossible. It will doubtless persist as individual crime and collective revolutions persist even in well-ordered communities, but it will have become local and relatively inoffensive because generally condemned by public opinion. Then when the international machinery for the just and peaceful settlement of all international disputes shall have been perfected, the time will be ripe for the formation of a league to enforce peace and for the general disarmament of the world."

The recognition of the compulsory jurisdiction of some international tribunal for the settlement of international disputes, Dr. Rappard said, was absolutely essential to the success of "the league to outlaw war."

U. S. in 100 Years.

The population of the United States will reach the 200,000,000 mark in a hundred years and cannot pass that record without a new source of food supply, Dr. L. J. Reed, professor of biometry and vital statistics in Johns Hopkins University, said at today's round table on agriculture and population increase.

"This new food supply must either be found in the tropics," he continued, "or provided by processes for making artificial food from organic substances. The latter would not be practical unless the most of chemical processes were rendered much cheaper than they are at present."

Prof. Edward M. East of Harvard University, leader of the round table, said that Socrates, fleeing from the persecutions of his wife, Xantipe, was wrong in supposing that self-preservation was the first law of nature.

"Self-perpetuation is the first law of nature," said Prof. East. "Mother Nature cares not one whit for the preservation of the individual except to drag him or her past the reproductive period. When death is the price of mating, as in the May-fly, her wishes are served."

NEW PROHIBITION PLAN IS REVISED ACCORDING TO POLITICIANS' WISHES

Missouri Is Grouped With Kansas and Part of Southeastern Illinois, Aiding Curtis' Candidate for Post of Administrator.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Rearrangement of the 24 new Federal prohibition districts, coinciding with the recommendations of administration politicians, was announced today by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Winston from the office of Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary in charge of all the prohibition forces.

Under the new scheme, Missouri, originally grouped with the Southern and Eastern Illinois Judicial Districts, is now in a district composed of Missouri, Kansas and only the southern counties of the Eastern Illinois district. St. Louis will be the headquarters of the new district, as it was of the one originally proposed.

The grouping of Kansas with Missouri had the approval of Senator Curtis of Kansas, Republican floor leader. This realignment favors the candidacy of George H. Wark, present Director for Kansas, for the post of administrator. Wark has the support of Senators Curtis and Capper and prominent State officials.

Reorganization Sept. 1.

Appointment of the 24 administrators will be held up for at least 30 days, the announcement stated, and the reorganization of the enforcement units, originally set for Aug. 1, will be postponed until Sept. 1 or a later date.

All unclassified employes of the service will be discharged as of Oct. 15, instead of Sept. 15, as Commissioner Roy A. Haynes declared recently in New York. The announcement stated that "in case of prohibition agents and inspectors who may not have been selected for retention, any leave which may be due them on Oct. 15, must have been taken before that date," indicating that before that date, those employes to be retained will be notified within the next 30 days, as the annual Government leave is for a month.

Seven changes were made in Gen. Andrews' original districts. C. Bascom Slemp, Republican National Committeeman for Virginia and former secretary to President Coolidge, recommended that Virginia, originally placed with Maryland and Delaware, should form a new district with West Virginia. This was one of the changes announced by Secretary Winston today.

Watson Protested.

Senator James Watson of Indiana, who frankly stated that politics could not be eliminated from prohibition enforcement, protested to Andrews that his State should not be grouped with Michigan, which is represented by Senator Couzens. The rearrangement puts Indiana with the southern and northern judicial districts of Illinois and the Eastern Judicial District of Wisconsin. Ohio and Michigan were grouped together under the new plan, with the headquarters changed from Detroit to Columbus. Ohio formerly was placed with West Virginia.

Apparently the old rivalry between Minneapolis and St. Paul figured in the changes, for headquarters of the Fourteenth District have been changed from the former city to St. Paul. The original proposal was to have Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota comprise this district. The new plan adds Western Wisconsin.

In the Eighth District, headquarters will be at Charlotte, N. C., whereas under the former plan Atlanta, Ga., would have been the headquarters. The other districts remain the same, except that the numbers have been changed.

Jobs for State Directors.

Another important change announced today will take care of many of the State directors whose offices will be abolished by the Andrews plan. Under each district administrator there will be a group head in every judicial district, in the same city as the United States District Attorney, with whom he will co-operate in the enforcement of the law. The group head will be held responsible for enforcement in his district. As there are 70 judicial districts in the country, there will be many executive positions open for the former State directors.

Under this plan, L. F. DeHart, director for Missouri, might be appointed group chief for either the Eastern or Western Missouri district, should Wark be appointed administrator for the entire district. Under the old Andrews plan, the district administrator was to have two assistants, one in charge of legal work, the other in charge of permits. These assistants were to have a staff of technical employes.

Accompanying Winston's announcement was a letter written by Gen. Andrews to the prohibition unit field officers, in which Andrews, not mentioning politics, emphasized his desire to put business methods into the enforcement program.

"A Business Organization."

"It is intended that the new organization shall be a clean-cut business organization for the efficient accomplishment of its purpose," Andrews wrote to his field men. "Positions and salaries will be such as to afford opportunities for promotion to practically all the personnel and it is intended that regulations will be so designed as to make promotion for merit assured. In the future, tenure of office and promotion will be based on personal performance only."

Gen. Andrews stated that for this reason the present appointment of all unclassified employes would terminate Oct. 15.

"In the meantime," he continued, "selections will be made and men appointed to their new offices in the organization. These appointments will be for merit only, and on a distinct understanding that the appointee will hold office so long, and only so long, as his services are satisfactory."

Politicians, however, have not taken Gen. Andrews seriously on his frequently announced declarations that business methods shall take the place of politics in prohibition enforcement.

Politicians Call.

One reason why the re-organization must be postponed until September 1 or later is that Gen. Andrews continues to see local and national politicians. He stoutly maintained that these visitors had left his hands entirely free, and that there was no significance in the fact that the political recommendations and his own official actions coincided as they did in the changes announced today.

Two of his callers today were avowedly seeking political favors. One was Mrs. John Jacob Rogers, of Massachusetts, who was recently elected to take the seat in Congress left vacant by her husband's death. The other was Henry Lincoln Johnson, Republican National Committeeman for Georgia.

Johnson said he told Gen. Andrews that men capable of handling the Georgia-North Carolina-South Carolina district could be found only in Atlanta, Ga.

Whether politics will play or has played a part in this district is problematical. David H. Blair, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and a member of the prohibition board of strategy, is from North Carolina. So it should be noted that the revision of the Andrews plan changed the headquarters of this district from Atlanta to Charlotte, N. C. The fact that North Carolina has approximately 250,000 white Republicans and the fact that Blair is a member of the board of strategy, may or may not have been a considered element in the change.

Johnson was elated when he left Gen. Andrews and said he expected to have the headquarters changed back to Atlanta.

Feels Too Well to Go to Europe.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 25.—An ardent apostle of the doctrine of "eat less and feel better," Elbert H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation, returned to New York tonight after having followed a course in dieting at the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co.'s private hospital in Birmingham, Ala., feeling so well that plans for a European trip for his health have been cancelled.

PRESIDENT TRIES TO SAVE PLAN FOR NEW ARMS PARLEY

Chilly Reception Abroad of Proposal Leads Coolidge to Call His Diplomats in Conference.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 25.—President Coolidge has arranged a series of diplomatic conferences which have reawakened interest in his policy toward Europe and which promise to determine whether he can carry through his dream of a new world disarmament conference.

Whatever hopes he may have had for reassembling the powers have been doomed to disappointment, according to one of his close advisors, by the coolness with which his suggestions have been received in other capitals. It is now apparent that the President means to learn personally if there is a chance for his program to go through.

Robert Woods Bliss, United States Minister to Sweden and former assistant Secretary of State, met Mr. Coolidge this afternoon and William P. Hillis, Ambassador to Belgium and formerly under-Secretary of State, will call next week. Both of these men, it is pointed out, are thoroughly grounded in European conditions.

A little later Myron T. Herrick, Ambassador to France, will come to Swampscott and the impression is current here that Ambassador William T. Fletcher will be summoned back from Rome in advance of the arrival in Washington of the Italian debt commission to enter into the general discussion of the European policy.

A Sudden Interest.

Within the last few weeks President Coolidge has taken a sudden and profound interest in the European negotiations for security pacts. His emphasis in his address at Cambridge this month on the need of Europe to arrange covenants allaying traditional fears and suspicions evidenced his desire to have the security question settled quickly so that he might move on to the second arms conference.

It is toward such a conference that President Coolidge has looked forward in anticipation that it would stand out as the big achievement of his administration in international affairs as well as add to national economy by permitting reduction of navy costs. His desire for a prompt disposal of the Chinese problem is believed to be based on the aspiration that the arms conference may be made a reality.

Word brought to Swampscott is that the situation at present is extremely unpromising for the executive's hopes. According to an administration adviser none of the powers has been willing to come to common ground with the United States in an effort to pick up disarmament work where the Washington conference of 1921-22 left off and to attempt curbs on other weapons than capital ships. While some nations might be willing to limit certain weapons, it was pointed out they desire some one or two weapons particularly related to their defense needs left untouched by a conference agreement. Thus, it was said, France is no more disposed now to surrender submarines than she was in 1921, and other European nations would turn a deaf ear to placing any stringent curb on aviation.

In Conference an Hour.

Success in the first conference came, this informant pointed out, because the United States had a big navy building program which provided a lever to force the other Powers into line. We have not now, it was added, superiority in weapons another conference naturally would attempt to limit.

While he has made no recent reference to his arms conference program, President Coolidge is believed to have had it constantly in mind, without succumbing to the view that success is impossible.

Indications that the President has started into a general review of the European political situation were strongly strengthened by the fact that, although there are no problems between the United States and Sweden, Bliss remained at the summer White House an hour. He declined to comment on the interview, but made observations on the Swedish prohibition law.

Modified prohibition in Sweden has been a success, in his opinion. In his two years there he said he had not seen a drunken man on the street. The law provides the issuance of books entitling the holder to a certain amount of alcohol, in whatever form he chooses to purchase it. Drunkenness is curbed by the Government, he said, by the refusal of new books to those who imbibe too freely.

New Industrial Bank in Ireland.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright 1925.

DUBLIN, July 25.—Ireland's first industrial trust company was opened today. The Government, desiring to check profiteering, passed an act guaranteeing loans to approved traders and enabling them to enter competition. But the banks would not advance funds for so long a period as 15 years. The new industrial trust will undertake this business and it starts with the backing of the Government, which is investing £50,000 in its shares.

KELLOGG CABLES HOUGHTON RUBBER MEN'S COMPLAINT

London Government Also Is Informed by British Embassy in U. S. of Malay Situation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Secretary Kellogg has cabled Ambassador Houghton at London "for his information," an account of the difficulties faced by American rubber manufacturers as related to him recently by a delegation headed by Frederick C. Hood, president of the Hood Rubber Co. of New York. At the same time the London Government had been advised by British embassy attaches here of the desires of the American rubber manufacturers.

The delegation which called upon Secretary Kellogg last week objected to legislation enforced in the Federated Malay States and in the Straits settlement, Ceylon, India, which regulate crude rubber exports. Modification of the laws so as to permit an exportation of 20 per cent of the rubber production rather than 10 per cent, the prevailing quota, was asked by the American rubber men to be made effective Aug. 1. It was suggested also that the quota statutes might be modified to permit exports from those producing states to be regulated by the demand and market conditions and in that way afford the American users a more liberal supply.

COURT ORDER HALTS DIVORCE

Illinois Supreme Judge to Review Case Involving Pastor.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Supreme Court Justice Frederick R. D. Young today granted a supersedeas staying the order of Appellate Court directing a divorce decree to Albert R. Leland, who had named Dr. Carl Case, Oak Park pastor, as co-respondent.

The supersedeas delays the decree pending a review of the trial record and the Appellate Court ruling by the Illinois Supreme Court on a writ of error filed in behalf of Dr. Case. The Supreme Court will review the case in the October term. The trial court heard Mrs. Leland's testimony regarding improper relations with Dr. Case, but denied the decree.

FURNITURE FIRMS HERE INCLUDED IN NEW INDICTMENTS

Individuals—Henry A. Sprengard, Betts Furniture Co.; J. E. Thauwald, president, C. F. Thauwald Co.

Indiana Corporations — Brookville Furniture Co., Brookville; Showers Brothers Co., Bloomington and Bloomfield; Western Furniture Co., Batesville.

Individuals—Sam A. Shirk, treasurer, Brookville Furniture Co.; William E. Showers, president Showers Brothers' Co.

Arthur C. Brown of Grand Rapids, Mich., secretary of the National Alliance of Furniture Manufacturers, one of those named in the indictments, who had been sentenced to jail for 30 days for contempt for refusal to take records of the alliance before the grand jury, was granted a supersedeas. He filed an appeal bond of $5000 to carry his case before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Allegations Made.

The indictments charged that the defendants engaged in an unlawful combination in restraint of interstate commerce and with the counsel and aid of Brown, the alliance secretary, and William H. Coye, also indicted, an agent for the alliance, had carried on business in accordance with an agreement to eliminate and prevent competition.

It also was charged that the defendants had maintained numerous organizations, including the National Council of Furniture Associations, National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, National Alliance of Case Goods Associations, Central West Case Goods Manufacturers' Association, Central Case Goods Manufacturers' Association, Illinois-Iowa Case Goods Manufacturers' Association, Northwestern Case Goods Manufacturers' Association, Michigan Case Goods Manufacturers' Association, Interstate Furniture Manufacturers' Association, and the Middle States Furniture Manufacturers' Association. Through these associations, it was charged, the defendants held conferences at Chicago, Rockford, Ill.; Sheboygan, Wis.; Indianapolis, Jamestown, N. Y.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Cincinnati, O.; Evansville, Ind.; St. Louis, Stevens Point, Marshfield and Fond Du Lac, Wis.; Philadelphia and other places in carrying out the alleged unlawful combination.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER SUES AMERICAN WIFE

British Nobleman Married Miss Helena Zimmerman of Cincinnati in 1900.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 25.—An application for divorce has been filed at Nice, France, by the Duke of Manchester, who in 1900 married Miss Helena Zimmerman of Cincinnati. The application alleges desertion and incompatibility. The Duke's attorney, Leroy B. Delaney, says an estrangement has existed since 1914. Papers were served upon the Duchess at Paris three weeks ago.

It is understood the Duke is willing to make adequate settlements upon the Duchess, the amount to be fixed by trust under entail—that is, to give the Duchess inalienable possession of the property settled upon her.

60-Day Period Allowed for Reconciliation Has Passed.

Copyright, 1925, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

NICE, July 25.—Although, as reported yesterday, the Duke of Manchester has made his Duchess, who was Miss Helena Zimmerman of Cincinnati, defendant in a divorce suit filed here, there can be no decree for about 60 days. French law requires a formal effort at reconciliation and stipulates a lapse of 60 days following such effort before final action can be taken.

The reconciliation requirement was satisfied this week, the Duchess did not respond to the court's notice.

The Duke, who is 49 years old, married the only daughter of the late Eugene Zimmerman, Cincinnati railway millionaire, in 1900. Zimmerman opposed the match, but received them ostentatiously after the wedding, which was in London. He sent a gilded railway coach to New York to transport the couple to Cincinnati.

8 MEN INDICTED WITH PROHIBITION CHIEF FOR GRAFT

quiry is expected to hit many of those who are implicated in the wine scandal, and will dwarf the wine investigation, it was said.

Roche and Converse, who have worked on the case a year, are said to have traced $200,000 of the graft to the office of the director. Neither Roche nor Converse would talk at all about the case today.

Former Pool Hall Man.

Maj. Owen took office as director under happy auspices. A small town man of limited means (he had been a poolroom attendant in Jacksonville, Ill., not long before his appointment), he was expected to be graftproof. He had made a good record as State Adjutant of the American Legion and ex-service men commended the Government's choice.

Part of the case against him will be evidence indicating a more rapid change in circumstances than the director's salary would make possible, it is said.

A Packard car that Mrs. Owen is said to drive and a Stutz roadster used by the director's son may be offered as circumstantial evidence. An ingenious arrangement whereby the threat of prosecution was used to fatten the graft will be disclosed when the beer and alcohol evidence comes to light, it was said today.

Roche and the other investigators are believed to have learned that prohibition officials equipped the car used by the "beer squad" with loud gongs so that "right" breweries might be warned of approaching raiders and cheating plants might have the fear of the law put into them.

St. Louis Furniture Firms to Fight Indictments.

August C. Kuelker, secretary-treasurer of the Wolf & Kraemer Furniture Co., 1600 North Twenty-second street, said last night that he and officials of the other St. Louis furniture manufacturing firms plan to resist the indictments returned yesterday at Chicago.

Kuelker said he could ascribe no reason for the indictments, pointing out that all the firms had been indicted by a previous Federal grand jury at Chicago, May 29, last, when 299 furniture manufacturing corporations and individuals were indicted. No St. Louis individuals were indicted before. One of the firms, the Conrades Manufacturing Co., 1942 North Second street, has pleaded guilty to the charges of the previous indictment and has paid a fine of $3000. It was not reindicted yesterday.

DR. HARVEY J. HOWARD.

NO WORD OF AMERICAN SEIZED BY BRIGANDS IN CHINA

Expected Gen. Tso-Lin Will Intervene in Behalf of Dr. Howard of Rockefeller Hospital.

By the Associated Press.

PEKIN, July 25.—Nothing has been heard concerning the whereabouts of Dr. Harvey J. Howard of the Rockefeller Hospital at Pekin, who was taken prisoner by brigands July 20, while visiting at the ranch of Morgan Palmer, a native of New York State, on the Sungari River in Manchuria. Palmer was killed by the bandits, but his mother, a son of Dr. Howard and Harold Baldwin, formerly of Derby, Conn., and his wife and child escaped.

Because of the isolated location of the ranch, details of the affair are slow in arriving. There is reason to believe, however, that Gen. Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord, will be stirred to action against the slayers, since Palmer was personally known and highly regarded by him.

The American Consul at Mukden, Samuel Sokobin, is expected to reach the scene of the attack at any moment. Roger Green, business director of the Rockefeller Hospital, has gone to the north to assist in the search for Howard.

WIVES OF BROTHERS ELOPE WITH TWO OTHER BROTHERS

Quartet Charged With Contributing to Delinquency of Four Minor Children in Party.

By the Associated Press.

COLUSA, Cal., July 25—A double love triangle, in which two young women married to brothers deserted their husbands to elope with two other brothers, was brought to light here with the arrest of Cecil and Homer Waymire, 30 and 20, respectively, and Mrs. Bessie and Mrs. Ollie McClelland, 22 and 21, respectively, all of Barstow, San Bernardino County.

The arrests were made by Sheriff Frank Crayton on telegraphic warrants charging the quartet with contributing to the delinquency of the four minor children in the eloping party, each of the women taking her two children with her in her flight.

The two couples were residing at the Davis ranch, near Sycamore, this county. The women say their husbands were cruel and neglectful, and give this as the reason for their elopement.

STATE REVENUES GO ABOVE ESTIMATES

Most Appropriations Held Up by Governor Will Be Released.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 25.—Increases in State revenues over the estimated amounts at the beginning of the biennial period, will permit the release before the end of 19 of virtually all the $3,079,681 in appropriations held up by Gov. Baker last May, the Governor stated today.

This discovery by the administration that its revenues will exceed the earlier estimates bears out assertions of Democratic leaders in the Senate of the 1925 Legislature that revenues of the State under the tax levies would be adequate to care for actual needs of the State without increasing the tax rates.

Principal items held up by Baker last May when he signed the appropriation bills included $886, for buildings for educational and eleemosynary institutions; $627, for operating appropriations of State educational institutions; $819,426 in contingent appropriations for various State departments and $465,760 in deficiencies.

The Governor at that time vetoed items totaling $3,264,737, including $1,957,591 for new buildings for State schools and institutions; $460,853 from appropriations for support of the State schools, and $626,192 from the relief bill for payment of unpaid obligations of the State.

Has Already Released $480,000.

Since last May the Governor has released approximately $480,000 in appropriations which he had held up, the releases being principally for deficiencies and relief claims.

Baker stated the appropriations still held up probably could not be released this year, but he expects to be able to release them next year, through increased revenues and economies in some of the departments. Expenditures of the State Department usually are heavier during the first year of a biennial period than in the second year of the period.

State Auditor L. D. Thompson now is preparing an analysis of the expenditures and revenues thus far on which to base revised estimates of the revenues for the remainder of the biennial period.

The appropriations passed by the 1925 Legislature against general revenue totaled $21,642,445. From this was deducted interest and bond retirement appropriations for which money already was in the treasury, reducing the amount to be raised from general revenue to $20,814,383. Through vetoes Baker cut this to $17,549,64 including $3,079,681 in "hold ups."

It is recalled that in the last session the Democratic majority in the Senate took the position under caucus rule that it would not pass any tax increase measures unless definite need of such increase developed. This followed unsuccessful Republican efforts to join the Democratic Senate into initiating tax increase measures.

Republicans Out-Maneuvered.

The Republican-controlled House attempted to force the Senate to recede from its position by drafting appropriation bills that cut the State educational institution appropriations to the bone. This also failed, and the House then took an opposite policy and over-appropriated the estimated revenues by about $9,000,000, in an effort to force the Senate to support increases. This likewise failed the Senate trimmed off part of the excess and sent the remainder along to Baker to veto, or hold up. Senate leaders declared the State tax commission's estimates of revenues were less than actually would be produced.

It is recalled that Baker submitted a tax increase program after the Legislative session was two-thirds spent, but made no aggressive fight for its passage. The Republican House failed to pass any of his tax increase measures, although over-appropriating estimated revenues approximately 60 per cent.

This followed unsucce ful Republican efforts to jock the Democratic Senate into initiat ing tax increase measures.

Republicans Out-Maneuvered.

The Republican-controlled House attempted to force the Senate to recede from its position by draft ing appropriation bills that cut the State educational institution ap propriations to the bone. This als failed, and the House then took an opposite policy and over-ap propriated the estimated revenu by about $9,000,000 in an effo to force the Senate to support t increases. This likewise failed f the Senate trimmed off part of t excess and sent the remainde along to Baker to veto, or hold u Senate leaders declared the Sta tax commission's estimates of th revenues were less than actuall would be produced.

It is recalled that Baker sub mitted a tax increase program af ter the Legislative session was tw thirds spent, but made no aggre sive fight for its passage. The Re publican House failed to pass an of his tax increase measures, aft over-appropriating estimated re enues approximately 60 per cent.

Muriel Vanderbilt Weds In Miniature Church Set Up in Drawing Room

MRS. FREDERICK C. CHURCH.

Nuptials of 25-Year-Old Heiress and Insurance Broker at Newport Marked by Simplicity.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 25.—Marked with the utmost simplicity in accordance with the wishes of the bride, the most notable wedding of the Newport social season took place this afternoon at Beach Mound, the Benjamin Thaw villa overlooking Bailey's Beach, when Miss Muriel Vanderbilt, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt II, became the wife of Frederick Cameron Church Jr. of Boston.

The brilliance usually associated with wedding of such outstanding importance was lacking, but the plans for the quiet home affair were made somewhat more elaborate at the last minute. The ceremony was performed by Suffragan Bishop Herbert Shipman of New York, and the Rev. Stanley Carnaghan Hughes, rector of Trinity Church, the former reading the ceremony up to the point of proclaiming the couple man and wife, when the Rev. Mr. Hughes, in accordance with the Rhode Island laws which require a local clergyman to officiate at this portion of the ceremony, completed the nuptials.

The bride made a particularly attractive appearance as she came into the drawing room, the scene of the ceremony, on the arm of her father, William K. Vanderbilt, who gave her away. Miss Vanderbilt's wedding gown, brought from Paris by her mother, was of white satin and old lace, with her mother's wedding veil of oil point lace and train tastefully draped.

Bridal Boquet of Orchids.

The bridal bouquet was of white orchids tied with silver ribbon. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by an orchestra as the procession, preceded by eight ushers, descended the main stairway to the inclosed terrace and thence to the room, which had been decorated for the wedding.

The actual ceremony was witnessed by members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends, these including the parents of the bride, Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, and William K. Vanderbilt Jr., her sister and brother; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Cameron Church, parents of the bridegroom; Mrs. Vanderbilt, the bride's paternal grandmother; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Count and Countess Lazlo Szechenyi, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Raymond T. Baker, Mrs. John Frances Amherst Cecil, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard Pratt and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens.

Robert G. Payne of New York, a classmate at Harvard of the bridegroom, acted as best man, having arrived yesterday afternoon after a 10,000-mile trip from Japan. The ushers were Harold S. Vanderbilt, an uncle of the bride; Herman Oelrichs, a cousin, Robert H. Lancaster, James Otis, Russell Codman Jr., Richard S. Humphrey and Bert W. Emmons III, classmates of the bridegroom at Harvard, and Lawrence Van Ingen of New York.

Attended by Sister.

Miss Vanderbilt was attended by her sister, Miss Consuelo, as maid of honor, this coming as a surprise to those present, for it had been said that she would be unattended.

Until the last hour before the ceremony, there were reports that the Rev. Joseph F. Coleman of St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church, Newport, would perform the ceremony. Father Coleman said the groom had refused to sign all the agreements required by chuch law. Miss Vanderbilt was brought up in the Roman Catholic Church.

The drawing room was transformed into a miniature church as a setting. Silk ropes formed the main aisle to the especially constructed altar and also separated the families, the Vanderbilts on one side, and the Churches on the other.

As the wedding procession appeared at the entrance of the salon, the orchestra struck up Lohengrin's wedding march. Ephraim Zimbalist, the violinist, husband of Alma Gluck, also played as the bride and her father marched up the aisle.

Awaiting the procession at the altar were Mr. Church and his best man, and as the line approached the ushers moved to one side. Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt made her first appearance as a member of the bridal party at this point, when she stepped to the altar and accepted her sister's bouquet as the couple knelt.

The altar, in keeping with the remainder of the setting for the wedding, was elaborate, a gold rail and candelabra and other fixtures being used as in church. The rear of the altar was a profusion of flowers with Oriental draperies covering the sides.

The ceremony began snortly after 4:30 o'clock, with Bishop Shipman officiating, and was concluded within a few minutes, as the Rev. Mr. Hughes pronounced the couple man and wife. Upon the conclusion of the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Church received the greeting of both families, and later, with the remainder of the bridal party posed for the photographs on the terrace, where a reception followed for more than 400 members of the summer colony who came to extend their greetings.

The honeymoon plans of the couple were not disclosed, but it is known they will return some time before Aug. 15 and remain at Beach Mound for the many important social events planned for the latter part of the month.

Miss Vanderbilt, who is 25 years old, is the heiress to a large fortune on each side of the family. She is a great-great-granddaughter of the famous Commodore Vanderbilt and the granddaughter of James Graham Fair, former United States Senator. As a society girl, she is exceptional, her friends say, in that she does not drink, smoke or use rouge.

Mr. Church is of a well-to-do family, the wealth of which does not compare with the Vanderbilt riches. He is 27 years old and was graduated seven years ago from Harvard, where he played football. He is an insurance broker.

GOVERNMENT WINS SUIT OVER GOLTRA BARGES ON APPEAL

Authority for Seizure, However, Is Withheld Until Supreme Court Can Pass on Dispute.

U. S. HELD IMMUNE TO THE ACTION

Control Over Lease Declared to Lie With Secretary of War—Case Long Drawn-Out.

A decision that the Secretary of War rightfully should be permitted to seize the fleet of four towboats and 19 barges which Edward F. Goltra is operating on the Mississippi River, but withholding authority for him to seize it until the United States Supreme Court can pass upon the dispute, was handed down in St. Paul yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The opinion, divided, two to one, is a reversal of the decision of Federal Judge Faris, who restored the fleet to Goltra after the Secretary of War had seized it, and who issued an order restraining any further seizure.

The majority opinion was written by Judge John C. Pollock of Kansas and concurred in by Judge J. F. Symes of Colorado. Presiding Judge Walter H. Sanborn dissented, holding Goltra had legal possession of the fleet and supporting Judge Faris' order restraining seizure.

Findings of Court.

The Appellate Court declares the Government should have been held immune to the suit by Goltra, through which he repossessed the barges after the seizure. The Government so contended in a demurrer, but Judge Faris overruled it. The Appellate Court declares that Judge Faris erred doubly, for, it declares, authority over the lease to Goltra lay with the Secretary of War and the Federal Court hence was without jurisdiction.

It directs that the Goltra suit for possession be terminated unless the Federal Government voluntarily consents to become a party to the suit. This always has seemed desirable for, to date, the fight between Goltra and the Government as represented by the Mississippi Warrior Service, which also operates a fleet upon the Mississippi, for possession of the desirable Goltra fleet, has been wholly upon technicalities. The merits of the controversy never have been the subject of court action.

30 Days for Appeal.

The Appellate Court gives Goltra 30 days in which to perfect an appeal to the United States Supreme Court. This, in effect, offers Goltra opportunity to retain the fleet for a period of considerable length, because Supreme Court decisions often require much time.

Goltra obtained possession of the fleet at its completion in 1922. Thereafter it laid idle for more than a year. During that time, the Mississippi-Warrior service, another Government-owned fleet, was badly in need of more boats. The Secretary of War had control of this fleet as well as Goltra's. It seemed desirable to consolidate the two. Goltra would not surrender his fleet. Thereupon the Secretary of War ordered seizure. Judge Faris almost immediately ordered return of the fleet, characterizing the act of the Secretary of War as high-handed. The legal struggle, of which yesterday's decision is a phase, has waged ever since.

LONG PILGRIMAGE TO ROME MADE ON FOOT BY MOTHER

Spanish Woman, With Her Three Children, Walks From Home in Morocco to the Vatican.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

ROME, July 5.—Thousands of devout Catholics have made Holy Year pilgrimages to Rome, but few have come in the manner in which the word truly connotes. One such, however, has been completed by Luisa Cruces, a Spanish woman living in Morocco, with her three children, whose ages are 7, 4 and 2 years.

Senora Cruces left Morocco with her little brood on Dec. 9, 1924, and they made practically the whole journey on foot. They started with little money in their possession, and throughout the trip they had no other means of support, except from the sale of picture postcards showing their photograph. For the most part they slept on the grass or along the sand beaches, but occasionally they were taken in by kind people along their route.

They have received the special Holy Year benediction from Pope Pius XI.

GETS BIGGER THRILL OUT OF GOLF THAN ELEPHANT HUNTING

Indian Potentate, With Gold Sport Shoes, Arrives in U. S. to Enjoy Game.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 25.—A rose-turbaned potentate with gold sport shoes is going to chase a little white ball with various sticks on cross country walks through fairways, jungle rough, desert-like sand traps and velvety greens from the Atlantic to the Pacific shores of these United States and back.

The Zamindar of Palampatti and Paladanathan — taking it from the passenger list—came in on the Aquitania yesterday.

"You Americans come to India to shoot tigers in our jungles," he remarked. "I come to America to shoot golf on your courses."

He added that there was a bigger thrill in making a lower score on the links than in shooting an elephant. He is going to Chicago and San Francisco and will return to New York by way of Canada and on the way he will play his favorite game as much as he can.

The Zamindar wore an Occidental blue serge suit in addition to the silk turban and gold sport shoes. He attracted more attention on the vessel than hundreds of other notables, such as Jimmy Barnes, back from winning the British open golf championship, or Jack Pickford and Marilyn Miller. He has a private course of his own in India and has heard a lot about Gene Sarazen, whom he wants to meet.

COMPETITION IN EIGHT SPORTS AT CITIZENS' CAMP

Program Includes Baseball and Basketball Leagues Track Meet, Tennis and Swimming.

Competition in eight major sports, with about 1000 participants, will begin this week and continue for a month at the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Jefferson Barracks, being attended by youths from Southern Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas.

The program provides for a baseball league schedule, two leagues of indoor ball, two leagues of basketball, a volley ball league, tennis, swimming, football and track eliminations leading up to the camp meet on Aug. 17. There will be competition by companies, which should intensify competition as boys from the same communities are assigned as nearly as possible to the same companies. There are eight companies.

Each company in the camp has one baseball team, two indoor ball teams, two basketball teams and two volleyball teams. There will be junior National and American league teams in indoor ball, and after the leagues finish their inter-company schedules, the champions will stage a "world's" series. The basketball teams will also form counterparts of the Big Ten and Missouri Valley Conferences and run through schedules for the basket tossing pennant of the camp. Eight ball diamonds, four basketball courts, four tennis courts and a furlong track have been laid out on the post parade grounds.

GOVERNOR OF GREENLAND HELPS MACMILLAN GET COAL

Steamer Peary to Take on 80 Tons Before Sailing North for Etah.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The steamer Peary of the MacMillan expedition will take on 80 tons of coal supplied by the Danish Government at Umanak, Greenland, today, the arrangement having been made through the Danish Minister to the United States.

In a dispatch to the Navy Department today Lieutenant-Commander Byrd, in command of the navy section of the expedition, said the Peary left Gothaven, Greenland, yesterday and was due at Umanak, this morning. From there she will sail for Etah. The steamer Bowdoin carrying Commander MacMillan, sailed from Gothaven yesterday, bound north.

On board the Peary was Gov. Rosendahl of Greenland, who went along ot see that the transfer of coal to the Peary at Umanak was made expeditiously.

The Bowdoin rejoined the Peary at God Havn, Disko Island, on the night of July 24, a message to the National Geographic Society said.

Whooping cough in God Havn and all along the Greenland coast prevented the personnel of the ships from landing.

The Bowdoin and the Peoria hove in sight of each other at a spot historic in Arctic annals—at the foot of the cliff on which Admiral Peary erected the first cairn in 1886.

STUDENT ENDS LIFE IN HOTEL DINING ROOM IN NEW YORK

Woman Who Identified Young Man Declines Information Regarding His Family.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The man who shot and killed himself early today in the dining room of the Hotel Plaza was identified after 15 hours' effort by the police as Hans Jensen, 29 years old, a Danish University student. The identification was made by Mrs. Margaret Wyley, a friend.

Mrs. Wyley declared she knew of no reason why Jensen should have killed himself but declined to give any further information regarding the young man's residence or family.

Jensen entered the hotel's dining room shortly after midnight and ordered a hearty dinner. Before he had completed it, he drew a revolver and fired a bullet into his heart.

DISARMS PAYROLL ROBBER WHO HAD THE DROP ON HIM

Harry P. Materne, Secretary of Manufacturing Concern, Captures Hold-up Man in Office.

SAVES $1300 BY PROMPT ACTION

Intruder Had Climbed Through Window — "Hands Up" Command and Revolver Ignored.

Although covered by the revolver of a desperate payroll robber yesterday at the Materne Manufacturing Co., 1316 South Eighth street, Harry P. Materne, secretary of the concern, coolly ignored the command of "hands up," wrested the weapon from the robber, held him for the police and saved the company's weekly payroll of about $1300.

It all happened so quickly as to astonish the robber. Carl Frazer of 1837 Lafayette avenue, while the police were all admiration at the courage displayed by Materne. He modestly accepted comliments of Capt. Kirk of the Soulard Street Station, where the robber was taken, remarking that he did precisely what he always had believed he would do in the circumstances.

"Out of Work."

Frazer, an automobile mechanic, is 21 years old and lived with his wife at the Lafayette avenue address. He said their room rent was overdue and having only 40 cents he determined to steal to relieve this situation.

"I was out of work, discouraged and desperate," he told Capt. Kirk, weeping as he spoke, "and would have got the payroll had that man not taken me by surprise and got the drop on me before I realized what had happened. It was my first crime."

Materne, who is 28 years old and resides at 6412 Enright avenue with his wife, and is a licensed private watchman, had obtained the payroll money at a downtown bank at 9 a. m. Previously he had noticed Frazer loitering in the vicinity of the plant.

At 9:50 Materne and a stenographer were making up the payroll at a desk in the main office, seated with their backs toward a north window. This window is about five feet above a material yard adjoining the plant but not fenced in from Eighth street.

Climbs in Window.

A gruff command of "Hands up" startled the secretary, and turning about he saw the robber climbing through the window with pistol in hand. In a flash he seized the robber's weapon with his left hand and at the same time snatched his own automatic from the desk in his right hand. As he jerked the robber's revolver from his grasp, Materne covered Frazer with his automatic.

It was Materne's turn to command, and he ordered the robber to sit down in a chair while another employe summoned the police.

"I didn't become excited," Materne related, "but I did get a little nervous when the police reminded me what might have happened had that fellow begun shooting. But I know what my 45 automatic would have done to him."

Frazer is 5 feet 10 inches tall and muscular. He became almost hysterical when placed in a cell. Materne is tall and thin and quietly treated the incident as the most natural thing that could have been expected of him.

MAN, 75, SHOOTS SELF IN HEAD IN ROOM AT HOTEL

Thomas T. Going Taken to Hospital—Note Said He was Tired of Living.

A shot fired in a room at the Princess Hotel at Eighteenth and Chestnut streets, about 5:30 p. m. yesterday, was heard by the clerk, who investigated and found Thomas T. Going, 75 years old, suffering from a flesh wound in the forehead. He was sent to the City Hospital.

A note on a dresser, directed to the hotel management, asked that a nephew, John Heffner, of Creve Coeur, be notified. The message said the writer was tired of living, and inclosed a $2 bill for funeral. Hospital physicians said the wound was superficial.

RAID MADE THAT CLUB MIGHT ENJOIN FURTHER INTERFERENCE

New York Officials Admit Special Service Police Were Caught Co-Operating With Gamblers.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Deputy Police Inspector Pierne and Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson, both admitted in Supreme Court today that at least in one instance three members of the special service police division were caught working in league with a prominent gambler in the making of a fake liquor raid, so that a social club could get an injunction to protect the place against further investigation.

The admission came as a sensation in the case of the Steamer Club, Inc., applying for an injunction to restrain the police from interference with the club's activities.

Affidavits by the corporation counsel and inspector said that "at least three members of the special service divilson of the police" were known to have worked in collusion with gamblers in the launching of the fake raids.

Inspector Bierne said that he had caught three special service men making such a raid on a place operated by a well-known gambler on Second avenue on June 6.

FORMER STATE AUDITOR RESIGNS FROM K. K. K.

John P. Gordon of Jefferson City Says Organization Arouses Strife.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 25.—John P. Gordon of Jefferson City, former State Auditor and Democratic politician, today announced he had withdrawn from membership in the Ku Klux Klan, because he "had been led into the klan by misrepresentations of its policies and purposes." He declared the organization had turned from its avowed purpose of aiding law enforcement, to efforts to arouse strife and racial hatred and divide communities into warring factions.

Gordon was active for a time in the klan here, and was regarded as one of the leaders of the organization. He formerly was prominent in Democratic politics in the State, and served two terms as State Auditor from 1908 to 1916. It is understood a number of other members have been dropping out of the local klan.

Gordon made the announcement in denying that he had been chosen as delegate from the local klan to a "konklave" in Washington, D. C.

Tells of Withdrawal.

"I have withdrawn from the klan," he said, "and I do not intend to attend any klan meetings. I see no need for further existence of the klan as now operated.

"Like thousands of others I was led into the klan by misrepresentation of its policies and purposes," Gordon stated. "Until I discovered its evil tendencies, I made no concealment of my membership in the organization. I shall, with equal frankness, announce I am no longer affiliated with Ku Klux Klan.

"Misrepresentation and misguided zeal have brought thousands of good men and women into the organization, but I am constrained to believe that they will abandon it when they realize its evil trend.

"Arouses Strife."

"The klan was claimed to be founded upon the splendid principle of assisting, in a lawful way, the enforcement of the law and making communities better places in which to live and rear families. This exalted principle has been lost sight of and the efforts of the organization turned to arousing strife and hatred. Assisting in law enforcement has dwindled into a mere sideline, and the main efforts are devoted to playing small politics and dividing communities into warring factions."

Gordon said he had not been active in the klan for several months.

Man's Body Found in River.

The body of a man was recovered from the Mississippi River at the foot of Mary street, in Carondelet Township, yesterday by passersby, who saw it floating. The man was middle-aged, had brown hair, blue eyes and weighed 150 pounds. He was clad in tan shirt and trousers. There were no marks of identification. The body was removed to Coroner Bopp's undertaking establishment at Kirkwood.

PAINT LABELS FOR LIQUOR SHIPMENTS OBTAINED BY RUSE

New Orleans Manufacturer Says Men Got Them "to Paste on St. Louis Billboards."

DRUMS SHIPPED ON FEDERAL BARGE LINE

Dealer Later Discovered Bootleggers' Scheme and Laid Matter Before Prohibition Authorities.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, July 25.—Imitation Scotch whisky which was seized at St. Louis yesterday by Federal prohibition agents, was shipped there from New Orleans on the Federal Barge Line under the guise of paint by a bootleggers' ring which obtained the labels from the Wandel Manufacturing Co. of New Orleans by an ingenious ruse.

There were a number of previous shipments in similar fashion, it has been learned, but the four steel drums of whisky bottles confiscated yesterday constituted the first intercepted shipment. Agents at St. Louis laid in wait unsuccessfully for the consignee there. The way bill showed the shipment as being made from the Wandel company to "John Ryan, 924 Piggott avenue, East St. Louis," but the company was not responsible for sending it.

"Imperial Scotch."

Each of the four drums contained 50 bottles of slightly more than one-quart capacity, of rum, alcohol and coloring matter, labeled "Imperial Scotch." The bottles were packed in straw and pitch.

W. Wandel, president of the company bearing his name, told today how the bootleggers obtained his labels. He said:

"About a month and a half ago three men, who said they were from St. Louis, came to my office and told me that they thought my paint was the best they had ever seen. They told me that they had money to invest in the company in putting the paint on the market in St. Louis and that they would put on a big advertising scheme in St Louis.

Bought Four Drums.

"This, of course, sounded good to me and I began negotiations with them for introducing my paint in St. Louis. They then bought four drums of the paint, which they said they were going to use for demonstration work. Then they asked me for some labels that they could use for advertising the paint up there. I gave them 1000 of the big round labels and they told me that they were going to paste them on the billboards of St. Louis, so that they could create a large demand for my paint up there.

"Several weeks passed that I didn't see them, and I thought that they were working in Missouri, when one day I received a notice from the Federal barge line that there were four cans of unclaimed paint from my factory, in St. Louis. I knew that I had not shipped any four cans of paint and thought that there must have been a mistake, and wired the barge line that the paint was not mine. The next day I received a wire that the paint had been claimed.

"Got Me Worried."

"This got me worried and I began to suspect something. I thought that these St. Louis fellows were using my labels, which are patented, on an inferior grade of paint, and I began to make an investigation. I found that there had been much shipping of paint drums bearing my labels going on during the past few weeks, and as I had not done any of this I knew something was wrong.

"Well, I got several of the fellows in my office and threatened to go to the Government because they were using my patented labels on their bad paint. Then they told me that they were not using the labels on paint at all, but that they were using them to camouflage shipments of whisky which were passing as drums of paint.

"They pleaded and cajoled with me not to go to the authorities. At first they offered me $5000 to keep my mouth shut, and then they told me they would give me any amount of money I wanted, just so that I would not say anything about the whisky.

"I was tired of their foolishness and went to the chief of the prohibition forces, and told him the whole story. He forbade me telling any of the names of the men, but I will say this, there are seven or eight rich men implicated, one of them a well-known lawyer of this city. This is all I can say, because the chief won't allow me to divulge any names until arrests are made."

Secret of Road to Riches Of Exchange Speculator

Poor Emigrant Boy of 14 Years Ago Tells How He Profited by Fluctations in European Moneys.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Fourteen years ago Victor Salustri landed at Ellis Island without money, education or a knowledge of the English language. The first thing he learned was that five pennies made a nickel and that there were 20 nickels in a dollar. He was then 17.

His father in Italy had been a cobbler but there was nothing in cobbling—that was why Victor came to America. His first job was at common labor. He carried cement from one pile to another on the Lackawanna.

Then, family training asserting itself, he got a job in a shoe repairing shop in Ithaca. Two years later he established himself in the village of Greenfield, Mass., and opened a shoe repairing and shoe shining shop. By 1920 he could write a check for $1000.

Began Taking Newspapers.

He took a Springfield paper and later a New York paper. The first thing he turned to each morning was the complicated material on the financial page. He began to watch for important news developments affecting Europe. When he saw something he thought favorable to France he hurried to the First National Bank of Greenfield and asked them to buy French bonds. The bank bought the bonds through the First National Bank of Boston. Later he sold them for a profit.

One day, giving an order to buy bonds "at the market," Salustri was shocked to find they had jumped two points overnight, thus costing him more than he intended to pay. Wondering whether there had been a corresponding advance in French exchange, he asked a bank clerk for a quotation. The clerk gave it to him from the "rate sheet" mailed out the night before by the First National Bank of Boston. Next morning, consulting the foreign exchange table in his newspaper, Salustri noticed that the actual quotation on francs in New York had been considerably higher than the rate quoted him.

"The rate sheet is always a day old?" he thought. "If I find out this afternoon that francs jumped 20 points this morning, and if the bank is silly enough to sell at yesterday's rate, I make money."

Example of His Deals.

A few days later, taking note of a news development in Italy, he asked a bank clerk to give him a price on 25,000 lira. The First National Bank of Boston limited the local bank to sale of 20,000 lira on any one day, thus protecting itself against important losses in case of a sharp advance in exchange.

Since Salustri asked for an amount larger than this limit, the clerk telegraphed Boston for a late quotation. The answer was a quotation of 4.58, while the quotation on the rate sheet was 4.46.

"I'll take the limit of 20,000 at 4.46," said Salustri.

Although the clerk had just learned the actual rate of 4.58, he made the sale. His bank had nothing to lose since it merely acted as correspondent for the city bank and added a point or two to cover its own commission.

Salustri learned that the big banks, as well as the American Express Co., each night mailed rate sheets to Greenfield agents, giving the prices at which they would sell foreign money next day. These sheets were always a day behind the market. They limited each exchange and were intended to provide for the needs of emigrants who bought exchange for actual transmission abroad.

Many Trades in Short Period.

In all, over a period of a year or so, he entered 35 trades of this kind.

On his last trade, July 2, Salustri bought 20,000 francs at the Greenfield rate sheet price of 4.49, which represented the actual July 1 rate of 4.56 at Boston, plus 3 points profit for the bank. The Boston rate at the time he bought was 4.66.

Today the market rate was 4.71. Salustri, in this city on business, sold his francs through the local office of the First National corporation, subsidiary of the First National Bank of Boston. He found, however, that it had been a mistake to reveal the nature of his operations.

The local office telephoned Boston and ascertained the price he had paid. Then, through a process of reasoning which Salustri says he does not quite understand, they informed him they would not pay the current market price, since he had taken advantage of the bank on the original purchase. They paid him 4.59.

Bad Only When He Beats Them.

"There is no kick when it works the other way," Salustri commented. "If francs go down this morning the banks make big money on the prices mailed out the night before. There was a time, you know, when francs, lira and some other exchanges had a steady downward tendency. Because the average move was downward, banks selling exchange to thousands of immigrants on prices a day old made many millions, but they think it is very bad when I beat them."

CARDINAL BEGIN IS BURIED

Many Pilgrims Among Mourners at Quebec.

QUEBEC, July 25.—While thousands thronged the church and other thousands gathered outside, Cardinal Begin, seventeenth Archbishop of Quebec, was buried today in the crypt of the Basilica, beside the remains of his sixteen predecessors. Ceremonies filled with dignity and impressiveness marked the interment. Throughout the city signs of deep mourning were in evidence. Public buildings were draped in black and many private houses displayed tokens of grief.

The crowds which assembled to mourn the Cardinal, who died last Sunday, were augmented by large numbers of pilgrims arriving here on the eve of the Feast of Ste. Anne de Beaupre.

Two thrones installed in the basilica were occupied by Monsignor Pietridi Maria, the papal legate, and Cardinal Hayes, New York. The papal legate, directly representing the Pope, was the first Ambassador of the Pontiff ever to officiate in Quebec. He chanted the first requiem hymn.

DANISH PRINCE WOUNDED

Aage, Captain in French Foreign Legion Fighting in Morocco.

ROME, July 25.—Prince Aage of Denmark, a Captain in the French foreign legion, has been wounded while fighting Abd-el-Krim's Riffians in Morocco. This information has been received by his relatives here. The Prince in 1914 married the Countess Calvi de Bergolo, whose brother is the husband of the Princess Yolanda, eldest daughter of the King and Queen of Italy. Prince Aage visited the United States in 1919. Recently he was cited for bravery while fighting with the French foreign legion in Morocco.

Place for Welfare Rally Changed.

The membership rally of the Missouri Welfare League Tuesday night will be held at 5231 Waterman avenue, instead of the place previously announced, a lawn in Westmoreland place. Talks will be made by William Knox of Charleston, Mo.; Gilbert C. Goodlett, Arthur E. Bostwick, and Isaac Lippincott. The league is extending its organization throughout the State.

Boy Scouts to Entertain Club.

More than 100 men of the Advertising Club and their sons will be guests of the Boy Scouts of America at its camp in Irondale, Mo., Tuesday. A special train will leave Union Station at 8 a. m. The program announced includes a ball game, horseback riding, boating, swimming and races, a chicken dinner and a barbecue supper.

50 DESCENDANTS AT GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Five of Mr. and Mrs. Lookofsky's Seven Children Connected With Shoe Business.

The shoe industry was the gainer when Mayer Lookofsky decided to sell out his shoe business in a little Russian village and migrate to America. That was 19 years ago, and today—

Well, last week at the Lookofsky home, at 2803 Dickson street, there was held a family reunion, the occasion being the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lookofsky. Present were exactly 50 children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, to felicitate Papa and Mama Lookofsky.

They included the sons: Ben, who has a shoe store at 1311 North Leffingwell avenue, his wife and three children; Joseph, who has a shoe store in Mayfield, Ky., his wife and four children; Louis, who is a shoe merchant in Paducah, Ky., his wife and four children; the daughters: Mrs. Sylvia Lex, who with her husband operates a shoe store on Jefferson avenue, with their six children, two of whom are married, Mrs. Irene Bornstein of St. Louis, whose husband, a tailor, is dead, and their six children; Mrs. Julia Edelstein, her husband, a tailor, and their seven children, and Mrs. Molly Marquis, her husband, who is in the shoe business at 7311 South Broadway, and their four children.

The family reunion and wedding anniversary were celebrated at Lookofsky's home, where—reverting to the shoe industry—there is on the first floor of the three-story residence a retail stock of shoes, which Lookofsky sells to his neighbors. At the anniversary celebration there was wine and cake, and after the festivities the family assembled at a photographer's studio. Their group picture was produced on the pictorial page of Friday's Post-Dispatch.

Yesterday a Post-Dispatch reporter called at the Lookofsky home. "My wife and I are each 68 years old," Lookofsky related. "My father was in the shoe business before me. We did very well. The children came and the girls got married. My two sons-in-law came to America first, and then the rest of us came next year. The boys married here in St. Louis, where I came first. I had about $2000 capital.

"This is a good country. I have a fine family; I own this home and I've got an interest in two more shoe stores."

ENGLISH DEAN RESCUED FROM MINERS BY POLICE

Notable Mobbed Following Speech by Ramsey McDonald—Was to Have Addressed Meeting.

By the Associated Press.

DURHAM, England, July 25.—The Right Rev. James Edward Welldon, dean of Durham, was mobbed by angry miners today. J. Ramsay McDonald, the former labor Premier, had just finished addressing an open air demonstration of the Durham Miners' association, when Dean Welldon, who was billed to address a subsequent temperance meeting, was recognized by the crowd. He was immediately attacked with shouts of "to the river with him." The dean was badly jostled; his hat was knocked off and his stick was torn from his hand. He was rescued by the police. He suffered no great bodily injury.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 25.—The interval pending the assemblying of the conference of miners and mineowners called for Wednesday, is being utilized by both sides in marshaling moral support. The termination of the present working agreement between miners and owners expires on July 31, and a strike has been called for that day unless a settlement can be reached on the question of a new agreement.

The transportation and railway unions decided today to take steps to prevent the movement of coal in the event of a strike.

A rumor was current today that the Government court of inquiry would recommend a temporary Government subsidy to the mining industry.

To Preach on Scopes Trial.

The Rev. Dr. James Hardin Smith will preach tonight in University Presbyterian Church, 6166 Delmar boulevard, on "Darrow the Agnostic vs. Bryan the Christian.

HOSPITAL EDICT SEEN AS ANNEXATION BAIT

Charge of Member of County Court Denied by City Freeholder.

William Preiss, a member of the St. Louis County Court, declared yesterday that the action of St. Louis city officials in barring county residents from treatment at city hospitals after Oct. 1 is a move brought about by city members of the Board of Freeholders, who are attempting to show county residents that annexation is necessary.

Hospital Commissioner Jordan's notification of the city's decision was received by the County Court Friday. The county has previously been paying for treatment for its residents at the rate of $18 a month. A total of $63,511.15 was paid for institutional care for county residents in the fiscal year ending March 15 last.

Preiss' View of Notice.

"I interpret the notice as a move actuated by city members of the Board of Freeholders which is to frame the annexation plan," Preiss declared. "It looks like an effort to show us that we can't get along without the city."

Preiss' charge was denied last night by former Circuit Judge Leo S. Rassieur, city member of the board who was spokesman for city members in denouncing the county members when they took control of the board at its first meeting.

"The notice was news to me," Judge Rassieur said. "I hadn't even heard of it until I read the news story this afternoon. We city members have never discussed such action."

Court Plan in Matter.

Preiss said the County Court would take steps before Oct. 1 to have its residents provided with free hospitalization facilities. It is probable a contract will be offered a private institution to handle county cases.

Dr. Jordan stated yesterday that the city's action was due to congestion in city institutions.

John J. Morrisey, 75, Dies.

By the Associated Press.

OAKLAND, Cal., July 25.—John J. Morrisey, 75 years old, manager of the San Francisco Orpheum from 1899 until his retirement 10 years ago, died at his home last night. He was former manager for the Jack Haverly Minstrels in New York and enjoyed a nation-wide reputation as a theatrical man.

TO TAKE OFF FAT

New French Formula Reduces Pleasantly, Safely and Surely.

If you are suffering from excess fat; if you heart, lungs and liver are affected by the burden you are carrying; if your joints are stiffened with rheumatism, or if you are a victim of high blood pressure due to obesity, you can now be relieved. No matter how little or how much you want to lose, and no matter all the pills, creams, diets and exercises you have tried before, SAN-GRI-NA, a new discovery of a French scientist, is guaranteed to relieve any fat man or woman, or your money is refunded.

SAN-GRI-NA is the formula of a French physician. It has been used in Europe by millionaires, actresses and hundreds of fat men and women, because it is simple, easy, pleasant and harmless. If you are burdened with rolls of ugly fat, make this test today: First weigh yourself, then go to any good drug store and get a box of SAN-GRI-NA, take two tablets before each meal and watch your fat disappear. One French woman, new in America, states that she reduced 50 pounds in eight weeks with this marvelous discovery, and has never regained one pound since. You do not have to follow any diets or exercises, but be sure and get the right tablets, called SAN-GRI-NA, as nothing like it has ever before been offered to the American public. On sale at any good drug or department store. If your druggist does not carry San-Gri-Na in stock he can get it from his wholesaler, or you can send a money order or check for $1.50 direct to the Scientific Research Laboratories, 1841 Broadway, N. Y. C.

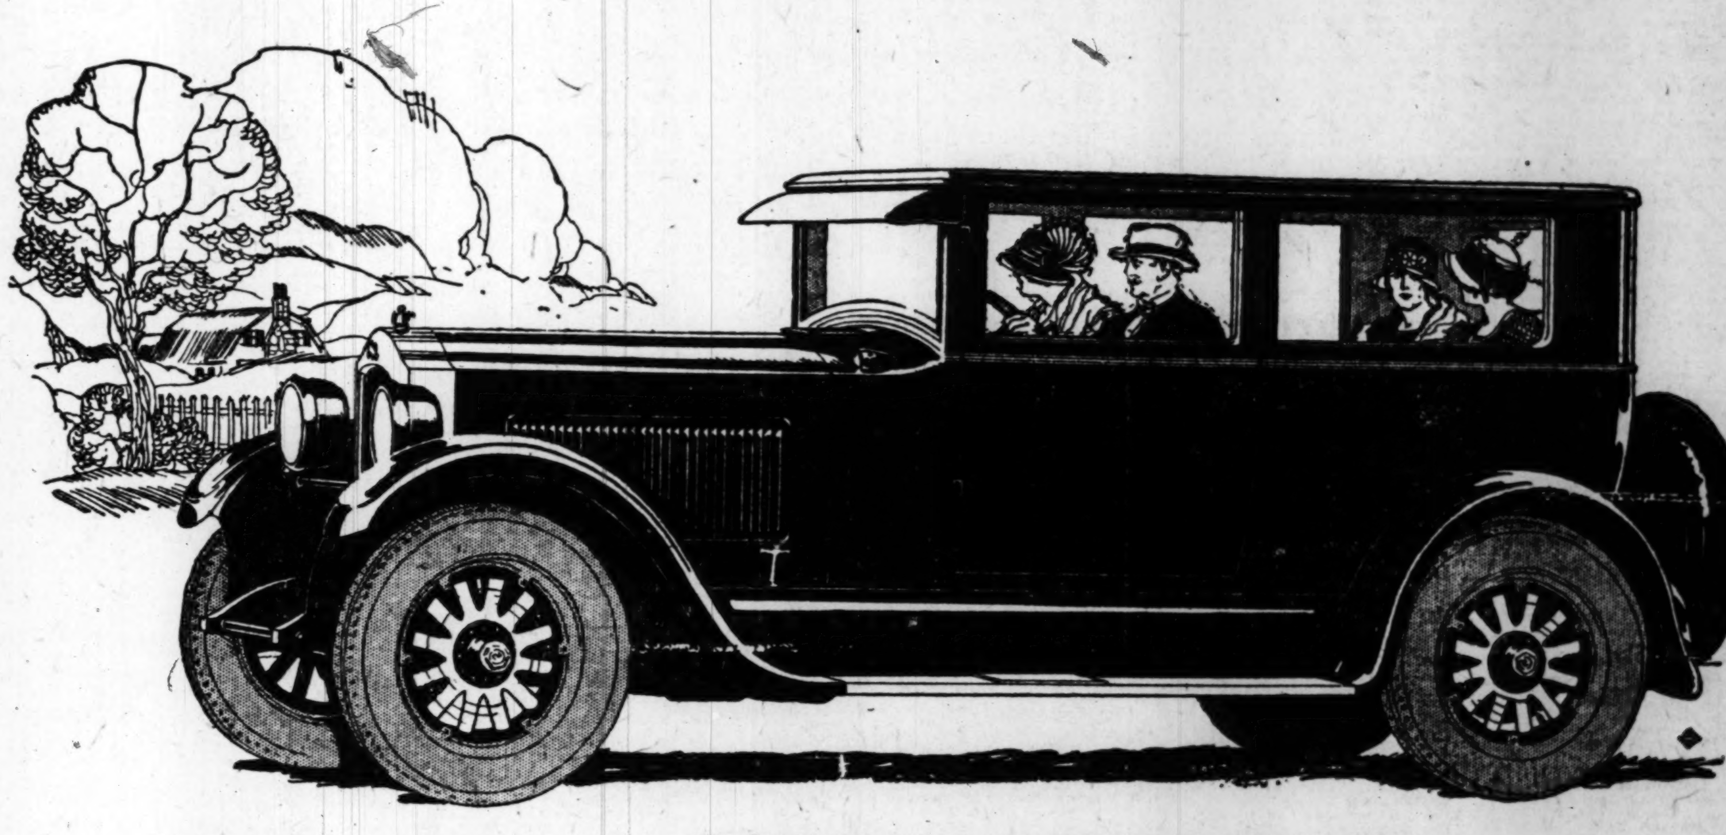
Why the One-Profit★ Coach Excels

—it is engineered and built complete by one organization—Studebaker. It is a perfectly coordinated, harmonious unit. This means better performance, greater comfort and increased mileage at an accepted coach price



AN AUTOMOBILE, like any other highly specialized machine, runs more smoothly—lasts longer—gives greater satisfaction—when its thousands of elements are carefully coordinated into one harmonious unit.

Obviously, a better car can be produced when all vital parts are designed, engineered and manufactured by one organization.

The Studebaker car is built on this "one-profit" principle. Not only all the engines, but also all the bodies and all the axles, gear sets, differentials, springs, clutches, steering gears, gray iron castings and drop forgings, are manufactured in Studebaker plants. This is not true of any other automobile in the fine car field.

The Studebaker, therefore, being built as a unit—functions as a unit—with all of the advantages of unit over assembled construction.

"Coach" in name—
Coupe in quality

The Studebaker Special Six Coach is an outstanding example of the finer quality made possible by this "one-profit" principle of motor car manufacture.

This automobile is really a fine 5-passenger coupe, but is called a "coach" because it carries the lowest price at which an enclosed car has ever been sold on the famous Studebaker Special Six chassis.

Here is a Coach in which nothing has been stinted or skimped. It is called a "coach" because it is inexpensive, but it is not cheap.

In this Coach fine grades of upholstery are used. You'll find the same quality of workmanship and materials in all hidden places that you see out in the open. The finest northern ash and hard maple are concealed in the body. One piece of steel looks like another, but some grades are tougher—more enduring. Studebaker pays premiums to get the best.

Many of the superiorities of this Coach are invisible—and therefore all the more important. But here are some you can easily see and check against competing cars: gasoline gauge on the dash, 8-day clock, automatic windshield cleaner, rear view mirror, door pockets, rear window curtains, ash receiver, trunk rack, ornamental pull-cord, cowl ventilator, stop light, dome light, tire carrier locked by the same key that locks door, and the splendid coincidental lock to ignition and steering wheel. Lights are operated from a switch on the steering wheel which is left free for this convenience by the elimination of the spark lever. In all Studebakers the spark is automatically controlled by the speed of the motor.

$586.40 Down The Studebaker Corporation of America has made it possible for any Studebaker dealer to sell you any car in his stock (new or used) on a fair and liberal budget payment plan.

For instance, the delivered price of the Special Six Coach in St. Louis is $586.40 down and $85.77 a month for 16 months. This includes freight and war tax. Fire and theft insurance.

This Special Six Coach is lacquered in two styles—beautiful Studebaker blue or a rich duotone, Wyandotte green-gray above and Ponca green gray below.

★By a "one-profit car" we mean a motor car that, in its vital parts, is manufactured by one organization—thus cutting out the extra profits and overheads which arise when vital parts are bought from others. There are only two cars that can be thus classified, because —of all the makes of passenger cars built in the United States, only 42 build all their own motors—and one of the 42 is Studebaker.

—of the 42 which claim to make their own motors, many merely machine and assemble the parts made by others. Only 14 of the 42 make the iron castings, stampings and forgings which go into their motors—and one of the 14 is Studebaker

—only 5 make all their own bodies—and one of the 5 is Studebaker

—only 3 make all their own springs, steering gear, differentials, gear sets and clutches—and one of the 3 is Studebaker

—only 2 make all their own motors, bodies, clutches, springs, axles, gear sets, differentials, steering gear, gray iron castings and drop forgings. One of these 2 is Studebaker and the other is Ford.

Studebaker has achieved one-profit manufacture without expensive financing, mergers, holding companies, or other agencies which create overhead. Studebaker has no bonded debt and no bank loans. The tremendous plants which permit such efficient manufacture of fine cars are the result of 73 years of sound, conservative business. The 14,000 stockholders who own this corporation have been content with reasonable returns. Earnings, 50% of which have been retained for plant development, built the solid foundation of one hundred million dollars now concentrated on the production of one-profit cars such as this Special Six Coach.

In its insistence upon comfort, this car is typically Studebaker. There is comfort in the extra heavy cushions—in the big springs—in the full balloon tires for which steering gear, fenders, etc., have been specially designed—in the ease with which passengers may enter or leave the rear of the car—in the extra large windows and windshield.

You can buy all this style because this is the only "one-profit" coach on the market today. Instead of piling profit on profit, as is the practice with many manufacturers, Studebaker eliminates extra profits of outside parts suppliers and passes on the savings to purchasers. Being an independent concern, free of all combines or financial entanglements, Studebaker purchasing agents are unrestricted in their search for quality and value.

Buy now—no need to delay
—no "yearly models"

You may buy this Coach today—or on any day of the year—with the assurance that there will be no "annual announcement" to make it artificially a "last year's model."

For Studebaker has discontinued the custom of presenting a new line of cars every year. Instead, Studebakers will be kept up to date all of the time.

Go see this dependable "one-profit" Studebaker Coach today. Call upon any of the dealers listed below for a demonstration. You owe it to yourself to find out how this Studebaker Special Six Coach has completely changed all standards of value in the coach field. Do it at once—and learn how much quality automobile your money will buy.

COTTON STRONG AT THE CLOSE OF WEEK

Dry Weather Following Lowered Crop Estimate Bullish Factor.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The cotton market today appeared to be under the influence of a genuine crop scare. The prices continued the violent advance which has been in progress since the Government report was issued Thursday and today reached the highest basis of the season. October touched 25.28c and December 25.44c. The market closed at the top and 38 to 46 points above the previous night.

Even those who were the most skeptical about the accuracy of the low Government crop figures appeared to have been convinced by the actions of the market and by the character of the news from Texas that the crop situation at least so far as that State is concerned is in a most critical position.

Today's drouth and damage news from Texas was little short of sensational and occasioned a renewal of heavy Wall Street and other buying, not a little of which represented new long account purchases.

Many shorts who had withstood previous advances in belief that the bureau figures were too low were forced, by the character of today's news, to admit defeat and either partially or entirely reduced their lines.

Not only was Texas dry today, but the over-Sunday forecast was for continued dry and hot weather, which it was expected would lead to further deterioration in the central and southern portion of that State. To this bullish situation was added an increasing number of weevil reports from the Atlantic states.

Altogether crop news was about the worst that has appeared this week and sentiment was very strongly inclined to the bull side, believing that there can be no material reaction in the market until either a big long interest is built up, or the drouth situation in Texas is relieved.

Signs of increasing interest have already been noticed among buyers of cotton goods and bulls had reason to believe that if the advance in raw cotton was sustained for a day or two more, some large cloth sales would be effected.

English market showed much concern over the Texas crop outlook and throughout the forenoon there was a good foreign buying of the winter months.

Bulgaria's Wheat Crop Double 1924

By the Associated Press.

SOFIA, July 15.—Bulgaria's wheat yield this year will amount to approximately 200,000,000 bushels, according to present crop estimates. This is double last year's harvest and exceeds previous bumper crops of 1906 and 1911.

It is estimated 33,000,000 bushels of wheat will be available for export.

SELECTIVE UPWARD TREND ON CURB DURING WEEK

NEW YORK, July 25.—It was a usual week-end market on the curb exchange today with prices backing and filling in a disorderly fashion. One fact stood out plainly however; the speculative element was not disposed to rush in recklessly as it did two and three weeks ago, and buy stocks indiscriminately.

While the upward movement throughout the past week has predominated buying has been selective and improvement for the most part has occurred in stocks of companies where special developments are pending, and in those in which pools are known to be operated.

Electric Refrigerator shares managed to maintain most of their gains although little effort was made to prolong the advance at the week end. Nizer Corporation issues were bought around their top levels and Kelvinator held firm just under its top figure.

Johns Manville featured the high priced specialties advancing to 183 as against the previous final of 169 but subsequently lost a good part of the gain. Cuba Co. was again taken above 50. Southeastern Power stood out strongly among public utilities.

Franklin Mfg. was another strong spot responding to the report of operations for the first six months. After deducting preferred dividends, there was a surplus of $1,166,649 equivalent to $3.89 a share.

Stocks that reached new high records included the new Southern Cities Utilities, which, at 66, was up almost four points; Southeastern Powers up nearly five points, Nizer Corporation B over a half and the A up a small fraction, Cuba Co. up one and National Tea at its former top.

COAL SITUATION AND GOLD STANDARD OCCUPY LONDON

(Special Wireless to New York Evening Post.)

LONDON, July 25.—Arthur W. Kiddy, editor of Bankers' Magazine and financial editor of the London Morning Post in financial review today says:

"A Cabinet split was narrowly averted over the recent economy crisis about the number of cruisers to be constructed. Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill now has received a distinct rebuff and financial circles are unsympathetic with him because he has deliberately run away from his own words on the budget when, after announcing enlarged expenditures for the current year, he gave his peldge of immediate further economies, whereas at a recent gathering at the mansion house he virtually announced immediate economies impossible.

"It is impossibel to indicate yet the outcome of the coal situation because the real issues at stake are Britain's efficiency, output per man and costs of production compared with other nations. Any settlement that does not meet these points can be only temporary.

"Meanwhile at this critical moment in our industrial affairs the controversy hotly rages around the gold standard. Certain writers are asserting that industrial troubles are mainly due to the premature adoption of the gold standard. Their argument is that price levels are affected and our exports checked. A sufficient substratum of truth makes these attacks peculiarly dangerous, as the first stages of the gold standard and improved exchange necessarily have had some of the results indicated by Keynes. But this is temporary and will pass. The fundamental causes are labor slackness, impossible trade union demands and a too high standard of living.

"If gold continues to pour in, say to the extent of a further £10,000,000, it is believed that the bank rate will be reduced and the embargo on the foreign loans removed.

"But at present it is not believed that any movement will come until the close of the summer holidays.

"The controversy concerning the rubber export restriction is subsiding. The general impartial view is that American protests, like other trading protests, must be classed strictly together and that all Americans with a true sense of proportion will see that such American protest rather tends to support a continuance of the restriction by enabling those who desire restriction to point out, as the recent Traders Rubbers circular does, that two important items in the cost of rubber tires are cotton and rubber. This statement is followed by a reminder of the abnormal price we have had to pay for cotton since the war, whereas until recently rubber was obtainable at an abnormally low level.

"Although we recognize the undoubted growing tendency of American investors to absorb foreign loans, still it is believed here that the European issues taken in the United States will ultimately return to London.

Foreign Exchange

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The Evening Post in its weekly copyrighted Foreign Exchange review, says:

"Sterling exchange, after showing such stability ever since demand advanced to above $4.86 and the gold basis was resumed, yielded during the week's operations as a result of special pressure and was the chief feature because of a decline in London and other markets yesterday. Demand, which had ranged at $4.85⅝ and $4.85¼, dropped to $4.85 and showed a heavy tone at that level. This suddenly developed weakness was attributed to uneasiness created in England over the threat of a widespread coal strike menacing interruption of industrial activities. There were, however, some other factors, including the initial supply ¼ per cent in the rates for time money ¼ per cent in the rate for time money here.

"The week's trading included wide movements in several continental rates. In spite of restraint exerted by Danish banking interests, crown checks on Copenhagen made an advance of almost a cent to 22.10, the highest touched in recent years, while crown checks on Norway rose ¾c to 18.32. Another important feature was the advance in Canadian exchange to 3.42 premium over American dollars, a new high for the year. But part of this advance was lost when sterling declined. French exchange moved within a narrow range, making a gain of 3 points to 4.72, which was reduced before the end of the week. Italian exchange, after moving up to 3.67¼, also reacted. Rumania exchange responded to statements of a removal of the prohibition against oil exports with an advance of from 48½ to 65 for leu checks, but did not hold the gain.

"South American exchanges were generally strong all through the week. Brazil selling as high as 11.91, a new record for the year. Silver exchanges were weakened by attention called to the situation in China through the assassination of an American and rates on both Hongkong and Shanghai declined. The week's trading was marked by an advance of 2 cents on exchange to Uruguay to 100.

"With operators and labor having agreed to meet the middle of next week in London to reconsider the conditions demand sterling was decidedly firmer in the local foreign exchange market this morning, moving at levels fractional above those of Friday. Other allied rates were virtually unchanged, with little or no business reported. Danish kroner, however, again advanced close to the record levels recently established.

Bond Market Review

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Extremely narrow price fluctuations were the rule in today's quiet bond trading, with the general average of all issues dropping off to the lowest level of the week.

A search for interesting features revealed only a rather sharp reaction in the convertible oil liens, which moved lower in sympathy with the weakness of the petroleum shares. Pan-American and Skelly issues showed pronounced heaviness.

Some of the semispeculative railroad obligations, such as Frisco, Seaboard, Katy and St. Paul issues were in demand but their gains were only fractional. A single sale of St. Lawrence & Adirondacks second 6s, a normally dormant issue, took place at 102¼, representing an advance of more than seven points over the last previous transaction.

Foreign and United States Government bonds were steady. Holders of Mexican securities welcomed a statement from Finance Minister Pani, that a revision of Mexico's debt agreement, rather than an abrogation, was being sought.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, July 25.—The Boston raw wool market closed the week quietly but with prices generally maintained. Mohair is moving better and wool noils are increasing in demand.

HOGS, SHEEP AND TOP CATTLE UP FOR WEEK

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS.

	Last Week.	Prev. Week.	Year Ago.
Cattle and calves	33,960	35,597	27,744
Hogs	48,899	59,925	51,439
Sheep	15,103	23,931	18,211
Horses and mules	334	405	484
Totals	98,296	119,858	97,878

Livestock markets closed generally higher at the St. Louis National Stockyards last week, advances being recorded in hogs, sheep and lambs and top cattle. The cattle run was again of good volume, although other departments experienced generally light supplies. The combined offering of all classes of stock for the period was 98,296 head, against 119,858 the previous week. An active demand again featured the trade in the best grades of steers and yearlings, and closing prices were generally 25c higher, with choice to prime beeves being quotable up to $14.25 per cwt. The best steers available during the week brought $13. This was paid for a consignment of yearlings. Heavy beeves topped in this class at $13. Steers other than the choice kinds, including stockers and feeders and Kansas and Oklahoma consignments, averaged steady to strong except in some of the "green" natives, which were hit for a 25c decline. The bulk of all native beef steers cashed to killers at $8.50 to $12.50, common kinds graduating down to $7 or under. Kansas and Oklahoma range steers, numbering some 250 cars, sold in a spread of $5.25 to $9. Receipts also included a fair sprinkling of Oklahoma cows, heifers and calves. While the fat light yearlings sold on a stronger market, the plain grass offerings, of which most of the run consisted, encountered slow call at 25c lower prices. Butcher heifers topped for the week and year at $12.35. The majority of the plainer classes of yearlings moved in a spread of $4 to $7.50. Beef cows, aside from the choice kinds, which were steady, eased off 25c. The bulk of sales was $4.50 to $5.50. Low quotation was $3.75 and high $8. Canner and cutter cows finished about steady, cutters going at $3 to $3.75 and canners making $2.40 to $3. Bulls likewise remained about in line with the previous week. Bologna offerings commanded $4 to $5 and plainer classes were included in a range of $2.75 to $4. There was a fair call for stocker and feeder steers at firm prices. Sales ranged from $4 for a common grade to $9.25@9.50, the price for fleshy feeders. The bulk of all sales in this department was $4.50 to $7.50. There was a limited call for stock cows, heifers and bulls, at steady prices. Veal calves sold in a practical range of $10 to $10.75. The market closed strong, a few choice reaching $11 in Friday's session. Southern canner yearlings were unchanged at $3.25 to $3.50 or $3.60.

Hog Trade Uneven.

The week witnessed very uneven trading in the hog department with closing prices showing a substantial rise over the previous Saturday basis, market however still lower than the high time of the previous week. Receipts were light in volume, running materially higher both at the local yards and at 11 markets. General quality of the week's run graded good, although several complaints were voiced against prices accorded Southern hogs, salesmen in many instances finding it almost impossible to move this class. Sales ranged from $1 to $2 per cwt. lower than for natives of the same weight. Good butcher hogs averaging 210 lbs. and up close the week at an advance of 40c to 50c over the previous Saturday, offerings clearing today at $14.30 to $14.40 largely. The lighter hogs, too, are higher, sales, however, not carrying as big an advance as the weightier grades. Offerings averaging from 160 to 200 lbs. at $14.35 to $14.40 mostly, show 25c to 40c advance. This latter named class were favorites throughout the week but popularity seemed to wane towards the close, due to curtailment of outside orders. Pigs found an active market the past week with very moderate fluctuations in price. Closing rounds found prices generally steady to 25c higher, strong weight averages from 130 lbs to 150 lbs. carrying the big end of the advance at $14 to $14.50. Medium and light pigs ruled very uneven, sales of the weights from 130 lbs. and down ranging from $13 to $14 for good natives, some plain Southern stuff as low as $11.50. Packer sows closed steady to 25c up, $12.50 catching the bulk of this class late. Stags show no change at $10.50 to $11.50. Closing quotations on the different classes are as follows: Best butchers 210 lbs. and up, $14.30 to $14.40; light hogs, 160 to 200 lbs., $14.35 to $14.50. Strong weight pigs 130 to 150 lbs., $14 to $14.40, medium and light kinds grading plain to good, $11.50 to $14. Packer sows, $12.50 largely and stags, $10.50 to $11.50.

Lamb Receipts Lighter.

Lighter receipts and a good demand from the killers effected a reaction in lamb prices, with closing deals sharply higher than the previous week's windup. Quality has been running only fair, a big portion of arrivals being contributed from Southwest territory with natives grading medium to good in quality. With the exception of the week's opening session which showed weakness, the six-day period witnessed gains in lamb prices in practically every session, top by the last session raised to $14.75 against a closing top of $13.75 the previous Saturday. Bulk of sales for the week was $13.75 to $14.50, general market showing a gain of $1 on all grades except culls, this class 50c to $1 up. The supply of sheep and aged classes continued light and with an eager inquiry afoot at all times prices for the week show strong to 50c higher on mutton ewes with some of the plainer classes as much as $1 higher. Top for the week reached $8 for a consignment of choice Tennessee ewes with the big end of the light fat native offerings clearing around $7 to $7.50. Medium and heavies sold at $5 to $6.50 m... some of the plainest kinds downward to $4. Bucks are $1 higher in some instances, sales noted upward to $4. Canners show practically no change at $1 to $1.50 chiefly. Good to choice lambs close quotable at $13.75 to $14.74, medium to good $12.75 to $13.75 and plain to medium $11.75 to $12.75. Culls and common $8.50 to $11 and skips $5 to ... Good to choice ewes $6.50 to $8, medium to good $5.50 to $6.50 and plain to medium $4 to $5.50. Choppers and bucks $2 to $4; canners, $1 to $1.50. Fat goats $2.50 to $3, fat kids $4 to $6. Thin and common goats $1 to $2.

Horses and Mules.

With receipts totaling less than 350 head, the local horse and mule market showed no new developments during the week. Quotations remain unchanged. Sales of native and Western horses are scheduled for the new week.

BEAR WEEK IN WHEAT ON THE CHICAGO MARKET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 25.—It was a bear week in wheat and today's market also showed a declining tendency. Increased receipts leading to enlarged hedging sales offset all other market factors. The feature today was the lack of buying power except on the break. Corn and oats sympathized with wheat most of the time. Provisions had a downward trend.

Wheat bulls who were so successful in forcing prices up yesterday, were greatly disappointed this morning when Liverpool failed to follow our advance. This led to selling by discouraged holders as soon as the market opened and prices dipped in consequence.

Shortly after the opening local bull leaders started a rally because of the strength in Winnipeg, but this bulge was taken advantage of by cash interests to hedge purchases of cash wheat. Throughout the day local bulls started rallies, but the bulges always met selling pressure that looked like hedging. Cash interests called attention to the fact that out of 359 cars of wheat in yesterday, 195 were sold on the open market. This is a reflection of increased consigning and will lead to increased hedging pressure. Mills are taking the choice wheat at choice premiums and even outside mills are coming to Chicago for wheat, sales of 35,000 bushels being reported today. The Seaboard advised of sales of five loads of Baltimore wheat for export. Italy has reimposed an import duty on wheat. It is said that that country will have to import 1,000,000 quintals this season. A quintal is equal to 3 2-3 bushels. Weather over our Northwest continues cool, but precipitation is shown. Rising temperatures in the Canadian West were accompanied by showers in some parts. Closing prices today were ¼c to 1¼c lower and for the week 5c to ⅝c lower. July, $1.51⅜; September, $1.49⅞ to 1.49⅝; December $1.51 to $1.51⅜.

Corn was under pressure today from local longs. It was stated that a good-sized line of September was liquidated by a leading holder. There was pressure on the December from commission houses based on the rains along the Mississippi and Nebraska yesterday. Receipts of corn are increasing and cash premiums are fading away. At the close today No. 2 yellow sold as low as 4c over September. Shipping sales were light, only 18,000 bushels being reported. The market closed ⅝c to 1¼c lower for the day and ⅝c to 2¼c lower for the week. July, $1.02½; September, $1.03⅝ to $1.03⅜; December, 86⅝ to 86⅓c.

Oats were easier with other grains. There was evidence of a little hedging pressure but not enough to be a factor. Shorts took profits on the break and this proved a sustaining influence. Shipping sales were moderate, 74,000 bushels all told. Closing prices were ¼c to ⅝c lower for the day and losses of ⅝c to 1⅛c were shown for the week.

Trade in provisions was light with the undertone easier because of the decline in grain and disposition to take profits on long products. Lard declined 7½c to 10c and ribs 10c to 12½c. Losses for the week were 2½c to 5c in lard, 5c to 12½c in ribs and bellies.

RECESSIONS SHOWN IN GRAIN MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 25.—The grain list closed lower at the final session of the week.

In the local cash grain market, wheat averaged 1c lower. The demand was fair. Hard wheat was active at steady to 1c lower prices. Corn was ½c to 1c lower. Demand was good. Oats were steady to 1c lower. Demand was good.

The relative weakness of Liverpool, anticipated increase in visible Monday, a dispatch from Chicago telling of 1000 cars being expected Monday and reported indication of disposition of the country to consign wheat were factors in today's wheat market.

Wheat was higher at one time, but later showed fractional net loss. Corn also was under previous close. Liverpool closed ⅛d to ⅛d higher. There was week-end evening up. Scattered showers in corn belt were factor in market. Hedging pressure was talked of in wheat trade.

September wheat opened at $1.51⅛ to 1.51⅛; December wheat, $1.53⅜. September corn, $1.04⅝. December corn, 86¾c.

The three Northwestern markets combined had —— cars of wheat, compared with 171 a week ago and 344 last year. Minneapolis receiving 113 cars and Duluth 24.

Local wheat receipts, which were 261,100 bushels, compared with 261,200 a week ago and 172,928 last year, included 254 cars local and 33 through. Corn receipts, which were 62,200 bushels, compared with 25,200 a week ago and 134,400 last year, included 31 cars local and 11 through. Oats receipts, which were 106,000 bushels, compared with 78,000 a week ago and 36,000 last year, included 2 cars local and 15 through. Hay receipts were 25 cars local and 4 through.

SETBACK TO COTTON CROP WEEK'S EVENT

Government's Forecast Lowering Estimate Surprise to Trade—Short Selling of Stocks Noted.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The Evening Post in its weekly copyrighted financial review, says:

"A new turn in market developments appeared last week and during the earlier sessions this week, when short commitments were extended more vigorously than at any time in months. Professional traders this year steadfastly have refused to sell stocks they did not own in the expectation of covering their positions at lower levels. Persistent advances in the market and continuing improvement in business are not conditions favorable to bear operations. The constructive forces have had things pretty much to themselves. Now that stocks have gone into record high territory, however, and the season of year for a tightening in money rates is near at hand, the bears are beginning to venture out. It means that certain large speculative interests at least feel that stocks have passed from the buying into the selling zone.

Short Selling Without Effect.

"Curiously enough, extension of these short lines in the last 10 days or so has, by strengthening the technical position of the market, actually lifted stocks rather than forced them down. At least that has been the net result to date of the selling. So well has the market absorbed all that has been offered it that the sellers or bears have in many cases been obliged to cover their positions at higher rather than lower levels. As short selling in the market grows, alternate advances and declines are likely to become more frequent and sharper. Any substantial decline is almost certain to stimulate further short selling, and then, at a sign of an upturn, covering movements easily could force prices up again. Persons who follow market fluctuations closely always interest themselves in these technical matters, ... the significant thing is that—... far, at any rate—short selling has not changed the general upward trend of prices.

Signs of Business.

"Signs multiply that business for the remainder of the year will be good and that, in fact, it will improve in most industries as autumn approaches. That all branches will prosper nobody predicts. One or ... still face problems. But the general level of business is what counts when we measure the prosperity of the country and must now ... the basis of calculation. Production holds up well, but has not been allowed to run much ahead of consumption. Since inventories are ... large, the wheels of industry must be kept moving so long as people want materials. Consumption demands are more likely to expand than contract. The building, automobile and oil industries all are active. Our railroads are giving the most efficient service in their history and are just entering upon their period of heaviest traffic. They are in position to handle the increased traffic promised this fall. Net operating income of the year has run substantially ahead of that for corresponding months a year ago. The roads need only break even with last year for the remaining months to show more than a billion dollars net income for 1925.

Cotton Report Surprise.

"An outstanding event of the week, and one that took the country by surprise, was the Government's June forecast of cotton conditions. Everybody has expected a bumper cotton crop this year. Plantings of the commodity covered a larger acreage than ever before. Now comes the Government report that dry weather has been more damaging than originally was thought. The enormous acreage will not make up for losses from drouth in Texas and Oklahoma, and the yield probably will not total more than 13,588,000 bales. Weather conditions since July 16, the date from which the official forecast is made, gives no hope for improvement. If the drouth continues and the boll weevil proves much of a menace, the present estimate may prove to have been too high. Cotton growers at least may reasonably expect good prices for the commodity this year, as, indeed, may most farmers for the leading agricultural crops.

Labor Problem Affects Sterling.

"Threats of a strike by 1,100,000 coal miners in Great Britain aggravated the industrial situation over there to such a point that the pound sterling for the first time since its stabilization this spring fell back to $4.85. Not since the restoration of the gold standard has the exchange displayed so uneasy a tone as it did this week."

Motors Feature Saturday.

The two-hour session of trading on the Stock Exchange today developed several interesting movements, while indicating that sentiment in general remained predominantly bullish. Aside from a rather severe break in the Pan-American issues, which was an outstanding exception, the market as a whole displayed a confident tone, with the short interests being subjected to some rather rough handling in certain groups. The break in the Doheny stocks was due to reports, officially denied, that additional stock would be offered for sale. It was explained that these reports were probably based on the application made several days ago to list more stock, which represented shares given in exchange in the recent shifting of control.

Spirited buying of the motors was the feature of the day, but demand continued for many of the

SETBACK TO COTTON CROP WEEK'S EVENT

Government's Forecast Lowering Estimate Surprise to Trade—Short Selling of Stocks Noted.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The Evening Post in its weekly copyrighted financial review, says:

"A new turn in market developments appeared last week and during the earlier sessions this week, when short commitments were extended more vigorously than at any time in months. Professional traders this year steadfastly have refused to sell stocks they did not own in the expectation of covering their positions at lower levels. Persistent advances in the market and continuing improvement in business are not conditions favorable to bear operations. The constructive forces have had things pretty much to themselves. Now that stocks have gone into record high territory, however, and the season of year for a tightening in money rates is near at hand, the bears are beginning to venture out. It means that certain large speculative interests at least feel that stocks have passed from the buying into the selling zone.

Short Selling Without Effect.

"Curiously enough, extension of these short lines in the last 10 days or so has, by strengthening the technical position of the market, actually lifted stocks rather than forced them down. At least that has been the net result to date of the selling. So well has the market absorbed all that has been offered that the sellers or bears have in many cases been obliged to cover their positions at higher rather than lower levels. As short selling in the market grows, alternate advances and declines are likely to become more frequent and sharper. Any substantial decline is almost certain to stimulate further short selling, and then, at a sign of an upturn, covering movements easily could force prices up again. Persons who follow market fluctuations closely always interest themselves in these technical matters, but the significant thing is that—so far, at any rate—short selling has not changed the general upward trend of prices.

Signs of Business.

"Signs multiply that business for the remainder of the year will be good and that, in fact, it will improve in most industries as autumn approaches. That all branches will prosper nobody predicts. One or two still face problems. But the general level of business is what counts when we measure the prosperity of the country and must now be the basis of calculation. Production holds up well, but has not been allowed to run much ahead of consumption. Since inventories are not large, the wheels of industry must be kept moving so long as people want materials. Consumption demands are more likely to expand than contract. The building, automobile and oil industries are active. Our railroads are giving the most efficient service in their history and are just entering upon their period of heaviest traffic. They are in position to handle the increased traffic promised this fall. Net operating income of the year has run substantially ahead of that for corresponding months a year ago. The roads need only break even with last year for the remaining months to show more than a billion dollars net income for 1925.

Cotton Report Surprise.

"An outstanding event of the week, and one that took the country by surprise, was the Government's June forecast of cotton conditions. Everybody has expected a bumper cotton crop this year, estimates of the commodity covering a larger acreage than ever before. Now comes the Government report that dry weather has been more damaging than originally was thought. The enormous acreage will not make up for losses from drouth in Texas and Oklahoma, and the yield probably will not total more than 13,588,000 bales. Weather conditions since July 16, the date from which the official forecast is made, gives no hope for improvement. If the drouth continues and the boll weevil proves much of a menace, the present estimate may prove to have been too high. Cotton growers at least may reasonably expect good prices for the commodity this year, as, indeed, may most farmers for the leading agricultural crops.

Labor Problem Affects Sterling.

"Threats of a strike by 1,100,000 coal miners in Great Britain aggravated the industrial situation over there to such a point that the pound sterling for the first time since its stabilization this spring fell back to $4.85. Not since the restoration of the gold standard has the exchange displayed so uneasy a tone as it did this week."

Motors Feature Saturday.

"The two-hour session of trading on the Stock Exchange today developed several interesting movements, while indicating that sentiment in general remained predominantly bullish. Aside from a rather severe break in the Pan-American issues, which was an outstanding exception, the market as a whole displayed a confident tone, with the short interests being subjected to some rather rough handling in certain groups. The break in the Doheny stocks was due to reports, officially denied, that additional stock would be offered for sale. It was explained that these reports were probably based on the application made several days ago to list more stock, which represented shares given in exchange in the recent shifting of control. Spirited buying of the motors was the feature of the day, but demand continued for many of the specialties, particularly United Fruit, Coco Cola, American Radiator, Remington Typewriter and Dupont. Virtually all of these issues attained new record prices. The rails were quiet and little changed, while the main body of industrials was firm. Profit-taking was in evidence here and there but the closing out of short contracts created a demand sufficient to offset the effect of that selling.

Motors the Feature.

"The motors provided the outstanding movements of the day, with substantial advances the rule throughout the entire list, which moved up vigorously under the leadership of General Motors. The short position in this section of the list had been augmented considerably in recent weeks, speculators for the fall putting out new lines in the belief that the shares were a sale. As an outcome that element was found literally stepping on each other. It took only a small amount of buying to start a rather disorderly retreat in such shares as Maxwell Motors, Chrysler, Hupp Motors, Studebaker and others. White Motors also was in good demand and Mack Trucks, though more orderly than usual, was strong.

Sterling Firmer.

"With operators and labor having agreed to meet the middle of next week in London to reconsider the conditions, demand sterling was decidedly firmer in the local foreign exchange market this morning, moving at levels fractional above those of Friday. Other allied rates were virtually unchanged, with little or no business reported. Danish kroner, however, again advanced close to the record levels recently established.

New York Bank Statement.

"The actual statement of the member banks of the New York Clearing House showed surplus reserves increased $36,191,610 at $61,845,180, together with a decrease of $34,853,000 in loans, discounts, etc., and a decline of $27,896,000 in net demand deposits.

Cotton Is Strong.

"Cotton showed strength, under buying stimulated by firmer Liverpool cables and unfavorable weather reports. Shorts continued their covering operations, and demand from this source, together with export and commission house buying, lifted quotations 15 to 30 points all around. The South was selling, with local speculators reported busy on both sides of the market. Grains were slightly easier under profit-taking, with fractional losses the rule in wheat, corn and oats.

BELL TELEPHONE WON'T LET CITY SCAN ITS BOOKS

President Nims Asserts It Invited Municipality to Examine Them 15 Months Ago.

SAYS STATE HAD THEM TO INSPECT

Declares Examination Now Would Be Fruitless and Invalid as Data Could Not Be Used.

A request by the city for permission to examine the books of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. was refused yesterday by E. D. Nims, president of the company, who stated "there is no case pending in which the data sought could be fairly or lawfully used."

The city appropriated $2000 to employ an accountant for an inspection of the company's books, to seek evidence against the application of the company for an increase in rates which would add $894,000 annually to its revenue from its business telephone. The Missouri Public Service Commission granted the application, but the city has asked for a writ of certiorari in Circuit Court to compel the commission to reopen the case and rehear the evidence.

In a letter Monday, Director of Public Utilities Wall advised Nims that J. M. McShane had been employed as accountant and continued:

"I am asking that you kindly permit Mr. McShane to have free access to the company's books and records, and that he be permitted to compile such data therefrom and make such investigation as will enable the city to satisfy itself as to the reasonableness of the rates now in force."

Had a Previous Chance.

In his reply yesterday, Nims pointed out that the company's rate attorney, on April 21, 1924, more than 15 months ago, invited the city to make such an examination. The invitation was not accepted and after the company filed a supplemental petition with the Public Service Commission in November, 1924, the invitation was several times repeated, Nims added.

"For four months, beginning in January, 1925, a force of auditors from the office of the Public Service Commission was engaged in such an audit. The city did not then directly participate in this investigation, but choose evidently to leave the matter to the Public Service Commission, the authorized representative of the public.

"After the books and records had been examined by the Public Service Commission, and after the city had received a copy of the report, it did not make an investigation of its own but was content to cross-examine the auditors who had investigated the books. The case was argued, briefed, submitted and decided in June last.

"Our application for an increase of rates had really been pending since 1922, when we asked for rates in the original Kinloch consolidation petition. During all this time our books were open to the city. I recite these things because most of them occurred before you became Director of Public Utilities.

An examination at this time will have no bearing on a rehearing, if granted, as the statute provides that no new evidence may be introduced, Nims asserts, and continues:

"There is, therefore, no case pending in which the data sought could be fairly or lawfully used. Moreover the investigation by the commission did not close until late in April this year, the decision being rendered in June, and there have been no changes in operating conditions since those dates. We have as yet no experience under the new rates. Your auditors could only go over matters which have already been investigated and decided. Every investigation is an expense and inconvenience to us because the aid required of our employes impedes and delays their regular work.

"While the regulatory power lies entirely with the Public Service Commission and it is the lawful representative of our subscribers at all times, still when the rates have had a fair trial, when enough time has elapsed to render possible a change in conditions, we will be glad, in any proper proceedings, to again afford the city the opportunity to ascertain for itself the facts from our books."

Senti Terms Refusal Arbitrary.

Associate City Counselor Ferris, who represents the city in the rate case, said the city desires to make an inspection of the company's books as the audit by the Public Service Commission covered only three months, September, October and November, 1924, although 10 months were available up to the time the hearing began. Even in such a short audit, Ferris said, data disclosed resulted in the commission trimming $1,000,000 from property valuations and $300,000 annually from expenses.

City Counselor Senti said the company should not be permitted arbitrarily to deny the city access to its books merely because it is to its interests to do so. An audit by the city is justified, he said, as the three months on which the commission increased rates for 13 months, beginning last July 1, was abnormal in that the telephone merger made expenses unusually high and revenues unusually low.

L. S. PARKER, CAPITALIST, DIES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 25.—Lester S. Parker, 65 years old, Jefferson City capitalist, died this afternoon at Rochester, Minn., where he underwent an operation recently for an ulcer of the stomach. Parker formerly was superintendent of the Industrial Department of the State Penitentiary, and for several years owned and operated a shoe factory in the prison when the old contract system was in use. For several years he has been president of the local telephone company and was interested in several other business enterprises here and at Cape Girardeau. His widow and five children survive.

Parker took an active interest in the art decorations of State Capitol, and was a of an advisory committee sisted the capitol decoration mission.

SIR PETER, WELL PLAYED, RUNS FOURTH

Winner's Performance Best of Any 1925 Derby Victor—King Nadi Finishes Second, Caractus Third.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CONEY ISLAND TRACK, Cincinnati, O., July 25.—Silver Fox, running the finest derby of 1925 won the Cincinnati Derby here this afternoon in 2:02 1-5. In capturing the classic which was worth $20,900, Silver Fox had to step faster than King Nadi, Caractus, Sir Peter and four others. About 25,000 persons witnessed the race.

The winner by Grey Fox II out of Mary, Queen of Scots, established himself as one of the greatest of the 3-year-olds and his victory makes him eligible to a match race with American Flag, which holds the strongest claim to the championship.

The winner paid $7.20 for a $2 ticket.

King Nadi, running a gallant race every inch of the way, moved up resolutely after the horses had gone three quarters of a mile but he was not able to meet the test and faltered under a severe whipping in the last quarter when Silver Fox crossed the line by two open lengths. Back of King Nadi, just an even four lengths, came Caractus and a half length back of him came Sir Peter a "good thing" which ran a race disappointing to his many backers.

The winner, better known as the Grey Ghost from the East, scored in his intersectional battle against the West aided by a brilliant ride on the part of L. Fator, who rode a perfect race from the barrier to the wire and he was given a big round of applause by those who backed him in the classic.

Beats Old Rosebud's Time.

The time was not the fastest shown in this locality during the recent racing period, although it defeated the best time for the Kentucky Derby, made by Old Rosebud, with a mark of 2:03 3-5. Sarazen, in winning the International at Latonia, ran the mile and a quarter in 2:00 4-5.

Caractus was first to show in front, followed closely by King Nadi, Sir Peter, Silver Fox and the others strung out. Passing the stand, the winner assumed the lead by half a length. Caractus was a head in front of King Nadi and Sir Peter fourth. At the half Fator was down to rating at this stage and was two full lengths in front of Caractus with King Nadi a half length behind, followed by Sir Peter and the others behind in ragged fashion.

On the far turn, Stutts applied the whip and his colt gamely responded; but here Fator let out some wraps and Silver Fox held his advantage of two lengths.

Caractus was beginning to tire, as was Sir Peter, as the horses swung into the stretch with Silver Fox two lengths in the lead. King Nadi was three lengths in front of Caractus. Sir Peter was done, but was just good enough to hold his advanage over the others.

Silver Fox's win was in handy fashion, as he had plenty left at the end of the mile and a quarter journey and when he returned to the stands was not even breathing heavily, which shows what a great performer the East has in this great three-year-old colt.

JACK MACKIE WINS NEW YORK AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

By the Associated Press.

LONG BEACH, N. Y., July 25.—Jack Mackie Jr. of the Inwood Country Club, Long Island, today captured the New York State amateur golf championship by defeating Steve Gehegan of Huntington, L. I., 7—6, in the final 36-hole match over the Lido links.

Despite a driving rainstorm that swept the course during the afternoon half of the match, Mackie lost none of the effectiveness that gave him a lead of three holes at the end of the first 18 holes.

Gehgan rallied on the first nine holes of the afternoon round, making remarkable recoveries to win the seventh and eighth holes and reduce Mackie's lead to 5 up at the turn. It was his last spurt, however, for the young son of the Inwood professional quickly increased his margin and ended the match on the thirtieth green.

BROWN BROTHERS WILL PLAY AT DES MOINES; NORTON ALSO ENTERS

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 25.—Wray Brown of St. Louis, present holder of the singles title in the Missouri Valley Tennis Association, will be here to defend his laurels when the twenty-fifth annual tournament opens Monday morning.

He and his brother, Woodward, will defend their title as doubles champions, also. Lottie Fuller of Fort Leavenworth, Kan., holder of the women's singles title, has sent in her entry and it is expected that she and Ruth Rager will defend their doubles title.

Brian I. C. Norton of St. Louis, ranked as number eight among the tennis players of the country, was a last minute entry.

FRANCIS OUIMET IS MASSACHUSETTS GOLF KING FOR 6TH TIME

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 25.—Francis Ouimet of Woodland became amateur golf champion of Massachusetts today for the sixth time by defeating Winthrop Hersey of Wellesley, 4 up and 3 to play, in the 36-hole final of the championship tournament.

Will Represent St. Louis in U. S. Junior Championships

CHARLES Sigoloff, district doubles champion with Joe Smith and runner up in the district singles. He will compete in singles and doubles at Chicago, Aug. 10.

Stephens Sets New Record in Winning Dash

Swims 100 Yards in 57 4-10 Seconds in W. A. A. U. Meet.

Swimming faster than ever before in competition, Francis Stephens, fastest dash man in the St. Louis district, broke the Western A. A. U. record in winning the 100-yard free style event in the Western District A. A. U. championship meet at Forest Park Highlands pool last night.

Stephens found excellent competition in Harold Groh of the Knights of Columbus team and Al Fuldge of the Municipal Athletic Association, who finished second and third respectively. The time was 57 4-10 seconds, just 8-10 of a second better than the old record of 58 2-10 seconds.

A crowd of over 1000 persons lined the sides of the tank to view the races and diving events for men and women.

One of the most thrilling finishes of the event was provided in the 220-yard breast stroke for men. Harry Barringer, representing the Forest Park pool, won the event in 3 minutes and 23 4-10 seconds, closely followed by Jerry Specht of the New Coliseum and Ed Prinz of the Municipal A. A.

Stephens, Groh and Fuldge finished one, two, three in the 50-yard free-style event, in which the time was 26 4-10 seconds.

New Diving Champion.

Tom Callahan, local diving champion, was not in the best of condition and a new champion was crowned. Welda Meyers, of Forest Park Highlands, finished first in this event, with Ray Woods, a teammate, second. Dick Rawdon of the New Coliseum, was third.

Anne Farrell was the individual star of the woman's branch of the competition. She won the 50-yard free style and finished second to Lucille Spellman in the 100-yard event. Arvella Ressler was third in the 100 and second in the 50. Grace Stewart finished first in the 50-yard back-stroke.

Maybelle LeClerq, of the New Coliseum team, won the fancy diving championship. Her teammate, Matilda Sakowski, was second.

The summaries:

MEN'S EVENTS.

100-YARD FREE STYLE—Francis Stephens, North Side Y. M. C. A., first; Harild Groh, K. of C., second; Al Fuidge, M. A. A., third. Time—57 4-10 seconds. New A. A. U. record.

Sigoloff, Smith and Bascom to Be Sent to National Tourney

St. Louis Youths Will Compete for U. S. Junior Tennis Championship at Chicago Aug. 10—All Three Hold Titles in Mound City District Events.

Joe Smith, district junior singles champion; Charles Sigoloff, district doubles champion with Smith, and William Bascom, district boys champion, will be sent to Chicago to compete in the national junor and boys' championships scheduled to be played there August 10, it was announced by officials of the St. Louis District Tennis Association, yesterday.

It is possible that other players will be added to the list to represent this city at Chicago, but they have not yet been selected.

Smith and Sigoloff are at the top of their game, right now, as both showed fine form in the recent district championships. Sigoloff lost to Smith in the junior singles final, only after a desperately fought extra-set match. The boys are evenly matched.

They paired in the doubles and walked away with the district title. They should prove a formidable combination at Chicago.

Bascom is the best young tennis prospect in the city, as his victory

Brooklyn Sells High to Braves

Robins Also Announce Purchase Elliott and Ellenberger, Pitchers.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 25. — The Brooklyn National League baseball club today announced the sale of Infielder Andy High to the Boston Braves for the waiver price and a pitcher to be delivered later in the season.

High, obtained by Brooklyn from the Memphis club of the Southern Association in 1921, played both second and third base regularly for the Robins in 1923 and 1924. He enjoyed his best season last year, batting .328 in 144 games and fielding .964. In the previous season he hit .269 in 123 games and fielded .969.

Two purchases were announced by the Robins coincident with the sale of the infielder. Jim Elliott, a left-hand pitcher, has been acquired from the Terre Haute club of the Three-Eye League for $10,000, while Lee Ellenberger, a right-hand hurler, has been bought from the Hanover club of the Blue Ridge League. The latter reported today, but possession of Elliott will not be obtained until the end of the season. Elliott formerly was a member of the St. Louis Browns.

MISS COLLETT WINS IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

By the Associated Press.

NEW LONDON, July 25. -- Miss Glenna Collette of the Matacomet Club just returned from her European trip, where she won the women's championship of France, playing today with G. W. Carroll Jr., won the gross score first prize with 77 in the eighth annual mixed two-ball foursomes over the Shenecossett course. The event was the opener for the seventh annual women's invitation tournament which begins Monday and in which already there are 245 entrants, the largest number for a women's golf event in this country.

SWANLUND ILLINOIS BILLIARD CHAMPION

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 25.—A. C. Swanlund of Chicago became State three-cushion champion of Illinois today by the retirement of L. C. Hine, former State champion, who declined to defend his title. The new champion has been challenged by William Jesperson, whom he will play on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, next week.

SPEAKER'S MEN MAKE 18 SAFETIES AND PUT TOTAL OF 27 RUNNERS ON BASES

Quartet of Lefthanders in Box for Visitors — Robertson Makes Home Run — Lee Hits Four Straight Times at Bat.

By Herman Wecke.

In a game of baseball, featured by a parade of pitchers, the Indians of Cleveland defeated the Browns, 12 to 7. Each side used four flingers. For the Indians it was just one lefthander after another—Buckeye, Cole, Edwards and Miller seeing duty. Only the last named looked the part of a hurler. The others were throwers.

For the Browns, Danforth, Wingard, Vangilder and Gaston were on the hill. All were ineffective.

With Detroit losing, the defeat left the Browns in a tie for fourth place, a game and a half behind the Chicago White Sox.

Cleveland had plenty of men on the bases. In all, 27 of Speaker's men got to first, an average of three an inning. Against this the Browns had 18, or two a round. So, on this score alone, the Tribe deserved victory. The Indians had 18 safeties while the Browns connected for ten.

It was not a thrilling ball game. There were few great plays. It was just one of those things that happen in the national pastime. For the Tribe it was men on the sacks in every inning while the Browns were retired in order in three of the nine sessions.

Danforth Takes the Count.

The Tribe broke through Danforth's pitching for two tallies in the second. Joe Sewell picked on the first offering and crashed a single to center. Burns' smash just inside the first base line went for a double. Sewell counted while McManus was tossing out Fewster, and Burns counted on Lutzke's sacrifice fly to Rice.

Danforth came back with a great exhibition of pinch hurling in the third. Jamieson walked and Lee and Speaker singled to pack the corners with none out. Then Dauntless Dave put on the brakes. Joe Sewell sent a short fly to Williams, Burns popped to Lamotte and Fewster flied to Rice to end the round without a run. He was given a round of applause from the 7500 persons present.

Homer for Robertson.

And then it was Buckeye's turn. After Robertson hit into the right field bleachers for his eleventh homer of the year, Danforth singled and Rice walked. Lamotte tapped to Burns, Sisler struck out and Williams sent one a mile high to Lee.

The fourth saw the end of Danforth. Lutzke and L. Sewell walked. They advanced on Buckeye's infield out. Jamieson flied to Williams and Lutzke scored. Lee's third hit, a triple, counted L. Sewell. Wingard replaced Danforth. Speaker greeted Wingard with a single and Lee ran home with the enemy's third tally of the round.

In the local half, McManus and Jacobson singled, the second sacker reaching third. Marty scored on Hargrave's fly to Speaker. Robertson followed with a single, sending Jake to third, and Bert Cole replaced Buckeye. Wingard forced Robertson, while Jacobson tallied. Rice followed with a cheap infield hit. But Lamotte flied out.

Lee Stars With Four Hits.

Lee's double, his fourth successive safety, a wild pitch and Joe Sewell's ace raised the Indians' total to six in the sixth.

Wingard was shelled from the hill in the seventh. Fewster singled and advanced on Lutzke's martyr death. L. Sewell started a roller toward short and when Lamotte fell a couple of times chasing the grounder, it went for a hit and Fewster scored. Cole singled and Jamieson walked to fill the bases and Vangilder replaced Wingard.

McNulty, batting for Lee, was out on a high bounder to Vangilder and L. Sewell counted.

After Rice and Lamotte had walked in the seventh and Cole had pitched two wide ones to Sisler, Edwards replaced Cole.

BROWNIE NOTES

This Garland Buckeye of the Indians is a former college star. He is a graduate of Wabash College. Last fall he played guard for the Chicago Cardinals, a professional football eleven. He weighs 250 pounds and is the biggest man in baseball.

Manager Sisler's first inning single almost took Buckeye's shoestrings along into center field.

Tris Speaker got one of the longest singles in history. In the third with two on he crashed one against the right field fence. Jamieson and Lee, fearing the ball would be caught, stuck close to their bases. That's why the Indian leader was held to one base.

Ken Williams tried to score from second when Joe Sewell tossed out Jacobson in the fifth. Burns' throw beat him despite a great slide. Kenny started to kick to Umpire McGowan, but soon settled down and went to his position in left field.

Jamieson tried a swinging bunt in the sixth and was out on a close play, Wingard to Sisler.

Lee had made four straight hits, but that did not prevent Tris Speaker from yanking him in favor of McNulty when Vangilder went to Wingard's rescue in the seventh.

Jamieson went to the left field fence to rob Jacobson of an extra base hit during the seventh inning rally.

The Browns have now won 17 games and lost eight on the home stand.

MAILS HOLDS PIRATES TO THREE HITS, CARDINALS WIN, 7-2

Pittsburg Lucky to Score Off "Duster"; Hornsby Gets Homer

Manager Drives In Enough Runs to Win From "Babe" Adams—Cardinals at Cincinnati Today and Tomorrow.

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 25.—Those pennant-hitting Pirates of Bill McKechnie, reputed to be poison to all left-handers, lost all their power this afternoon in the face of Walter Mails' southpaw slants and lost ground in the flag race by dropping the third game of the series to the St. Louis Cardinals, who for the first time since their arrival in Pittsburg batted like the team renowned as fence busters.

Only three safeties were plucked off the offerings of the Cardinal southpaw and one of them was a feeble little roller in front of the plate which was trying to roll foul when Catcher Bob O'Farrell of the Cards pounced upon it and mussed it up so that he had no time to make a play at first base.

While Mails was mastering the league leaders all the way, Hornsby and his men were pounding the veteran Babe Adams and Tom Sheehan for 12 safeties and seven runs, to win, 7 to 2.

It was the tenth victory of the trip for the Cards, who have dropped 13 games since leaving St. Louis, July 2.

As a result of the victory the Cards still have a chance to break even on the trip, but to do that they must take the three games in Cincinnati tomorrow and Monday. A double-header is scheduled Monday.

Pirates Lucky to Score.

The victory this afternoon should have been the fourth in succession for Mails, who suddenly has become the best pitcher of the Cardinal staff. He beat the Braves, humbled the Giants with four hits and then richly deserved to triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers even if "Dazzy" Vance did strike out 17 men in 10 innings.

The Pirates were lucky to score off Mails. In the first inning he turned back three in a row and in the second, after Traynor doubled with one out, Mails turned back Wright and McInnis. In the third only three Pirates batted.

Then came the fourth, when the Cardinals did their daily stunt of donating. Moore opened with a fly to Shinners and then Cuyler topped a ball. The leather was rolling toward the foul line near the plate, when O'Farrell reached it. In his eagerness to field the ball he fumbled and Cuyler reached first. After Barnhart flied to Smith, Cuyler stole second and then third as Traynor walked. The double steal then worked, Cuyler scoring and Traynor reaching second, and on Hornsby's poor return to the plate Traynor continued to third and scored easily when Wright doubled to right center.

Shinners' single and Hornsby's home run over the right center field fence gave the Cards two in the first inning and they put the game on ice in the seventh. Bell lined to Cuyler to start the inning and then Bob O'Farrell smashed a double to left center. Mails struck out and the break of the game came when Adams, after having two strikes and no balls on Smith, pitched three straight balls. Smith then cracked the "cripple" to left for two bases, scoring O'Farrell. Shinners walked and Hornsby scored Smith and Shinners with a double against the left field fence. Bottomley scratched a single past McInnis, scoring Hornsby.

Bottomley Hits in Pinch.

Adams retired for a pinch hitter in the next inning and the Cards scored a run off Tom Sheehan in the ninth inning on Smith's bunt single, Shinners' sacrifice and Bottomley's single to center.

Mails improved as the game progressed. The Pirates connected solidly with his offerings and the outfielders were kept busy, but most of their chances were not difficult. Fifteen of the Cardinals' 27 putouts were on outfield flies. Mails struck out four men and gave only three bases on balls. In the eighth and ninth innings with the stands begging for base hits and the Pirates worried by the scoreboard which showed the Giants beating the Braves, Mails retired six Pirates in a row, starting with the lead-off man, Max Carey.

Giants Defeat Braves, 7 to 6

Gain Even Break in Four-Game Series With Boston Club.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, July 25.—The Giants got an even split in their four-game series with the Braves by taking the final game by a score of 7 to 6.

Joe Genewich, who started for the Braves, was knocked out of the box in the first inning when New York scored three runs, Bill Ryan replacing him. The Giants scored a run off Ryan in the third and two in the sixth. He gave way to a pinch hitter and Jess Barnes pitched the seventh and eighth. Bill Vargus pitched the ninth for Boston after Marriott batted for Barnes.

The Braves hit Virgil Barnes hard but he received great support.

Sigoloff and Smith are both in the Municipal championship, which was to have begun yesterday, but which will be attempted this afternoon, if court conditions are o k. The first and second rounds of singles will be played starting at noon, on the Jefferson Memorial courts. Some doubles matches may also be played. Smith and Ted Drewes are favored to meet in the final, they being in opposite brackets. Sigoloff was drawn in the same bracket with Champion Drewes, and it is not thought he will be up to defeating the veteran title holder.

The winner of the tourney will go to Baltimore to compete in the National Municipal championships.

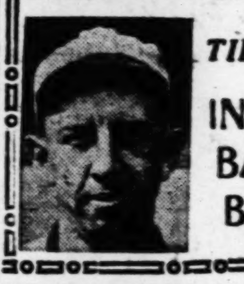
Municipal Net Title Tournament to Open At Forest Park Today

THE scheduled opening of the Municipal tennis championships, postponed yesterday after rain had dampened the courts, will take place at noon today, weather and court conditions permitting.

Officials announced that the first and second round singles contests, to be played at the Jefferson Memorial courts, must be completed today.

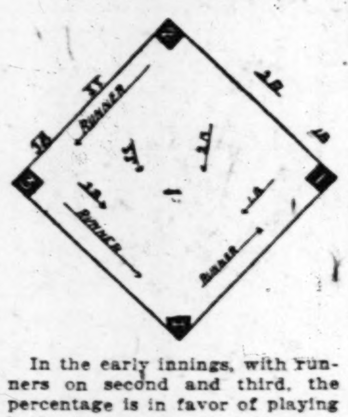
Some doubles matches may also be contested.

Eddie Collins TIPS ON INSIDE BASE-BALL



A MUCH debated question in baseball is when should the infield play in close and when should it move back. The judgment of the manager determines the policy to be pursued and it is well known that all managers do not think along the same lines. Here is a system that is generally followed:

Diagram of Play.



In the early innings, with runners on second and third, the percentage is in favor of playing back; in a sense, conceding one run. It is much easier to hit through the infield when it is in close. This would mean two runs.

In the late innings, with runners on second and third, the score a tie or the team in the field leading by one run, the situation calls for the infield to play in close, gambling to cut the run down at the plate and thereby maintain the tie or hold the one-run advantage.

In the late innings, with the team in the field leading by two or more runs and runners on second and third, it is best for the infield to play back, lessening the chances for the ball to be hit through, which would score both runs.

In such a situation it is best to concede a run by playing back, hoping to hold the margin of advantage.

Major league managers do not follow any set rules relative to positioning the infield. Usually the infielders are merely stationed to conform with the manager's judgment. In the same situation one manager might decide to gamble, while another would prefer to play it safe.

BOHNE'S HOME-RUN GIVES REDS EVEN BREAK WITH CUBS

Special to the Post-Dispatch

CHICAGO, July 25.—Chicago and Cincinnati split even in a double-header today, the Reds taking the first in 11 innings, 3 to 2, while the Cubs romped in with the second, 8 to 1.

A homer by Bohne in the eleventh won the first game. The feature of the second contest was the pitching of Grover Alexander, who held the Reds to three hits. Not a blow was made off him until the seventh inning.

In the second game Hartnett hit his twenty-second homer of the season, making it off Benton in the second inning.

PITCHERS FAIL AND BROWNS LOSE TO CLEVELAND, 12 TO 7

Sisler walked to pack the corners. Williams' single scored two, while McManus' ace sent over another. Jacobson and Hargrave went out, but Robertson singled Williams across with the fourth run of the round and Sisler's men were but one length behind.

The Final Parade.

The Indians opened a final parade in the ninth. Myatt singled, but Miller struck out. Then Jamieson and McNulty singled, scoring Myatt. Speaker and J. Sewell walked, forcing in Jamieson, and Gaston replaced Vangilder. Burns greeted Gaston with a hit and two more runs went over. That was all.

The Browns will close their at-home stand today, with the Indians as opponents. Bush and Karr are the probable pitchers.

The two Cleveland victories in the present set represent the only series loss for the Browns since they returned here June 29.

WRAY'S COLUMN

JACK DEMPSEY is running the Sphinx a dead heat for mystery, if not for silence. For example:

"I expect to go into training in about one week," Jack is quoted as saying, "and will be in good shape in five or six weeks."

On the other hand, Tex Rickard has just finished telling the New York commission that Jack will appear in person before the commission Aug. 4, which is one week from Tuesday.

If Jack begins training next Saturday in Los Angeles, he could not reach New York in time to keep his date. Which leaves one of three conclusions open to the public:

That Jack has no intention of going into training on the date he mentioned.

That he has no intention of appearing before the commission.

That he has no intention of fighting Harry Wills.

For, if he does train, he can't explain to the commission; and if he can't explain to the commission, he can't fight Wills—or anyone else in Father Knickerbocker's realm.

Jack's words and his deeds have been so at variance, during the last two years and since he acquired that beautye shoppe nose, that only a Philadelphia lawyer aided by Father Time could untangle Jack's real intentions.

We Hope He Wakes Up.

WE hope Dempsey snaps out of it and returns to a vocation that really suits him—fighting. In justice to himself and to posterity Jack ought not to let slip his obvious chance to make himself the outstanding pugilistic figure of all time by cleaning Misto Wills, Gene Tunney, Harry Greb and any other who now holds forth as challenger.

It is to be hoped he will keep his alleged promise to meet Harry Greb Sept. 19.

Dempsey is the most spectacular fighter and the best finisher of all time. Given three months of training and two fights, and Wills, plus all the small fry, will find Dempsey a real champion. The big black may tie up Dempsey's hands for many rounds; but if Jack is right he will get one of those short thunderbolts through the negro's guard and soften him up for a finish. Wills has never shown in his record, ability to finish a resolute foe. He is too cautious in the face of danger to take a chance.

Good, Not Great.

AS for Tunney, of whom they talk, this nice young fellow is not at heart a fighter. We miss our guess if he attains title class. Not an unusual puncher, he is just ordinary in skill, lacking in fighting aggressiveness and comparatively deliberate and slow. There is nothing of the sword-fish about this A. E. F. graduate, although he does not lack resolution.

Good, but not great; let's him out.

Bill Had 'Done No Wrong.'

AS far as the amateur rule is concerned, Champion Bill Tilden insists he has done no wrong.

Of course, the "king can do no wrong"; so Bill must be right.

For our part, we believe that while William may have violated the spirit of the amateur rule in his "interviews," his stories and sidelights on his own play and the playing of other tennis stars whom he encounters, are of such keen interest and of such an instructive nature, at times, that it would be a pity to bear down heavily on him with legislation of dubious value.

Disaster, at least to tennis followers, looms in either direction. For, if Bill is professionalized by writing, the Davis cup team will lose his services. If he is allowed to play, but is forced to cease writing, then the reading public is the loser.

If the rule against capitalizing one's amateur reputation, which has been applied to Tilden in tennis is sound, why has a similar one been tolerated in golf, where Evans, Ouimet, Guilford and others for years have derived considerable returns from golf writing.

What's sauce for the goose ought to be sauce for the gander.

Hot Off the Bat.

C. MELVIN SHARPE of Washington, once a great football player of all-America note, now a prosperous professional man in Washington, has written a letter to Secretary Willis Johnson of the Browns, in which he congratulates the team and Sisler on obtaining Catcher Hargrave.

Sharpe comments, in substance, that under Clark Griffith, Hargrave had not been able to get anywhere, but under Sisler has become a turn-around hitter who is making a record swinging from the south side of the plate.

Griff complained that Hargrave never tried batting left-handed for him. But perhaps Griff never encouraged him.

Some credit is coming to Sisler for Hargrave's good work since coming here.

Does It Mean Anything?

WALTER JOHNSON has bought a home and some acreage around near Washington, indicating his probable permanency in that region. Heretofore Johnson has always trekked for the wild and wooly at the close of each season. His purchase has therefore been construed to mean that Johnson is to be manager of the Washington team.

That hardly fits in. If "Bucky" Harris finishes first or second with this team again you can't blast him out of his Washington berth with T. N. T. The fans wouldn't have it.

Excelsior.

NOT the packing case kind, Bo, but the sort that put the spark in the "youth who bore mid snow and ice the banner with the strange device."

That "Excelsior" is now Washington University's slogan, athletically.

Washington is making a stir, even in midsummer, for improvement in its athletic good name.

A field house seating 8000 is virtually assured and will be ready for use Jan. 1.

That's only one of several big advances now under way at the Pikeway institution, which has taken on new life since Chancellor Hadley took charge.

Within two or three there will be a real football at the Pikeway. When it arr and with it a demand for seating capacity, a stadium been promised. Friends of university, it is said by enthusiasts, have promised build a stadium and are ready back it with cash.

That "listens different" the usual pessimistic has grown accustomed to.

Match Develops Into Backhand Du and Kinsey Within Two Points of Over Tilden.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SKOKIE COUNTRY CLUB, Glencoe, Ill., July 25 hich all tennis enthusiasts and even casual devotees ward with a quickened pulse awaits the spectator rts tomorrow afternoon when those famous rulers of illiam T. Tilden and William F. Johnston meet in ois State championships.

"Big Bill" Tilden today electri a large gallery by snatching a mifinal victory from Howard sey's grasp after Kinsey had e within 2 points of a triumph.

"Little Bill" Johnston, who was g of all tennis players in the rld before Tilden came along, e years ago, won a straight set tory over Wray Brown of St. uis in the other semifinal. Both tests developed into wonderful ibitions of tennis skill and wn, although decisively defeat by his 123-pound opponent, was ty enough to bring out all that good in Johnston.

Tilden won by scores of 6—3, 5, 2—6, 3—6, 8—6.

Johnston defeated Brown by res of 7—5, 6—0, 7—5.

William Johnston and Clarence ffin of San Francisco, former tional doubles champions, won Illinois State tennis doubles by defeating Tilden and A. L. ner of Philadelphia in three y sets, 6—4, 6—3, 6—4. Little l was hitting hard and accu tely, making few errors, while den plainly showed the effects his hard five-set battle against sey.

Brown Proves a Sensation.

Brown's string of victories in the ois State tournament makes the Mound City youth the sensa n of the week of tournament y, in which eight of the first king stars of the nation took t. Wray swept his way through llace Johnson of Philadelphia not being satisfied with one up proceeded to blast young George of Chicago off the court.

But today it was little Bill's turn do the blasting. Using his de ing forehand drive and deadly game he forced the play to own, and despite some heady by the Mound City lad, ked for wide opening down the lines, slipping over his drive placement after placement.

Brown used a smart mixture of s and drives, going to the net futile efforts to stop the crush game of the Californian. But n's best was no match for Johnston today, and the re was never in doubt.

Tied at Five Games Each.

Brown commenced serving and le Bill took a love game. ston's power was evident, gh the Coast star was erring quently. He ran into a 3—1 By dint of a sharp attack the net, Brown evened the at 3—3. Johnston took the two games, but again Brown's tegy asserted itself and the was tied at 5—5.

Johnston took the match in hand this point and took Brown's vice, losing but one point. wn rallied, winning three s off Johnston's service, but Bill took five straight s, three of them on place s, to win the opening set.

was a powerful, masterful ston who triumphed in the d set. Lightning drives to the ers, and deadly volleying from net left Brown flat-footed time time and six games for the d set went to the Californian as they could be chalked Johnston looked like the John of old, when he was master the net world.

Brown was not through. Mound City lad rallied in the set, chopping steadily and g Johnston out of position ently. Little Bill was too however. His speed was g and his strategy on the was faultless. Only once in last set did Brown really ten. The score was run to and Brown took his serve to 4—3. Johnston won his serve the score at 4—4.

A Backhand Duel.

ston took Brown's service long rallies and then led with his own service ahead. Bill shot a backhand drive t down the side line with at the net, as clean a pass as he could make. Brown one, and knocked one out. 40-0, match point. John knocked one out, netted one, netted another, bringing the to deuce. He lost two more, game going to Brown, at 5—5, crowd shouting its ap for the stand which the City boy was staging Little Bill, who was really today.

the strain was too much and dropped two games, the and ticket to the final round to Johnston, 7—5. The last was a backhand to back duel, Brown finally popping out of the court in trying sharply angled placement. the end of a brilliantly fought match, wit a splendid showi odds.

Red Sox Blow Up.

The winning run tabbed by the Macks in the tenth was a bit shady for after Miller singled to center, Wingfield threw into empty space at second after fielding Simmons' fast bunt because Wamby tumbled to the turf on the way to cover second. This was an important break, for Bing reached third.

Bishop's grounder to Wamby could not release Miller home and the bases were filled when Dykes was passed purposely.

This fetched Galloway to the bat with the bases full and one out. Chick hit a wormy, squirmy grounder to Wingfield, who in his anxiety to throw home, slipped in the soft going, and rolled over. He never was able to make a play at all and Miller streaked home with the winning run and Galloway galloped to first as he still lay flat on the ground.

The Red Sox made only four hits off the Athletic pitchers, but they profited by nine passes. The Macks had 11 safe swats, Galloway leading with three. Miller and Simmons had two each.

The victory helped the As immensely in their pennant fight and they now have a record of winning 12 out of their last 14 games. The result today assured them the honors of the series over Boston and they will try to make a clean-up tomorrow afternoon with Jack Quinn on the knoll.

WELLS, INSTRUCTOR AT MICHIGAN, WINS THIRD STATE GOLF TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

SAGINAW, Mich., July 25.—Carlton F. Wells, University of Michigan instructor, today was crowned for the third time as amateur golf champion of Michigan, defeating Dave Ward, 17-year-old Big Rapids high school boy, 3 and 2, in the 36-hole final match. It was the eighteenth renewal of the Michigan State Golf League tournament over the Saginaw Country Club course.

lor Hadley took charge.

Within two or three seasons there will be a real football team at the Pikeway. When it arrives, and with it a demand for new seating capacity, a stadium has been promised. Friends of the university, it is said by graduate enthusiasts, have promised to build a stadium and are ready to back it with cash.

That "listens different" from the usual pessimistic patter one has grown accustomed to.

JOHNSTON DEFEATS BROWN, MEETS TILDEN IN FINAL

St. Louis Boy Gives "Little Bill" Great Battle in Semifinal

Match Develops Into Backhand Duel — Howard Kinsey Within Two Points of Victory Over Tilden.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SKOKIE COUNTRY CLUB, Glencoe, Ill., July 25.—The treat for which all tennis enthusiasts and even casual devotees of the game look forward with a quickened pulse awaits the spectators at the Skokie courts tomorrow afternoon when those famous rulers of the tennis world, William T. Tilden and William F. Johnston meet in the final of the Illinois State championships.

"Big Bill" Tilden today electrified a large gallery by snatching a semifinal victory from Howard Kinsey's grasp after Kinsey had come within 2 points of a triumph.

"Little Bill" Johnston, who was king of all tennis players in the world before Tilden came along, [illegible] years ago, won a straight set victory over Wray Brown of St. Louis in the other semifinal. Both contests developed into wonderful exhibitions of tennis skill and Brown, although decisively defeated by his 123-pound opponent, was [illegible] enough to bring out all that is good in Johnston.

Tilden won by scores of 6—3, —4, 2—6, 3—6, 8—6.

Johnston defeated Brown by scores of 7—5, 6—0, 7—5.

William Johnston and Clarence Griffin of San Francisco, former national doubles champions, won the Illinois State tennis doubles title by defeating Tilden and A. L. Wiener of Philadelphia in three easy sets, 6—4, 6—3, 6—4. Little Bill was hitting hard and accurately, making few errors, while Tilden plainly showed the effects of his hard five-set battle against Kinsey.

Brown Proves a Sensation.

Brown's string of victories in the Illinois State tournament makes the [illegible] Mound City youth the sensation of the week of tournament play, in which eight of the first ranking stars of the nation took part. Wray swept his way through Wallace Johnson of Philadelphia and not being satisfied with one upset proceeded to blast young George Lott of Chicago off the court.

But today it was little Bill's turn to do the blasting. Using his devastating forehand drive and deadly net game he forced the play to Brown, and despite some heady [illegible] by the Mound City lad, worked for wide opening down the side lines, slipping over his drive for placement after placement.

Brown used a smart mixture of lobs and drives, going to the net in futile efforts to stop the crushing game of the Californian. But Brown's best was no match for Johnston today, and the result was never in doubt.

Tied at Five Games Each.

Brown commenced serving and Little Bill took a love game. Johnston's power was evident, though the Coast star was erring frequently. He ran into a 3—1 lead. By dint of a sharp attack at the net, Brown evened the count at 3—3. Johnston took the next two games, but again Brown's strategy asserted itself and the set was tied at 5—5.

Johnston took the match in hand at this point and took Brown's service, losing but one point. Brown rallied, winning three points off Johnston's service, but Little Bill took five straight points, three of them on placements, to win the opening set, —5.

It was a powerful, masterful Johnston who triumphed in the second set. Lightning drives to the corners, and deadly volleying from the net left Brown flat-footed time after time and six games for the second set went to the Californian as fast as they could be chalked up. Johnston looked like the Johnston of old, when he was master of the net world.

But Brown was not through. The Mound City lad rallied in the last set, chopping steadily and keeping Johnston out of position frequently. Little Bill was too good, however. His speed was telling and his strategy on the court was faultless. Only once in the last set did Brown really threaten. The score was run to [illegible], and Brown took his serve to 4—3. Johnston won his serve to even the score at 4—4.

A Backhand Duel.

Johnston took Brown's service in long rallies and then led with his own service ahead. Little Bill shot a backhand drive right down the side line with Brown at the net, as clean a passing shot as he could make. Brown won one, and knocked one out. It was 40-0, match point. Johnston knocked one out, netted one, netted another, bringing the score to deuce. He lost two more, the game going to Brown, at 5—5, with the crowd shouting its approval for the stand which the Mound City boy was staging against Little Bill, who was really great today.

But the strain was too much and Brown dropped two games, the set and ticket to the final round going to Johnston, 7—5. The last game was a backhand to backhand duel, Brown finally popping the ball out of the court in trying a sharply angled placement.

It was the end of a brilliantly fought match, with Brown making a splendid showing against great odds.

Tilden the Master.

Tilden, confident of his ability to put over the winning shot when needed, permitted Kinsey to come within 2 points of victory.

The two opening sets went to Tilden without much of a struggle. The champion was hitting well from the back court, running Kinsey from one corner to the other, and seldom making an error. Kinsey jumped into a 5-2 lead in the third set and Tilden tossed away a game so that he could take advantage of the rest period without an uphill struggle.

Kinsey, however, came back and fought the champion to a standstill in the fourth set, taking it at 6—3, to even the match score with two sets each.

Kinsey stepped out to take the lead in the final set, holding it at 5—2, and then at 30-all Tilden was within a couple of points of being trimmed, but Tilden staged one of his rallies which hold the tennis fans breathless and won his service, then Kinsey's, and then his own again, with magic placements down the side lines, and sharp-angle backhands from the back courts, to even the set score at 5—5.

Tilden went into a 6—5 lead but Kinsey came back and took Tilden's service, to tie the count again, 6—6.

The brilliant and stubborn fight of the Kinsey boy won the good will of the crowd and the thousands clamored for the Coast lad to come through with a victory over the champion. But Tilden was Tilden and he evened the score by steady play from the base line, placing his shots more and more accurately across the court, until Kinsey would finally err. The next two games went to Tilden for the match, but it took the most brilliant shots in his repertoire to pull out a victory, the most brilliant shots in the world, speedy and well controlled, placed within an inch of his aim, uncanny in their deception.

Miss Charlotte Hosmer and Miss Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., won the women's doubles title with ease, defeating Miss Doris Kinsel and Miss Vorsil Amicon of Chicago in straight sets, 6—0, 6—1.

Berkeley Bell of Austin, Tex., and Walter Thomas of Elmora, N. J., won the junior doubles from Gordon Braudt and George Jennings of Chicago, 6—4, 2—6, 6—4.

Sportsmanship of Kinsey Let Tilden Win in Semifinal

By the Associated Press.

GLENCOE, Ill., July 25.

HOWARD KINSEY of San Francisco, who was within two points of victory over William T. Tilden in the Illinois State singles semifinals today, interrupted his drive toward high tennis honors by an act of sportsmanship.

In the fifth and deciding set with the games 5—2, Kinsey leading and the eighth game at 30—15, Tilden's favor, the Californian hit a return that was too low to clear the net. The ball hit the tape and both Tilden and Kinsey were expecting it to fall back on the near side when it dropped slowly into Tilden's court, and the point went to Kinsey, making the score 30-all.

Then Tilden served and Kinsey made an indifferent effort to return it, the ball going into the net. The gallery was quick to applaud the Californian.

From that time, Kinsey, who had the upper hand in the crucial set, gradually lost his lead as the national champion increased his speed, taking four games straight and finally emerging the victor.

BATTING LEADERS IN SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION REMAIN UNDISTURBED

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, July 25.—Bigelow of Chattanooga was the only batter in the Southern Association to make much headway among the leaders in the last week, and although his gain was only four points, it qualified him for a fourth place berth, with an average of .368. Gulley of Little Rock, along with Eichrodt of Nashville and Good of Atlanta, fell off, Gulley losing eight points to a mark of .395; although still remaining on top. Eichrodt continues as runner-up with .381, while Good remains in third place with .373.

Tolson of Nashville, who was sent back to the Southern Association from the Cleveland Americans, cracked out four round trippers for a total of 14 homers. Riley added two, which puts him next to Cullop of Atlanta, who failed to increase his 21. Riley has 19 and Gulley, by bagging two, is third with 16.

Other leading batters: C. Anderson, Chattanooga, .362; Tolson, Nashville, .356; Taylor, Memphis, .349; Tucker, New Orleans, .356; Strohm, Nashville, .353; J. Smith, Atlanta, .349.

DE PAOLO GOING HOME TO ITALY TO DRIVE IN GRAND PRIZE RACE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 25.—Pete De Paolo, the diminutive, sunny-faced Italian who has won all the important speedway events of 1925, will sail for home early in August as a member of a racing team to battle for international supremacy in the Italian Grand Prix at Monza on Sept. 6. His teammates will be Tommy Milton and Peter Kreis.

It will be a race for the world's championship between De Paolo, who has won enough points in his Duesenberg to assure himself of the American championship, and Antoine Ascari, pilot of the Alfa-Romeo, who holds like honor among European drivers. The commanding positions held by Ascari in winning the Grand Prix d'Europe on the Spa circuit in Belgium, June 28, and De Paolo's successes on the speedways of Fresno, Indianapolis, Altoona and Laurel, prompted the Italian and French sports promoters to arrange a match between these exponents of speed.

In Italy the championship goes to the car and not to the driver, as it does in America. So not only will it be a battle between De Paolo and Ascari, but it will be a test of engineering skill and ability as well between the Duesenberg and the Alfa-Romeo.

St. Louis Archers Who Say Indians Were Inferior Bowmen

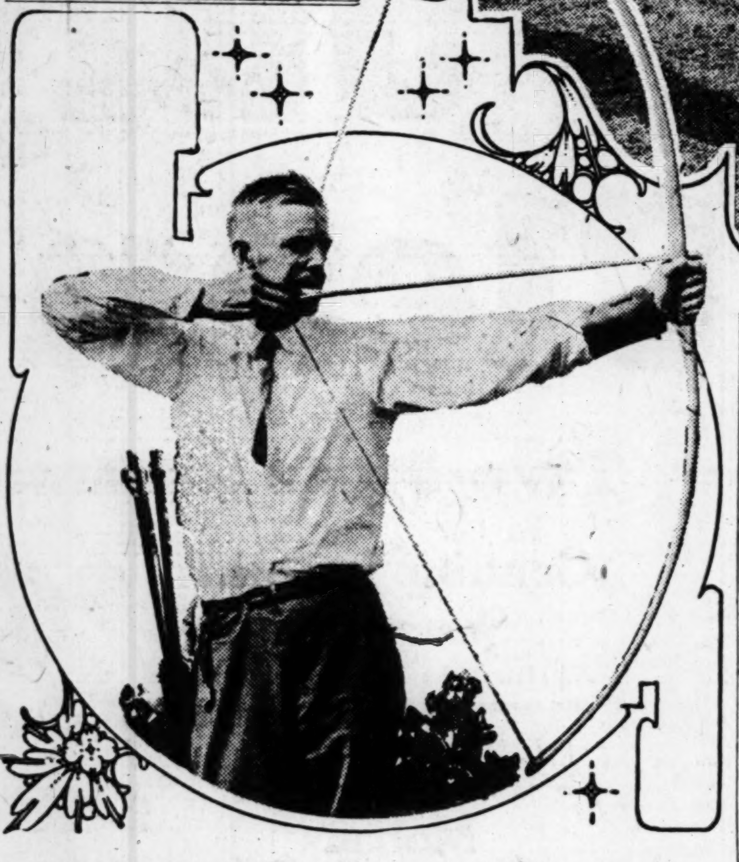
And the paraphernalia they use in practice at Forest Park range.



Correct method of drawing a bow, which requires an effort equal to lifting 54 pounds, illustrated by Arthur Lambert.

American Indian Not So Good With Bow and Arrow, Says St. Louis Archer

"Primitive Hunter Crept Close to His Target, Whereas English Had to Shoot at Long Range," Explains Arthur W. Lambert.

By Dent McSkimming.

"BUT, Mr. Lambert, I've seen pictures of the Indians with a bow and they held it thus."

"Yes, I know you have, but first, the Indian was not a high-class archer, and second, the picture which you saw might possibly have been just a little incorrect as to detail."

"The Indian was not a good archer?"

"That's it; the American Indian was not a good archer."

And thus went another ideal of young America all to smash. Possibly George Washington did not chop down the cherry tree, but surely the American Indian was the most expert with a bow and arrow.

Arthur W. Lambert, who is fostering a movement which promises to develop into the formation of the St. Louis Archery Club, is responsible for this declaration that "Deerslayer" and all other redskinned heroes of tales of American pioneer days were really not so good at hitting a bull's-eye with an arrow as are the best archers of today.

Indians Shot From Brush.

LAMBERT was instructing a novice in the art of handling the six-foot bow. The Park Department has cleared a space in Forest Park, west of Triple A grounds and south of the Municipal Theater, where the devotees of the bow and arrow gather several days each week.

And Lambert went further:

"The American Indian, we learn, endeavored to creep so close to his target, whether it was wild game or a human enemy, that his accuracy in shooting was not necessarily excellent. The character of the country in which he roamed was such that he was able to get quite close to his target. As a result, he devoted his training instinctively to creeping within easy range before trying a shot.

"Now, in England, in the day of the bow and arrow, there was not the thick underbrush which prevailed in the American forests and the early English bowman had to become an expert marksman. When archery was further employed in warfare, the need for accuracy became even greater and as a result the English became the world's greatest archers.

"There are a variety of ways of gripping the bow and arrow. There is the primary grip on the arrow, the secondary grip and the terciary or English grip. And then there is what is known as the Mongolian grip.

'For, you no doubt have read that the Chinese employed bow and arrow as a weapon many thousands of years ago. They held the bow almost horizontal with the arrow resting on top of the bow, thus."

Different Grips.

AND in each instance Lambert illustrated the particular grip to which he referred.

"In the English grip we seize the arrow and the bow string in such manner that the arrow is between the first and second fingers and the first, second, third and little fingers are employed in pulling the bow string."

Archery, as distinct from mere "bow and arrow shooting," is as highly developed and specialized as is baseball more complex than "fungo" hitting.

There is an American Archers Association and there are many member clubs in various cities of the United States. As many as 400 archers have competed in tournaments in this country.

"But," interposed a listener, as Lambert endeavored to extoll the virtues of archery to a prospective member of the new St. Louis organization, "what's the idea of the game? Could a fellow kill game with a bow and arrow if he became ever so good at hitting that bull's eye down there?"

"Yes, the bow and arrow can be utilized for hunting," answered Lambert. "A 500-pound grizzly bear was killed with one shot from the bow of an expert archer only recently. And right now two of our great American archers are in South Africa hunting wild game with bow and arrow.

"However, the sport has merit without the inspiration of the hunt. The Boy Scouts of St. Louis and a great many other organizations and individuals have manifested extreme interest in our endeavor to form a club in Forest Park and we are certain to have a thriving club soon."

Boy Scouts Take Up Sport.

A FIRST-CLASS six-foot bow, made by an expert, costs about $15 or more.

A. W. Lantz is assisting Lambert in the formation of the St. Louis club for archers. Lantz is in charge of a group of Boy Scouts who have taken up the sport.

Lambert was a champion pole vaulter at Washington University a few years ago, but he has found archery a much more attractive and less dangerous sport.

In shooting over his private range at his home in Webster, Lambert has scored 30 "hits" in 30 shots at the 40-yard mark, 30 "hits" in 30 shots from the 50-yard mark and 26 "hits" in 30 shots from the 60-yard mark.

This schedule of 30 shots each from 40, 50 and 60 yards is what is known as the standard American Round, upon which plan all tournament competition is held. Lambert's score of 462 for the American Round is considered excellent.

Bow and Arrow Made And Used by Boy Scout Cost Less Than Dollar

A BOY SCOUT who has been practicing archery shooting at the Forest Park target has a bow and arrow he made himself at small cost.

"The bow cost me less than a dollar," the scout relates. "The wood for the bow cost 80 cents. The string, which is flax, I obtained for 15 cents. There is a small bit of chalk line wrapped about the middle of the bow where the arrow rests on the left hand. That cost only a few cents.

"The sticks for the arrows cost 6 or 8 cents and the feathers for the arrows cost nothing. I painted the arrow myself with a bit of paint I found about the house."

And that is the scout's outfit.

Holland Prepares to Make 1928 Olympics Greatest in History of Athletic Games

Loren Murchison, American Sprinter Who Is Touring World With Paddock, Finds, Dutch Developing Real Athletes.

By Loren Murchison.
World's Indoor Sprint Champion.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, July 5 (By Mail).—Holland has suddenly awakened in an athletic way. Spurred on by the refusal of her Parliament to grant funds for the Olympics, the Dutch set to work and in two weeks raised two million florins, the amount required by the International Olympic Committee, if she was to retain the Olympics for 1928.

But Holland has not stopped there. She has commenced already to build upon the enthusiasm that the Olympic drive started. She has commenced work on the plans for the stadium and the accommodation of the world's greatest athletes in Amsterdam three years from now. She is planning a 200-meter straight away, and a track that will leave nothing to be desired on the part of those runners who desire speed and records.

Will Surprise World.

Then, too, she is preparing a team that will surprise the competing nations. Holland has not been heard from so very much in track and in field in the past. But three great names now stand out to form a working unit upon which to build a real team. It happens that these track men represent three kinds of running events, so that the nation is all the better off. The trio is composed of Adrian Paulen, middle-distance runner; Van de Berge, sprinter, and Van Rappard, hurdler.

Paulen right now is the most illustrious of the three. He has competed in two Olympic Games. He was only 17 at Antwerp in 1920, when he reached the finals of the grettest race ever run in the history of the Games, the race in which Rudd and Hill of England fought so hard and so well against Eby, Scott, Campbell and Sprott of the United States, and Paulen was by no means the last to finish.

He competed in the 400 meters at Paris in 1924, but misjudged his race in the semifinals, after beating Liddell, the ultimate winner, in the first round. Since that time Paulen has run some splendid races, defeating Alan Helffrick, the best in America; and all of the champions of Europe and England. He has his days when he is just about unbeatable, and as he is now only 22 years of age, he is likely to be a great competitor in his third Olympic, when he should be at the peak of his running.

The same is true of Van de Berge, the sprinter. He is new to the game and young. He has already set a pace that few sprinters in Europe can measure up to and he will doubtless improve. He is husky and well built, being about 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighing in the neighborhood of 165 pounds. He already has a smoothness and a judgment of pace and distance that will stand him in hand to instruct his compatriots of Holland.

The same is true of Van Rappard, the hurdler. He understands form and though he may never set the world afire himself, he is liable to develop some men who will.

With the enthusiasm and interest which the Hollanders are displaying and with this nucleus to build upon, the Olympics of 1928 should prove a splendid success.

Rider, Handcuffed To Bicycle, to Make 30 Months Tour

TONY PIZZO of St. Louis, handcuffed to a bicycle will leave this city Sunday afternoon on a tour of the United States and Canada. He will visit the President, the Governors of all the States and the capitals of the provinces of Canada.

The feature of the tour will be that he will sleep, eat, swim, dance and skate while chained to the wheel. Swimming, dancing and skating are his forms of amusement. He gives exhibitions of these stunts to help defray expenses. At the end of the trip he will be paid a bonus by manufacturing concerns.

Mayor Miller locked the handcuffs to Pizzo's wrists Monday afternoon. The keyhole of each cuff is filled with lead and sealed. The handcuffs are fastened together with a chain which is passed through the frame of the bicycle, making it impossible for him to get far from his wheel.

This will be Pizzo's third trip of this kind. He started from Los Angeles and Denver on his two previous rides. He expects the trip to take about two and a half years. The total mileage will be approximately 25,000.

"MORALE OF STUDENT BODY BROKEN BY COLLEGIATE ATHLETICS"

By the Associated Press.

DUBUQUE, Ia., July 25. — Iowa college and university presidents have been invited to a conference here by President K. F. Wettstone of the University of Dubuque to discuss the intercollegiate athletic situation. In his invitation, Dr. Wettstone, who recently abolished intercollegiate competition at the local school, declared college authorities "should realize that we are sinning against the youth of the land by tolerating commercialism in athletics."

No date has been set for the conference.

Dr. Wettstone outlined his objections to athletic policies in a statement made public here today. The statement was in reply to country-wide criticism of his order of May 29, last, abolishing intercollegiate athletics at the local school.

Intercollegiate athletics as now conducted, he holds, have become the most important factor in the college. He also deprecates the practice of scouting and its undesirable effect on high school students, and declares the morale of the student body is being broken down.

The Board of Trustees of the University of Dubuque withdrew the school from intercollegiate athletics last May. A program of intramural sports has been substituted.

The university has an enrollment of 300. Its baseball, football and track teams ranked high in the Iowa conference for almost a decade and several of its athletics, notably "Sol" Butler, the negro star, became nationally famous.

For about two years, however, its teams have had little success in intercollegiate events. Dr. Wettstone declares this was due to the school's failure to compete with other institutions in "bidding for athletes."

Women's Net Team to Oppose British Is Named

Five Ranking Players to Participate in Matches at Forest Hills, Aug. 14 and 15.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 25.—America's five ranking women tennis players will compose the team which will uphold the stars and stripes against the invading English team in the women's international tennis matches for the Wightman cup at Forest Hills, Aug. 14 and 15. They are Miss Helen Wills of Berkeley, Cal.; Miss Mary K. Browne of Los Angeles, Mrs. Molla B. Mallory of New York; Miss Eleanor Goss of New York, and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup of Wilmington, Del.

With the problem of the team out of the way, the selection committee is confronted with the task of ranking the players on the basis of their 1925 performances.

Seven Matches on Program.

Under the women's international team trophy agreement between the United States and England, seven matches are to constitute the program, five singles and two doubles matches. The number one and number two players on each team will meet the corresponding players on the opposing team in singles and the number three players on each team will meet in one singles match. Two doubles combinations from each team will meet in the The committee has no difficulty doubles. in selecting its number one player in the person of Miss Wills, the national and Olympic champion. The ranking of the other players, however, is a far more difficult task, inasmuch as their ranking must depend on their 1925 play. Mrs. Mallory and Miss Browne, according to the selection committee, are battling on almost an equal plane in the race for the number two selection while Mrs. Jessup and Miss Goss are on equal teams for the reserve singles position.

Tourneys to Decide Rankings.

The Davis Cup selection committee, which has the obligation and authority to select the team, asked the five players to participate in at least two of the following tournaments:

Essex County Country Club, Manchester, Mass.; Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club, Seabright, N. J., and the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club, Rye, N. Y. The Essex County Country Club tournament, completed this week, saw every one of the five in the competition, with Miss Wills the victor.

The rankings will be based on the play in these three tournaments and will be announced just before the international matches. The score of the international matches at present is one-all, the United States being victorious in 1923 and the English team winning in 1924.

LADKIN, 1 TO 4, RUNS LAST IN YONKERS HANDICAP FEATURE

Sun Pal Wins by Nose From Blind Play; Noah Victor in Sprint Event

H. P. Whitney's Fast Flyer Conquers Lucky Play and Worthmore in White Plains Handicap, on Sloppy Track.

By G. F. T. Ryall.

Of the New York World Sport Staff

NEW YORK, July 25.—Ladkin, winner of the second International Special, last fall, started at 1 to 4 in the Yonkers Handicap, at one mile and a sixteenth at Empire City, this afternoon, and finished last in a field of six.

Sun Pal, winner of the Mount Vernon Handicap a week ago, won the race, beating Blind Play, Ladkin's stable mate, a nose, while Marconi was third, five lengths back. The time for the mile and a sixteenth was 1:46 1-5.

Empire track is noted for its form reversals. They beat a 1-to-6 shot and a 1-to-8 shot one Saturday afternoon here some years ago, and they have beaten several choices as short priced as Ladkin at this meeting. Ladkin today defeated the colt that was considered about equal with Sarazen last fall and was thought the surest of sure things. Nevertheless, the defeat was not so surprising. Ladkin never has run his best on anything but a lightning fast track, and the going this afternoon was slippery from the rain that fell from early in the program.

Finishes a Bad Last.

Ladkin was on his bad behavior, breaking through the barrier on several occasions. When the start came he was away none to well. Before they had gone half a mile it was evident that he was not striding freely in the going and, as the field turned out of the back stretch he began to drop further and further back, and at the end he was beaten three or four lengths by Bright Steel.

The defeat of the favorite dimmed something of the glory of the victory of the winner, but Sun Pal ran a game race, for all that he did not get the applause. Callahan got the son of Sun Briar—My Friend, off in front and kept him there all the way, standing off the challenge of Marconi all through the back stretch and then enduring the hardest of drives when Blind Play slipped up on the rail and ran head-and-head with him to the winning post.

Marconi tired at the end but lasted long enough to save the shortest end of the purse from Sunspero, which was making his first start in the East this season. Bright Steel the other starter, was always outrun. The race was worth $5365 to the winner.

The time for the mile and a sixteenth was 1:46 1-5, and the fractional times were 0:23 2-5, 0:47, 1:13, 1:39 3-5, 1:46 1-5.

Noah Beats Speedsters.

H. P. Whitney's Noah turned the tables on Worthmore in the White Plains Handicap at short six furlongs and paid off scores for the Toboggan Handicap. In fact, third was the best that Worthmore could do, Lucky Play beating him easily for the place.

Because Johnny Maiben, not the most alert post rider in the world, had the leg up on Noah, he was not so fancied in the betting, but the son of Peter Pan was away well, thanks to a walk-up start, and never was headed. Worthmore tried to step with him, but was done when they turned into the stretch. Lucky Play, closing fast, beat him easily for the place. The time was 1:08 4-5.

Tiff Beats Hang On.

Tiff, which was backed from 30 to 1 to 5 to 1 in his last start at Aqueduct and then finished out of the money, won the Spriteful Claiming Stakes at "about six furlongs," a lesser feature of the card. Waiting just off the pace to the head of the stretch he went round Bookbinder, the pacemaker, and won going away by three lengths from Hang On, the favorite, which closed fast on the rail.

Bookbinder, which bore out at the head of the stretch carrying Tiff with him, tired badly at the end and was third. The time for the race was 1:10 2-5, one and four-fifths slower than the preceding one.

Another big crowd turned out. Just before the field for the first race went to the post it began to drizzle rain, driving those on the lawn to shelter in the grandstand and clubhouse, filling both to capacity.

Mazetta, the even-money favorite, stood quite a hard drive for three furlongs to get down in front in the opening event for 2-year-olds at five furlongs.

She broke well enough but Runebb caught her and crowded her back slightly rounding the turn from the backstretch. Richard however, kept on riding hard and, saving ground at the head of the stretch, came away at the eighth pole to beat Donarita a couple of lengths. Lombardo, which was up with the pace all the way, was third.

"SOUTHWEST MISSOURI DAY" AT SPRINGFIELD SUNDAY BALL GAME

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 25.—"Southwest Missouri Day" will be observed here Sunday at White City Park for the first time since the Western Association was reorganized in 1920. On this day the Springfield Midgets are to be "Our Team" to every fan in this section of the country.

A committee has been appointed to arrange to handle a record crowd. As an inducement to fans throughout Southwest Missouri and adjoining towns in Oklahoma, Kansas and Arkansas there will be reduced railroad fares.

25 Yachts in Race On Lake Michigan

331-Mile Sail From Chicago to Mackinac Expected to End Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Speeding northward before a brisk southwest breeze, 25 yachts are contesting for victory on Lake Michigan in the eighteenth Chicago to Mackinac Island race, a 331-mile cruise, the longest and most famous of all fresh water yacht races.

If weather conditions remain favorable, yachtsmen figure the race will be finished between noon and night-fall Monday. As Mayor Dever fired the starting gun a few seconds after 4 p. m. the Rainbow, owned by Shedon Clark of Chicago, with all its canvas spread, went into the lead and pointed its nose up the west shore of the lake.

Five minutes later the yawls went across the starting line and following at intervals for five minutes were the sloops.

The start was witnessed by the largest crowd that ever watched the sendoff of the historic race. The Chicago Yacht Club harbor was colored with gayly bedecked craft of all sizes, and thousands of spectators leaned from points of vantage in Michigan Boulevard skyscraper windows.

One of the outstanding favorites in the race is Polaris II, the entry of James O. Heyworth of Chicago. The boat was formerly the Mystic, owned by J. Pierpont Morgan. The yacht is being sailed by Capt. John Hanson, formerly sailing master to King George of England. In his crew are several Chicago millionaires, including Joseph M. Cudahy, the packer. The Milwaukee Yacht club's entry, Dorello, is given an outside chance to win the event. This sloop has been first across the finishing line at Mackinac Island in six successive races, but has never had enough of a lead to win because of the time allowance it must give to the smaller sloops.

The best lapsed time record for the race, made by schooner Amorita in 1911, is 31h. 14m. 30s.

Graeme, 13 to 5, Beats Georgie in Hawthorne Stake

Mergler, Winner's Pilot, Suspended Later for Ride on Boot Ring.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 25.—A half-holiday crowd of more than 10,000 saw Senator J. N. Camden's good Light Brigade colt, Graeme, take the Morrison Hotel purse feature event of the afternoon today at the Hawthorne racetrack. Rated well in hand from the break, Jockey Mergler brought the Camden campaigner into the lead at the stretch turn and won going away. Col. R. L. Baker's Georgie, heavily played, took the place money, with Geo. E. Allen, an outsider, finishing third. Graeme paid 13 to 5.

Reports were current around the track today that an investigation is being made into the betting activities of Trainer Bill Perkins, colored owner, who last week shipped his string of 35 horses to Coney Island.

It was said that he was at outs with Hawthorne officials because, it is alleged, that he was betting on horses other than his own. This is denied by the officials, but horsemen acquaintances of Perkins sense something wrong.

Other Stages to Depart.

Four more stables will depart next week. The balance of the Bradley string goes Monday. Senator Camden's thoroughbreds will leave shortly thereafter. T. J. Pendergast, with seven or eight head, will depart about the same time, while the balance of the Bostwick stable is expected to be on the way by Tuesday.

Today looked like a bad one for the players as long shots came home in the first and third.

The opening event resulted in the worst upset of the meeting when J. G. McDonnell's Chemiserie, a 20-to-1 shot, beat Mrs. A. Swenke's heavily played Dr. Glenn. Rachel Potter, another that drew a ton of coin in the last few minutes, had just enough to save the show money.

The Idle Hour Stock Farm stable's Bird Behave, at 6 to 5, won the second. Prince Ronald took the place money with Cartoon third.

Right On Time Is Right.

Another good price resulted in the victory of Right On Time in the third event, coming from behind at the stretch turn, this 5-year-old plater set a sizzling pace through the final strides to win by a safe margin over Sun Altos. Bob Cahill was third. Right On Time paid 10 to 1.

Jubal Early at 5 to 1 accounted for the fifth race of the day in nice style. It was a terrible start, with 5 minutes' delay. Assistant starters used their bull whips and held the colts in place, one of them even attempting to lift Bolivar Bond over when the colt tried to crowd out. Battleman was second and Talequa third.

Mergler Is Suspended.

Jockey Mergler drew a suspension for rough riding when Boot Ring hampered Pillager slightly.

STARS' HEAVY HITTING BEATS BIRMINGHAM, 9-4, IN SERIES OPENER

The St. Louis Stars defeated the Birmingham Black Barons, 9 to 4, in the opening game of the series in the Negro National League at the Stars' park yesterday. The local team batted two Alabama pitchers hard, connecting for 12 hits, including a home run made by Russell.

Hensley allowed the visiting team seven scattered hits. Birmingham put on a rally in the ninth inning in which Blackwell hit a home run.

A brilliant throw from center field by Bell furnished the feature play of the game. Russell got three hits in four times at bat.

The second game of the series will be played this afternoon.

LONG POINT SETS NEW RECORD IN CAPTURING THISTLEDOWN FEATURE

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., July 25.—Long Point, carrying 114 pounds, with Jockey Groos in the saddle, won the $5000 Forest City Live Stock and Fair Association Handicap for 3-year-olds and up at 1 1-16 miles, the feature event at Thistledown track today, in 1:44 3-5, a new track record.

The second race on the program was the Tom Cheek Centennial, one mile, in honor of the one-hundredth birthday of the world's oldest active turf man, Mr. Cheek, who has a string of horses at Thistledown, was unable to be present, however, having gone to Wellsburg, W. Va., where his son, 52, died yesterday.

Shell Nine Plays Kuhs Team Today

Polish Falcons Oppose Cadets — First and Second Position Clubs Battle in South Side Circuit.

The Independent League again takes the center of the municipal baseball stage this afternoon, with the only critical contests of the day.

The Kuhs, target of bombardment in first place for many weeks, meet the Shells, former league leaders and now again on the upgrade, just one full game out of top position. This contest will start at 3:30 on Fairgrounds No. 1.

The Polish Falcons, half a game out of the lead, play the Polish Cadets in the other feature battle on Grounds No. 3, starting at 3 p. m. If the Falcons are victorious and the Kuhs lose to the Shells, the leaders will drop to a tie for second with the Shells, and the Falcons will gain possession of the first rung, at which they have been persistently shooting for the past month.

Leaders Battle Here.

A good game will take place at Carondelet Park No. 1, where the Web Pressmen and the Schenbergs will fight it out. The Pressmen lead by two full games, with the Schenbergs second, so the Schenbergs have an opportunity to cut the advantage to one game. The game begins at 1:30 o'clock.

In both the Mercantile and City Leagues, first division teams are paired with second division clubs.

An interesting contest in the South Grand League will be that between the Maryville and Southwest nines, second and third, respectively. It will be played at the Cleveland High School campus.

The schedule:

EMPIRE LEAGUE—Forest Park, grounds 11, Glasco vs. Wiles-Chipman; grounds 10, La Salle A. C. vs. Y. M. H. A.; grounds 8, Typos vs. Laclede Gas (double-header).

FROEBEL SCHOOL LEAGUE—Froebel School Grounds, Harrison vs. Heitze; Tieman vs. Gebken.

INDEPENDENT LEAGUE—Fairgrounds, No. 1, Meletio vs. Motorbus; grounds 1, Kuhs-Buick vs. Shell; grounds 3, Falcons vs. Cadets.

JUNIOR SODALITY LEAGUE—Manchester Park, Holy Innocents vs. St. Raymonds; Forest Park No. 18, Holy Angels vs. St. Lukes.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS LEAGUE—Sherman Park No. 2, Kain vs. De Smet; Forest Park No. 6, Tri-City vs. De Andreis.

FEATURE MUNICIPAL GAMES IN INDEPENDENT LEAGUE

Shell Nine Plays Kuhs Team Today

Polish Falcons Oppose Cadets — First and Second Position Clubs Battle in South Side Circuit.

The Independent League again takes the center of the municipal baseball stage this afternoon, with the only critical contests of the day.

The Kuhs, target of bombardment in first place for many weeks, meet the Shells, former league leaders and now again on the upgrade, just one full game out of top position. This contest will start at 3:30 on Fairgrounds No. 1.

The Polish Falcons, half a game out of the lead, play the Polish Cadets in the other feature battle on Grounds No. 3, starting at 3 p. m. If the Falcons are victorious and the Kuhs lose to the Shells, the leaders will drop to a tie for second with the Shells, and the Falcons will gain possession of the first rung, at which they have been persistently shooting for the past month.

Leaders Battle Here.

A good game will take place at Carondelet Park No. 1, where the Web Pressmen and the Schenbergs will fight it out. The Pressmen lead by two full games, with the Schenbergs second, so the Schenbergs have an opportunity to cut the advantage to one game. The game begins at 1:30 o'clock.

In both the Mercantile and City Leagues, first division teams are paired with second division clubs.

An interesting contest in the South Grand League will be that between the Maryville and Southwest nines, second and third, respectively. It will be played at the Cleveland High School campus.

The schedule:

EMPIRE LEAGUE—Forest Park, grounds 11, Glasco vs. Wiles-Chipman; grounds 10, La Salle A. C. vs. Y. M. H. A.; grounds 8, Typos vs. Laclede Gas (double-header).

Fighting Tom Cahill Now Wins Soccer Battles by Diplomacy, Not With Fists

"War Eagle" of Football Thinks Pastime Could Be Helped by Further Americanizing It.

By John E. Wray.
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THOMAS W. CAHILL, one-time war eagle of the soccer world, who made all the lesser birds seek cover when his battle scream sounded, but who of late has retired from the eagle business, was in our midst last week for the usual purpose of extending the sphere of soccer football.

Cahill is a changed man from the embattled gentleman who left St. Louis some 15 years ago to carry the banner of Organized Soccer into the enemy camp in the East, and even into Europe. Then Cahill FOUGHT his way into the cliques and inner circles of the old countrymen, who handled the game for themselves. Calmly he usurped the reins of affairs and built up a national organization and for a long while he ruled with a mailed fist.

He Treated 'Em Rough.

It was literally that. For Tom's method of treating opposition was the devil-dog's. His answer to opposition was to smite the opponent hip and thigh, also hard and hastily. Tom was no John McGraw. He did not fight and lose and still fight again another day. He fought only to win, and he won. If you turned the other cheek in meek submission he might smash that, too.

But behold the Cahill of today.

Meek and lowly is too belligerent a description. He carries the GOSPEL of soccer. The war eagle is tamed. He believes in the doctrine that persuasion is better than force.

And all this is not because this Ban Johnson of the soccer world has been overthrown by his enemies, for today he occupies a stronger position than ever before. He has put professional soccer on a plane never before enjoyed in the history of America.

Game Needs Americanizing.

Nor has time tamed him, for, although he is 60 years old, this virile battler has few gray hairs and his blood pressure is lower than Zbyszko's. The years have treated Cahill lightly since he went out of the West.

Cahill merely feels that the great purpose in soccer now is to thoroughly Americanize it; and he has grown to understand that diplomacy and not the fist is necessary to bring this about. He said:

"I think the time has come when American-born officials should control the national and all subsidiary organizations in this country; when the teams should be made up of as large a percent of American-born material as is possible; and when the propaganda of soccer should be undertaken with a view to more thorough Americanizing some of its phases.

THOMAS W. CAHILL.

"The country owes a great deal to the Old Country pioneers who brought the game across and kept it alive in its early days. We need their good players, and their presence in a minor proportion on all clubs is highly desirable. At the present time it is almost impossible outside of St. Louis to assemble an eleven of first-class home-grown soccer football talent.

"But I am looking to the future and I see that if this game is ever to take its place as a first rank sport in this country, it will have to get away from its present moorings.

Detroit Gaining Ground.

"The hope of the game at present seems to be the Middle and Far West. Detroit is coming fast. Many reputable amateurs have been developed there and Cleveland and Chicago are coming along rapidly.

"An intercity league of teams in the Middle West is being considered and there will certainly soon be a great many American-born players on the elevens.

"The public schools in Detroit and other Western cities are interested in soccer and therein lies the best hope of soccer's future in this country.

"I hope within two years to see schools everywhere take up this game which has so many advantages both for player and spectator over the college football game.

"The three big handicaps to soccer are:

"The necessity of playing in cold weather because baseball monopolizes spring, summer and fall.

"The wide popularity of and heavy investments in college football.

"Lack of the right propaganda to interest American youth in the game.

"I think that these objections could best be fought by American officials working to nationalize the game.

"To my mind nothing speaks so eloquently of the need than the utter failure of those in control to bring about the elimination of the un-American no substitute rule, which recently was voted down. A game that does not permit of substitution for injuries surely can make no appeal to an American public.

"I hope within 25 years that soccer football will have made almost as great strides as has baseball. For I am sure that fundamentally it is even a more interesting game to play and much more exciting to watch.

"It is a great game for the health and safety of the boys that play it. And for that reason I am now in the business of spreading the gospel of soccer. I fight for it. But no longer with my fists. I believe I can talk it into the hearts of the American youth."

Suever to Try For Five Miles Bicycle Record

Race Will Be Feature of Roosevelt Post's Program at Creve Coeur Today.

Ricard Suever, St. Louis' junior cycling champion, will be the favorite to win the events in which he is entered in the Quentin Roosevelt Post's bicycle races at Little Creve Coeur Lake this afternoon. Suever last week won the junior title and made better time over the one and one-third mile course than did John Boulicault, who won the senior honors.

Suever is expected to set a new State junior record for five miles. He will attempt to set a world's record in this event, in which the cyclists will be paced by a motor cycle.

The races will begin at 2 o'clock. Because of the interest locally in bicycle races, the St. Louis Bus Co. has arranged a special bus service from the terminus of the Delmar line to a point close to the track. The track is reached by automobile by going west on Olive street road to the Little Lake road at Fern Ridge.

"Six riders are entered in the senior races and the same number in the junior class.

The events are: Twenty-mile team race; five-mile miss and out race; five-mile senior race; five-mile junior race; five-mile motor-paced race.

PROMOTER SEEKING OPPONENT FOR TUNNEY

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—Harry Morrison, promoter of the Mission A. C. here, yesterday said that Gene Tunney, light heavyweight champion, who recently scored a victory over Tommy Gibbons in New York, has agreed to box anyone San Francisco promoters select as his opponent for a show Sept. 7.

Two fighters already have declined to accept the offer to meet Tunney on account of previous engagements, Morrison said. They are Jimmy Delaney and Paul Berlenbach.

Morrison is now angling for Young Stribling as Tunney's opponent.

McCoy to Fight Case.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 25.—Al McCoy, the Brooklyn middleweight, who at one time was credited with the championship in that class, got into the clutches of the police recently on ssupicion of being implicated in a robbery with four other men. McCoy strenuously denied the charge and said he would fight the case.

The Hornsby of Cricket.

LONDON, July 25. — Hendren's batting so far this season has created a stir in cricket circles in England. In four consecutive matches for Middlesex recently he made 869 runs in six innings, his scores being 234 and 37 against Worcestershire, at Lard's; 142 against Lancashire, at Lord's; 240 against Kent, at Tonbridge, and 10 and not out 206 against Notts, at Trent Bridge.

Hitting Easy Best Way to Reduce Errors and Win At Tennis, Tilden Writes

"Slugging" Is Surest Road to Defeat and Is Common Fault With Youngsters, Who Frequently Beat Themselves.

By William T. Tilden II.
(Copyright, 1925.)

IT seems that almost all junior tennis players have one great fault: They do not know when to defend and when to attack. I suppose this is due to lack of experience, yet at times it seems to be due more to pigheadedness than to anything else.

This fault is not confined to junior players alone. Many famous stars are victims of their own inability to defend or attack at the right time. I watched the New York - Philadelphia junior match, played some weeks ago Orange, N. J., and found in the vast majority of cases that it was the lack of knowledge of defense that cost the loser the match.

Tilden.

There were about a dozen of the best juniors in the two cities in action — a group which might be taken as representative of junior tennis all over the country.

Harry Wolf of New York swamped Sandy Wiener of Philadelphia simply because Wiener's one idea was to hit the cover off the ball on every shot. Wolf wisely allowed him to do so, with the result that Wiener made twice as many earned points as Wolf, three or four time as many errors and won half as many games.

Stuart Gayness, John Millen and Eugene MacCalliffe, all of New York, followed in Wiener's footsteps and swatted their way to defeat at the hands of clever, crafty boys from Philadelphia, who took full advantage of their errors.

The point I am attempting to make is that no matter how many points you win by clean placements, if your errors are overwhelmingly more numerous you will meet defeat.

Richards Keeps Ball in Play.

It is almost impossible to kill except when you have a real opening. You must have patience to wait until your opening comes. Watch Vincent Richards and you will see a perfect example of the value of keeping the ball in play.

Richards is aggressive only from the net. He seldom has an offensive shot from the base line, yet his defense is so solid, his patience so great and his ability to keep the ball in play so wonderful that he wins scores of matches from opponents who actually outhit and outplace him, but who lose on their overwhelming majority of errors.

Wallace Johnson, Bob Kinsey and Howard Kinsey are three more men who are excellent examples of the value of a sound defense. R. N. Williams II is the victim of his own errors in almost every defeat he suffers. The outstanding feature of Billy Johnston's game and my own is the fact that neither of us wastes many strokes on errors.

My advice to all players, particularly young players, is to cut down your error column. Keep the ball in play, wait until you see a real opening and then hit forth with courage, speed and decision. Do not play "pat-ball," but also do not just "slug" the ball.

Pare Has Good Defense.

Emmett Pare of Chicago is one of the few juniors I know who is willing to wait for his opening and knows it when it comes. Sandy Wiener is a notorious "slugger" at present.

Stuart Gayness, John Millen and Eugene MacCalliffe are even worse than Wiener in their policy of hitting everything for a point. Donald Strachan and Walter Thomas come closer to Pare than most of the boys. Harry Johnson of Boston has a wise, middle-of-the-road policy in his hitting.

Many boys go too far the other way and never hit for a point. These are the kind who will turn into that bane of tennis, "Old Joe Gettem." My advice is to use courage tempered with caution.

Do not think that it is courage to hit furiously at every shot. That is foolishness. Courage is shown by hitting hard when the time comes to hit and the opening is there. Courage is hitting hard when behind. But one must have caution and patience so as to keep the ball in play until the opening comes to allow courage to take its hit for the point.

White Sox Win From Tigers, 6-2

Whitehill Walks Three Men in First Inning—Blankenship Wins.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., July 25.—The White Sox took the third game of the series from the Detroit Tigers here this afternoon by a score of 6 to 2.

Whitehill had a wild first inning when he passed the first three men. This, with a rain-soaked field, was his undoing, for Sheely followed with a fly to right which would have been an easy out on a dry field. But Heilmann couldn't wade to it in time and it fell for a double, scoring two. An error by Blue and a hit by Kamn, scored two more, enough for the Sox.

Blankenship pitched well for the Sox, holding the Tigers to four scattered hits.

Stop and consider—use your own judgment—why so many men who can afford to pay much more for cigars disregard the low price of WHITE OWLS and judge them solely by their amazing quality.

Figure it out for yourself. Every commercial success has been made through giving far greater value at smaller profit. And in the cigar field there is no more outstanding success than WHITE OWLS. A million a day to meet the demand of those who choose this cigar by preference alone!

This vast popularity benefits the smoking public in quality as well as in price. It builds enormous purchasing resources which enable the manufacturer to buy up and store tremendous quantities of the best tobacco the market affords.

No better proof of this can be offered than the WHITE OWLS that are being smoked today. Great purchases of tobacco from the finest crop in years have added a new sweetness, a new mellowness to a cigar so universally liked and praised that improvement seemed impossible.

—why White Owls are now tasting better than ever

THE tobacco now being used is from the sweetest, mellowest crop in years . . . and WHITE OWL is giving you the full advantage of it.

ATHLETICS HAVE WON 21 GAMES WITH LATE RALLIES

Captured 17 Contests By One Run

Of All Teams in Major Leagues Today, Connie Mack's Club Shows Greatest Punch in Pinch.

CONCENTRATED HITTING POWER

Team Which Served as Footmat for Many Years Now Regarded as Collection of Courageous Fighters.

By Herman Wecke.

"It's the ball club that can come through and win the close ones that will be a contender for the pennant," said Rogers Hornsby, shortly after he was made manager of the Cardinals.

And for that reason the Philadelphia Athletics must be considered as a club that will be in the fight for the American League flag. Connie Mack's "doormats" of several campaigns ago have been up in the fight all season. And the reason—they have been able to win the close clashes. Not only that, but the Athletics are a game club. This is clearly evinced by the records.

Going into the eighth or ninth inning with the enemy leading means nothing in the lives of those young athletes who are toiling for Connie Mack. There is no telling at what moment there will come a rally from the bats of the Philadelphia players and an apparent defeat turned into victory.

Score 13 Runs in Eighth.

The greatest exhibition of coming from behind the Mackmen have exhibited this season came on June 15 in a clash with the Cleveland Indians. In this battle the Athletics, far behind, came through with 13 runs in the eighth inning, to gain a 17-to-15 triumph. That 13-run round is the season's record, but was tied a few days later by Detroit in a clash with New York.

That, however, has not been the only time the Athletics have rallied in late rounds to put over a victory. Records show that it has occurred 24 times this season, with victory coming 21 times. Without a doubt it is the greatest record made by any club in either major league. St. Louis fans have seen exhibitions of the "comeback" ability of the Athletics. It occurred here last Sunday, when going into the ninth the Browns were ahead by one run, but the clash was sent into extra rounds when Al Simmons hit a home run. The Mackmen later won. The following day they tied it in the eighth, but lost.

But to get back to the winning of the close games. The records show that the Athletics this season have gained victory by a one-run margin in 15 games. That is quite a record for any club, and in this respect the men from Philadelphia, the former "White Elephants," rank with the best in the big tent. Philadelphia has been unable to beat but one club by a one-run margin. That team is Washington. The Senators, on the other hand, have downed the Mackmen once by the 360-foot margin. Boston and New York have been the victims of the club of Connie Mack in a majority of these battles.

The Punch in the Pinch.

Concerning the Athletics' ability to come through at the finish and snatch victory, it started with the very opening of the year, when two runs were scored in the ninth to tie the Red Sox, and the contest was won in the next frame.

How the Athletics' punch has evinced itself in the late innings can clearly be seen by the following table:

April 14—Scored two in ninth to tie, beat Boston, 9-8, in 10 innings.
April 22—Beat Boston, 7-6, in 11 innings.
April 24—Scored one in ninth to beat Boston, 7-6.
April 25—Scored one in ninth to tie, but lost to Boston in 11th.
May 2—Scored three runs in eighth and three in ninth to down Washington, 6-2.
May 4—Scored two in ninth to trim Yankees, 8-7.
May 6—Scored four in tenth to beat Yankees, 6-2.
May 11—Scored two in eighth to beat Indians, 2-1.
May 12—Scored one in ninth to defeat Indians, 4-3.
May 15—Scored six in sixth to beat Detroit, 8-7.
May 19—Scored three in ninth, but lost to White Sox, 4-3.
May 29—Scored two in eighth to down New York, 6-4.
May 30—Scored one in ninth to tie, one in twelfth to tie, won from New York in 14 innings, 6-5.
June 9—Scored one in ninth to beat Tigers, 4-3.
June 10—Scored three in ninth to down Chicago, 9-8.
June 15—Scored 13 in eighth to trim Cleveland, 17-15.
June 18—Scored four in ninth to beat Cleveland, 6-2.
June 19—Scored six in seventh to defeat Browns, 13-9.
June 20—Scored six in seventh to defeat Browns, 11-6.
June 23—Scored three in ninth to win from Boston, 3-2.
June 24—Scored one in eighth and one in ninth to trim Boston, 5-4.
July 17—Scored six in eighth and two in ninth to down White Sox, 8-1.
July 19—Scored one in ninth to tie, beat Browns, 12-8, in 15 innings.
July 20—Scored four in eighth to tie, but lost to Browns, 6-5.

All of which clearly proves that the Philadelphia Americans of today are never defeated until the last man is retired. And that is why, coupled with the ability to win close battles, they will be in the race until the finish. That is unless something unlooked for occurs.

The players have the winning spirit and that's one of the greatest needs of a successful baseball club these days.

FORMER NOTRE DAME STAR WILL COACH AT DEPAUL NEXT SEASON

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Eddie Anderson, former Notre Dame University football star, who captained the 1921 eleven and was selected as all-America and all-Western end by many critics, today was signed to coach the De Paul University football, basketball and track men for the coming season.

After graduation from Notre Dame, Anderson went to Columbia College, Dubuque, Ia., where he revolutionized football at the institution by introducing the Rockne methods, which met with considerable success. Anderson was at Columbia College three years.

Leadership at Stake.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., July 25.—Games tomorrow will likely settle the Southeast Missouri Baseball League flag race. In an unusual comeback, Malden, for a time low team in the league, has been winning continually and defeated the league leaders last Sunday. If Malden defeats Doniphan again tomorrow, Malden and Kennett will have to play off for high honors in the league for the first half of the season.

19 HITS IN EIGHT GAMES PUTS BLISS AT TOP IN THE WESTERN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Crashing out 19 hits in eight games in the last week, Bliss of St. Joseph dethroned Jolly at the head of the procession of Western League batters. The St. Joseph outfielder is resting on top with .387, two points in front of Jolly of Wichita. Payne, also of Wichita, who was occupying the spotlight with Jolly last week, slipped to third place with .384.

Payne also is leading the four-base hitters with 22. Griffin of Des Moines, is next with 20.

Gorman, speedy Denver second sacker, added another sack to his stolen base total and is blazing the trail with 41. Rock of Oklahoma City is trailing with 37. Gorman also is leading the run getters with 111 tallies.

Other leading batters: Monroe, Omaha, .379; Knight, Denver, .375; Osborn, Omaha, .370; Luebbe, Omaha, .370; P. Haley, Wichita, .366; F. Wetzel, Des Moines, .357; Langford, Des Moines, .356; Stuvengen, Des Moines, .355.

BRITISH WOMEN NET STARS IN AMERICA

QUEBEC, July 25.—The British women's lawn tennis teams, consisting of Miss Joan Fry, the young player beaten by Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen in the Wimbledon finals recently; Miss Kathleen McKane, Mrs. B. C. Covell and Mrs. Lambert Chambers, have arrived here for a tour of Canada and the United States.

British Open Golf Honors Are Likely to Be Worth $30,000 to Jim Barnes

Victory in Recent Competition Abroad Will Add $10,000 to His Earning Powers—New Title Holder Always Chews Clover When He Is Playing.

By Frank G. Menke.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1925.)

JIM BARNES tried five times—and failed. On his sixth attempt he won the British open championship, the richest crown, the finest honor in the realms of golfdom.

The triumph of Barnes is gladdening to America as a whole, because Barnes was an entry of the U. S. A. It is a cause of especial rejoicing among his friends for here is a man whose quiet, gentle-mannered ways, whose wholesome sincerity and whose links greatness has at last been rewarded in a way that's a fitting tribute to his splendid manhood.

There's another reason that brings sheer delight to the friends of Barnes—and perhaps to "Long Jim" himself. It was only a few years ago when many of the snobbish country clubs around New York felt that Barnes did not have enough flashy greatness, nor enough prestige to be an asset to them as a "pro." So Jim, seeking a job, found the bars down against him around Gotham and had to go to a rather obscure club in Connecticut to gain employment.

"Clover Jim," some of his intimates call him, because almost invariably he plays with a bit of clover between his two rows of white, even teeth. In the course of 18 holes, Jim will wear out about six or seven clovers, or chew and swallow them, but whenever the one he is "wearing" passes out of usefulness, Jim has another ready to take its place.

Always in Clover.

The clover has become so much a part of Barnes in all of his golf playing, that many persons insist that if he suddenly were forced to play a game without the feel of clover between his teeth, he would be thrown completely off his game—and be easy prey for his rivals.

Possession of the British open title means much in prestige, much in glory—and beyond all that it means much in money. The cash award for Barnes was somewhere in the neighborhood of $5000 with bonus prizes, etc., being reckoned into the total. But Barnes, through the coming year, will be able to cash in heavily upon his ownership of the crown, for in exhibition matches he will be the great attraction, and should receive no less than $10,000 to $15,000 beyond what would be his if he were not the golfing peer of the world.

Barnes is, at this time, practically a free lance professional. He is affiliated with his present club in such a way that he could get a release from his agreement. Undoubtedly some new golfing club, desirous of securing the publicity incident to having the British open champion, will make Barnes an offer—and the likelihood is that it will be around $10,000 for the year.

So Barnes, in winning, may cash in to the extent of about $30,000.

Barnes for more than 10 years has been rated as one of the greatest of all players on American soil. Yet he has never been extremely fortunate and again and again, with one championship or another in his grasp, he has been outlucked by the fact that some other player fluked a triumph over him.

The BULL'S EYE
Editor and General Manager WILL ROGERS

Another "Bull" Durham advertisement by Will Rogers, Ziegfeld Follies and screen star and leading American humorist. More coming. Watch for them.

EVOLUTION

IN the life of every great News Gathering Periodical there comes along a subject that is entirely too big to handle in one issue. Now that is what is facing the BULL'S EYE this week. All the big books and stories have had their numbers continued. Now the thing that is attracting everybody's attention is this Evolution, or Man vs. Monkey thing.

Now it is too big to handle in one or even two of our issues, so we will take it up in sections. A lot of our so-called Big Bugs have doted for years on their Family Tree, and it begins to look like they are right. They not only had a Tree, but they had a couple of Ancestors hanging from it by their tails just playfully breaking cocoanuts over each other's heads. That was the origination of what was called "The Milk of Human Kindness." Of course most of them don't want to trace their ancestry any farther back than the Mayflower. But the Mayflower originally started from Africa loaded with monkeys.

They were routed by way of England, and when they got to America, the monkeys had turned into Humans and the first thing they found was "BULL" DURHAM. Both have prospered ever since.

Will Rogers

P. S. If any new Monkey business comes up, we will relate it in another issue.

P. P. S. There is going to be another piece in this paper soon. Look for it.

PROSPERITY IS HERE—NO MAN OR WOMAN WHEN SICK CAN TAKE ADVANTAGE OF OPPORTUNITIES THAT COME WITH PROSPEROUS TIMES

Mr. Brooks, a man 69 years old, came to me with a bad case of Internal, Protruding Piles, of 15 years' standing. I cured him sound and well.

Any person, who is afflicted with rectal troubles, should come without delay. The longer an afflicted person goes without a cure, the more critical their condition becomes. Rectal troubles never get well by the use of salves, lotions, suppositories etc. They must be treated by a specialist, who knows from experience what to do, and how to do it.

My terms are reasonable, being adjusted to suit the patient. All I want to know is that after I effect a cure, I will get the fee we agree upon. If the patient wishes, they can deposit the amount we agree upon in the First National Bank, in St. Louis, payable to me after they are cured, and they will be the judge, or they can pay by the week or month.

My Dear Dr. Coe—

I am a man 69 years old and had been afflicted with internal and protruding Piles for 15 years. Your prompt and efficient cure seems all the more remarkable to me because of my age and the number of years I had been afflicted. And also because I had been operated on by a very reputable surgeon but had failed to obtain a cure.

I cannot say too much for the good you did for me, nor do I miss an opportunity to tell anyone else I know who is afflicted, that your office is the place to get rid of the misery caused by any form of rectal trouble.

Yours respectfully,

Oliver Brooks

LIQUID HAIR DRESSING

Success is indicated by a man's grooming and clothes. You're sure of well-groomed hair when you use Glo-Co Hair Dressing. Keeps the hair in place all day.

And without that artificial look men dislike. Glo-Co Hair Dressing is a liquid—not a sticky, greasy paste or cream. It's great for the scalp too. Stimulates the roots of the hair and helps keep dandruff away.

Watch out for baldness if you're troubled with dandruff. Take a Glo-Co treatment each week. Apply Glo-Co Hair Dressing to the scalp to soften the scurf, then wash with Glo-Co Shampoo. The cleansing, antiseptic lather frees the scalp from every trace of dandruff and bacteria.

After the shampoo, comb your hair with Glo-Co Hair Dressing to keep it in place.

Sold at drug and department stores and barber shops. Send 10c for samples of both.

No written contract has been signed, Fitzsimmons said, and details remain to be worked out.

"I have Dempsey's word that he will fight Greb," the promoter said, adding that Dempsey had indicated that he would train here where he battled the late Billy Miske in defense of his heavyweight title several years ago."

Dempsey Opens Up Actual Training.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—Harry Greb, middleweight champion, probably will be Jack Dempsey's opponent in a bout in which the heavyweight king is scheduled to appear in Michigan City, Ind., late in September, it was indicated in a telegram received by Dempsey late today from Floyd Fitzsimmons, Chicago boxing promoter.

Dempsey has agreed to fight any man selected by the Chicago sports writers in a warming up match preliminary to a championship battle with Harry Wills in New York next year.

In the telegram Fitzsimmons says that Greb seemed to be the unanimous choice of the newspapermen.

That Big Jack was serious when he announced on his return to Los Angeles from Europe yesterday a ring engagement that will keep him busy throughout next summer was indicated when he started actual training today with a 20-mile hike through the mountains surrounding his home in Hollywood. His plan is to get his legs in good shape with outdoor runs and hikes before starting intensive work with sparring partners in an indoor gymnasium here.

"Harry Greb is one of the fastest men in the ring today," said Dempsey. "I have not defended my title since I fought Firpo in 1923. That's a long layoff and if I meet Grebb I'll expect plenty of trouble for 12 rounds."

Harry Greb Is Willing But "Not for Nothing."

WICHITA, Kan., July 25.—Harry Greb, working out here in preparation for his fight with Sergt. Ralph Brooks, Kansas heavyweight, Monday, today seemed pleased over the prospects of a match with Jack Dempsey.

He said he had not received a positive guarantee for a match with Dempsey and asserted that he would not "fight for nothing."

"There's easier money around the country," he said to a group of newspaper men. "If I fight for the championship, I am willing, of course, to fight for a reasonable figure, but it will have to be a good one."

Greb recounted that in a New York gymnasium, four years ago, he had outboxed the champion decisively and said he could do it again.

"I don't believe Dempsey is in as good condition, right now, as he was then," Greb continued, "and I don't believe he would put up as good a fight."

WILL ROGERS

Another "Bull" Durham advertisement by Will Rogers, Ziegfeld Follies and screen star, and leading American humorist. More coming. Watch for them.

EVOLUTION

IN the life of every great News Gathering Periodical there comes along a subject that is entirely too big to handle in one issue. Now that is what is facing the BULL'S EYE this week. All the big books and stories have had their numbers continued. Now the thing that is attracting everybody's attention is this Evolution, or Man vs. Monkey thing.

Now it is too big to handle in one or even two of our issues, so we will take it up in sections. A lot of our so-called Big Bugs have doted for years on their Family Tree, and it begins to look like they are right. They not only had a Tree, but they had a couple of Ancestors hanging from it by their tails just playfully breaking cocoanuts over each other's heads. That was the origination of what was called "The Milk of Human Kindness." Of course most of them don't want to trace their ancestry any farther back than the Mayflower. But the Mayflower originally started from Africa loaded with monkeys.

They were routed by way of England, and when they got to America, the monkeys had turned into Humans and the first thing they found was "BULL" DURHAM. Both have prospered ever since.

Floyd Fitzsimmons Has Champion's Consent to Meet Pittsburg Boxer

Michigan City Promoter Says He Expects Title-Holder to Train for Event at Benton Harbor.

By the Associated Press.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., July 25.—Floyd Fitzsimmons, Benton Harbor fight promoter, announced today that he has obtained Jack Dempsey's oral agreement to a bout with Harry Greb, middleweight champion, at Fitzsimmons' Michigan City, Ind., open air arena, probably Sept. 19

No written contract has been signed, Fitzsimmons said, and details remain to be worked out.

Dempsey Must Meet Tunney or Wills If He Boxes in Jersey

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TRENTON, N. J., July 25.

STATE BOXING COMMISSIONER NEWTON A. K. BUGBEE said that Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, would not be allowed to meet any opponent excepting a logical contender for his title in New Jersey.

In Mr. Bugbee's opinion Harry Wills or Gene Tunney are the two logical men for a title bout.

Mr. Bugbee's statement follows:

"Dempsey is the heavyweight champion of the world. He has held this title for over six pears. It seems strange to me that a champion insists on having one or two bouts to tune up before meeting a logical contender for his title.

"Inasmuch as the public is sick and tired of having championship fight set-ups, Dempsey will not be allowed to fight in New Jersey at Boyles' Thirty Acres or any other stadium within the confines of the State unless his opponent is worthy of his steel."

Waltz of Waynesboro Club Hits Four Home Runs in One Contest.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WAYNESBORO, Pa., July 25.—A new record in modern baseball was created at Martinsburg, W. Va., recently by Earl Waltz, center fielder of the Waynesboro club of the Blue Ridge League.

Waltz hammered out four home runs in five times at bat in a regular nine-inning game. His fifth time at bat he got a double.

Besides making a new record for number of home runs in one game for modern organized ball, Waltz beat the record for home runs in consecutive games which was set by George Kelly of New York, last season when he hit seven in six games, by making seven in four games.

In sending out his four homers and the double, Waltz accounted for 11 runs.

Waltz has hit 11 homers this season. His average is .333.

Waltz is 25 years old.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 25.—Jack Root and his new Olympic Auditorium will get under way Aug. 5 when an all-star card of five bouts, six rounds each, will be presented. The Auditorium will seat close to 5,000 people and will be equipped with the latest opera chairs. Promoter Root plans to hold the very best attractions to be had in the fistic world.

Piker Athletic Structure to Be Ready by Jan. 1

Edmunds Now on Trip After Ideas for New "Field House."

Washington University will have a "field house" by Jan. 1, 1926, if plans now under way are carried out. The "field house," which is a new thing around this section, will be used to accommodate the growing crowds that attend basketball games and indoor athletic events of all kinds. The Francis gymnasium has for some time been inadequate as to seating capacity.

The new building will be designed to seat 8000 persons and will be erected adjoining the gym on the ground which lies between its west wall and Pennsylvania avenue. Athletic Director Edmunds is now making an inspection tour of Middle Western universities with a view to incorporating their best features in the plans for the Piker structure.

Architects are at work on the plans and expect to have them ready by the latter part of next week.

TRAGOS TO WRESTLE SILVA MONDAY NIGHT

George Tragos will grapple with John Silva in the main event of two wrestling matches at the Liberty Music Hall Monday night. In a preliminary Frank "Rough House" Nelson will meet Antonio Deveechi. This match will be the two best out of three. Deveechi has placed $50 with the management of the theater that if he fails to throw Nelson in 25 minutes he will forfeit the money to Nelson. Both men are light heavyweights.

Huffman to Box Colima.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 25.—Jack Doyle will give an open-air show on July 28 with Eddie Huffman, the Seattle light heavy, and Bert Colima, local star, as the stars. There is a lot of interest in the match and it is expected that the baseball park at Vernon will be filled to witness the struggle.

Century and Western Crews Favored in Municipal Regatta

Five Events Are Scheduled to Be Decided at Creve Coeur Lake This Afternoon—All Crews in Local Harbor Scheduled to Compete in Races.

Arrangements have been completed to take care of a large crowd at the Municipal regatta at Creve Coeur Lake today, where all the crews in the local harbor will compete for the manner emblematic of the city championship.

Last year Century Boat Club won and with Western Rowing Club will be favored to take the title this afternoon. The program starts at 2:30 o'clock.

Century Crew No. 1 is favored to win the four-oared shell race. Western is also conceded a good chance to come in first but Century's showing in the Southwestern, in which it came in third for the only local place, gives it the preference.

In the singles, the favorites are August Muckler of Western, Frank Westerman of Century and W. Slack of Baden, in the order named.

Western Favored in Barge.

Western's victories in the Southwestern regatta in the six-oared barge race and the Lepping trophy race on the Mississippi, July 12, makes it almost a sure bet for the event. The Lepping trophy is a three-time prize and was up for the first time this year. It was a one and one-half pull downstream. Century was second to Western in both of these races.

The dark horse in the barge race is the Central Rowing Club Crew No. 2. This crew was favored only recently and is composed of veterans, who have been out of competition for several seasons.

Western is the best bet in the doubles with one factor, however, against them. One of the mainstays, August Muckler, will be rowing his fourth race of the afternoon and fatigue may offset somewhat his customary effectiveness. His brother, F. Muckler, will be participating in his third struggle of the day. The St. Louis Rowing Club is best of the others.

Century Expected to Win.

Century Boat Club is almost certain to capture the eight-oared shell race. Century beat all-comers last week in the Southwestern in both the junior and senior events.

Today's program:

FOUR-OARED SHELLS—Century Boat Club No. 1; Century Boat Club No. 2; Western Rowing Club; St. Louis Rowing Club.

SINGLE SCULL—Baden Rowing Club, W. Slack; Century Boat Club, Frand Westerman; Western Rowing Club, August Muckler.

SIX-OARED BARGES—Century Boat Club No. 1; Century Boat Club No 2; St. Louis Rowing Club; Central Rowing Club No. 1; Central Rowing Club No. 2; Western Rowing Club.

DOUBLES—Western Rowing Club; St. Louis Rowing Club; Century Boat Club.

EIGHT-OARED SHELLS—Century Boat Club No. 1; Century Boat Club No. 2; Baden Rowing Club; Western Rowing Club; St. Louis Rowing Club; Western Rowing Club.

AINSMITH, BATTING .376, IS THIRD IN AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 25.—There was a shifting about among the batting leaders of the American Association, nearly all of them moving a notch up or down the ladder, with the exception of the veteran Eddie Murphy of Columbus, who refused to be disturbed from the top of the heap. Murphy is batting .382, the same figure he had a week ago.

Lebourveau of Kansas City, who was in sixth place, wiggled toward the top and is trailing Murphy with .377, one point in front of Eddie Ainsmith, now with the Millers. Bunnie Brief, of the Brewers, is fourth with .370.

Duncan of Minneapolis hit a pair of home runs, giving him the leadership with 21.

Guyon of Louisville is leading as a run getter with 98, while Christensen of St. Paul ran his string of stolen bases to 35.

Other leading batters: Duncan, Minneapolis, .369; Tyson, Louisville, .368; Fowler, Minneapolis, .366; Guyon, Louisville, .365; Zinn, Kansas City, .349; Canavan, Toledo, .347; Fisher, Minneapolis, .344; Collins, St. Paul, .341; See, Minneapolis, .341.

Try this delightful old ginger ale

THERE is health and happiness and good fellowship in it, for it is a real ginger ale—made from real Jamaica ginger.

Famous for years across the border—served in the Houses of Parliament in Ottawa, the Royal Canadian Yacht Club and at smart functions everywhere—"Canada Dry" is indeed a ginger ale with a distinguished and an historic past.

It is so utterly different from the ordinary ginger ale that it might almost be called by another name. No phrase suits it quite so well as this—"The Champagne of Ginger Ales."

It is a delicious treat at dinner—when entertaining—for every occasion.

BENEFIT PLAN FOR CITY EMPLOYES OUTLINED

Loan and Recreation Features Included in Scheme for New Organization.

Plans under which the Municipal Employes' Benefit Association is to be operated were disclosed yesterday in a letter of trustees, who are "three dot" men in the City Hall, to municipal department heads.

As has been told, the association is a pet project of Mayor Miller, to enroll city employes into an organization, the stated purposes of which are to lend money to city employes desiring loans and to promote social and recreational features for members.

The trustees met recently and drafted the letter, which sets forth that the project is to be broached to such numbers of employes as the department heads may deem advisable to approach to the end that all city employes may be given opportunity to join the association.

Mayor's Explanation.

In a letter accompanying the one setting forth the plan, Mayor Miller enjoined the department heads not to ask anyone to contribute to the fund, from which loans are to be made to municipal employes, but merely to give them an opportunity to contribute if they so desire. The Mayor added in his letter that the association is rot for partisan or political purposes and that there will be no discrimination against anyone who does not care to join or contribute. And in no sense, said the Mayor, is a contribution to be looked upon as an "assessment" against an employe.

The trustees are Harry L. Salisbury, Director of Public Welfare; William Duffy, City Marshal; John H. Brod Jr., Director of Public Safety, and the Mayor.

Recreation Feature.

The general plan contemplates, besides the loan feature under which any city employe, whether a contributing member or not, may borrow money from the association with two indorsements to a note, a recreation camp, possibly on the Meramec River, for the pleasure of members.

While no set fee is to be required for membership entrance, it is stated by the trustees that the Mayor has set a good example by proffering 1 per cent of his monthly salary, and as a starter prospective members would do well to contribute on a like basis. Citizens, not employed by the city, also may contribute, under the plan, but may not borrow from the fund.

Aug. 16 is set as the date for first contributions to the association.

DENVER POST ATTACKS CITY'S NEWSBOY ORDINANCE

Suit Involves Law Prohibiting Sales of Papers Anywhere Except From Corner Stands.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Col., July 25.—Through its attorney, John T. Bottom, the Denver Post today filed in the District Court a petition for a temporary injunction restraining the city, its manager of safety, its council, and the chief of police from enforcing the newsboy ordinance which recently became a law.

Judge Butler set Aug. 3 as the date for the hearing. Although no action as to the injunction will be taken until the hearing it was indicated the ordinance will not be enforced meanwhile.

The suit is based on the grounds that the ordinance, which prohibits newsboys from selling papers except from street corner news stands, is unlawful and oppressive class legislation, an abridgement of the rights of citizens and in direct conflict with the State constitution.

The petition challenges the authority of the act to limit the rights of a free press.

The Denver Express Publishing Company and the Denver Publishing Company also are named as defendants. The petition charges directly that the publishers of the Denver News, the Denver Times and the Denver Express "used their best efforts in obtaining the passage of the ordinance."

WORK TO STOP RIVER DAMAGE BELOW CARROLLTON PLANNED

Dikes, Retards and Revetments Proposed; $100,000 Worth of Land Ruined Since 1922.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARROLLTON, Mo., July 25.—The Government and the Missouri River Levee District are now planning to prevent the further cutting and washing of the river banks in Baker and Hills Bend, southeast of Carrollton. The plan contemplates installing of dikes, retards and bank revetments. The cost of the work will exceed $300,000, the levee district to pay $100,000 and the Government the remainder. In the last two or three years the cutting and washing of the banks by the river has washed away, destroyed and damaged land to the value of more than $100,000. The river is rapidly cutting towards Wakenda Creek. If its course in this direction is not soon arrested it will be a matter of a short time only until it reaches Wakenda Creek and the damage will be great. It would mean the destruction of thousands of acres of the best bottom lands. The loss would fall not only on the owners of the land, but would cut off a large trade territory from this city.

The levee district as now proposed will embrace approximately 24,000 acres of land. The proceedings to complete the organization of the district will come up for hearing at the September term of court, and if the court approves the work provided for will be started soon thereafter, it is said.

Semenoff Aid to Be Executed.

By the Associated Press.

VLADIVOSTOK, July 25.—Gen. Milnikoff, who was associated with the Cossack leader, Ataman Semenoff, in antisoviet activities in Far Eastern Russia, has been sentenced to death. The soviet Supreme Court has rejected his appeal. (Records fail to show any Russian leader of prominence named Milnikoff serving with Gen. Semenoff.)

Boy Has 11 Grandparents.

By the Associated Press.

PORT ALLEGANY, Pa., July 25.—Charles William Burr, six months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Burr, has 11 grandparents living, a record which it is believed few youngsters can equal. The immediate grandparents of the boy are Mr. and Mrs. William Burr and Mr. and Mrs. Elijah McKerney. There are five great-grandparents, including Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hazen, Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Babcock and Mrs. Sophia McKervey. A great-great-grandmother is Mrs. Eliza Causer and a great-great-grandfather is Charles W. Burr.

They have reason for their shudder. In Asia the brown and yellow races are seeking to throw off the dominion or domination of the palefaced foreigner. China is in the throes of the most intense, widespread and best organized antiforeign movement it has ever witnessed. Japan has, for 20 years, become a redoubtable naval and military empire and is now the most dangerous trade rival of Europe and America in the East. In India there is undoubted unrest. In Africa, a formidable war is even now in progress between the invading European and the native, the latter with European equipment and a leader trained in a European military school—and so far the European has had the worst of it. The Egyptian has for years given trouble. In the Untied States the color question has always been a vexed one. The problem of the negro has not yet been solved and in the Philippines another colored race is querying American authority.

Lloyd George.

Numerically, the position is against the white. The number of colored human beings on the earth is 1,150,000,000, while there are but 550,000,000 white people. Two-fifths of the world's area is peopled by white races, three-fifths by colored. The colored races have, in recent years, fought the white on their own grounds—a war of commerce and applied science—with increasing success.

The New Light of Asia.

Japan has led the way for color. The victory of Japan over Russia in 1904 gave the East new confidence in its potentialities as regards war. We have probably underestimated the effect of the defeat of a great European military power in a stand-up fight with an Asiatic empire which had, up to that time, been regarded as effete and inferior. The old generation of Asiatics had been brought up under the fear of Western superiority and regarded white races as invincible, and even the Japanese war did not entirely break the bonds of apprehension which were stapled in their hearts. But the existing generation is the one that was in its childhood when the new light of Asia flashed from the Japanese guns and the sound reverberated throughout that mysterious continent.

During the Great War, the yellow races watched silently, with eager eyes, the white peoples strangling each other to death and they are not unaware, now, of the fact that great white nations are lying exhausted after the struggle. In the meantime, they have been learning Western methods and the Western technique of war. Abd-el-Krim is something of a portent. He and his brother trained in the French and Spanish military schools in order, to learn the best methods of overthrowing, in their native land, the supremacy of their teachers. And how well these warlike brothers have learned their lesson their fellow students can but tell. The armies of Spain have been driven to the sea and the legions of France, fresh from victory over the greatest military empire on earth, are falling back before the clansmen of this mountain chief. POWERS MUST BE JUST TO YELLOW RACES TO AVOID WAR, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE Possibility of a Great Federation of Asiatics, Led by Japan, Sweeping Down to Destroy Western Civilization, Considered Remote.

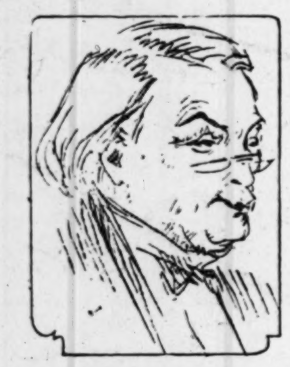
By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
War-Time Premier of Great Britain.
(Copyright, 1925.)

LONDON, July 25.

THERE is a tendency at the present time in all continents towards panic over the position of the white man vis-a-vis the colored; and there is a good deal of ferment, which has justified disquitude. What is the reason for all this shiver of the white skin?

They have reason for their shudder. In Asia the brown and yellow races are seeking to throw off the dominion or domination of the palefaced foreigner. China is in the throes of the most intense, widespread and best organized antiforeign movement it has ever witnessed. Japan has, for 20 years, become a redoubtable naval and military empire and is now the most dangerous trade rival of Europe and America in the East. In India there is undoubted unrest. In Africa, a formidable war is even now in progress between the invading European and the native, the latter with European equipment and a leader trained in a European military school—and so far the European has had the worst of it. The Egyptian has for years given trouble. In the Untied States the color question has always been a vexed one. The problem of the negro has not yet been solved and in the Philippines another colored race is querying American authority.



Lloyd George.

Numerically, the position is against the white. The number of colored human beings on the earth is 1,150,000,000, while there are but 550,000,000 white people. Two-fifths of the world's area is peopled by white races, three-fifths by colored. The colored races have, in recent years, fought the white on their own grounds—a war of commerce and applied science—with increasing success.

The New Light of Asia.

Japan has led the way for color. The victory of Japan over Russia in 1904 gave the East new confidence in its potentialities as regards war. We have probably underestimated the effect of the defeat of a great European military power in a stand-up fight with an Asiatic empire which had, up to that time, been regarded as effete and inferior. The old generation of Asiatics had been brought up under the fear of Western superiority and regarded white races as invincible, and even the Japanese war did not entirely break the bonds of apprehension which were stapled in their hearts. But the existing generation is the one that was in its childhood when the new light of Asia flashed from the Japanese guns and the sound reverberated throughout that mysterious continent.

During the Great War, the yellow races watched silently, with eager eyes, the white peoples strangling each other to death and they are not unaware, now, of the fact that great white nations are lying exhausted after the struggle. In the meantime, they have been learning Western methods and the Western technique of war. Abd-el-Krim is something of a portent. He and his brother trained in the French and Spanish military schools in order to learn the best methods of overthrowing, in their native land, the supremacy of their teachers. And how well these warlike brothers have learned their lesson their fellow students can but tell. The armies of Spain have been driven to the sea and the legions of France, fresh from victory over the greatest military empire on earth, are falling back before the clansmen of this mountain chief. We are told that at the present moment, in China, the latest poison gas from the German factories is being manufactured. The machine gun, the trench mortar and every modern contrivance of warfare have found their way into the hands of the colored races, and it is the white races who have placed them there. One million Chinese, drilled in the European pattern, are now in battle array on Chinese soil.

Bolshevik Russia is no doubt doing its best to foment trouble and stir up the colored races in their desire to free themselves from the white man's thraldom. Russia is now an outcast and the nations with which she once associated gather their robes about them disdainfully as she passes. All outcasts revel in making trouble for others. The instinct that made the outcast aristocrats of France into revolutionaries at the end of the eighteenth century and turned their hands upon the class from which they sprang is inspiring Russia to agitate the colored peoples against the white races. Russia is the Mirabeau of the nations. Her hand is lifted against her old European associates and she is helping to stir up mischief for her former friends.

The fact remains there is no doubt at all that there is a growing revolt amongst the colored races against white control. It is not only in military matters that they have been instructed by us. Modern means of communication bring them much more easily into contact with the West and with Western civilization. They have become familiar with it and, in turn, are adopting it amongst themselves more and more. They are receiving the education of the West and mix amongst the white men as equals. The printing press has penetrated even into darkest Africa and the natives have their own newspapers—a useful medium for any form of nationalist propaganda. The white races have set themselves to instruct their colored brethren and this is the result. The problem is one which has to be reckoned with.

Trade Rivalry a Factor.

There is another factor which helps to accenuate color antagonism. Racial antipathies and prejudices are being fanned by acute trade rivalries. Trade jealousy and competition between the nations in the modern world is a development of the last hundred years. The passionate trade competition between Britain and Germany had something to do with the hatreds which fostered the war spirit. The same process is going on in the East, where highly industrialized Japan, having acquired all the special scientific skill of the West and with the unlimited cheap labor, is competing with the West. The Japanese are a race of small cultivators and live on what would be regarded in America or Britain as next to nothing. Lafcadio Hearn describes them as: "A people of hundreds of millions, disciplined for thousands of years to the most untiring industry and the most self-denying thrift under conditions which would mean worse than death to our working masses."

A small wage in a factory enables these hardy sons of the soil to buy comforts and luxuries which were completely beyond their reach on the little crofts or quillets where they were brought up. Japanese industry has thus a reserve of physical and nervous endurance which comes from untold generations of labor on the soil and in the open air, removed from the nerve-wracking experiences of great aggregations of humanity. The Japanese are now drawing upon the same kind of reserve which fed British industrial expansion at the beginning of the nineteenth century and which enabled Britain to found her industrial supremacy in Europe. At that time we drew, first of all, upon the surplus population from the land of Britain. Then, when this was exhausted in the next generation, the Irish famine came and we were able to draw from Ireland upon the industrial reserve of millions of quality.

Britain has now exhausted her reserves and is working her industrial system with the generation which has borne the rack and poison of industrial life from its youth upwards, but Japan is only just beginning to use her human material and the war gave her opportunity to the full for utilizing them for the purpose of capturing the markets of the East. To take one example, the average number of cotton spindles worked daily in Japan has risen from 1.9 millions in 1911 to 4.2 millions in 1923, while the value of woven goods generally has increased from 337,000,000 yen in 1912 to 1,474,000,000 yen in 1921. When Britain and America were concentrating their energies in war and, in so far as they were producing goods, were doing so at inflated war prices which were prohibitive as far as the poor populations of the East were concerned, Japan was sweeping these markets into her own net and taking full advantage of our absorption in the West to penetrate into China and extend her tentacles there in every direction. Her rapidly increasing population is overflowing on the Chinese littoral. She sees, in the resources of China, a field for exploitation and enrichment, and she finds there to hand the coal and iron which are necessary to her if she is to develop her industries.

But what of the picture of a great federation of yellow races, equipped, drilled and led by Japan breaking down Western civiliza-

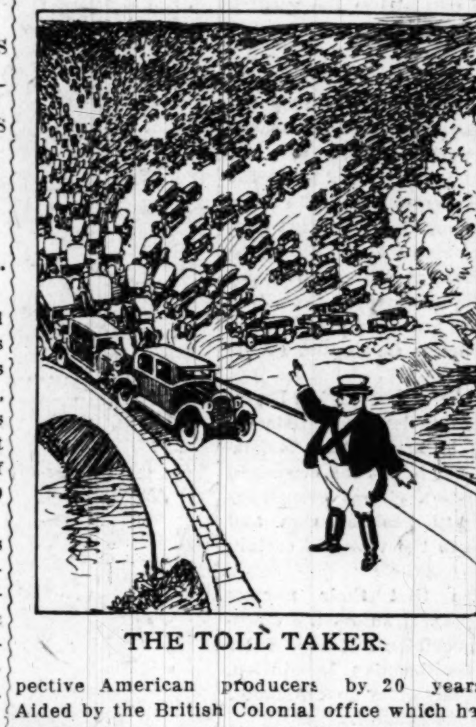
U. S. Experts Studying Conditions Abroad With View to Cultivating Trees to Produce Supplies for This Country.

Export Restrictions and Increased Demand Have Sent Price of Crude Product From 36 Cents to $1.16 a Pound



THE TOLL TAKER.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 25.

"BRITISH LUCK" in securing control of the world's rubber production has cost the American motorist millions of dollars within the last six months, and, according to the Commerce Department, this monopolistic control will continue to affect the American people—users of 70 per cent of the world's crude rubber supply—until 1930 at the earliest.

In short, Britannia rules not only the waves but also the rubber market. American interests became actively concerned only several years ago, and because of the long time needed to effect independent rubber production, Americans will be dependent upon British sources of supply six or seven years longer.

That is the reason automobile tires have risen in price four times since last April and why Secretary Hoover recently said, "a careful investigation into the future world demand for rubber undertaken by the Rubber Association with co-operation of the Department of Commerce indicates that this shortage is likely to be felt until 1928 or 1930, and may lay a heavy burden on the American consumer."

Secretary Hoover, however, has had his eye on the world's rubber production for several years. In 1922 he asked Congress to appropriate $500,000 for an investigation of the rubber industry. In February, 1923, Congress appropriated the desired amount, of which the Commerce Department was authorized to spend $400,000 in an investigation of the present and potential producing areas and the Agriculture Department, $100,000 in experimenting with rubber trees and plants.

U. S. Experts Working Abroad.

At present Commerce Department rubber experts are working in Ceylon, Malaya, India, Burma, Siam, French Indo-China, Sarawak, Dutch Borneo, British North Borneo, the Philippine Islands, South and Central America. Agriculture Department experts are experimenting in Washington, in the Philippines and in Latin America trying to find future rubber producing areas either under the American flag or in close proximity to the United States.

Another branch of the Government intensely interested in the industry is the War Department, for, with the crude product under British control, the United States would be seriously handicapped in any war if rubber imports were cut off.

Hoover's men are now preparing in book form the results of their investigations in foreign countries. One book is already off the press. This is "The Plantation Rubber Industry in the Middle East," a searching and well-documented study of British, Dutch and native methods in the East Indies. Within the next month, the Commerce Department will issue a sequel, showing the possibilities of rubber production in the Philippines. This will be followed by a study of the potentialities of Central and South Amerca. It is the expectation that each book can and will be used as a guide by prospective American rubber producers.

According to the Commerce Department it takes four to six years for a rubber tree to come into bearing. A full yield is not secured until 8 or 10 years, so even those American companies that have rubber land cannot hope for returns for several years. Only one large American company has large plantations, and it is said that it produces only 25 per cent of its own needs.

Thus the British, who started the plantation system in 1905, have the jump on prospective American producers by 20 years. Aided by the British Colonial office which has imposed legal restriction on the output of the colonial possessions by export schedules, these British have reaped a rich harvest from their plantations, profits due almost entirely to the phenomenal growth of the American automobile industry which no one could have foreseen in 1905. Commerce experts declare that 80 per cent of the importations into the United States, or 56 per cent of the world's supply, is used in the manufacture of automobile tires.

Therein lies the "British luck." In 1905 when Britishers, following the advice of Sir Henry Wickham, who in 1870 had maintained that rubber trees should be cultivated and that the supply should not be dependent on the "wild" trees, planted 116,500 acres of rubber trees in the Middle East, their act was regarded as folly.

Wiseacres claimed that the "wild" production would take care of the world's needs. It would have been folly if American manufacturers had not started turning out first thousands, then hundred thousands and finally millions of motor cars every year. Those who backed the Wickham idea made fortunes, which came, for the most part, out of American pockets.

How Industry Was Revolutionized.

The following table shows how the British revolutionized the rubber industry:

Years.	World Production Tons.	Total Plantation Tons.	Total British Tons.	British Share of Total Plantation Per Cent.
1905	59,494	174	174	100
1906	62,581	577	577	100
1907	67,170	1,157	1,157	100
1908	66,566	1,796	1,796	100
1909	73,756	3,386	3,386	100
1910	80,746	7,269	7,269	100
1911	82,829	14,383	14,383	100
1912	103,947	30,113	28,088	93
1913	115,001	51,721	46,186	89
1914	121,205	73,153	63,992	87
1915	169,017	114,277	96,095	84
1916	210,079	158,993	128,010	81
1917	277,938	221,187	175,382	79
1918	217,511	180,800	136,926	76
1919	398,998	348,574	275,484	74
1920	341,135	304,671	226,081	74
1921	300,649	276,746	200,959	73
1922	406,110	378,232	271,589	72
1923	406,423	379,738	237,434	63
1924	414,703	386,703	205,027	53

Thus it is that "plantation" rubber has taken the place of the "wild" rubber. According to the above figures, in 1924 "wild" rubber represented only 6.8 per cent of the total rubber produced, whereas in 1905 it represented 99.7 per cent. France in Indo-China, and Holland in her East Indian possessions control the remainder of the plantation rubber. From 1922 on the decrease in the British share of world production was caused not so much from French and Dutch competition as the restriction on exports imposed by the colonial schedules, which at present restrict exportation to 65 per cent of the standard production of 1920.

These restrictions, known as the Stevenson restrictions, went into effect in the British possession in November, 1922, after the rubber crisis of 1920-21-22, when most of the British companies were hard hit because of over-production growing out of the war.

The British colonial office took the production of the year ending Oct. 31, 1920, as a standard for the Stevenson. By imposing a tax of 1 cent a pound on all crude rubber within the limits of the schedule and an extremely high surtax on all exports over the limits, production was effectively limited. The objective was a constant price for rubber. The price decided upon as yielding a fair profit was between 30 and 36 cents.

For flexibility—the issue raised by both American and British manufacturers—the schedules provided for quarterly readjustments. When an average price between 30 cents and 36 cents obtained over a stated period, an additional 5 per cent of the standard production would be released; when an average price between 36 cents and 42 cents prevailed an additional 10 per cent would be released. There flexibility stopped.

Estimate of World Production.

It is against these schedules that both American and British manufacturers are complaining. Restriction of the British output, aided by restriction in the French and Dutch colonies, has caused crude rubber to jump from 36 cents a pound, the price several months ago, to the present price of $1.16 a pound. Unless these schedules are relaxed, high prices will continue, for the Commerce Department, quoting the Rubber Association of America, makes the following estimate of world production and consumption:

Years.	Estimated Production Tons.	Estimated Consumption Tons.
1925	574,000	540,000
1926	606,000	575,000
1927	623,000	608,000
1928	633,000	641,000
1929	637,000	672,000
1930	641,000	703,000

These estimates are based on the areas now under cultivation and on the curve of automobile and other rubber-using productions. They are, of course, subject to many variations.

Commerce Department trade experts made an analysis of the financial history of the largest British producers in the Middle East and found that annual net profits on issued stock ranged from 5 to 53 per cent over the period of 14 years from 1909 to 1922. The average of these companies for the period was 26 per cent. These profits were extraordinary, the Department pointed out. "This high earning power was demonstraed in spite of the fact that much of the area was either immature or had not reached the full bearing stage, because the industry was still so young. The average profits earned during this period were more than three and a half times the issued capital," a recent departmental bulletin declared.

During the last ten years of this period, the New York price of rubber ranged from 17½ cents to 69¼ cents a pound. Now the price is around $1.16. The average price of production is between 30 cents to 36 cents a pound, so it is no wonder that Americans are seeking their own sources of supply.

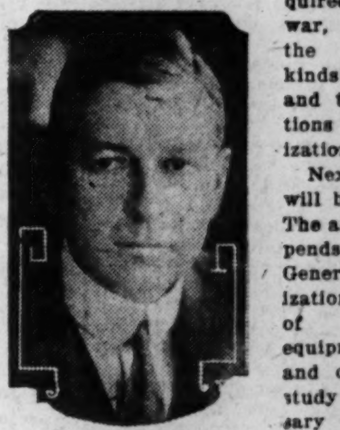
Business Will Be Organized And Ready if Another Big War Comes, Says Dwight F. Davis

Mindful of Confusion in 1917, Department Is Working Out Complete System of Industrial Preparedness.

DWIGHT F. DAVIS of St. Louis, assistant and acting Secretary of War, contributes an article to the August issue of Nation's Business, published in Washington, upon "The Business Man and a Next War." He is former Park Commissioner of St. Louis, and served overseas with the Thirty-fifth Division in the World War, gaining the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. In his present position he is charged with the duty of formulating the plans for prevention of profiteering and for insuring efficiency in the supply service, which he details in this article. Nation's Business is the official organ of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Davis' article follows:

If there's another war—a great war—there won't be any cost plus guessing, profiteering and receiverships and reorganizations after the paper profits have been assayed at the bank.



Dwight Davis.

There won't be contracts that both side misunderstand when settlement comes; medical and quartermaster departments won't rush into one plant and bid against each other; Government agencies won't go on plant-grabbing raids, each for itself and the devil take the hindmost.

There won't be a national convention of boards, commissions, committees and groups called together in Washington, conflicting or overlapping, and untrained in their duties and methods; or ordering of material and then letting the manufacturer wait months for specifications and drawings.

The organization will be ready this time. Manufacturers will know beforehand what is expected of them, and they will be expected to deliver according to the Government's ideas.

"You mean they'll just order us to turn in and make what they need without discussion or conference, or expert boards and all that?" asks the average citizen; "no preliminary meetings of the various industries to allocate our work, discuss methods, raw materials, and so forth?"

That is just what we mean. The plan is to do the conferring and convening in advance, in times of peace, so that production can begin on the hour.

It would be different—unrecognizable, almost—from a Washington point of view. It is all a part of modern military science as it is studied here, in England, France, Czecho-Slovakia, Germany, Italy—wherever there is an army, model 1925. There is an economic side to it as well as a military. The idea is that if there must be a war, be ready for it and make it snappy. The sooner it is over, the better. The army officer does not expect a war, and hopes there won't be one; but if it should come, the army will be ready to make it short and quick, however hard.

Assistant Secretary's Job.

The whole problem of supervising the supplying of the army in time of war is placed in the hands of the Assistant Secretary of War. The National Defense Act of July, 1924, states that very explicity in these words:

The Assistant Secretary of War, under the direction of the Secretary of War, shall be charged with supervision of the procurement of all military supplies and other business of the War Department pertaining thereto and the assurance of adequate provision for the mobilization of material and industrial organizations essential to war-time needs.

That is quite a large order, but its wisdom is not questioned.

The procurement control center will be in Washington, but the aim is to decentralize most of the actual work, placing headquarters in 14 cities over the country, where purchases can be made, contracts let on the spot and supplies warehoused.

The first question to be answered is: "What will be required?" in case of war, which means the selection of kinds of material, and then specifications and standardization.

Next, "How much will be required?" The answer here depends upon the General Staff mobilization plan. Tables of organization, equipment, wastage and casualties, the study of the necessary reserves are prepared, all depending again on the location of the war.

Third, "When and where will it be required?" and, fourth, comes the big question of how to acquire the necessary supplies. Where can they be made? Who will make them? How rapidly can they be produced? How are they going to be bought and paid for?

It is on these general lines that my office has created an organization of officers who are studying and meeting what is really a great business problem along business lines. This small organization, composed of selected officers, has a very clear idea of the magnitude of the problem. These officers are making use of the experience and assistance of men actively engaged in business. They are studying factories, transportation, raw materials and availability of supplies from the ground up.

Vast Resources on Tap.

All the factors entering into every industrial manufacturing program must be taken into account. Back of every finished article displayed in the retail store, some corporation has had to provide for these contingencies:

Facilities and equipment, raw material, power, capital, labor, transportation and merchandising.

The War Department has the vast industrial resources of the nation at its command if it will but tap them intelligently. Therefore we must know what we are going to procure, then list and survey the facilities where we propose to obtain same in time of war. This program, of course, includes using civilians to aid in carrying out the program. But there will be no repetition of the many conflicting boards and commissions, civil and military, experienced in 1917.

In the last war the problem of capital was taken in hand by the War Finance Corporation and the War Credits Board, assisting banks in financing enterprises and advancing money to contractors for war materials. There will be similar agencies, of course, in any future war. All right as far as it goes. But in the next war means will be used to see that capital does not make unreasonable profits, such terms as "controlling capital" and "making war unprofitable" being used in discussing it.

In this country it has not proved necessary to "draft capital" so long as the Government can meet its needs by taxation and the issuance of bonds, but there is ample legal authority in the National Defense Act to draft or take over manufacturing plants. This ex

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Posers for the Literalists.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"WE believe that man was created by direct act of Almighty God, as is taught in the book of Genesis, and that he is not the product of evolution."

The above is a quotation from a circular that I saw in a Missouri town recently. Upon inquiring I found that it had been distributed by a person who believes in the Bible as literally true. Working on this same assumption that all parts of the Bible are literally true, I discovered several beliefs which the distributor failed to list. Since they are in the Bible, they are all of equal value with the first statement, and must be added to the "direct act theory" stated above.

We believe that the earth is not round. It has four corners, as is taught in Revelations 7:1 and it does not move. (Psalms 93:1.)

In spite of the Golden Rule, we believe that God commanded bad meat to be sold to aliens, because Deuteronomy 14:21 says so.

We believe that after God created man and woman (Genesis 1:26 and 27) there were still no men or women on earth. (Genesis 2:5.)

We believe the murder of boys and married women is right because it is commanded in Numbers 31:17.

We believe that it was right for the army captains to save alive for their own use the maidens captured in war because it is commanded in Numbers 31:18. (White slavery.)

We believe in human slavery because it is commanded in Leviticus 25:45 and 46.

We believe in witches with power to raise the dead because I Samuel 28:7 to 16 tells us so.

In spite of Christ's command to love one's enemies, we believe in hatred and vengeance upon one's enemies and his children because hate is taught in the 109th Psalm.

We believe that man is no better than a beast because Ecclesiastes 3:19 to 22 says so.

We believe that man has and has not seen God because the Bible says so. Gen. 32-30 and I John 4:12.

We believe that God does and does not tempt man. Gen. 22:1 and Jas. 1:13.

We believe that Elijah did and did not ascend to Heaven. 2 Kings 2:11, and John 3:13.

Many other false statements of creed can be made if one accepts literally the whole Bible as the direct revelation of God. To do so is not to reverence Him, but rather to slander Him! Does any sensible person believe that God approves the 13 propositions stated above? We hope not! Yet such slanders as those stated above must be accepted if we follow Bryan in teaching the Bible as literally true.

The Bible is a record of what men have thought in times past. It is the world's supreme book of religion, but its very contradictions show that it is not all of equal value or of equal truth. To attempt to make it so is to undermine real religion. Christ himself shows the folly of attempting to live by the Old Testament in His famous sermon, as recorded in the fifth chapter of Matthew. For His attempt to change the teachings of the church leaders of His time, Christ paid with His life. Christ was a modernist in a land of fundamentalism. We need to send missionaries to Tennessee to preach His Gospel to the people who have never heard it as He preached it. We need missionaries to tell the people that it is not necessary to believe falsehoods in order to be a Christian!

The Road Hog.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE read an interesting article on "Road Hogs" by Mr. W. H. Cameron, who is director of the National Safety Council.

Why, though, did he not call the obnoxious persons in question "Road Hog Thieves?" They steal the rightful positions of other cars on all driveways. They steal alongside of a law-abiding citizen's car, steal ahead of him at a sharp, fender-scraping angle; suddenly slow up or stop, thereby stealing from said good citizen his even, pleasant speed and also his placid, enjoyable frame of mind, and good opinion of his fellow-man.

The crafty "Road Hog Thief" steals his way to the center of the road. On Sundays, he and his capable understudies steal their reckless ways past a stream of careful and happy drivers and often steal from oncoming machines the rightful chance to pass safely.

The "Road Hog Thief" will deliberately steal the place a citizen is trying to back his car into, so as to park. He will steal away the chances of many, at dangerous, congested street intersections, by darting ahead of his turn.

Many a poor male pedestrian could have crossed a street on time, and without running, had not some "Road Hog Thief" stolen his chance by increasing the rate of speed of his car, instead of continuing as he had been going, or decently slackening up.

Let the police enter the game in fast machines and smear large bill-poster placards on "Road Hog Thieves," windshields, thereby warning the careful drivers.

WILSONISM.

Those who believe that the idealism of Woodrow Wilson yet lives will find their faith strengthened by a recent article by our London correspondent, John L. Balderston, describing the attitude of British political leaders toward the League of Nations. The league covenant, writes the correspondent, "is treated here as seriously, and almost as reverently, as the Supreme Court treats the American Constitution. It has become, to most influential Englishmen, a sort of Magna Charta of the human race. All treaties, all pacts, all arbitration agreements concluded in future in Europe must rest upon this one foundation." In support of his thesis, he quotes from a speech in which Foreign Minister Chamberlain pleaded the cause of international co-operation in words that might have been used by Wilson himself.

"Wilsonism." Will statesmen of the future pronounce the word in the scornful tones of a Reed or a Lodge? Will they speak it with pitying deprecation, after the manner of some of those who gave the President lip-service during his term of power but turned from him in his defeat? Those reactions—of mockery and of pity—seemed destined until a short while ago, as our correspondent points out, to set the style for future generations throughout the world. He now perceives a significant change in England, where the League of Nations, the creation of Wilson, has come to be regarded as "the one hope of the world."

What of America? Is America forever to take its cue from the Lodges and the Reeds and the lukewarm gentry among Wilson's supporters? For six years it has seemed so; but six years is a brief span, even in the life of an individual. There are abundant signs that the pendulum has already reached the limit of its swing toward isolation and is moving back. Despite the opposition of Reed and his fellow scorners of Wilsonism, we appear to be on the verge of entrance into the World Court. In making common cause with the rest of the world in various humanitarian enterprises, we have found it to our advantage to recognize and work with the league—to do everything, in fact, except actually to join it. To many of those who fought the covenant most bitterly, the name of the league no longer has the horrendous connotation that was given it by the Senatorial Battalion of Death.

Quietly, almost imperceptibly, we are headed again toward Wilsonism; toward a diluted form of it, perhaps, but, in any form, a philosophy infinitely better calculated to promote the peace and general well-being of America and the world than the sour pragmatism of the last few years. Our progress may be arrested, but such is unquestionably the tendency today.

We have seen that isolation produces neither commercial nor spiritual gain. To the extent that we accept the alternative—co-operation—we advance toward fulfillment of Wilson's ideals. Who that believes in those ideals can doubt that "Wilsonism" will live again on the tongues of Americans in accents not mocking, not pitying, but of proud possession?

QUERY.

What, may we ask, has become of the Municipal Research Bureau? Since last spring this valuable unofficial watchdog of city affairs has been silent. Of course, the silence may not be an eloquent one; it may be that the bureau has decided to let the new administration get under way before discussing its acts. Yet, from some indications of the manner in which the administration is embarking, the bureau might with profit bestir itself.

THE PRICE OF DEMOCRACY.

"We are paying," said a writer in the London Times, recently, "the price of democracy." He was discussing internal British politics, with emphasis on doles to the unemployed and the arrogance of the Laborites. This threat to the Crown has been well debated. The general conclusion is that the House of Windsor can survive for a decade, at least, any radical thrusts from within.

But there is a far greater price of democracy which England may have to pay. For the last 10 years there has been a growing colonial problem. The Home government has steadily drifted toward more democratic ideals. The old imperialism and jingoistic rant of Victorian times has almost vanished. The post-war decay of the British nobility in finances and prestige is a sign. The rise of industrial barons is another. Labor government is the final note. England is faced with reconciling its new democratic rule to the imperialistic policies which have made and held the British Empire together. A colonial nation is essentially an autocratic nation. Democracies have not the domineering spirit which subjects foreign peoples and sways them against all laws of race and creed.

So we are seeing ominous unrest in the British Empire. India talks of a great Mohammedan revolt. Australia talks of the white man's burden and forces the mother country to abandon its Anglo-Japanese pact. Canada openly considers further separation from the Home government. The South African colonies grow more insistent on complete governmental severance from England. The democracy which has flourished at home is flourishing abroad. English colonies are developing national spirits of their own, and interests not always at one with Parliament. There are evidences that the British Empire is slowly crumbling; that its ultimate dismemberment will be the price of democracy.

THE OBSOLETE FRONT PORCH.

Apartment house dwellers may know it not, but in 10,000 towns and lesser cities the front porch was long a summer solace. From the pillared verandas of palatial plantation homes to the vine-clad platform adorning some shack south of the tracks, the front porch has offered surcease from the cares of the day; the only summer home some multitudes have known. And now the architects announce it is passing from the new designs of houses. An American contribution to architecture, they say it is; quite as American as father's habit of sitting on it in his stockinged feet, after a day in the clanging marts. It is to become as obsolete as the bay window that went out with the Victorian era. It is to follow the iron deer that once ranged the rolling lawn about the mansion of the village millionaire, and the porch furniture might as well be beaten into ukuleles.

But with the verdict that the front porch is passing comes the thought that it will not perish before its time. A living room for the torrid terms, its usefulness ended pretty much when the family ceased to live at home. That was before the motor car had become a household necessity, and in a time when a day could be complete without the movies or an invasion of the countryside; in a day when the head of the house could get home for an early dinner, there being no 18 holes to interfere.

Still, it should be easy to accept the change without vain regrets. The good old days were not so good, except to those who were shamefully young at the time. There is scenery more entrancing than the house across the street. Golf gives the tired business man a varied interest. The household drudgery is less, with a better chance to leave it frequently. There will be homes and families still, despite architectural modifications, improved transportation or added diversions. Probably they will be as happy as in the past where there was money in the hammock industry.

ANTIEVOLUTIONISTS' PROGRAM.

Seven state legislatures and Congress are to be urged to pass laws against the teaching of evolution during the next two years. This is said to be the program of the fundamentalist leaders, led by William J. Bryan. It was planned to be pushed through in case Scopes was found guilty. The Bryanites, of course, hope that the appeal will affirm the verdict, in which event they will expect to go on to further victories.

A Washington dispatch in the New York World states that "when Congress meets bills to stop the use of Government money for ethnological research will be introduced. The purposes are to bar the Smithsonian Institution from investigating as to the origin of man, and to have Congress accept the Bible story of the genesis of the human family. Last Congress the budget sum and an extra $4200 were provided for the "Bureau of American Ethnology." All such appropriations, it is now understood here, will be challenged. A lively row is promised over the annual appropriation of $57,000 'for continuing ethnological reaserch.'"

In the opening days of the Scopes trial Bryan charged that a conspiracy of atheistic scientists existed which was attempting to bring about legislation subversive of religion. But is not the organized attempt of the fundamentalists a virtual conspiracy to obtain legislation that will penalize men and women unless they subscribe to the views of certain religionists?

The fundamentalists realize that their narrow views of religion can never prevail unless the teachings of science can be prohibited. Hence their projected attack upon the Smithsonian Institution, the Bureau of Ethnology, and any other governmental activity connected with modern science.

Twenty years ago, however, Mr. Bryan agreed with Thomas Jefferson "that to attempt to compel people to accept a religious doctrine by act of law was to make not Christians but hypocrites!" Is not his present effort to do this very thing a sign of mental decline, or at least of that unhappy intellectual sclerosis the prevalence of which caused Dr. Osler to suggest the chloroforming of persons at the age of 60?

Bryan could do little mischief if he were not sure of the backing of a vast host of intolerant men and women whose ignorance is only equalled by their contempt for the higher learning and their belief that its leaders are trying to undermine religion and morals. These people are sincere, and their sincerity makes them doubly dangerous. Unless they can become more enlightened within the next decade, we may witness a dangerous crisis in the fight for liberty of thought in America.

MORE STONE MOUNTAINS.

When the Stone Mountain Memorial Association bade defiance to Gutzon Borglum it may have failed to take into consideration the possibilities of competition. It may have overlooked the fact that there were 10 other former Confederate States through which the temperamental sculptor might range offering his talent for a colossal project which might eclipse the Georgia conception.

Well, something like that is about to happen. A Raleigh newspaper reports that another memorial to the Confederacy has been planned for the granite cliffs overlooking Chimney Rock Gorge in North Carolina. And Borglum is to be the sculptor. More than that, he is described by his wife as being "full of enthusiasm" for the task. This factor is not as happy an omen as might be hoped. Enthusiasms have their reactions. If there should be another break would there be another deal with a third State?

It is to be hoped that Dixie in the end will realize at least one worthy completed memorial that will satisfy its dreams of a beautiful and imperishable record of the lost cause and of the men who offered their lives in its behalf.

ABD-EL-KRIM'S FATE.

Despite Abd-el-Krim's boasts, his victory over the Spanish, his inspired troops, his natural advantage in fighting on familiar terrain, his recent progress against the French, there is little doubt that the outcome of the Moroccan war will find him broken and defeated. Again and again the French military genius has manifested itself under the most adverse conditions, and there is no reason to believe it will be balked by a tribal chieftain, no matter how cunning or able. It is another case of a good little man against a good big man.

When Abd-el-Krim decided to try his luck against the French, he bit off more than he can chew.

As a footnote to this observation, Marshal Petain, who saved Verdun, and some of the finest fighting regiments of France have just been ordered to the defense of Fez.

THE WOMAN DRIVER.

It is a tender subject—that of the competency of the feminine motor car driver, and one steeped quite as deeply in prejudice, we fear, as topics recently under examination at Dayton. But science has been at work, too, on the woman driver, and now, it is announced, she is fully as competent as the male.

Do we hear protests? But mere opinion no longer goes. The American Automobile Association has conducted a series of tests in which girl and men students of George Washington University with approximately equal experience in driving were pitted against one another. In all points it was found that the women were the equal of the men in perceiving danger and averting it.

As a matter of fact, however, women drivers on the whole are probably less experienced than men. And for some time to come we need not be surprised to hear on the street crossing the waggish warning: "Watch out, it's a woman driver."

KIPPERED KIPLING.

I.

When Homer smote his blooming lyre
  Beside the blue Egean sea,
The men wore all the fine attire
  And plumes as far as we can see.
The women did not seem to be Much interested then in dress,
But languished rather modestly
  In say-sartorial duress.

If we are right, it was the men
Who wore the ostrich feathers then.

II.

While Homer in his seagreen gown
  Made more than mortals of them all,
The old Greeks strutted up and down
  In all the gorgeousness of Fall.
No woman had a Persian shawl
  Or showed herself in rolled-down socks
When Greece laid low the Trojan wall
  And Homer sang among the rocks.

The poet, though with little pelf,
Was likely some lyre bird himself.

III.

At this great spectacle you may
  Be sure the women looked askance,
And on emancipation day
  They clapped the men folk into pants.
Since when no man has had a chance
  To play the peacock as of yore—
The women lead the fashion dance
  And run the bills up at the store.

Silk, satin, crepe, brocade and tulle—
He started it, the damn old fool.

Sir: When the 24 German intellectuals, from Eucken to Haeckel, issued their famous manifesto at the outbreak of the World War they set a precedent, unless, indeed, our own Declaration of Independence was their model with its "decent respect for the opinions of mankind." At any rate, the Pekin professors are following right in step with their cabled protest (to the New York World, properly enough).

Another orthodox (and reminiscent) feature of the Chinese "war" is the early appearance of the term "atrocities." Shades of 1914! In retrospect, and even in those dark days themselves, the crowning "atrocity" of that fateful year was the massacre of the Philadelphia Athletics by the Boston Braves in that incredible "four straight." If that absent-minded wench known as "poetic justice" knows a good opportunity at sight she will persuade the powers that be to (somehow) let Boston win the National pennant this year and then—leave the rest to Connie Mack.

Should anyone complain of irrelevance (not to say irreverence) in these remarks, my reply must be: Wars may come and wars may go, but baseball goes on forever!

Under Mr. Coolidge nothing happens but the expected.

We wish someone would walk around the various adventure magazines and find out what is holding them up. It looks to us as if there were more adventure in the news of almost any day than the public could consume. Take the past three days: Four bank robbers who have been in the habit of pulling the insides out of a bank over in Venice, Ill., walked into a trap set for them by the bank detective. Usually a bank detective has about as much of an idea when robbers are coming as a whale has about drouth. It was not so with this one. He knew they were coming, and when they did come they walked into the clutches of some twenty cops. Then there was the man over somewhere across from Carondelet who has the automobile in his yard. A stranger (isn't that exciting?) drove up there some time ago and asked if he could leave it. He never came back, and if you want our guess as to whose nice Buick car it is we would say the man over there gets it. He has probably been wanting one, and sometimes if you wish hard enough—but the reader can do his or her own speculating about this. We want to get to the story of the yacht that ran aground near Charleston, Mo. It was so loaded down with Scotch whisky and French brandy that before they could get it off the river fell and left it high and wet, so to speak. Anyway, the banks down there are swarming with drys, and it wasn't any time at all before the sodapops had her, together with all she contained, a couple of trucks and machines that were trying to haul her cargo to St. Louis, and a hoosegow full of perspiring rumrunners. Maybe you can beat that in one of the fiction magazines with the covers savoring of the good old days, but we doubt it. Also, there was the story of the woman who was making pin money bringing alcohol across the river. The police noticed that she did a good deal of going to and fro, and after you do that seventy or eighty times on one of the bridges suspicion attaches to you. She had her flivver filled with tins of alcohol. Her husband said he had no idea she was doing anything of the sort. Usually in these days the half knows not what its better half does. But what about it? Wouldn't you say that stories like that are adventure?

Sir: The "chief flight surgeon" of the N. Y. Police Department recommends use of the airplane in place of the automobile by business men as a "mental tonic." "If they are to continue to direct huge enterprises they will be forced up in the air to keep their thinking straight," he says.

Will some enterprising journalist please cable this to Mr. Trotzky? His comment should be diverting.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

NO PRIVILEGED RELIGION.

From the New York World.

IT should be emphasized again and again that the truth of a religion or of any religion is not at stake; that the truth of science is not at stake; that the relation between science and religion is not at stake. The only point at issue is whether the government of an American state may properly select a dogma peculiar to certain sects, give that dogma legislative approval and make it binding upon schools supported by funds contributed by taxpayers who may or may not be members of those sects.

Large numbers of people who oppose the law, nevertheless, believe that the Legislature of Tennessee had the right to make such a law. They point out that the Legislature is sovereign over the public school system of the State and may make any ruling as to what shall be taught in its schools. The argument is sound when used by people who do not believe in the exercise of the judicial veto at any time. But to those who believe that the courts may and should at times overrule legislative majorities to preserve certain essential rights of minorities, this law may fairly be considered a proper candidate for the judicial veto.

It seems to us that the opponents of the law may properly appeal to the higher courts for an annulment of this law, saying:

"We do not challenge the right of the Legislature of Tennessee to fix the curriculum of its public schools. We do not challenge its right to forbid the teaching of biology, or of the theory of evolution, however illiberal or foolish we may think such legislation would be. But we challenge the right of any public body in America to recognize officially and to discriminate in favor of the peculiar dogma of any religious sect. That is what this Tennessee law does. That is what its sponsors, its author, its interpreting and enforcing officials show that it is meant to do. And that particular thing, the setting up of a fundamentalist dogma as an official public dogma, is a violation of religious liberty and should be declared unconstitutional by the courts."

If it is ever proper to appeal from a legislature to the courts, it is proper here. If it is ever proper to annul the act of a legislature, it is proper to do so in order to preserve absolutely inviolate the separation of church and state. If it is ever proper to veto the act of a majority, it is proper to do so when the religious equality of the minority is challenged. If it is ever proper to tell a law-making body that it has exceeded its powers, it is proper to do so when it has used that power to place behind the creed of a religious sect the authority of the state.

It has long been said in America, and never more often or more emphatically than in the recent presidential campaign, that the courts were the guardians of the essential liberties of the people. There is no liberty more essential than the right not only of freedom to worship as each man desires, but the right to have the state remain absolutely impartial and absolutely neutral as between all kinds of religious faith and religious practice. But if the State of Tennessee may at the behest of a majority and in the guise of legislation regulate education in the public schools, give special recognition to a tenet of any sect or group of sects, then the impartial neutrality of the American Government is no longer assured under the Constitution.

Business Will Be Ready if Another War Comes, Says Davis

treme measure is not favored unless it should become absolutely necessary, as it might result in decreased efficiency.

A general policy has been formulated to be applied to labor. Living costs usually advance in bounds with the declaration of war, and the Government plans to use vigorous methods to prevent this price rise and the consequent unrest in labor and increased cost of production. Immediately upon the beginning of war, machinery will be set up to adjust labor disputes, with the power of final decision. In the World War this was not done until a year after the declaration.

The American Legion has proposed a law which fits into the situation, whereby the President will be authorized to take control of the material resources, industrial organizations and services, to terminate any price emergency and to stabilize prices of service and commodities essential to military operations or to the welfare of the civilian population. These are broad provisions. Also there is a plan to prevent "slackers" from finding refuge in industries engaged in war-time production. It is proposed to prevent this by making it impossible to exempt any man between 21 and 30 because of his industrial occupation. It is held that this would not unduly interfere with production, as the bulk of skilled labor is upwards of 30 years of age.

So far as possible raw materials and supplies are to be standardized, avoiding the disorganization caused in 1917 by constant revision of specifications. It is well known that some plants were unable to get into actual production for almost a year. Just when they would start to deliver guns or shells, along would come an officer with a new set of blueprints and all the work would have to be done over. There will be no changes, of course, for no one will attempt to guess what developments six months of modern warfare will bring, but the army will know what it wants at the start.

And there would be some form of Federal control of transportation if there were another war, probably not along the lines of the last experiment, but there would be very definite supervision.

The whole policy of my office in developing a plan of procurement is based on an outline of a business organization. The officers are studying and handling the problems from the attitude of business men and new ones are being trained in that direction.

Will Be Prepared.

Today we have an Army Industrial College where officers are detailed as students to fit them for this work. Current conferences with business men on our plans are also invaluable.

There is a military maxim, "It is pardonable to be defeated, but never to be surprised." As far as procurement of supplies and mobilization of industries are concerned, we feel confident that we are not going to let the country be surprised in the matter of supplies as it was in the last war. If there is to be any surprise, in many cases it will be a pleasant one to the men and institutions called upon to furnish the means of supplying the army's needs. At the time it is made effective, one of the great surprises will be to find the army supply department operated on a business basis.

For instance, $300,000,000 put into hard labor and good leather will not go into harness and horse equipment where $50,000,000 will cover the requirements.

No, the business end will be operated on business principles, but it will be the army organization that will be responsible for the handling of that business and the army is ready to accept that responsibility.

The Assistant Secretary of War must plan an organization that is efficient, and that is prepared for the necessary expansion. Army officers must figure what their requirements will be and must have a plan carefully prepared in advance to obtain these requirements from available resources. Officers must be trained to man the key positions, at least until they can make their knowledge available to their successors from the business world. Big business men will be available, and their services to the country will be of inestimable value, but there must be an existing organization in running order and a knowledge of war requirements which only military men can supply.

A Going Concern.

There is to be a going concern, made up of trained army men, that can be expanded and will be in position to make full use of civilian aid when the time comes. The executive direction will center from Washington. The practical work will be definitely decentralized, spread over the country in various supply stations. Various cities have been designated as procurement centers and in some of these tentative organizations are maintained. Today there are in existence quartermaster depots that compare favorably in their equipment and structure with large commercial plants and organizations. A peace-time personnel is maintained, ready at shortest notice to become a full war-time force. For example, one storehouse at a large distribution point now has 14 officers and 200 civilians on duty. In war time it will require 150 officers and 3600 civilians. That ratio of expansion may be considered typical throughout the whole system.

Construction groups are in existence and standard plans have been approved for barracks, kitchen and mess buildings, officers' quarters, hospital ward buildings, storehouses, stables, garages and artillery sheds.

Last year a procurement war game, reaching into all parts of the country, was held to test the industrial war plans, in which not only the regular and reserve officers participated, but a great many civilians co-operated actively. The experience gained from this experiment emphasizes the desirability of making it an annual event.

Contracts have been prepared in advance and standardized. In the last war there were instances where two plants in the same community, making the same material, were operating under totally different contracts. This condition meant dissatisfaction at the time and misunderstanding when the time for settlement came. Some of these agreements had not been finally interpreted five years after the war was over, although in many a case both the Government agencies and the contractors were acting in good faith.

Contracts Standardized.

Today there is a board to standardize war-time contracts, which has prepared forms for purchase orders and for short-form contracts, the adjustable price contract and the adjustable compensation contracts for construction and manufactured articles. These forms have been tentatively approved, but are still being seriously studied. The first three forms have received thorough criticism from industry, as the board has been functioning for over three years. It is therefore believed that in their final shape they will be as perfect as we can make them with the full assistance of industry.

The adjustable price contract includes the estimated amounts which the contractor will spend in the various parts of the work. Then it provides for an adjustment in the total price, upward or downward, according to the fluctuation in the price of labor or material, as compared to the prices existing upon the date of signing the contract."

The contractor will stand to make or lose under it, according to whether or not his estimate of the quantity of material and efficiency of labor has been accurate.

The adjustable compensation contract is a fixed feed and bonus agreement directly opposed in principle to the old "cost plus" contract, inasmuch as every inducement is offered the contractor to save money. Under this form he gets a percentage of the saving and the percentage is based on a sliding scale.

Moreover, in these new contract forms there is a provision for adjustment due to a rise in cost of material and labor, but no labor increases are recognized unless they are approved by a governmental super-agency set up for that purpose.

Confusion in 1917.

A few months ago, Benedict Crowell, who was Assistant Secretary of War under the late President Wilson, in lecturing before the Army Industrial College, made this statement:

"Most of the people have forgotten the hopeless condition of our industry late in 1917. At that time a Senator of the United States, in a dramatic speech stated that the War Department had practically ceased to function. This caused a great sensation but I assure you that it was practically true. December, 1917, was the darkest month of the entire war for us—that is, to those who knew our real condition. The situation seemed so hopeless and there seemed to be no way out of it. Yet at that very time light was beginning to break. The point I want to impress is that this confusion had been caused by the supply bureas, and by supply bureaus I mean principally the army supply bureas. They, of course, had placed their orders where each could best, competing with each other to get materials and offering high and yet higher prices to get quicker deliveries. In some cases competition was direct; for instance, in buying motor trucks—every bureau wanted them. One bureau would, for instance, bid against other suply bureaus for a plant having a certain capacity for making steel forgings. In this way the situation I have described was brought about. The factories, machine shops, etc., were tied up and prices became ruinously high, or would have been so if they had continued. The trouble was caused by the success of the bureaus, not failure, and through no failure of industry. The trouble was lack of direction or lack of co-ordination, in the absence of an overhead control."

That is a good picture of the conditions confronting the country in 1917 after it had gone into the World War.

It is exactly what the War Department is determined shall not exist in case of another emergency.

The business of war is to be on a business basis.

Justice for Yellow Races, Or War, Says Lloyd George

tion, as the wild horsemen of Attila rode down Roman culture? As a blood curdler, it is the most successful of all the shilling shockers! And its circulation just now is increasing rapidly. But as a fact—it has no existence and as a prediction it is remote. We always forget that the Semitic races are just as riven by racial antagonisms as the Caucasian peoples. The Chinese have no reason to love the Japanese. It is not so long ago they were at war with each other and Japan still holds, by force of arms, a large tract of what was once Chinese territory. There is no more love lost between the two nations than between the French and Germans—in fact, there are probably greater differences of temperament, culture and traditions between the Japanese and Chinese than exist between any two great European races.

During the Versailles conference one thing that was very obvious was the terror of the Chinese for this increasing Japanese domination and their efforts to induce the great Powers to help them tear out its grip, ever deepening in their flesh, were almost pathetic. It would be unfair to criticise Japan for taking the opportunity which presented itself during the great war, when the white nations were occupied in an internecine struggle. Britain, Germany, America—they would all, doubtless, have done the same under similar conditions. Can America regard it as an outrage if Japan, advancing in industrial development, seeks to capture trade in China? Are these sufficient reasons for talking about "another inevitable war."

It is no use being angry. To be angry is to be unjust. If the great Powers show wisdom and patience, I do not believe there will be anything to fear in the end from any combination of yellow races. Not just yet. But if the Powers do not consider the question sanely and fairly, looking the facts in the face and making allowances for prejudices and legitimate aspirations, it may well be that there is another inevitable war brewing in the devil's vat. It is the old struggle between force and fair play, between might and right, between mastery and fraternity—in other words, between paganism and Christianity. Which will win?

BUYS 6 SARGENT PAINTINGS

Massachusetts Governor Was Represented at London by Agent.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 25.—Six of the John Singer Sargent paintings sold at auction in London yesterday were bought by Gov. Alvven T. Fuller, through an agent. They will be brought to this country soon and hung in the Governor's home in Malden.

The most important of the pictures is "San Sigilio," an oil painting of a boat with golden sails.

100 PICTURES WILL BE SENT TO SEDALIA

50 St. Louis Artists Represented in Collection for State Fair, Now at Public Library.

A collection of 100 pictures by 50 St. Louis artists, now on view as a special exhibition at the Central Public Library, will represent St. Louis art at the Silver Anniversary Exposition, Missouri State Fair, at Sedalia, in August, and will be shown as an educational traveling exhibition at several other places.

The collection was assembled by the Exhibitions Committee of the St. Louis Art League and is announced as the first enterprise on the Art League program for the season of 1925-1926. The annual thumb-box exhibition also is now being arranged for by the committee to open in the fall. This year's display will be the eleventh of the series.

Paintings in oil, water color and other "mediums," with drawings, designs and examples of artistic pictorial photography, comprise the display at the library.

Artists Represented.

Art workers represented in the catalogue include Oscar E. Berninghaus, Frank D. Nuderscher, Tom P. Barnett, Charles F. Galt, Robert A. Kissack, Fred G. Gray, Kathryn E. The Art League, in co-operation with the State Fair management, have sent an art exhibit from St. Louis to Sedalia regularly for several years. This year they were asked to make a special effort in honor of the silver anniversary of the Fair. The State Board, responsible for the fair, are emphasizing the educational features, and it is pointed out that in line with this idea the more important State Fairs of today place a growing importance upon art.

$250 Purchase Prize.

Fortunately, the Missouri Fair has at Sedalia a permanent fireproof structure, the Women's building, where the art exhibit always is installed. An innovation this year is the starting of a permanent art collection for the Women's building. This will be inaugurated with a purchase from the 1925 display, for which $250 has been appropriated as a purchase prize. Of the present St. Louis exhibit, it is believed that 20 or 30 paintings may be eligible for the award, some of the more important examples being too highly valued to come within the range of availability. Other art prizes offered are $75, $50 and $25, with the blue, white and red ribbons of merit.

The display at the library occupies the art room and the large central hall on the main floor, where it will be open free, during the day and up to 9 o'clock p. m. until Saturday, Aug. 8.

CHILDREN GET PETRING ESTATE

Will of Merchant Disposes of $340,000 in Property.

The will of George H. Petring, disposing of an estate estimated at $340,000, was filed yesterday in the Probate Court. He named as his beneficiaries his three children—Mrs. Winnie C. Outen and Emma and William H. Petring—who are to share the estate equally. The son is appointed executor.

Petring, who died July 21, was president of the H. P. Coffee Co., 1001 Spruce street. He resided at 4548 West Pine boulevard.

Gas On Stomach Makes People Nervous

Mrs. Cook Nervous 12 Years Due to Gas

"For 12 years I suffered from gas on the stomach and was nervous and short of breath. Adlerika has done me more good than anything." (Signed) Lela Cook.

Intestinal Evacuant.

There is now offered to the public a liquid preparation which is not only a wonderfully effective and QUICK intestinal evacuant, but which also seems to stimulate the glands of the intestinal tract and to cause expulsion of flatus (GAS). This preparation, known as Adlerika, is a valuable agent for the purpose of cleansing the bowels of matter which has been in the system a long time and which other less effective means have been unable to dislodge. It is often astonishing the great amount of matter Adlerika draws from the intestinal canal—even right after a natural movement it sometimes brings out unsuspected quantities of additional matter. Many times it brings out much GAS, thus relieving pressure in the abdomen. Adlerika is especially valuable when PROMPT action is necessary or to encourage the elimination of metabolic poisons through the bowel.

In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation or gas on the stomach and headache (when due to bowel inaction), a single spoonful of Adlerika often produces surprising and gratifying results. In cases of obstinate constipation or stomach trouble, if Adlerika does not bring relief in 24 to 36 hours the advice of a reputable physician should be secured.

Reports From Physicians.

"I congratulate you on the good effect from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"Adlerika is the best in my entire 37 years' experience." (Signed) Dr. G. Eggers.

"I prescribed Adlerika with highly satisfactory results." (Signed) Dr. A. C. C. (Name given on request.)

"I can't get along without Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. W. H. Bernhart.

J. E. Puckett (a user of Adlerika) writes: "After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the impurities eliminated from my system."

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and QUICK action. Sold by leading druggists everywhere.

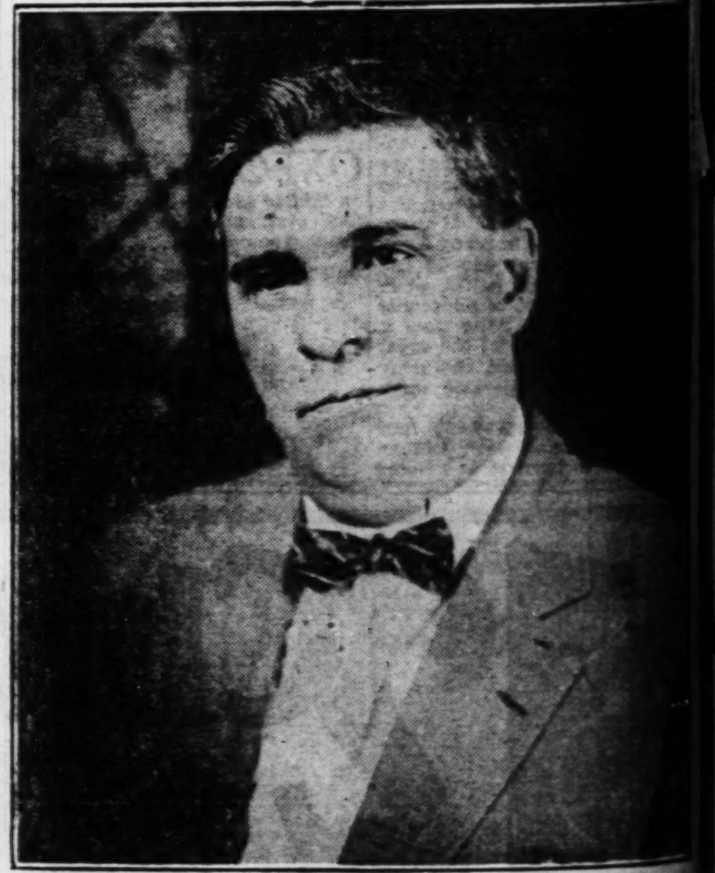
POPULAR SAINT LOUIS SALESMAN STAUNCH SUPPORTER OF HERB JUICE

Says It Not Only Relieved Him of Constipation, but Has Also Relieved His Wife of a Very Bad Case of Stomach and Kidney Trouble



MR. A. C. BRUCE.

"Honestly, I have never seen anything work such wonders and give such instantaneous relief as your Herb Juice has both to me and my wife," said Mr. A. C. Bruce, well-known and respected salesman, residing at 2326 Dodier Street, Saint Louis, Mo., in a recent conversation with the Herb Juice man.

"I have suffered a great many years," continued Mr. Bruce, "with constipation and sick headaches, and have tried every remedy imaginable. Some of them gave me slight relief while taking, but nothing has ever displayed its merit as a medicine like your wonderful remedy, Herb Juice. I got the first bottle for my wife, as she suffered intensely from chronic constipation, indigestion, gastritis and kidney trouble. I have spent a great deal of money on medicine for her in the past few years, but nothing seemed to give her any notice relief. She was extremely ner caused, of course, from these ments, and her nights were restless.

"I noticed such a wonderful provement in my wife's cond after taking only a couple of tles of Herb Juice that I decid to try it myself, and I am ple to say that we are both 100 p cent improved. My wife is nev bothered with constipation more. Her kidneys are in excell condition, and she can now eat thing she wants and can digest wonderfully well. She now sle soundly and undisturbed, and j me in a hearty indorsement Herb Juice, the only medicine has ever given us satisfaction both take great pleasure in ind ing and praising Herb Juice to our friends and acquaint wherever we go."

Hundreds are calling daily to see the Herb Juice man, who has estab lished headquarters at Judge & Dolph, 514 Washington Ave., giving ments for publication and praising Herb Juice that their friends may induced to try the great remedy which is relieving so many suffere Saint Louis.

AUGUST SALE OF LAMPS

—Newest Ornate Types at the Extreme Savings of 40% to 50%

¶ Our dominance in buying and selling was never more forcibly demonstrated than in this large and impressive event. From every angle, the selection is intensely interesting, our remarkably special purchases accruing to your benefit in a most extraordinary way. Row upon row of beautifully designed and splendidly built quality Lamps—a choice for every corner and every taste—and each Lamp at a saving which only such an important event as this could make possible. It is, indeed, your "golden" opportunity to buy for gifts as well as for your own home.

High-Grade Lamps Exclusively

—are presented in this sale—the bases revealing a deft craftsmanship in hand-turning. Many are handsomely carved and all are piped and weighted to prevent tipping. The various finishes are highly ornamented and in every instance the gold metal leaf finish is laid on—not merely sprayed or painted.

Shades Are Hand Tailored

Gleaming silks and Georgettes in richly beautiful color tones are used in the fashioning of the shades—there are many styles and sizes, all elaborately finished with silk and metal bullion fringe.

Deferred Payments are offered on all Lamps over $25 and charge purchases will be entered on August statements, payable September 1st.

$100 Junior Lamps

The August Sale of Furs

Features Four Exceptional Price Groups

$98.50 $189.00 $289.00 $385.00

A TREMENDOUS COLLECTION of beautiful new Fur Coats and Jacquettes for Fall and Winter showing the latest authentic Fur Fashions and offering outstanding values at these special August Sale prices.

Our combined purchases for our three stores were made under the most favorable conditions. We bought in large quantities and secured the best values obtainable at the price. In every instance these savings have been passed along to you. Many new Furs appear in the fashion limelight. These include Oscelot, Panther, Susliki, Antelope, Pony, Leopard, Marmink and American Broadtail (S. American Lamb). Mostly short-haired furs, which are now in the forefront of Fur fashions, particularly when elaborately trimmed with Fox or other long-haired Furs. In color tones, too, the new furs offer a delightful diversity. They have been beautifully dyed in rich Blonde, Beige, Platinum, Steel Grey, Cocoa and handsome Browns and Black. There is a wide range of prices, besides the four special groups. Fur Shop—Third Floor

Important Notice on Charge or Cash Purchases

Applying to Both Furs and Cloth Coats in the August Sale

Charge purchases go on the October bills, payable November first. Garments bought for cash will be laid away upon a reasonable deposit with the balance payable at time of the delivery.

All garments stored free until November first.

New Style Features in Cloth Coats For Fall and Winter

Interesting New Materials in Vogue

A variety of entirely new fabrics is employed in Coats for Fall and Winter. Of a beautiful velvety texture, they have a rich sheen and are wonderfully soft, smooth and pliable. Needlepoint is one of the most effective of these new weaves. The inspiration for this was the needlepoint weave, which it reproduces so perfectly—and it is as durable and beautiful. Kashanora, Kashmir, Kashmirella, Roulustra and Lustrosa are other new coatings with a beauty like that of rare velvet.

Plumage Shades Are Fashion's New Colors

Fashion-right colors this year are taken after the rich-toned plumage of birds. The smart new shades are Cracklehead (Pencil Blue), Blue Jay (Royal Blue), Queen Bird (Plum Color), Sea Swallow (Platinum Grey), Dove (Dark Brown), Falcon (Dark Grey), Tanager (Rust), Cuckoo (Golden Brown), Sylphtail (Dark Purple), Jacapa (Red Brown) and also Navy and Black.

The Charming New Flares

While the Straightline and the Flared Silhouette are equally favored in the new modes, the Flared Models have found many original and charming ways of achieving a graceful, subtle fullness; the new back flare, the circular front flare and godet side flares are seen. A number of striking new types of coat collars are in evidence—the mushroom, the Queen Anne, the revere and the tuxedo. In sleeves and cuffs, this year, the designers offer many elaborate, individual creations. Luxurious fur trimmings are more generously used than ever.

LINDELL BOULEVARD BODY OUTLINES CAMPAIGN PLAN

Residents of Thoroughfare Are Asked to Tell if They Intend to Sell Property.

The Lindell Boulevard Association, comprising residents who wish to preserve it as a residence thoroughfare, have drawn up a plan of campaign based on what they term "publicity, moral suasion and defending its legal rights."

The association has asked all property owners along Lindell to advise them if they contemplate selling their holdings. A Real Estate Committee will then endeavor to have the property fall into proper hands. John M. Goodwin, an attorney, is president of the organization.

Dufour Was Manager of Branch.

It was erroneously stated in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch that Eli Dufour, 75 years old, who died suddenly at the Maplewood yard of the Union Fuel Co., July 18, was a laborer employed by the fuel company. Dufour was manager of the Maplewood branch office and had been employed in that capacity a number of years.

Retailers to Hold Convention.

The American Retailers' Association is to hold its fourth semi-annual convention at Hotel Statler Aug. 3 to 10. A series of speeches on commercial subjects, a visit to the fashion pageant at the Garden Theater, Aug. 5, and a banquet the evening of Aug. 6 will feature the program.

Social Activities in Full Swing Among Summer Colonists on Massachusetts Coast and at Newport.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Mass., July 25.—Entertaining for the members of the foreign embassies began this week when Mrs. William Gordon Means, granddaughter of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, gave a dinner in honor of Counselor of the British Embassy and Mrs. Chilton, at her Pride's Crossing home. On Friday night Mrs. Means gave a dinner in honor of the President's naval aide, Capt. Adolphus Andrews of the Mayflower.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond of Gloucester have had the Bishop of Washington, the Rt. Rev. James B. Freeman, as their guest at "Lookout Hill." While here they entertained at luncheon in his honor, their guests including Bishop, Philip M. Rhinelander of Philadelphia, Dean Bratenahl of Washington, D. C., and Canon Anson Phelps Stokes. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond are well known to St. Louis people.

Mrs. Samuel G. Kennedy and family of St. Louis are established for the summer at Seacrest, one of the cottages connected with the Oceanside hotel, Magnolia. Mr. Kennedy's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eddy, and their two children, accompanied him to Magnolia, and will remain through the season.

Del Monte's at Magnolia is a most popular place on Saturday nights when numerous parties from all along the Shore gather for the dinner dance. Last week among those noted at the tables were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Perry Jr. of New York, who were entertaining a party of guests. Mr. and Mrs. Perry are spending the summer with Mrs. Perry's mother, Mrs. Claude Kilpatrick of Portland place, St. Louis, at "Stonehurst" her place on the Shore road at Magnolia.

Mrs. Alvin B. Goodbar of St. Louis is a season guest at the Moorlands, Bass Rocks.

Charles Claflin Allen Jr., and family of St. Louis are occupying Overlook cottage at Annisquam, for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cutler of "Three Brooks," Charles River Village, near Boston, are spending the summer at Marion. Mrs. Cutler was formerly Miss Margaret Lionberger, daughter of Isaac Lionberger of St. Louis, who maintained a summer home at Marion for several years when his daughters were young. Others of the Shepley family form a group of interesting young people at Marion.

Among the new members who have recently been elected to the Nantucket Country Club are Mr. and Mrs. George H. Share of St. Louis, who have a cottage there for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Davis and Miss Alita have come from St. Louis to spend the summer at Islesboro, where they have taken the Edward Brandegee place.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Irving Pratt are not opening their estate at Islesboro until mid-August, just before the wedding of their nephew John T. Pratt Jr., and Miss Mary Christy Tiffany of St. Louis, which takes place Aug. 26, at St. Marys of the Isle. Mr. and Mrs. Pratt will give one of the pre-nuptial functions for the bridal party, for which many New York and St. Louis guests will come to Dark Harbor.

Joseph Pulitzer Jr., who has been with his father at Chatwold, Bar Harbor, has gone to Sebago Bear Mountain Camp at Lake Sebago for several weeks.

The fourth international maritime tennis tournament is planned for the week of Aug. 3, at Bar Harbor, when H. M. S. Wistaria and Valerian, as well as several of the United States navy vessels will be in Frenchman's Bay.

The first of a series of informal dances for the summer colony at Great Diamond Island was given Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance of officers and their wives from Fort McKinley. Mrs. L. B. Ewing of St. Louis and Mrs. Albion Little of Portland were hostesses for the evening, while Mrs. Upson of St. Louis served at the punch table.

At Newport.

Mrs. Dan W. Jones of St. Louis is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Norman at their Newport home.

The beach at the Scarboro Bathing Club is the meeting place of the younger set at Narragansett Pier, for the daily dip. Among those frequently seen is George Lea Lambert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert of St. Louis, who have for many years been of the Pier summer colony. Young Lambert is one of the tennis adepts at the Point Judith Country Club, following in the footsteps of his brother, Donaldson, who at one time held the junior championship of the club.

Interest at the Misquamicut Golf Club at Watch Hill centered this week upon the women's two-ball foursome, which was played from Tuesday to Friday. The winners were Mrs. Allen T. West of St. Louis and her partner, Mrs. John S. Owsley, who defeated their opponents in the finals by 1 up.

Dr. Edward Schofield Travers and Allen T. West, both of St. Louis, were among the players taking part in the blind bogey tournament for men held this week at the Misquamicut Golf Club.

More Missourians Arrive in Europe

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, France, July 15.—It is at this season of the year—when Paris and London are deserted by the social world—that the famous Czecho-Slovak water resorts come into their own. Society goes there to rest and take the "cure" and the casual tourist follows.

Carlsbad, the most favored of the resorts, is entertaining more American visitors this year than at any time since the war. The larger hotels have been booked up from early July through August and are advising prospective visitors to defer their arrival until September.

Americans are exceedingly numerous at Saint-Lunaire, on the Emerald Coast of France, where the season opened on July 11 with a gala ball and a series of tennis tournaments. At the Grand Hotel in Saint-Lunaire from Missouri are Mrs. James G. Cahill and Miss Lenore Cahill of St. Louis. Mrs. and Mrs. Cahill have been on the Continent for the last two months, dividing their time between Italy and Paris.

The Fourth of July, 1925, will be remembered as a red letter day by Americans residing in Berlin as it signalized the first attempt made to stage a fete reminiscent of

Entertainments at Capital Now Mostly Al Fresco Affairs

Surprising Number of Notables Gather at Mid-Summer Dinners and Receptions Given on Terraces and Porticoes and in Gardens.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 25.

THE evening reception to be given at the Pan-American Union Aug. 8 by the Bolivian Minister and Madame Freyre and their daughter, Miss Yolande Freyre, in celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of Bolivian independence is eagerly looked forward to by the diplomats and officials still in Washington.

It is surprising how many distinguished people can be gathered together at a dinner or reception in midsummer in Washington, and every day some such event more or less formal takes place. Al fresco affairs on terraces, porticoes or in gardens in Washington are popular.

Mrs. Marshall Field passed through Washington on her way to New York and spent several days in her home here. Mrs. Field has interested many of the Washington society women in the Christmas bazar to be given at Sherry's in New York for the benefit of the Association for the Aid of Crippled Children of which she is general chairman.

Mrs. James Carson Breckenridge, wife of Col. Breckenridge, United States Marine Corps, has gone to Summit Point, W. Va., to spend the rest of the summer. Mrs. Breckenridge's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Thomson of New Orleans, will join her there later in the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bixby and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Oliver of St. Louis were in Washington this week as guests at the Mayflower Hotel. Mrs. Frank B. Hutchinson, wife of Rear Admiral Hutchinson, entertained the children of the officers at the navy yard at another moonlight ride down the Potomac River this week. Mrs. Hutchinson is called the "fairy godmother of the children" because she often plans little surprises and gives parties for them.

Mrs. Edwin Puller, who has been spending some weeks at Atlantic City, returned to Washington this week for a brief visit. Mrs. Puller will reopen her Washington home early in the fall.

Washington is not the deserted village it appears to be on the surface for many of the diplomats and their families are living here quietly and there is a constant return-

"The Passing Show"

by

Shirley Deane

The exhibition of the new Fur Modes, shown on living models at Sonnenfeld's during the past week, was a "Passing Show" of every new style idea that will be revealed in next Winter's fur fashions. Hundreds of people viewing the exhibit were able to determine exactly the Coat they desired and to make reservations now with the savings made possible by the August Sale prices.

Sportsdom

—was well represented with new snugly fitting single or double breasted swagger affairs, full-length or jacquette style, many with ultra-swanky kashmir linings. Here were seen gorgeous models of leopard, leopard cat, antelope, muskrat, raccoon, nutria, handsome indeed, yet ready to brave the stormiest elements.

Luxuriousness

—was eloquently bespoken by the sumptuous dress models, tightly bodiced for the most part and elaborated with skirt flares and magnificent borders at neck, cuff and hem. Supple, glossy, superb in quality, they suggest prices running into the high hundreds—mink, mole, seal, squirrel, caracul and fine broadtail figuring prominently. One gasped with surprise on learning that the prices were so low.

Convenience in Paying

—as well as saving in price, is a keynote of the August Fur Classic.

Reserve Your Coat Now

—to be held free of charge in our cold storage vaults. You may pay any one of three ways:

1—Pay in 90 days if you are a charge customer.

2—Make a 25% deposit now, and pay the balance when convenient, if you are not a charge customer.

3—Make arrangements for easy payments in the "Will Call" Department.

Any one of these three methods, dignified and convenient as they are, affords you the privilege of profiting by the low sale prices in the August Fur Classic.

ing for a few days of the many householders who are having their homes redecorated and refurnished for the winter.

Robert Woods Bliss, Minister to Sweden, and Mrs. Bliss, who have been spending some weeks in Washington supervising the interior decoration of their new $1,000,000 chateau in Georgetown, left yesterday for Newport, where they will spend several weeks before going to St. Louis for a brief visit.

Prince and Princess Cantacuzene, who have been spending a month here with the Princess' mother, Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant, have gone to Nahant, Mass., where they will spend the month of August with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Curtis.

Another St. Louis-Washington family on the North Shore is that of Mr. and Mrs. Breckinridge Long, who have a villa at Nantucket. They entertained this week for Mr. and Mrs. Stuart G. Gibboney of New York, who are their house guests.

Missourians were interested in the wedding on Thursday of Miss Bertha L. Wilson to L. Vernon Brumbaugh, formerly connected with the Bureau of Standards here, now a resident of St. Louis. After a honeymoon in Atlantic City, Mr. and Mrs. Brumbaugh will go to St. Louis and open their home there.

Mrs. David H. Blair, wife of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, returned on Saturday from a month's visit in Missouri and North Carolina.

Secretary of Labor Davis spent some days in Washington last week before leaving for Europe. It is learned that Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Herbert Hoover will return from California on Aug. 1 instead of waiting until autumn, as they had planned to do. The coming to Washington of the various debt funding commissions from Europe next month made it imperative for the Secretary to return, and Mrs. Hoover decided to accompany him.

GLADYS LANGWITH
DEUKMAN PHOTO

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the engagement of Miss Gladys Langwith, daughter of James Langwith of the Romaine apartments, 5305 Delmar boulevard, and James S. Manion, St. Louis district champion golfer. The prospective bride has just returned from a trip West, where she visited Mrs. E. J. Mulligan of San Francisco, a sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. C. H. Hoefle of Seattle, Wash., formerly of St. Louis.

The wedding will take place Sept. 9 at 8 o'clock in St. Rose's Church, the Rev. Father Robert Johnston of St. Louis University, officiating. Miss Nellie Langwith, a sister of the bride, will be maid of honor, and Eddie Held, Missouri State golf champion, best man. The bride will wear a flesh-colored chiffon frock with large hat to match and the maid of honor will wear poudre blue. The bride is a graduate of the Sacred Heart Convent and the bridegroom attended St. Louis University and is a member of Riverview Club.

Mrs. George Warren Brown of St. Louis, who crossed to Europe on the Aquitania on its most recent voyage, is at the Hotel Plaza-Athenee in Paris. Mrs. Nathaniel L. Moffett of St. Louis is a guest at the same hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Kirkpatrick of St. Joseph, Mo., and W. McMillan Lewis of St. Louis were among those noticed during the last two weeks at the International Exposition of Decorative Arts, now being held in Paris.

Recent visitors from Missouri in Rome include Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher R. Harris and their daughter, Miss Janet Harris of St. Louis, who were guests at the Hotel Excelsior.

Recent visitors to Florence from Missouri include Miss Marjorie Cornet, Miss Ruth Cornet, Mrs. William J. Porter, Miss Olquita M. Queeny and Miss Susan Fritsch of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Holmes of St. Louis, who were passengers on the White Star liner Majestic on its last trip to Europe, are staying at the Hotel Plaza-Athenee in Paris.

Mrs. Paul Y. Tupper and her son, Gregory Tupper of St. Louis, who have been traveling in Europe, were recent guests of the Hotel Wagram in Paris.

Americans who have been spending some time recently at the Grand Hotel in London include John Leahy and Joseph Lumaghi of St. Louis.

DENMARK PLANS TO ABOLISH BOTH ARMY AND NAVY

Civil Guard of 10,000 to 12,000 Men to Be Formed for Purpose of Maintaining Order.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. (Copyright, 1925.)

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 5.—The Danish Government's plan for the total abolition of the army and the navy is meeting tremendous opposition, which may, in the opinion of many here, force considerable modifications.

Critics fasten their attention more particularly upon the navy, demanding what is to be done with Denmark's 15 submarines and three cruisers and how, in case of continued disputes with Norway over fishing rights in Greenland waters, Denmark is to maintain her position. The Government, however, shows no signs of weakening.

"Every new world forward movement must have some pioneer," said Laust Rasmussen, Minister of Defense. "Usually such pioneers are the small and weak. Denmark, small and from the war point of view weak, has become the pioneer in the movement for European disarmament. We are not only talking; we are acting.

Bill Ready for Riksdag.

"Two years ago the Danish Social-Democratic Government reduced the army from 60,000 men to 35,000. Now we are taking the next step. A Government measure will be put before the next session of the Riksdag proposing the entire abolition of the navy and the army, including even such regiments as the Royal Guards.

"We must, of course, retain some ships for our coast guard services and for patrolling our fishing grounds, and those ships may be armed. For the purpose of maintaining order, supervising frontiers and the like a new body will be formed, a civil guard, numbering in war strength possibly 10,000 to 12,000 men. This force will be uniformed, service in it will be made attractive and will be well paid, and we shall have every year so many volunteers to join it that we shall be able to select a high type of men.

"One reason that induced this Government to move is that the army as now constituted is of no practical service. It is not strong enough or sufficiently modern in equipment to engage in actual war. It costs $10,000,000 a year; to bring it up to date would cost $20,000,000 a year. A weak army is a source of weakness, not of strength, and we shall be stronger without it.

No Enemy to Fight.

"There is no enemy for Denmark to fight. Communism does not threaten us. Our people are too intelligent and their circumstances too favorable for bolshevist doctrines to flourish in this soil. It is unthinkable that the Russian Government should attack us. Were the red internationale to foment trouble, our civil guard would be sufficient to maintain order and protect the nation's rights. We do not aspire to play a fighting role in the affairs of other European countries and could not if we would. Even with our army we could not protect Latvia and Esthonia against communist attacks. That is outside our powers.

"What we hope is by our example to give an impulse towards European disarmament so that, as social democracy increases, armies will decline and disappear. Sweden has been first to follow our example in substantially cutting down her fighting forces. Eventually, like Denmark, I believe she will abolish them altogether.

"Our position within the League of Nations remains unaffected. We have planned to carry out voluntarily what the Powers compelled Germany and Austria to do, because, believing that militarism is Europe's curse, we wish to do our share to destroy it."

HOLY SEPULCHER'S LOCATION IN DOUBT

Discovery of Third Wall of Jerusalem Strengthens View Supposed Site Is Impossible.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, July 3.—Part of the wall inclosing Jerusalem built by Agrippa, one of the last Jewish Kings, and destroyed by Titus, has been unearthed recently. About 60 yards of the wall, some four yards in thickness, have been uncovered by the Jewish Exploration Society.

This discovery has aroused deep interest in archeological and religious circles. If this is the third of the series of walls built around Jerusalem, it is argued, it brings into question the authenticity of the site of the Holy Sepulcher.

The third wall was begun by Herod Agrippa about 40-44 A. D., and was interrupted by the Roman Governor of Syria, to be completed later by the Jews before the final siege of the city.

By all accounts there were three walls which protected Jerusalem on the north, built successively both for the protection of the weakest side of the defenses and to afford room for the steady growth of the city at the beginning of the Christian era. Both the first and second walls were standing at the time of Christ and the place of crucifixion and burial must have been outside them.

Doubts About Location.

Some scholars have contended that the site of the Holy Sepulcher is impossible because it is shut within ancient Jerusalem, it being known that crucifixions did not take place within the city walls. Adherents of this view, especially a large number of the English community, who have always entertained doubts about the location of the Holy Sepulcher, see further confirmation in the discovery of what is believed to be the third wall.

The Jewish Exploration Society, which is conducting these excavations, holds with Dr. W. F. Albright, director of the American School of Oriental Research here, that the discovery of the Agrippan wall does not seriously affect "this long smoldering question." Dr. Albright admits that the situation is awkward.

Mosaic Unearthed.

"Shall we decide for the Holy Sepulcher and against the evidence, or against the Holy Sepulcher and also against other evidence of little less cogency?" Dr. Albright asks. "Neither horn of the dilemma is necessary. The present north wall of the city dates back only to Hadrian's time and represents a wholly new line of wall. We are forced to the conviction that archeology rarely affects the question of holy sites. The location of the Holy Sepulcher will remain just as certain or just as obscure as it is today."

Along with this discovery there has been unearthed a mosaic belonging to the late Byzantine period. According to the Greek inscription on the mosaic, this was the tomb of a nun, near which there was also apparently a small Christian chapel.

ZEPPELIN CELEBRATION

25th Anniversary of First Flight to Be Observed in August.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

FRIEDRICHSHAVEN, July 3.—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the first Zeppelin flight will be celebrated in this city in August. On his first flight Count Zeppelin succeeded in remaining in the air only 20 minutes. To the coming celebration a number of prominent personalities in the world of economics and science will be invited.

Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin was born at Constance, in Baden, Germany, in 1838. During the American Civil War he served as a volunteer in the Union army. It was while he was in America that he made his first ascent in a balloon. He died in Berlin in 1917.

Stout Men Reduce!

You men who have taken on too much weight—why don't you reduce? Why go on letting people poke fun at you—denying yourself the foods you like to eat—afraid to do the things you could enjoy if you were slender?

Reduce the pleasant way—without exercises or diets! Thousands of men do it every year. They use Marmola Tablets to restore the health which only slender men enjoy.

No bother, no trouble—just follow the simple directions which come in every box. No one but yourself will ever know how you got slender and young looking again.

All drug stores have Marmola Tablets—one dollar a box. Or from us direct in plain wrapper, postpaid. Marmola Co., 1841 General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

RECENT WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS IN ST. LOUIS

Miss Loretta Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Martin of 2737A Chippewa street, became the bride last Thursday at Springfield, Ill., of Dr. E. T. Klippel. The couple are in Chicago, Milwaukee and Northern resorts on their wedding trip, and will make their home at 3825 Botanical avenue.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Jessie R. Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor of 6812 Robbins avenue, and John Dodge Hardy Jr., June 20 at the Kingsland Memorial Church. Miss Eunice Carrico was maid of honor; Misses Bernice Campbell, Catherine Taylor, Marie Hardy and Mable Harlan, bridesmaids; Olga Lillian Taylor, Martha Krebs, John Hardy, flower girls; Margarte Ray and Marion Shurstein, train bearers; Harry Lee Rose Jr., ring bearer, and John Steidle, Charles Hardy, Frank Dunham, Clarence Loeber and Paul Bunting, attendant for the bridegroom.

Julian L. Klein and Herbert J. Klein of 5246 Sutherland avenue have departed for Peru, Ind., to attend the marriage of Miss Esther Moore and their brother, Edwin W. Klein, July 27 at the First Baptist Church of Peru. After the wedding Julian Klein will tour through Michigan with the couple. Mr. Klein and his bride will make their home in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Sobel announce the engagement of their daughter, Molly, to Saul Gasmer.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Hurwitz of 27 Lewis place announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Burdie, and Mannie Schermer of Granite City, Tuesday, July 21. After a wedding trip through the West, Mr. and Mrs. Schermer will occupy their new home at 2541 C street, Granite City.

The marriage of Miss Claudine Michell to Lieut. William H. Meyer, U. S. N., took place at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Grace C. Johnson, 4374 Forest Park boulevard, July 4, at 12 o'clock, high noon. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church. A reception and wedding dinner followed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Isabelle Michell. The groom had as best man, the younger brother of the bride, Albert E. Michell.

The bride wore an elaborate gown of white brocade velvet of French design with pearl and rhinestone trimming and carried a shower boquet of white roses and valley lilies. The maid of honor wore white crepe de chine and carried pink roses and lilies of the valley.

After a month's tour of the New England States, Lieut. and Mrs. Meyer will be stationed in New London, Conn., where Lieut. Meyer is in charge of instruction of submarine tactics.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Downey, of Webster Groves, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Gertrude, and Eugene H. Reinagel, of 3936 Wyoming street, at a bridge luncheon given last week at the Missouri Athletic Association. The table decorations were pink and white roses. The guests were Misses Olivia Reinagel, Clara Miller, Lucille Halbruegger, Agnes Kunze, Martha Barnidge, Arthesmia Downey, Margaret Werckmann, Mrs. H. Darr and Mrs. B. Norman.

The marriage of Miss Louise Ruff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ruff of 5523 Devonshire avenue, and Frank Edward Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Joseph Wright, of Toledo, O., will take place Tuesday morning, Aug. 4, at St. Mary Magdalen Church, Kingshighway and Sutherland avenue at 8 o'clock. After Aug. 20 the couple will make their home in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schaus, of 3806 Humphrey street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Eunice Schaus, and Jesse C. Bremer, son of Mrs. Alice Bremer of Hillsboro, Ill. The ceremony took place April 24 at Lindenwood College, the Rev. Dr. John L. Roemer officiating. The bride attended that school and the University of Illinois. Mr. Bremer is a graduate of the Civil Engineering School at the same university. Mr. and Mrs. Bremer are residing temporarily at Hillsboro. They will depart Aug. 1 for Miami, Fla., where they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Coppersmith of 723 Interdrive announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen, and Harry M. Hochman, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Hochman of 7800 Michigan avenue.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Celeste Schaffran of Philadelphia and Morrie Rudman of 7260 Forsythe boulevard. Mr. Rudman recently returned from the East. With his fiancee, he went to Atlantic City to join his mother, and the three journeyed to Lynn, Mass., to visit his uncle, E. Rudman. Mrs. Rudman and Miss Schaffran are now in Chicago, and will go to Dubuque, Ia., to visit a sister of the prospective bridegroom before coming to St. Louis.

Miss Luella Beckman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Beckman of 3646 Garfield avenue, announces her engagement to A. Ralph Spangenberg, station passenger agent for the Missouri Pacific Railroad. Mr. Spangenberg is the son of Albert F Spangenberg of the National Bank of Commerce, and resides with his parents at 3511 Vista avenue. The marriage will take place this fall.

The marriage of Miss Emma Hellmich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Hellmich of 3547 Chittenden street, to Dr. A. F. Plad of Morganford and Juniata street, took place Saturday morning, July 25, at 9 o'clock, at Hotel Chase.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Russell, 4169 Flora place, was the scene of the wedding last evening of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Russell, and Paul Green of 3845 Hartford street. Only members of the families were present. The home was decorated with baskets of flowers and ferns. Miss Francina Palmer was maid of honor, and Joe Dillon best man. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. C. Nesbitt, and the couple departed afterwards for a trip West. They will be at home in St. Louis after Sept. 1.

The Rev. Charles M. Smith of Exeter, Mo., announced the marriage of his daughter, Violette Gay, to Dupuy Warrick of Kansas City, Saturday, July 11, in Dallas, Tex. Mr. and Mrs. Warrick will be at home after Aug. 1 at Brush Creek Plaza, Kansas City, Mo. Mrs. Warrick made her home in St. Louis for several years prior to last fall and has many friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson of Partridge avenue, Clayton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mabel Nicholson, and Henry J. Newman of 3939 Flad avenue. The wedding will take place in October.

Coal Club to Hold Picnic.

The annual picnic under the auspices of the St. Louis Coal Club will be held at New Lake Ramona Park next Wednesday. The outing will include an athletic program for which prizes will be awarded.

Club to Go on River Excursion.

The Carpet and Upholstery Club will have an excursion on the steamer St. Paul, Aug. 8.

August Sale of FURS

ADVANCE PARIS MODES—at decidedly less than later season prices

It is important to emphasize this fact regarding Our August Sale of Furs.

Advance Parisian and New York models in the newest and most beautiful conceptions of fur fashions for the Fall and Winter are now ready and offered for the first time during this event —and at such decided reductions from "later in the season prices" as to warrant your most careful consideration.

The August Fur Sale coincides this year with the formal opening of our new and enlarged quarters where additional space and greater facilities and a courteous and attentive personnel make the selection of furs a positive pleasure.

Back From Wedding Trip

MRS J. STANLEY ESSON JR
KAJIWARA PHOTO

MR. AND MRS. J. STANLEY ESSON JR. have just returned from their honeymoon trip East, and are making their home at 7158 Waterman avenue. Mrs. Esson was, before her marriage, Miss Jane Ramsey McClure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. McClure of Cabanne avenue.

2000 WOMEN FIGHT TO VIEW WEDDING OF LADY CURZON

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, July 25.—Lady Alexandra Curzon's marriage to Maj. "Fruit" Metcalfe was easily the smartest wedding of the season, even though the bride's family is still in mourning.

Mounted police were necessary to control a crowd of more than 2000 women who mobbed the small Chapel Royal of St. James' for a glimpse of the white-clad bride and the bevy of charmingly attired girl and boy train-bearers who were substituted for bridesmaids.

Owing to the King's garden party—also to the Curzon family's desire to observe the decorum of mourning—no British royalties attended the ceremony. But the Queen of the Belgians and her daughter, Princess Maria, were the star guests.

Gifts From Royalty.

The donors of wedding gifts, however, included all the royalties from King George downward. The present of the Prince of Wales to his former "Master of the Horse" was a silver tureen, silver dishes and a silver model of his favorite horse—the model being as yet uncompleted but displayed among the gifts as a picture.

The gift of the Duke and Duchess of York was a white and gold china service, while the Queen of the Belgians brought her own present from home, a pearl and diamond bracelet.

The bridal pair intend to miss the Cowes regatta in order to spend most of their honeymoon in Scotland, possibly obtaining a little shooting before departing in September for India, where Maj. Metcalfe will take up the duties of aid de camp to the new Commander in Chief, Field Marshal Sir William Birdwood.

Bridgegroom Relatively Poor.

Maj. Metcalfe is a relatively poor man and it is whispered that but for Lord Curzon's death Lady Alexandra's wedding might have been indefinitely delayed. The former Viceroy had hoped for a more brilliant match for his daughter. However, the speeding up of the marriage during the mourning period is generally credited to the friendly counsel of Lord Louis Mountbatten and his extremely wealthy wife, the former Edwina Ashley, granddaughter and heiress of the late multimillionaire and financier, Sir Ernest Cassel.

Lord Louis himself was even poorer than Maj. Metcalfe before his marriage, and he was able to point out to Lady Alexandra that no reason existed why a wealthy bride should not marry a poor man if she wishes to.

As a result of this and other romances in the Mountbatten circle the family is again getting the name of the "match-making Battenburgs," which was first bestowed on them at the time of the marriage of the Princess Beatrice to Prince Henry of Battenburg.

Club Meetings for the Week announced.

The Bel Canto, a musical club for women, gave a picnic in Forest Park last week.

The St. Louis Outing Club will meet Saturday evening, Aug. 1, at 8 o'clock in the recital hall of the Odeon Building. There will be a fish fry today at Edgemont, Ill.

The Good-Fellowship Club will hold its regular meeting Friday evening at Westminster Hall, 3806 Olive street. The club will give a boat excursion Wednesday evening.

Junior Chamber "Booster Tour."

Approximately 150 members of the St. Louis Junior Chamber of Commerce left St. Louis last night for Decatur, Ill., on a "booster tour." The St. Louisans will participate in a parade through the business section of Decatur this morning and will be the guests of the Decatur Junior Chamber of Commerce at luncheon at the Elks' Country Club at noon. This afternoon will be devoted to an automobile tour and the departure for St. Louis will be at 6:45 p. m.

Gray —yet young!

"OH why can't my hair stay as young as I do," the prematurely gray woman often says—with sorrow. Wishing can't ever bring back its former loveliness or her fleeting youthfulness—but Brownatone can. This harmless, vegetable solution that tints gray, faded or bleached hair any shade, is so simple to use that you can apply it yourself. The effect is instant—lasting. Only new hair growth demands further applications. Two colors: shading from lightest blonde to black—50c and $1.50 at drug and toilet counters. A trial bottle will be sent for 10c. DESCENDANTS OF ST. LOUIS PIONEER TO HAVE REUNION

Today's Meeting Will Be Attended by 40 in Family of the Late William Gamache.

About 40 of the children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren of the late William Gamache, a descendant of one of the 30 first families to settle in St. Louis, when it was a frontier trading post, will meet for a family reunion today at the home of one of the daughters, Mrs. Nellie Newell of Wheaton Station.

Their ancestor, John B. Gamache, came to St. Louis in February, 1764, and farmed here and in Carondelet. William Gamache, his great-great-grandson, died at the age of 77 about a year ago. Two sons of William Gamache, Harry and Walter, married descendants of Julien Le Roy, a carpenter who built and sold to pioneer settlers many of the first homes in St. Louis. Le Roy came to the "right considerable trading post" from Fort Chartres, Ill., where he had resided for nine years before the city was founded.

There are 37 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren of William Gamache. Of the four daughters and three sons, Girard Gamache and Mrs. Laura Hall reside in Pasadena. The others, residing here, are Mrs. Cora Lee Ready, Mrs. Josephine Carpenter, Mrs. Newell and Harry and Walter Gamache.

NEW $5 BILL DESIGNED TO BE "NON-RAISEABLE"

Appearance of Latest Currency Puzzles Many, Who Think It Is Counterfeit.

A new $5 silver certificate, genuine, but the first of its type to be seen in St. Louis, has been puzzling many citizens who either have refused to accept it or think it counterfeit. The note was devised by the Treasury Department to be "non-raiseable," so it could not be passed as a bill of higher denomination. One side is printed in black and white with a large figure five in blue. The other side is in green and white.

The note bears a picture of Abraham Lincoln and on both sides the word "five" and the numeral "V" and the figure "5" are printed numerous times.

Will Address Y. M. H. A.

Dr. A. L. Sachar of the University of Illinois will deliver an address on "The Romance of the Abarbanels" at the Young Men's Hebrew Association, 3645 Delmar boulevard, at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow. The public is invited.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 25.—Illinois schools damaged in the [illegible] this spring will be pro- [illegible] a portio nof the $275,000 ap- [illegible] by the General Assembly for restoring schools, the Special Relief Committee appointed by the General Assembly has decided. Under the law all contracts involving more than $1000 must be let on a competitive basis through the Department of Purchases and Construction.

KING SPENDS FORTUNE ON ENTERTAINMENTS

Cost of Royal Parties Close to Half Million Dollars.

(Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.)

LONDON, July 18.—Although King George and Queen Mary are not noted for lavish entertainments, the British monarchs have to foot a tremendous bill for ordinary entertainments during the London season which lasts from the end of May until the end of August.

It is estimated that Their Majesties spend between $400,000 and $500,000 on such entertainments to keep up appearances. The King and Queen keep very close tab on their expenses, and in "big" years, when there are several royal visitors or such parties as the 5000 American attorneys last year and the American and Canadian doctors this year, the totals of "absolutely necessary" expenditure cause dismay at Buckingham Palace.

The courts, where champagne flows lavishly, make one of the biggest items in the annual expenditure. King George's champagne, by the way, is not served in the bottles but is poured out into glass jugs fitted with gold lids bearing the royal monogram.

A State banquet or a ball are even more financially distressing, and the annual garden parties at Buckingham Palace make deep holes in the royal purse, for at the garden parties alone some 20,000 guests take ices or tea with the monarchs.

The $400,000 mentioned as expenditure on entertainments of course does not include personal expenses for clothing, etc., rendered essential for social entertainments. Queen Mary is not an extravagant dresser, but she has to keep a stock of nearly 500 gowns, suits and frocks in her wardrobe.

THEATER UPHELD IN SUIT INVOLVING MIXED AUDIENCES

Negroes Were Barred From First Floor—Lease Not Violated, Court Holds.

Circuit Judge Miller yesterday refused to grant an injunction sought by the Franklin Amusement Co. to prevent the Little Theater Corporation from violating terms of a lease it holds on a theater at 1310 Franklin avenue. He held there was no violation.

The lease was obtained from officers of the plaintiff company and provided that the theater was to be used "for colored people only or for colored and white mixed." Despite this clause, it was alleged, the theater known as the New Palace, is catering to white persons, Hyman Komm, an officer of the Franklin Co., which has a theater in the same locality for white persons, testified the New Palace was not being operated as a mixed house but was catering to white people. However, he admitted that 500 seats on the lower floor were given over exclusively to the white race, while the balcony, with a seating capacity of 250, was used for negroes and whites.

It was the contention of plaintiff's counsel that this arrangement was not a compliance with the lease, the attorney asserting that formerly whites and negroes were permitted to mix in all parts of the theater. An advertisement in a Jewish newspaper tending to support plaintiff's contention was introduced in evidence.

It was explained that the "mixed" clause was inserted so that the New Palace would not take white customers from the plaintiff's theater at 1022 Franklin avenue. The changed policy of the New Palace, it was testified, had caused the rival theater to lose about $200 a week.

Jesse S. Horwitz, an officer of the defendant company, testified that indiscriminate mixing of the two races was stopped on account of clashes between whites and negroes, thereby necessitating the presence of police. He contended that the present arrangement is a compliance with the terms of the lease.

BELL CO. REFUSES TO ALLOW AUDIT OF ITS BOOKS BY CITY

Nims Points Out That Any New Evidence Obtained Could Not Be Used in Rehearing.

Permission for a certified public accountant employed by the city to go over the books of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. was refused yesterday by E. D. Nims, president of the company.

The city seeks evidence against the application of the telephone company to increase its revenue from business telephones in St. Louis about $594,000 annually. The Public Service Commission granted the application, but the city has asked for a writ of certiorari in Circuit Court to compel the commission to reopen the case for a hearing of the same evidence it has heard.

Nims pointed out that any new evidence obtained by the audit could not, because of that provision, be used in the rehearing. He added that every investigation was an expense and inconvenience to the concern, in requiring the aid of employes and hindering their regular work. He said that he city had opportunity, when the application was before the commission, to make an audit, but had not taken advantage of it.

St. Louis U. Graduates to Study Abroad.

Eight graduates of St. Louis University will depart this week for study abroad. The Revs. George C. Ring and Henry Wilmering will attend the Gregorian University at Rome; George McDonald and Cyril Donohoe will study at Valkenburg, Holland; Julius L. Maline and Raymond O'Donnell will be at Pazilippo, Italy, and Thurber and James Smith are to be at Hastings, England.

TAXICAB INJUNCTION SOUGHT

Injunction suits were filed in Circuit Court yesterday by the Brown Taxicab Co. to prevent three private taxicab operators from driving cabs similar in color, design and insignia of the "Yellow Cabs" of the plaintiff company. The defendants are T. C. Blankenship, Charles G. Gerber and A. R. Hillis, each of whom operate one cab.

The Brown Company alleges that the defendants have purposely made the alleged imitation so that their cars might be mistaken by the public for "Yellow Cabs." Orders to show cause were issued by Judge Miller, returnable next Friday.

U. S. OFFICIAL HERE ON CURLEE STRIKE

Commission of Conciliation Will Try to End Trouble Which Began June 1.

Fred A. Canfield of Cedar Rapids, La., a Commissioner of Conciliation of the U. S. Department of Labor, came to St. Louis yesterday to try his hand at bringing the Curlee Clothing Co. and certain of its employes, on strike since June 1, into agreement.

He is confronted with a situation which he recognizes as difficult. On the one hand is the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, a labor union intrenched in every large men's clothing manufacturing center in the country except St. Louis—a union prepared financially for a drawn-out fight and apparently willing that these finances be severely drained if it can accomplish the organization of the industry here.

Cutters Are Out.

The union is centering its efforts among Curlee employes upon the cutters, skilled workmen upon whom production depends. It declares that it was successful in withdrawing virtually all of the Curlee cutters and that the Curlee replacements are without adequate experience. The consequence is, they declare, that the Curlee company is suffering greatly in production. In this circumstance they place their chief reliance of success.

On the other side is F. H. Curlee, who has single-handed dominance of the Curlee company—a man of large personal fortune derived from a business which is successful, he declares, because he has been able with nonunion workers to produce at lower costs than competitors who have working agreements with the Amalgamated. He declares his willingness for great financial sacrifice rather than to surrender what he regards as his chief reliance for prosperity. He is known among his associates for firmness in opinion and for thorough-going opposition to unionism, which he regards as dictatorship of private business.

National Officers Here.

The union, from time to time during the strike, has dispatched its national officers to St. Louis in the hope that they could persuade Curlee to discussions around a table. The union feels that Curlee has erroneous antipathies that could be cured if its record of arbitration and tranquillity in other cities could be presented.

Curlee has steadfastly declined to treat with anyone representing the union. He does not recognize it as representing his employes. This is the situation which the Federal mediator will undertake to solve. It is reported that he will try first to persuade Curlee to meet the union leaders.

MEETING ON STEEL RESEARCH

Delegation From Here to Go to Cleveland Convention.

A committee of delegates to the seventh annual convention of the American Society for Steel Treating, to be held at Cleveland, O., Sept. 14 to 18, is being formed under the direction of Alan Jackman, secretary of the St. Louis Chapter of the society.

Delegates have been invited to motor to the convention and the St. Louis delegation will consider using this form of transportation. The convention will be held in the Cleveland Municipal Auditorium and will include 200 exhibits of steel producing and treating machinery. Technical papers will be read at the meeting by leaders in steel research and will be followed by general discussion. Members of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will also participate in the convention.

In Business for Your Health
Don't Wait, Call Your Doctor
When a member of the family is taken sick the wise move, first of all, we believe is to call the family physician. Giving the doctor the opportunity to use his skill when the trouble starts goes far towards insuring quick relief and complete recovery for the patient. Often the treatment of the sick calls for a prescription written by the doctor. If you bring or send the prescription to us we want you to know that it is put up exactly as the doctor ordered, and that the very best drugs obtainable go into it.

PROVINCE HAS GOOD HIGHWAYS

Enchanting Sea Shores, Sheltered Inland Seas, Picturesque Evangeline Country and Old French Fortress Cities Open to Motorist — Fishing to Dream About.

MOTOR tourists to Nova Scotia this year are expected to double last year's record of more than 10,000 cars from "The States." This interesting old province has nearly 2000 miles of motor roads, half of them following the superb scenery of the historic coast. It is one of the coolest places in North America in summer, and over 103,000 Americans spent their vacations there last year.

Easily Accessible.

It is much easier to get to Nova Scotia than many persons suppose. Visitors who take their automobiles by any one of the several steamer routes may reach it in 15 hours from Boston or in 24 hours from New York. There is a six-day-a-week steamship service from Boston this year, which makes Nova Scotia only a week-end trip from New England.

The motor road runs through Maine and New Brunswick or via the Trans-Canada Highway from Montreal. Visitors who drive as far as St. John, New Brunswick, may take the steamer across the Bay of Funday to Digby, shortening the journey by about 120 miles.

There are four main motor trails and nine subsidiary trails, totaling nearly 2000 miles, all clearly marked by distinctive bandings and leading to every part of the province. The roads are macadam and gravel coated for the most part, and are very good, indeed.

The inter-county highways are not included in the banded trails, but offer delightful side trips. There are 18 tourist motor camps. Visitors may tour three months without registration or fee and, of course, no passports are necessary.

Into Lovely Country.

From the New Brunswick border is four miles to Amherst, cen- of a beautiful and storied coun- and from there 96 miles to Truro via the enchanting Parrsboro and Five Islands district, or 75 miles by the Wentworth Valley. The Parrsboro route is rich in lore of the Micmac Indians and scenically very beautiful. Truro is a railway center and has a fine park and golf links and many lovely drives in its neighborhood.

From Truro it is 65 miles to Halifax. Every visitor, by whatever route he comes, should not fail to see this interesting old city on its magnificent harbor. Rudyard Kipling has called it "The Warden of the Honor of the North," and it has seen much stirring history in its 175 years as a garrison town and a naval base. There is yachting and water sports of all kinds at Halifax and Dartmouth (its sister town across the harbor) and very fine golf at both places.

Out of Halifax the Evangeline and South Shore trails parallel each other about 40 miles apart and make a round trip of 440 miles, which is very popular with visitors having only a short time to spend. It may be taken equally well by visitors entering at Yarmouth or Digby by steamer.

The Evangeline trail leads from Halifax through Windsor, 63 miles to Wolfville, where a detour is made to Grand Pre and the storied marshes of Minas Basin, the land of Longfellow's "Evangeline." From Wolfville to Kentville, through the apple orchards of the lovely "Valley Country," the road runs 68 miles to Annapolis Royal, the second oldest town in North America. Digby, a popular summer resort, is 19 miles farther. It is 65 miles from Digby to Yarmouth, and for 30 miles the road runs through the settlements of the French Acadians, whose customs and speech have changed very little with the centuries. Yarmouth has many beautiful drives and yachting and golf and fishing near by.

Romantic Ocean Drives.

Out of Yarmouth the green band of the South Shore highway follows the picturesque and romantic coast for 233 miles back to Halifax. This trail offers miles of bathing beaches and besides the magnificent scenery of the ocean highway many detours into the great hunting and fishing country which are hard to resist. The Argyle and Pubnico settlements; Barrington, founded by descendants of the Mayflower Pilgrims; Liverpool, famous for her shipping; Lunenburg for its great fishing fleet; and the American colony at Chester are along this trail.

The Black Diamond Trail to Cape Breton Island takes its name from the great coal district of Sydney to which it runs. It has several interesting detours. Picton is 52 miles from Truro via New Glasgow and has fine bathing and golf. At Monastery, 105 miles from Truro, an excellent road runs 18 miles southeast to Guysboro and 48 miles to Canso. Both towns are lovely and unspoiled.

To the Bras d'Or Lakes.

On the island of Cape Breton detours should be made at Grand Anse to the quaint French town of Arichat, and from St. Peters to surrounding villages settled by the

Sales Increase

Gardner popularity in its own home town is mounting higher and higher every day. St. Louis sales in June exceeded those of May by 145%.

Now, for exactly the same price you would pay for the open car, you can get this full-size, 4-door Gardner Anniversary Eight-in-line Sedan.

$1995, plus tax, brings it to your front door, ready for you to step on the starter and flash down the street. There's no freight to pay!

For the price of an open car you get a 4-door Sedan that's as easy to handle as slipping your watch in and out of your pocket. So sturdily built that you banish outside noises when you close the windows and doors. A full-size Eight-in-line Sedan you steer with the touch of a finger . . . stop with the tip of your toe . . . that glides so smoothly and quietly over the road that you think you are actually coasting on air.

A beautiful, brand-new, generously roomy Sedan upholstered in finest mohair . . . with arm rests and dome light in rear compartment . . . with genuine full-size balloon tires, snubbers, Disteel wheels, Gardner enclosed 4-wheel brakes, a rich body finish of two-tone Brewster Green Duco—for $1995. COAST-TO-COAST RUN IN AUTO IN 102 HOURS

Business Man Makes Record for Actual Time, Without Allowances for Anything.

L. B. Miller, a Pacific Coast business man, it is announced, has just driven a Wills Ste. Claire car from New York to San Francisco in 102 hours and 45 minutes, or 4 days, 6 hours and 45 minutes actual time.

He left New York at 1.00 a. m. Tuesday, July 14, and was checked in at San Francisco at 4:45 a. m. Saturday, July 18, 99 hours and 45 minutes later. Adding 3 hours because of changes in time from coast to coast, his total time was 102 hours and 45 minutes. He followed the Lincoln Highway throughout.

Miller who drove his own car, claims to have beaten all previous records for elapsed time by nearly 8 hours. He drove a total of 3423, detours around construction work necessitating driving 265 extra miles.

He drove incessantly night and day without sleep and without rest, except that he was relieved at the wheel for half an hour a day by a friend, C. I. Hansen, of San Francisco.

The time made means an average of 33.4 miles an hour for the run including stops for oil and gasoline. Miller reported that he had no service or repairs during the trip and added no water to the radiator after leaving New York.

Miller is more than 50 years old. In 1890-00 he was a long-distance bicycle rider.

descendants of citizens of old Louisbourg. The ruins of this mighty fortress of Louis XIV may be reached from Sydney. The black band of the Bras d'Or Trail guides the motorist through the lovely region of the Bras d'Or Lakes to the fishing of the Margaree River, where 3000 salmon were hooked last year, and the trout fishing of Lake Ainslee.

Cheticamp, in Inverness County, is the largest single French Acadian settlement in the Province, and the visitor may ask for 10 gallons of gas in the French of the seventeenth century.

Yachtsmen the world over know the cruising on the famous Bras d'Or Lakes—a sheltered inland sea which spreads its protected area for 400 square miles through the heart of Cape Breton Island.

None of the waters in Nova Scotia are preserved. Countless rivers, brooks and lakes provide trout and salmon through a long season; there is fishing for haddock and swordfish and cod off shore, and the giant tuna makes this its only haunt on the Atlantic Coast.

PRACTICAL TALKS TO SERVICE MANAGERS.

Two outstanding addresses on carburetor adjustment and other automobile troubles were features of the meeting of the Service Managers' Bureau of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association at the Claridge Hotel Thursday night. J. W. Miller of the Stewart-Warner Products Service Station, vice chairman of the bureau, presided. Frank Rietz, service manager of the Equipment Service Corporation of St. Louis, talked at length of the correct adjustment of carburetors and pointed out the errors that might be made in wrongly adjusting the several valves of various makes. Rietz was plied with questions. Ewell Smith, development engineer of the Manhattan Rubber Co., told of methods of brake lining manufacture and care to be taken in adjustment of automobile brakes. Robert E. Lee, manager of the Automobile Dealers' Association, presented H. L. Schnure, president of the Schnure Buick Automobile Co., as one of the earliest and most experienced automobile dealers in St. Louis. There were present at the meeting 76 service managers, representing that number of automobile concerns in St. Louis.

Party in Kissel Eight Finds Trip to Warrenton, Then South to Ferry to Washington and Back Home via Union Is Interesting 163-Mile Jaunt — Two-Thirds of Route Paving and Gravel Roads.

By Spence.

A MOTOR tour of 163 miles from the Post-Dispatch Building through Wentzville, Warrenton, Marthasville, Washington, Union, Gray's Summit and back was taken last Saturday by a party from the Renaud Motor Car Co. in one of the new Kissell eight brougham-sedans. Two-thirds of the distance was over pavement and gravel roads. Virtually all of the dirt roads traversed were well dragged and reasonably fast. As a matter of fact, one soon exhausts the combinations possible over all-weather roads in Missouri and sooner or later must take the dirt roads into his calculations when planning trips.

Many Quiet Beauties.

The first part of the trip—out the St. Charles road, over the toll bridge, and through St. Charles onto State Highway No. 2—is familiar to most St. Louisans, as is considerable of the concrete highway beyond that city. But when this part of the jaunt is taken leisurely as it was by the Kissel party, who figured that as long as they were going only 160 miles they might as well go slowly enough to see everything, it reveals beauties never realized by the motorist who takes advantage of the pavement to drive his car to the limit the road police will permit.

There are miles of pretty pastoral country beyond St. Charles, with many quaint old brick houses, wheat in shocks, green cornfields and dairy herds. The long vista ahead as one approaches the old church at St. Peter's is as poetic in certain lights as many a famous cathedral view in Europe. The countryside is placid, without scenic high lights, but in its very quiet is much loveliness—in the many shades of green in the fields and occasional woods and copses where a sink hole or ravine has made it unprofitable for a farmer to clear off the trees and brush. At 39.9, for example, there is a delightful sweeping view, and a couple of miles farther on the perfect road descends a beautiful winding grade with woods on either side into a shallow valley and up and on again. The Kissel presently was slipping along as quietly as a cat, and it was only when the writer chanced to glance at the speedometer that he realized that the speed had climbed up perceptibly with vibrationless ease until the roadside poles were fairly whizzing by. Throughout the trip whoever was driving found the car continually sliding along faster than he meant to drive it.

Several miles beyond Wentzville, there are interesting views for some distance to the left, over a counrty of farms and wooded knolls to low wooded hills. At 58.7 miles from the Post-Dispatch building, one must leave the concrete on a well dragged fair dirt road over which good time may be made. At 59.3, a bad curve. The road traverses a pretty farming country, and is fast but with a number of mean turns.

At 66.1, left in Warrenton on highway No. 47 which starts as a gravel road through a rolling farming region. Much of the country overlooked from the ridges on which the road runs is thickly wooded. At 69.5, the road narrows somewhat and becomes well dragged dirt. A mile or so farther, there are sweeping views out over low wooded ridges with the valleys also well clothed with trees. Not an especially beautiful region, but still very fair in the warm sunshine.

Down to the River.

At 74.5, the road changes to gravel suface, and begins to descend from the ridges on a tongue between two valleys. This is the most attractive part of the trip as the road drops steadily down from the hills toward the bottoms of the Missouri river. At 75.8, the road again is dirt and there is a dry water course as the Kissel bowls along through a broad valley between long lines of low hills. At 76, left on an easy gravel grade winding up the side of a low ridge in the valley, then more fair dirt road. A shallow ford at 77.2. Soon another grade and a splendid valley vista. At 78.4, a narrow bridge. Every now and then the road goes over the top of a knoll from which there is a fine outlook. At 80, over an iron bridge spanning a creek, and off on a very sharp, rocky curve.

For some distance the road was partly covered with clods tossed up by a ditching machine, so the Kissel's fine springing helped a lot when passing cars. At 81.7, another narrow bridge over a pretty swale. At 84.1, Marthasville. The road winds through the quiet village, with glimpses to the right of the grayish brown sweep of the Missouri beyond the flat bottom lands.

The road is fair to so-so dirt but the Kissel rode so easily that there was no noticable roughness. At 86.1, a narrow brige. Then the road rambles along the edge of the bottoms, keeping close for several miles to the base of a low ridge covered with trees and brush through which jut rugged ledges and low bluffs. At 88.8, the village of Dutzow, and then out into the bottoms on more dirt road with a couple of curves hidden by high corn. At 92.2, left through a pretty flat, and at 92.7, right through a grove to the ferry landing—a narrow cut through a mud bank to the edge of the river.

On to Union.

The ferry boat leaves Washington every hour on the hour, so it is about 20 minutes past the hour when it lands at the north bank, nearly a mile below the little city of Washington, where it finally ties up. From Washington, the Kissel party swung out the old oiled stone and gravel road to Union, where they had luncheon. This road ranged from good to jolty for a good many cars, though the Kissel's balloon tires, long springs and snubbers made little of the occasional jolts. It is always a pretty ride along this ridge road between the two places, for there are many fine views to either side and an especially fine 180 degree vista ahead as the car rolls down to Union.

Two weeks ago, when the writer made a road scouting trip to Kansas City and back, the going between Union and the beginning of the concrete at the Franklin-St. Louis Couty line was very rough. Since then the road patrols have been busy dragging it and have made considerable improvement, although it is surfacing with gravel, rather than mere dragging, that this long stretch needs, and there are still some mean rocky stretches. However that may be, the Kissel here proved itself an exceptionally comfortable car in which to ride over such going. The grade up out of Gray's Summit was worse than the writer has seen it in several years. The wheels bounced clear off the road time and again, making it impossible to get traction. The view to the right as one ascends this grade is very attractive, as are the views to the left farther on, over the Fiddle Creek country between the highway and the Missouri River.

New Grade Being Built.

As the Kissel party came to mileage 125.3, they found gangs at work on the new grade on which concrete is to be laid to extend the pavement from the Franklin-St. Louis County line to Union and then southwest through St. Clair on primary highway No. 14 to Springfield and Joplin. It was rough going, and would have been worse after rain, for half a mile or so. Graders were busy in the fields to the left, lining up the new grade which is to carry the highway on an easier slant around the present steep pull from the end of the concrete.

The concrete was reached at 126.9, and the Post-Dispatch Building at mileage 163.3. The trip is an easy seven to eight hour drive, and can be broken for luncheon at Wentzville, Warrenton, Washington or Union.

How the Kissel Performed.

This Kissel eight handles very sweetly in traffic, steering at a touch and accelerating with as impressive speed as any car the writer recalls. The acceleration has a most pleasing smoothness; so smooth is it, in fact, that one must hold a watch on it to realize that the "jump" is there. The same smoothness is apparent when the Kissel is "tramped" on the road, the car gliding from 35 to 45 and 60 miles an hour before one realizes how the speed has stepped up. Also it digs in and clings to the ground on the curves, as was shown time and again Saturday on the dirt roads. The car runs as smoothly, comparatively, in second up to as fast as 40 miles an hour—an important point, especially for touring, as there are hills in every state that should not be climbed throughout in high, because rough surfacing, curves or traffic makes it inadvisable to rack engine and bearings.

The Kissel eight has a pleasing bore and stroke ratio, the bore being 3 3-16 inches, while the stroke is exceptionally long—5½ inches. The extra length of stroke means considerably more power for the size of the bore and more gasoline mileage. It also is a factor in the car's pulling ability on the grades.

All the Kissel eights have hydraulic four-wheel brakes, balloon tires, snubbers and bumpers front and rear. The coach work on Kissels always has been unusually sound and solid, and all models today are virtually custom-built. The standard models are finely made throughout, while there is an added touch of luxury on the de luxe designs.

Altogether, the new Kissel eight is a swift, powerful car, very smooth in operation at all speeds, sturdily built and with a distinct air of refinement and distinction of design. It looks and acts custom-built.

The car was driven Saturday by Frank Boyer, sales manager of the Renaud Motor Car Co., Kissel distributer, and Paul Rehan, of the sales force. Boyer, an old dirt-track and speedway driver, sat around in the rear seat for a while on the concrete road, but when the dirt roads appeared, he said he just had to take the wheel. Thereafter he showed that he hadn't forgotten his cunning on the dirt. The value of four-wheel brakes and really swift acceleration was shown and again in the deft way he came up to a turn, braked ly with a minimum loss of and time, and was away again instant he swung around the and saw all was clear.

NONSTOP DRIVER FINDS THRILLS ON MISSOURI ROADS

Lieut. Wade, World Flyer, Driving a Packard Eight — Succeeds in Unique Coast-to-Coast Attempt.

Lieut. Leigh Wade, the world flyer, and his companion, Linton Wells, passed through St. Louis Monday in the course of a nonstop run in a Packard eight from Los Angeles to New York. Thursday afternoon, Matt Morse, manager of the Automobile Club of Missouri, received a telegram saying that they finished the run in New York at 12:50 p. m. that day without the car having stopped its forward motion. As they left Los Angeles at noon the previous Thursday, the trip took 50 minutes more than seven days. It should be noted that no attempt was made at a speed record.

Missouri mud, which will not trouble east and west bound motorists after Jan. 1, when the concrete pavement from Kansas City to St. Louis is expected to be in service, gave Lieut. Wade a series of experiences he will not soon forget.

Auto Club Supervises Run.

The run was in charge of clubs affiliated with the American Automobile Association, who arranged for keeping the road clear and for putting food, gasoline and oil aboard the Packard and checking the run at all stages. The idea was to drive the car across the continent without once permitting forward motion to cease. Arrangements for that part of the run between Kansas City and Terre Haute, Ind., were in charge of the Automobile Club of Missouri.

The Berry Motor Car Co., local Packard distributors, assisted the club. Morse acted as chief pilot and supervised all arrangements. P. F. Drury acted as observer across Missouri and George Drummond, head of the club's touring department, across Illinois to Terre Haute. H. T. Salzmann, Morse's secretary, accompanied him in the pilot car to St. Louis, and Edward Cavanaugh, the club's road man, on the Terre Haute end of the run.

Except for a tire puncture in Arizona, which required strenuous work and the wrecking of a pilot car near Emporia, Kan., Wade and Wells had little difficulty on the run over the Santa Fe Trail from Los Angeles to Kansas City.

NONSTOP DRIVER FINDS THRILLS ON MISSOURI ROADS

Lieut. Wade, World Flyer, Driving a Packard Eight — Succeeds in Unique Coast-to-Coast Attempt.

Lieut. Leigh Wade, the world flyer, and his companion, Linton Wells, passed through St. Louis Monday in the course of a nonstop run in a Packard eight from Los Angeles to New York. Thursday afternoon, Matt Morse, manager of the Automobile Club of Missouri, received a telegram saying that they finished the run in New York at 12:50 p. m. that day without the car having stopped its forward motion. As they left Los Angeles at noon the previous Thursday, the trip took 50 minutes more than seven days. It should be noted that no attempt was made at a speed record.

Missouri mud, which will not trouble east and west bound motorists after Jan. 1, when the concrete pavement from Kansas City to St. Louis is expected to be in service, gave Lieut. Wade a series of experiences he will not soon forget.

Auto Club Supervises Run.

The run was in charge of clubs affiliated with the American Automobile Association, who arranged for keeping the road clear and for getting food, gasoline and oil aboard the Packard and checking the run at all stages. The idea was to drive the car across the continent without once permitting forward motion to cease. Arrangements for that part of the run between Kansas City and Terre Haute, Ind., were in charge of the Automobile Club of Missouri.

The Berry Motor Car Co., local Packard distributors, assisted the club. Morse acted as chief pilot and supervised all arrangements. P. F. Drury acted as observer across Missouri and George Drummond, head of the club's touring department, across Illinois to Terre Haute. H. T. Salzmann, Morse's secretary, accompanied him in the pilot car to St. Louis, and Edward Cavanaugh, the club's road man, on the Terre Haute end of the run.

Except for a tire puncture in Arizona, which required strenuous work and the wrecking of a pilot car near Emporia, Kan., Wade and Wells had little difficulty on the run over the Santa Fe Trail from Los Angeles to Kansas City.

It was raining hard when they reached Kansas City. They had expected to make for a track and drive slowly around it until the rain stopped and the Missouri roads dried somewhat, putting on chains if necessary. But arrangements had been made to rush them through Kansas City traffic, and they were slipped through the city with a motor cycle escort and soon were on Highway No. 12. They had paving and stone road to Pleasant Hill, then, without chains on their wheels, they dropped off into mud and real trouble.

From Coast-to-Coast Without Stopping Forward Motion of Car

THE Packard eight which was driven from Los Angeles to New York without the forward motion of the car being stopped. Lieut. Wade, the driver, is seen leaning out from the front seat. Linton Wells, his companion, is standing on the running board of the car, at the left. The picture was taken as they drove through St. Louis.

Run Almost Ends in Ditch.

As they wallowed up a hill beyond Pleasant Hill and apparently were going to become mired, Morse backed his car down the hill, flung them a tow rope and gave them enough of a pull to help them over the crest.

On a steep upgrade about five miles farther on, with the rain pouring down in blinding sheets, the run nearly came to a sudden end. Morse plowed out the rut, but another Packard car, which was ahead of Wade's machine, skidded and tore out the rut. When Wade reached this place his car also skidded and, being loaded until it weighed 5500 pounds, continued to skid in a dioganal direction, but mostly sideways toward the four-foot ditch. Drury, the observer, leaped out and followed to see if the car continued to go ahead. The front wheels were acting like sled runners and the rear wheels were only spinning, though the car kept on sliding. Just as Wade's car was about to topple into the ditch, the other Packard backed up, hooked on and towed him enough so that his wheels got traction and he drove on.

Morse and Drury held that as the motion of the car was somewhat ahead as well as sideways, Wade had not failed. But decision will be left to Washington officials of the A. A. A.

How They Put Chains On.

Morse drove on ahead, warning cars out of the rut onto the side of the road and in one instance helping to push and pull a big car out of the way when its owner was slow in acting.

At Warrensburg, city officials had roped off a block so that Wade was able to drive around and around and rest somewhat. Then arose the problem of putting chains on his wheels.

Three times his car was towed by another Packard slowly around the block while Morse and others tried to get a wheeled jack under the rear axle, each time being thwarted when rough places on the brick pavement jolted the jack loose. Finally, 30 or 40 boys were summoned and pushed the car so slowly that it barely moved. Then it was easy to get the jack under the axle. The only chains procurable were too short, so had to be patched out with wire. As they were clinching the last wire the jack jolted loose and all the work on that chain had to be done over again.

Woman Knew Her Own Mind.

Finally they got going again, and had no serious difficulty in reaching Sedalia. Soon thereafter they encountered the only driver who refused to draw out to one side to let Wade through—a woman. She had just paid a farmer to pull her car out of a mud hole, and vowed she wouldn't get out of the rut again for anybody.

By this time Wade's car was within 150 feet of them, so Morse, in desperation, cut a new rut around her with his car. As Wade's car was about half way past her machine it appeared certain that its rear end bumper would hit her car, hook onto it and his car be stopped. H. J. Black of the Berry Motor Car Co., local Packard distributer, saw the danger, stepped on the gas and bumped his car against the rear of Wade's hard enough to send it shooting ahead and to one side. Wade managed to hold the car out of the ditch and keep going. Black's car tore a fender off the woman's machine.

They had gravel most of the way beyond this point and arrived in Jefferson City at 9:25 p. m.

Fast Run From State Capitol.

Because of Wade's weariness and a dense fog, the non-stop car was driven slowly hour after hour around the State Capitol, Wade and Wells resting by turns. Also food, gasoline and oil were put aboard. So slowly did the car move that they covered only 21 miles between 9:25 p. m. and 5:30 a. m. when they left Jefferson City in a fog. There had been little rain this side of the capitol, and they ran the 130 miles in 10 minutes less than 4 hours, arriving in St. Louis at 9:20 a. m. They were escorted from Gray's Summit by Fred J. Berkley, vice president of the Berry Motor Car Co.

They circled around the Forest Park drives for an hour or so, picked up supplies, then drove down Lindell and Locust boulevards past the Berry Motor Car Co. building and over the Free Bridge, and departed for Terre Haute.

Twice again it looked as if the run was likely to stop suddenly. As they rounded a curve, a dynamite warning confronted them. If the road was torn up or a charge about to explode they must fail, for there was no way to turn off. But it was a false alarm. Again, near Greenup, a long freight train stopped with its engine within 2 car lengths of a grade crossing. Here, however, it might have been possible to shunt Wade's car off to an old race track on which he could have circled till the way was clear.

Startling Feat by Wade.

The men who made the trip from Jefferson City with Wade are still talking about a feat he performed. One of the chains on a rear wheel broke. Fearing that the chain might become tangled and stop the car, he had Wells drive the car as slowly as possible down a long gravel grade, then, with the car rolling forward, he threw himself on his back behind the car, reached under and grasped the axle, drew himself under the car, then clung with one arm while with the other hand he worked at the fastenings of the chain.

Two men held his legs so that his back would not drag on the rough road surface, and for several minutes he swung there, holding himself up from the road with one hand and with the other working a pair of wire cutters. He was able to cut at the wire only once on each slow revolution of the wheel. That he finally cut the chain loose and got out from under the car unhurt, especially after such a fatiguing drive for hours, was a testimonial to exceptional strength and general physical condition.

Announcing

Smart New Motor Cars — new bodies by Fisher—low, racy lines—hood and body beading—lower running boards and fenders—rich, distinctive new color combinations in enduring Duco—newly designed nickeled radiator and special head and cowl lamps—all combine to inspire admiration.

Over 100 Improvements and Refinements
Oakland Six owners everywhere have expressed surprise that a car so powerful and spirited should operate so smoothly and quietly. And yet this car has been still further bettered by more than 100 improvements and refinements—including Oil Purifier, perfected full pressure Oiling System, larger Crankshaft and Bearings, Air Cleaner, Four-wheel Brake refinements, still larger Balloon Tires and many other features of advanced engineering which contribute to the outstanding value of the car.

The Harmonic Balancer A vitally important and exclusive Oakland feature, the result of years of intensive research and development by Oakland and General Motors engineers—renders the Oakland Six engine positively unmatched in the absence of vibration at all speeds. It establishes Oakland even more firmly than ever as the outstanding leader in advanced engineering.

~ and New Prices ~ $70 to $350 lower Oakland's much lower prices would of themselves make this announcement one of the most important of the year. Considering the many important refinements which have been added to a car already unmatched in appearance and performance, the new prices are all the more impressive.

Come in—see the new Oakland Six—drive it—study the remarkable Harmonic Balancer—get the new lower prices—see why Oakland is more than ever the outstanding leader in its field.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS IN NEW OAKLAND CARS

SMART new bodies by Fisher, with low, racy body lines and double body beading; more than 100 improvements and refinements, featured by the harmonic balancer, an exclusive engineering achievement for eliminating engine vibration; and new prices, ranging from $70 to $350 lower, are outstanding features in the announcement of new cars by the Oakland Motor Car Co., whose local distributer is the Mississippi Valley Motor Co.

The harmonic balancer was developed to eliminate "torsional vibration," which is due to the fact that the crankshaft, while apparently very rigid, has the same quality of elasticity as a tuning fork, which makes it, when twisted, recoil and vibrate at a definite rate. The harmonic balancer eliminates these periods of vibration.

It consists of a light steel bar, pivoted to the shaft at its center and held in tension by stiff springs at both ends. It is so constructed that it has a natural frequency of vibration virtually the same as that of the crankshaft. At the slightest movement of the shaft, the harmonic balancer picks it up and vibrates in the opposite direction, thus neutralizing all vibration to provide smooth running at even the highest speeds. It is a simple, rugged, non-wearing device that requires no adjustment.

The low, racy body lines are achieved through use of hood and body beading, lower running boards and deeper fenders. A new, larger radiator, new hood and special head and cowl lamps give a distinctive front appearance. The new bodies by Fisher are low-hung and possess a harmony of design in radiator, lamps, instrument board and body proportions that makes for an appearance of compactness, symmetry and power. The new bodies come in five models—touring, coach, landau sedan, landau coupe and sedan.

An air cleaner of the centrifugal type is provided as standard equipment on all models. There are no moving parts in the cleaner, thereby eliminating wear or noise. It requires no attention save the emptying of the cleaner once a year.

An oil filter keeps the lubricant free from grit, carbon particles and foreign matter. The sediment is removed by a filtration process.

All Oakland bodies are finished in new color combinations in permanent Duco and have heavily enameled fenders. Twenty-inch artillery wood wheels and full balloon tires are used. Steel wheels are optional at slight extra cost.

The landau sedan and coach are finished in Buckingham gray, with black upper structure. The touring car is in duo-tone, Buckingham gray below the beading and light gray above. The landau coupe is in Bowling green, while the sedan is in cobalt blue, with black upper structure. Distinctive color striping on body, hood and wheels of all models completes the attractive color scheme.

Increased leg room is a feature on all models. The instrument board is new. The special new headlights are larger and of new design. There is a one-piece windshield on each model. The new radiator gives 12½ per cent greater cooling capacity. All models are equipped with a windshield cleaner, those on the closed cars being automatic. The cars have full perfected automatic spark. A stiffer, heavier crankshaft, weighing 66 pounds to the former 53 pounds, helps the harmonic balancer in eliminating vibration. Oakland's efficient mechanical four-wheel brakes have been further improved.

The new prices at the factory follow: Touring, $1025; coach, $1095; landau coupe, $1125; sedan, $1195, and landau sedan, $1295.

INTERESTING CHANGES IN NEW NASH MODELS

NEW Nash Special Six and Advanced Six series are on display at the showrooms of the Southwest Nash Co., St. Louis distributer, and its dealers. Outstanding are the unique Nash-Seaman body creations and the engineering refinements. The line includes 11 distinctive types of body styles, four on the Special Six chassis and seven in the Advanced Six line, each model fulfilling a specific requirement. The Special Six line offers a touring car, a roadster, a four-door sedan and a two-door sedan. The Advanced Six line includes a five-passenger touring car, seven passenger touring, roadster, two-door sedan, victoria, four-door coupe and seven-passenger sedan. All models in both lines are equipped with force-feed engine lubrication, four-wheel brakes, full balloon tires and five disc wheels.

The new Special and Advanced Six five-passenger sedans have undergone remarkable refinement. The trunk platform at the rear has been eliminated and the body lengthened, thus adding to the roominess of the interior. This, together with widened doors and forward-folding front seats, allows plenty of passageway for entrance and exit from the rear seat. The front chairs, now wider and deeper, are solidly built and deeply upholstered. Floor knobs are adjustable so that passengers may regulate the tilt of chairs. A dignified walnut molding now frames the windows of the Special and Advanced Six five-passenger sedans. These models are now equipped with dome lights of fine Colonial pattern and with new type door latch and window lift.

All inclosed cars in both series have the new French type roof and visor, exclusive to Nash. Long flowing beading now is a feature of all models in the Special Six series. Broad, deeply crowned fenders, a higher nickeled radiator, a higher and better proportioned hood, high and narrow louvers and a wealth of details in refinement in the body and chassis are new Special Six features.

In both the Special and Advanced Six lines, the parking brake is now on the driver's left, while the gear shift lever has a new curved shape, which, together with the new placement of the brake, allows entrance or exit from either side. Instrument boards have been further refined. To the Advanced Six has been added a hydrostatic gasoline gauge, accurate and reliable.

Both Special and Advanced Six models are now provided with carburetor air cleaners. Another mechanical improvement is the heat-treated steel band shrunk on the flywheel so that injury to the flywheel by incautious use of the starter is impossible. All models in both series have new "easy on" oil cap and "easy on" gasoline filler caps. Front springs of all cars in both series have been provided with stout rubber bumpers. Open and closed cars in both series are equipped with rear-view mirror, automatic windshield wiper and other details.

LARGER BRAKES NOW ON ALL STAR MODELS

In line with the policy of Durant Motors, Inc., to improve the Star car continuously instead of bringing out yearly models, Colin Campbell, vice president, states that all Stars now being produced are equipped with motor driven horns and 11-inch brakes. Owing to the high ratio of power to weight in the new Star motor, it was found necessary to increase braking power to a point consistent with the increased pulling power.

BALLOONS STANDARD ON ALL DURANT CARS

The recent announcement of substantial reductions in prices of Durant cars, also advised that balloon tires had been made standard equipment on all models.

PRICES LOWERED FOR IMPROVED CHRYSLER SIX.

LOWER prices for the Chrysler six, as well as a number of improvements and refinements in engineering design, are announced. The new price range is from $1395 for the phaeton to $2095 for the crown imperial, at the factory. Chrysler sixes and Chrysler fours are distributed by G. M. Berry, Inc.

The new Chrysler six has a cylinder bore of 3⅛ inches. This increase in piston displacement delivers nearly 10 per cent greater power, enabling the new six to attain its top range of 70 miles per hour with greater ease. It also gives swifter acceleration and getaway, with a proved record of 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds, better pulling up steep grades and through mud or sand.

The greater power delivered by the motor has been compensated by a heavier and more rigid crankshaft, with nearly 50 per cent greater torsional rigidity. Pistons, connecting rods, bearings and other reciprocating parts are correspondingly heavier.

To take care of the greater fuel demands, the carburetor opening has been increased ⅛ of an inch, but redesigning of this unit has enabled Chrysler engineers to perfect its efficiency so that the economy standard of 20 or more miles to a gallon of gas is maintained. Oil pump capacity has been increased 12½ per cent.

Despite the increased power delivered by the motor, the larger seven-bearing crankshaft, the larger dynamically and statically balanced flywheel and the other scientifically balanced rotating parts, completely smooth out periodic vibration which ordinarily arises from an increase of piston displacement and the resulting greater torque.

The Purolator, an oil filter which removes impurities from the crankcase oil as the motor runs, and an air cleaner continue as standard equipment.

In the flywheel has been mounted a clutch of single-plate type. This, with transmission gears nearly 30 per cent larger than the previous design, permits smoother and easier gear engagement. The gear shift lever has been lengthened. The emergency brake on the rear end of the transmission has been increased one inch in diameter.

The body design of the Chrysler six is unchanged, save for minor details. The smartness of the roadster type has been enhanced. New bullet-type head lamps, a top bow finished in walnut to match the steering wheel, and instrument board panel, fitting into a nickel-plated thimble, automatic windshield wiper, wider doors permitting greater ease in getting behind the steering wheel, side hinges on the golf compartment door, and top of uncoated and rubberized material, are a few of the new features. Not only can the top be folded back neatly, but by unbuttoning four certain fasteners and loosening a few bolts the top can be taken off.

The roadster and broughan are in copra and chicle drab with flamingo carmine striping. The phaeton colors of Plymouth adn Pilgrim grays are set off by the same carmine striping. Bagdad and Topango greens, with gold bronze striping, are used on the Crown Imperial. The imperial now appears in marine blue and black. The sedan is in chicle drab and flamingo carmine stripe. The royal coupe is in Algerian and Bambalina blue tones, with fawn gray striping, and the colors of the coach have been altered to Thebes gray with fawn gray striping.

NEW SEDAN SHOWN ON PAIGE 131-INCH CHASSIS

THE Paige Motor Car Co. has introduced a new de luxe five-passenger sedan, listing at $2395, the lowest priced model ever mounted on the Paige 131-inch chassis. This car is distributed here by the Wilson Motor Car Co. Lockheed hydraulic four-wheel brakes are now standard on Paiges. An air cleaner is now mounted on the carburetor intake, and a new lounterbalanced crankshaft, weighing 105 pounds, adds appreciably to the smoothness of the motor. The principal features of the new sedan are the rear D-shaped windows, with landau braces, four wide doors, and an enameled metal trunk at the rear.

Exterior finish is in Cobalt blue, having straw colored striping with belt molding and upper body section of black. Gold backed mohair upholstery covers seats and serves also for head lining. There are built-in arm rests and white silken ropes at rear doors.

Between front and rear seats there is a clearance of 21½ inches. A windshield, one-piece metal sun visor, cowl ventilator and complete set of shock absorbers are standard. Five balloon tires are included. Other equipment includes an automatic windshield cleaner, rear view mirror, motometer, flush type heater, transmission lock and stop light.

STUTZ CO. OFFICIAL ADDRESSES SALESMEN

"You men engaged in the business of retailing are responsible for the continual increases in sales," said R. A. Rawson, merchandising manager of the Stutz Motor Car Co. of America, at a meeting in St. Louis of the dealers and salesmen of the Benjamin Motor Co., local distributer. "You can have the best car in the world, backed by the soundest organiaztion, but without you men to speak the good words for that car it can never attain its rightful place in the industry. Your success is measured by your degree of confidence in the men who build your car, and in your ability to put your knowledge of that car into an appeal convincing to the buyer. The average buyer of today is not buying a one or two year car—neither is he buying his first car. He is making the biggest investment of his whole lifetime, outside his home."

CHRYSLER PRODUCTION RISES TO 750 A DAY.

Seven hundred and fifty Chrysler cars, 500 of them the new Chrysler four, are now being turned out every day, and the plants are working on a schedule of 16,000 cars in July, according to J. E. Fields, vice president, in charge of sales.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR NEW 1926 MOON CARS

The enthusiastic public reception of the new Moon cars for 1926, which were announced last week, followed by an unusually large number of orders from distributors and dealers throughout the country, has made necessary revision upward in the Moon six production schedule, according to Frederick H. Rengers, general sales manager of the Moon Motor Car Co.

STAR AND DURANT ZONE PERSONNEL AT MEETING

The factory representatives of Durant Motors, Inc., in the St. Louis zone were guests Saturday night of Zone Manager Howard Shelton at the Coronado Hotel. Among those who spoke was Harvey Harrison, who holds an important Star and Durant dealership in the Lawrenceville (Ill.) district. Shelton and his assistant, George C. Hamilton, also spoke. A picture device for showing on a small screen anywhere the illustrated story of the Star and Durant cars and the Durant factory and dealer policy was demonstrated by Harrison.

10,000 HUP EIGHTS TO BE SHIPPED BY AUG. 1

Another of the spectacular successes in the automobile industry has been made by the Hup straight eight. "Before the end of August," says O. C. Hutchinson, general sales manager of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, "we will have shipped more than 10,000 Hupp eights—a record doubly remarkable when one considers it was made with a new car and type just coming into general use by those who can afford smoothness in operation." The Hupp Co. reports unfilled orders June 30 for $700,000 worth of eights and $2,000,000 of Hup [illegible]. On July 1, orders for $1,000,000 worth of eights were received.

10,000 HUP EIGHTS TO BE SHIPPED BY AUG. 1.

Another of the spectacular successes in the automobile industry has been made by the Hup straight eight. "Before the end of August," says O. C. Hutchinson, general sales manager of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, "we will have shipped more than 10,000 Hupp eights—a record doubly remarkable when one considers it was made with a new car and a type just coming into general use by those who can afford utmost smoothness in operation." The Hupp Co. reports unfilled orders June 30 for $700,000 worth of eights and $2,000,000 of Hup fours. On July 1, orders for $1,000,000 worth of eights were received.

ALONG AUTO ROW

CHICAGO-LOS ANGELES RECORD BY A PACKARD.

OVER roads which for many miles had been washed rough by rain, Samuel Klein, a Chicago jeweler, is stated to have made a new automobile road record between Chicago and Los Angeles by clipping 20 hours and 43 minutes off the previous best elapsed time by an automobile between the two cities. The run was made in a Packard car, which Klein had driven previously 40,000 miles. Exactly 80 hours after he left Chicago he was officially checked in at Los Angeles. Four hours and five minutes after leaving Chicago Klein reached Davenport, Ia., having covered the 189 miles at an average of 48 miles an hour. The 530 miles from Chicago to Omaha, Neb., were made in 12 hours and 45 minutes. The times to Davenport and Omaha are claimed as new records. Another record is claimed for the run of 1172 miles to Colorado Springs in 45 hours elapsed time.

Heavy rains were encountered near Gallup, and it is said at places the car was driven through torrents. At Needles, Cal., it was learned that the road for the next 200 miles had been damaged by rain. Rocks, exposed when the surface of the road was washed away, caused many tire "blowouts" and punctures. It was estimated that Klein and his three relief drivers who went the full distance with him spent more than 10 hours on tire repairs. The actual running time for the car was considerably less than that of the fastest train, and the route was approximately 300 miles longer than the rail route.

AUTO TRADES' BOAT RIDE SET FOR TUESDAY NIGHT.

The annual boat ride of the automobile trades of St. Louis will be held on the steamer J. S. Tuesday night and it is expected that the capacity of the steamer, 1200 persons, will be taxed as the ride on the Mississippi is the joint function of the Automotive Accessory Association and the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association. The Tuesday night ride is the eighth annual boat excursion of the automotive industry of St. Louis. The boat's famous orchestra will play for dancing and concerts and there will be several impromptu addresses made by leading men in the automobile trade. A feature of the event will be the distribution of six attendance prizes, the first prize or award being $25. Committees have been selected from both associations. The Arrangement Committee consists of Dan F. Hyland, C. C. Schelp, Robert E. Lee, Stuart Campbell, H. H. Fleer, Frank Quan, C. D. Wagener and G. G. Giese. The Gate Committee is Frank W. Bradley, W. H. Kruse and Jos. J. Kellerman. The Prize Award Committee is Robert E. Lee, Philip H. Brockman and George H. Niekamp. The Reception Committee is Dan F. Hyland, Joseph A. Schlect, George Weber, W. L. Niekamp, Fred Campbell, R. C. Frampton, Claude Merry, H. F. Fahrenkrog, C. M. Berry, E. A. Gruender, K. T. Muldoon, Norman B. Champ, L. C. Blake, W. E. Fuetterer, Chas. A. Marien, W. G. Jenkin, H. W. Kardell, J. C. Stiles, E. H. Kansteiner, A. E. Bosley, J. D. Perry Lewis, Walter H. Vesper, John T. Salisbury and Edward Weber. The J. S. will leave the foot of Washington avenue at 8:15 p. m. sharp Tuesday night for a trip down the river to Jefferson Barracks and will return at 11 p. m.

1916 WILLYS-KNIGHT CAR TO BE A DEMONSTRATOR

The Willys-Overland branch here has just accepted as a "trade-in" a 1916 Willys-Knight coupe, one of the first Willys-Knight cars made, which has been driven daily for 10 years by Lieut. Col. William C. Rogers, of 5400 Delmar boulevard. The speedometer registers 139,900 miles, and the old machine runs with a smoothness and quiet surprising in view of its age and the distance it has been driven. In fact, it is so good, that the Willys-Overland Co. plans to use it as a demonstrator of the way the Willys-Knight sleeve valve engine stands up under hard service. Col. Rogers had planned to drive the car to New York, but fancied one of the new Willys-Knight fours so much that he made the trade. The old car has odd combination door knobs and fasteners, and curved showcase front windows.

EDWARD WEBER TO GO TO ALASKA FOR VACATION.

Edward Weber, president of the Weber Motor Co., Studebaker distributer, plans to depart July 29 with Mrs. Weber, their daughter, Janice, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Niehaus and daughters, Maud and Catherine, for a month's tour of Canada and Alaska. They will travel via Minneapolis, Banff and Lake Louise to Vancouver, where they will take steamer for Skagway. Returning, they expect to stop in Denver to visit Mr. and Mrs. James H. Loucks, formerly of St. Louis.

CAPT. RICKENBACKER COMING TO ST. LOUIS

Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, noted war aviator and vice president of the Rickenbacker Motor Co., of Detroit, is expected in St. Louis this week on one of his semi-annual swings through the West. Capt. Rickenbacker comes primarily to see The Diesing Motor Sales Co., distributors of Rickenbacker cars in this territory.

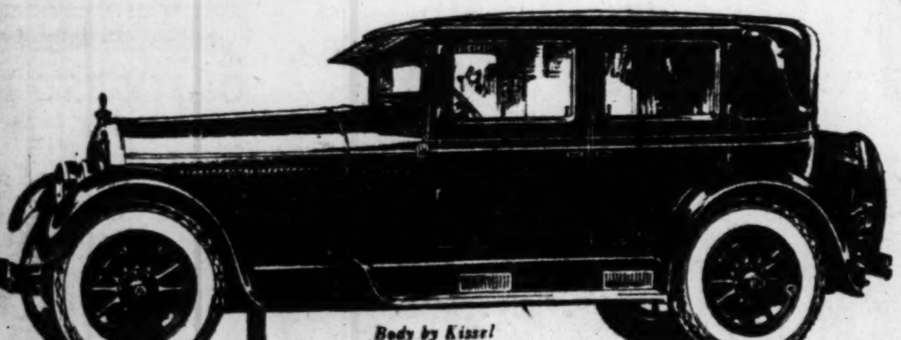
8 KISSEL

Reduces Prices

The 5-passenger Eight-Cylinder Brougham Sedan; formerly $2550

Now $2395

Effective Immediately



Body by Kissel

The big increase in Kissel business has resulted in a big decrease in Kissel prices.

Now—for $155 less—you can have the same 5-passenger Eight-Cylinder Brougham with balloon tires and hydraulic 4-wheel brakes that sold for $2550 a few weeks ago. It was a great value then—it is a greater value now.

Because now, with the lower price, you get these additional improvements: extra wide 32-inch doors and the new Kissel stabilized chassis.

This new chassis is the strongest, most rigid ever constructed. Instead of the usual channel steel cross members there is a huge sized tubular cross member which is welded solidly to both sides of the frame. It practically eliminates all frame distortions which result in squeaks and rattles.

You are, of course, familiar with the famed Kissel Eight power plant that will do 75 miles an hour for hours and that will run 25,000 miles and more without need of the usual service work. You know, too, of the special Kissel automatic chassis lubricating system, of the specially designed frame with kick-up in front, and the other exclusive Kissel features.

No motor car at anywhere near the price of this Eight can duplicate its performance. We doubt if any motor car double its price can, either.

It is the Eight of all Eights.

It is the Value of all Values.

Telephone for a demonstration or come in and see it.

for the HUDSON COACH

The Great and Genuine Economy Its Owners Know

The good-will and satisfaction so evident throughout Hudson's enormous ownership results simply from the conviction of hundreds of thousands of individuals that they have the "World's Greatest Buy". The economy Hudson owners praise is not only in the big saving of first cost; they know, also, the greatest of all operating economies—faultless service for months on end with rarely any need whatever for attention and at a minimum expense for service.

Throughout Hudson's long-time policy of giving greatest value for the money, this is the lowest price, the finest Hudson, the greatest value Hudson ever offered. Only Hudson's exclusive advantages of the famous patented Super-Six principle combined with the world's largest production of 6-cylinder cars make it possible. By greater margins than ever before it is today the "World's Greatest Buy."

RADIO FOR THE AMATEUR AND EXPERT

MEMORIAL DEDICATED TO HEROES OF RADIO

Monument and Fountain a Tribute to Brave Men Who Lost Lives at Sea.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Radio fans and amateurs when in New York City should visit the unique wireless memorial down on the Battery, near the Barge Office. It was erected by The Radio Corporation of America in memory of radio operators lost at sea while standing by at their posts of duty. The list includes 19 marine heroes who in every case stuck by their keys, sending out SOS calls or handling communications with answering ships. Most of them shared with the captains that sacred tradition of the sea—being last to leave the doomed ship or going down with it.

The memorial comprises a large fountain and a stone monument flanked by classical stone benches on either side. A tablet on the front of the monument carries the inscription in memory of the lost operators, the lists of the men being carved on the other three sides.

The first name on the front is that of Jack Phillips, operator on board the S.S. Titanic, which sank after hitting the iceberg in April, 1912. Phillips, it is reported, had difficulties with his apparatus and worked practically night and day prior to the accident in an effort to keep in touch with other ships. Before he left the ship he had succeeded in getting in touch with the Carpathia. Although rescued when the vessel sank, he died shortly afterwards from exposure, due chiefly to his exhausted condition.

Ferdinand J. Kuehn, operator of the S. S. Monroe, which sank in the Atlantic in January, 1914, might have survived had he retained his life preserver. It seems that shortly after he had sent his distress call, the captain ordered all to abandon ship. Kuehn, strapped on a life preserver and was ready to leave, when a woman passenger asked him where she could get a drink of ice water. Urging her to forgo the drink, Kuehn noticed she had no life preserver, and offered her his own. This she took and was soon safely seated in one of the ship's boats. Kuehn, however, either never had time to find another or could not locate one and was lost. The then Secretary of Commerce William C. Redfield in a letter to the boy's mother commended his heroism.

The first radio operator to lose his life while on duty, as recorded by the inscriptions, was George C. Eccles of the S. S. Ohio, which foundered off the Pacific Coast in August, 1909. The next record is that of the lost Car Ferry, Pere Marquette, which sank in Lake Michigan in 1910, carrying Stephen F. Sczepanek the radio operator to the bottom.

Two operators were lost in the Pacific in 1923: Donald Campbell Perkins, who sank with the S. S. State of California, and Lawrence Prudhunt, on the S. S. Rosecrans. Perkins was a young man possessing considerable talent as a violinist, who during his vacations served as an operator. He was one of the first students to graduate as a radio operator from the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A. radio school, then directed by H. D. Hayes, now Supervisor of Radio of the Department of Commerce. Supervisor Hayes has in his possession a letter addressed to the school by the Secretary of Commerce complimenting it on the type of graduates, particularly the youthful hero Perkins. The letter reads in part:

"First Operator Perkins went calmly to his post when the vessel struck and stood there facing certain death, sending out the distress call continuously during the few minutes that elapsed while the vessel was sinking and went down with her." It is pointed out in the letter that this operator was off duty at the time of the disaster and might have saved his own life; rather than that he went to his post, dismissed his subordinate to assist in getting the boats away and remained himself at the key in his shack. Unfortunately when the ship sank the shack door became jammed."

Four other operators: Clifton J. Fleming, and Harry F. Otts of the S. S. Francis H. Leggett; Walter E. Reker of the S. S. Admiral Sampson, and Adolph J. Svenson, of the S. S. Hanalei, perished in 1914. Operator Lovejoy of this last ship signaled a coast guard station with an ordinary flashlight after the radio power was cut off, and brought aid.

The names of the other heroes of the deep are: Lawrence B. Robinson, of the S. S. Macona; Emile H. Huisemann of the S. S. Cubist; Russell A. Williams of the S. S. Motano; James Curran of the S. S. Moreno; George A. Gearo of the bark Magna Reva; Boris M. Dietko, of the S. S. Brindilla; Fred Salim, of the S. S. Conojos; Ernest E. Dorsey of the S. S. Swift Arrow, and Francis J. Doherty of the S. S. City of Athens.

The names of all American radio operators who have lost their lives at sea are eventually to be inscribed upon this memorial, but there are several inscriptions which have not yet been made.

Damp weather shortens the life of many forms of dry cells, including plate batteries, which should be protected as much as possible.

NEW ARRIVALS

The Cooper A-n-B, a device that delivers both A and B current from the light socket, has just been placed on the market by the Cooper Corporation of Cincinnati, O. This instrument that utilizes the current from the ordinary 110 volt 60 cycle house lighting circuit supplants both A and B batteries and may be used with any kind of radio set regardless of the number and kind of tubes used. Installation of this new device require no special technical ability. Once the rheostats are set for the particular current requirements of a set the voltages in the A and B circuits remain fixed for all time. Alternating current hum and line noises are said to be eliminated in the A-n-B by the use of a series of patented filters.

The Stewart Warner Speedometer Corporation of Chicago is introducing a new line of radio instruments which will be known as the Stewart Warner Radio Ensemble. The complete installation includes four separate units, namely the receiving sets all of which are of the tuned radio frequency type, the reproducer or loud speaker especially built to match the other instruments, Stewart Warner radio tubes and batteries, aerial and ground equipment. All of these units are designed to work together and are said to be extremely efficient. The cabinets, speaker and other equipment are built to harmonize in appearance as well as in operation.

The A-C Dayton phone set, the latest A-C product, is a complete five-tube receiver designed to be installed in the record compartment of upright and console phonographs. It can be combined with a phonograph, so that it is easily accessible to the operator and does not impair the use of the phonograph in any way. The same tone chamber can be used for the loud speaker and phonograph reproducer. The receiver in the Phono set is very similar to the standard models made by this company, except that it is more compact and effects a saving in space.

An impedance amplifier unit for impedance coupled amplifiers is being made by the Anylite Electric Co. of Fort Wayne, Ind. This unit consists of an inpedance coil, a high resistance leak and a fixed condenser. It is for use in all audio frequency circuits, but is particularly recommended for the last stage of amplification to keep the direct current out of the phone or loud-speaker circuit. It can be used as a third stage to a resistance-coupled amplifier or a transformer-coupled amplifier where very low ratio transformers are used in the first two stages.

Radiograms.

The fire department of Rio de Janeiro is planning to install radio stations.

Officials of several railroads are said to be considering installation of radio receivers in their terminals to entertain the crowds in the waiting rooms.

A course in English is to be started by an official radio service in Stockholm, in order to enable Swedish radio fans to better enjoy the programs sent out from American stations.

INSTALLING RADIO SET IN THE PHONOGRAPH

One Way to Conceal Unsightly Apparatus and at Same Time Increase Its Efficiency.

By CARL H. BUTMAN.

Now that we are in the midst of the static season, when radio reception, particularly distant reception, is at its worst, it is a good time to overhaul and improve the set. If your receiver is one of those ultra perfect sets which forms an artistic piece of furniture, you may not want to do anything to it.

But the writer's set is or was a hodgepodge affair, including a two-tube receiver and a two-stage audio amplifier. This apparatus, with its accessories of batteries and phones on a small table, and an adjacent phonograph used as a loud speaker, took up considerable room. At best it was a messy sort of layout and brought constant criticism from the orderly housewife. So, one afternoon, the writer, laying aside his typewriter, took his plyers, screwdriver and other tools in hand and completely reassembled his set. Now it forms a single and not unattractive unit of the home furnishings.

I have read and written so much about the activities of other fans that I am disposed for a change to record my own accomplishments, with a hope that it may aid some readers to gain a better standing in their own homes.

Our talking machine, although a good one, set in a mahogany case, hasn't been used for over a year; neither has the old mahogany music cabinet on which it sits, except for the storage of clippings, paper, pencils and other junk. Taking all this stuff out, I measured up the radio receiver case to find it was a quarter of an inch wider than the inside of the cabinet. It had to be taken out. Removing the top shelf and third shelves of the cabinet, two holes were bored in the back for ground, aerial and loud speaker connections. At the back of the second shelf the dry A and B batteries for the receiver were installed. In front of them the receiver on its panel was placed and secured by four small screws to the edges of the cabinet. By reversing the shelf the curved front edge left plenty of room in the back for the connecting wires, leads, etc. On the fourth shelf from the top, the amplifier unit was installed in a similar manner, except that as its case was smaller it did not have to be removed. This unit was connected with its batteries, all located on the rear of the shelf out of sight.

I used different colored wires to avoid confusion in wiring and locating future trouble. For example: The A batteries are connected by red wires, the B's by blue and the input wires from the receiver to the amplifier are white. The ground, running to an adjacent radiator, is a piece of slate-covered wire, while the aerial connection is heavily insulated wire. It leads to a flat, covered connection made for use under a window sash. Incidentally, the window is close by and scarcely any wiring is visible.

From the amplifier the cord to the loud-speaking attachment runs out one of the holes in the back of the cabinet to the phonograph above. The whole outfit is fairly decent looking. When closed it is nothing but a phonograph sitting on a cabinet, yet the radio outfit ready for instant use is inside. It is out of the way and clean. No more broken wires or disconnections due to dusting or moving are anticipated. To operate, open the cabinet door and tune in. Open the doors to the phonograph sound box when you get a station. By disconnecting the leads of the loud speaker and connecting in a pair of phones, kept in the cabinet drawer, one can operate without disturbing the rest of the family.

Fortunately I didn't injure the cabinet and of course the phonograph can still be used—the loud-speaking attachment is disconnected and the reproducing diaphragm of the phonograph attached in about three seconds.

Some fans, who have anything suitable, should try combining their apparatus—if for no other reason than to see what a hit it will make with the family to get unsightly, unmatched apparatus, varicolored batteries, etc., in one place, and out of sight.

One of my friends installed his equipment on a shelf of a sectional bookcase, which is equally neat and keeps his set clean; his loud speaker stands on the top shelf. Others, more skilled in cabinetmaking than I, have built cabinets or fitted their apparatus and accessories into standard cabinets. All methods tend to improve the living rooms, release tables and other pieces of furniture for other uses and make for happiness in the home. A neighbor, who uses wet batteries, bored a hole in his porch floor and ran wires below to a shelf where he keeps his batteries without endangering his furniture, carpet or floor.

While working on my set, I elevated and tightened my aerial, and tested out batteries, connections, etc., which improved reception materially.

WAVE POLARIZATION TO REDUCE STATIC

Experiments by E. F. W. Alexanderson Are Expected to Eliminate Fading and Atmospheric Disturbances.

NEW YORK, July 25.—There is no need for the radio fan becoming discouraged and casting his "six tuber" aside if it operates all right in every respect except that signals constantly fade, that is, all signals except static — that noise which sounds like the frying of eggs.

E. F. W. Alexanderson, consulting engineer and radio expert of the General Electric Co., believes he has solved the problem of overcoming to a degree if not entirely, these two outstanding bugaboos of radio, by a new wave known as the horizontically polarized wave, the direct opposite from the waves radiated from the popular broadcast stations today.

"All receiving sets will receive vertically polarized waves only. Waves when leaving a broadcast antenna start vertically but travel in corkscrew fashion, and it is when they turn that we believe the signal fades out," Mr. Alexanderson said. "I believe if we broadcast simultaneously on both horizontal and vertical waves this will be overcome, for as the waves corkscrew then one will always be polarized vertically. I intend to do a lot more experimenting along this line when I get back in Schenectady, where I have been busy for a year or more on this new wave theory at the General Electric experimental radio station.

"Possibly we will find out that staic is characteristic of the vertical waves only. Then if we use the horizontal waves, we may be able to eliminate this trouble. I am sure that wave polarization is going to be one of the important factors in our experiments in discriminating between signals and disturbances."

GOVERNMENT BROADCASTING

WASHINGTON. — A new 500-watt radio telephone broadcasting set has been placed in commission at the Arlington Station.

The new set is of the Master oscillator type, and operates on 435 meters. It will be in operation constantly, broadcasting weather schedules, market reports from the Department of Agriculture, general information sent out by the Treasury Department, and bulletins sent by the Public Health Service and Department of Labor. As schedules for other Government departments are completed they will be included in the broadcasting schedule of the new set.

The radio test shop at the navy yard completed the entire set in about two months. It was put in commission on June 22.

The four other sets at Arlington on 24-hour service, are telegraph sets, the group contains one 20 kw., 10 kw., one 3 kw and 1 kw. tube set. The 500 watt set is in the class of Class B broadcasting stations. The Arlington Station reports that best results can be obtained with the broadcasting ste when the speakers are talking from the Navy Department.

NEW STATIONS LICENSED

Four new Class A stations were licensed by the Department of Commerce during the past week while two stations were transferred from Class A to B. The new stations follow:

KOP—Apple City Radio Club, Hood River, Ore.	1110	270	100
KFCC—The First Congregational Church, Helena, Mont.	1210	248	10
KOIL—Monarch Mfg. Co., Council Bluffs, Ia.	1080	278	500
KFWO — Lawrence Mott, Avalon, Cal.	1420	211.1	250
TRANSFERS FROM CLASS "A" TO CLASS "B"
WCEE—Charles E. Erbstein, Elgin, Ill.	1090	275	1000
KFAB — Nebraska Buick Auto Co., Lincoln, Neb.	880	340.7	500

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Post-Dispatch Radio Department cannot undertake to answer questions by mail.

Q. Is it possible to add a step of radio frequency amplification to the Grebe CR-9 without changing the internal wiring of the set?—H. G. K.

A. It is possible but not practicable. The added equipment would be cumbersome and the arrangement would be hard to tune. It is advisable to either stick to the CR-9 as it is or sell it and get a radio frequency set.

Q. 1. On Sunday, June 21, you printed a diagram of a one-stage R. F. amplifier added to a condenser controlled regenerative set. You stated that coil L-4 the secondary and L-5 the plate coil should be wound ¼ inch apart and in the diagram you show them connected across one side of the condenser and then to the positive filament battery. Is this correct? 2. What capacity has the grid condenser and what value of grid leak should be used? 3. What is the range of this set on a loudspeaker with a 100-foot antenna?—W. J. G.

A. 1. The method you have noted is correct. 2. The grid condenser should have a capacity of .00025 mfd and and the value of the leak to be used with a 201-A tube should be from 1 to 3 megohms depending on the particular tube you use. 3. This set should pick up stations all over the Midwest and parts of the South and East during the summer and all over the country during the winter.

Q. I have a Crosley one-tube set and would like to operate a loud speaker. What would I need to fix my set so that I could use a loud speaker?—Y. J. B.

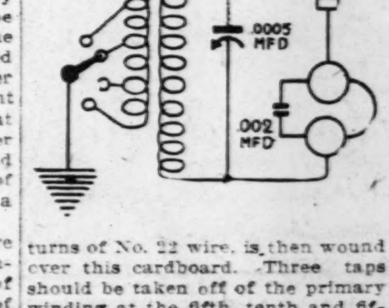
A. The best addition to your set that would permit loud speaker reception would be a Crosley two-stage audio frequency amplifier.

Q. Will a variable condenser in series with the aerial aid in tuning? What is the correct capacity to use for this purpose? W. J. O.

A. A variable condenser connected in series with the antenna lead of a receiving set will permit the antenna circuit to be tuned. In cases where an untuned primary is used it will be found to be quite an advantage. Either a .00025 or a .0005 mfd. variable condenser may be used.

Q. Please publish a diagram of a good crystal set.—E. M.

A. The circuit diagram of a good crystal set is shown here. The secondary coil S consists of 50 turns of No. 22 cotton or silk-covered wire wound on a three-inch tube. One layer of cardboard is then placed on the outside of the secondary winding. The primary, 20 turns of No. 22 wire, is then wound over this cardboard. Three taps should be taken off of the primary winding at the fifth, tenth and fifteenth turns. With the end wire this makes four connections in all. These would be run to a four-point switch for varying the amount of wire in the antenna circuit. The secondary is shunted by a .0005 mfd. variable condenser. The remainder of the drawing is self-explanatory.



Q. I am now using a four-tube Erla set and wish to take out the last two transformer coupled audio stages and insert three stages of resistance coupled amplification and one stage of push pull. Is this practical? K. W. C.

A. You have not stated whether you are using a reflex set or a radio frequency amplifier. If it is a reflex it is very impractical to substitute resistance coupled in place of transformer coupled amplifiers. If you have a radio frequency amplifier set we would recommend three stages of resistance coupled amplification without the push pull. These will give you sufficient amplification and excellent tone qualities.

CONCERT AND RECITAL ON K S D PROGRAM

The Beckemeyer Concert Band of Beckemeyer, Ill., is the headliner on the KSD schedule this week. This band, under the direction of Edward A. Dalhaus, will give a program on the roof of the Post-Dispatch Building tomorrow night, beginning at 9 o'clock. The band is making its second appearance before the KSD microphone, the first having been in the early spring this year. It has been enlarged since then and will give a program of the character usually presented by military bands, with most of the numbers marches and popular selections, closing with the "Star-Spangled Banner." Director Dalhaus, who also is a solo cornetist, will present "La Paloma," accompanied by the band; and will be the leading cornet in an ensamble of trumpets which will play the polka "Elena" by Kiefer.

Another special feature of the week will be a short recital on Friday night at 8:20, given by Otto Meyer, concert pianist. This program will take place in the KSD studio and will follow the dinner concert at Hotel Statler Roof Garden. The concert orchestra at Hotel Statler will have its dinner program of Tuesday night and broadcast by KSD, and the remainder of the week will be occupied with theater programs, that presented at the Lyric Skydome being broadcast on Wednesday evening and that at the Grand Central on Saturday evening.

Next week and the week following Station KSD will be silent in the evenings, but will broadcast its regular market schedule during the day.

RADIO ABROAD.

No official broadcasting service has yet been started in Holland and receiving licenses are unknown. Station NSF, at Hilversaum, is heard nearly every night and is maintained by private subscription. It is curious that the Dutch have not yet instituted regular service for that country is a great exporter of radio apparatus, especially tubes. Amsterdam is to have a broadcasting station soon and the transmitting plant will be constructed from parts donated by various manufacturers.

Although work on the new radio "beam" station has not yet started, it is hoped that by next spring it will be in operation. The contract with the Marcino Co. provides that the station must be completed within nine months of the handing over of the site. The station is to be used for commercial business between Great Britain and Australia and India and will be erected in all probability at Winthorpe, in Lincolnshire, on the east coast of England.

assigned wave length can be mediately detected.

In addition to the transm of standard frequency signals,
Bureau of Standards also test signals sent out by a number stations to determine how c they are sticking to their length. As a result of measurements, a chart is avai for fans by means of which chart follows:

Wave Length Meters.	Frequency Kilocycles.	Station.	Location
309	970	KDKA	East Pittsburg

428	700	WSB	Atlanta, G
469	640	WCAP	Washington, D
492	610	WEAF	New York, N

Use of the chart is stops electrical leakage

THE strength of radio waves in th air is infinitesimal. It must b magnified again and again. This done by the tube. The purpose of th "low-loss" movement is to conse every particle of this strength. Pe fect insulation in the base of th tubes adds volume and quality radio reproduction.

Porcelain, glass, rubber, and th other common insulators are ele trically porous, absorbing electrica energy in a sponge-like manne Such absorption, or leakage, mea loss of voltage inside the tube whe it would be useful. These ordinar insulating materials allow from 8 50 times the loss possible throug Isolantite, the new synthetic quar Isolantite is used only in De Fore Tubes. It makes leak-pro bases, which deliver the fu energy of the radio sign to the tube elements.

CRITICISM BY DANISH EXPLORER

Assails His Government for Privileges to MacMillan.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

COPENHAGEN, July 6.—The Danish explorer, Peter Freuchen, launches a violent newspaper attack on the Danish Government for permitting the American explorer, MacMillan, to search the ruins of Viking homesteads in Greenland on terms hitherto refused to higly reputed Danish explorers.

Freuchen winds up his attack by saying that while Amundsen remained unheard from, any attempt at saving him—even by MacMillan—might have been tolerated, but now that Amundsen is safe there is no reason to grant MacMillan any facilities.

BALLET TO FEATURE PAGEANT OF FASHION

Rehearsals for "The Spider and the Fly," at Garden Theater, Aug. 4 to 21, Begun.

One of the features of the eleventh St. Louis Pageant of Fashion, to be given at the Garden Theater, Aug. 4 to 21, will be "The Spider and the Fly," a ballet upon which rehearsals have begun.

The stage setting will be a huge spider web extending between the two elms that flank the stage. Miss Irma Summa, ballet director, has interpreted the movements of the fly into a series of dances to be executed by the members of the ballet as they come upon the stage clad in costumes which include metallic green tights, a pair of transparent wings and an oddly grotesque headdress.

Five members of the Fashion Pageant ensemble will be costumed as spiders. As the flies swarm across the stage one of them is caught in the web and the scene closes as the other flies leave their companion to her fate.

William A. Parson and Joseph Solari have collaborated on musical and scenic setting for the ballet. On the stage during its presentation will be the Santiago Trio and a quartet of roller skaters. The ballet will be the third scene in the pageant.

The opening scene is entitled "The Three Fates Weaving the Destiny of Man." The second is entitled "The Butterfly," and the fourth, "Maypole Dancers."

TO TRY CANADIAN ROCKIES

Party of Japanese to Attempt to Scale Highest Peak.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

TOKIO, June 27.—Under the joint auspices of the Tokio Nichi 'Nichi, the Oskaa Mainishi and the Japan Mountaineering Society, an attempt will be made by a party of Japanese mountain climbers to ascend the heretofore insurmountable peaks of the Canadian Rockies. The party will be captained by Maki, one of the leading mountain climbers of Japan, and will include representatives from the Peers' School and Keio University. Final preparations will be made at Vancouver.

The climbers will start out from Jasper with 30 horses and a unmber of native guides and a base camp will be established at the foot of Mt. Colombia. The party is expected to be away about three months.

This roof of Spanish Mission tile, made from Sheet Steel, completes the beauty of this handsome residence. Steel roofing is made in many forms, for use on buildings of different types and to harmonize with all styles of architecture.

This cosy summer cottage on the shore of Pewaukee Lake, near Milwaukee, is built entirely of Sheet Steel. For such structures a properly grounded Steel roof provides positive protection from lightning.

Safety—Beauty—Convenience—True Economy—

SHEET STEEL

For Construction and Equipment of Homes or Business Properties

SHEET STEEL is the material of universal adaptability. It has great strength and durability with light weight. It is easily formed and fabricated, yet is tough and staunch. It is highly fire resisting. It withstands the action of time and weather. Its sanitary cleanliness is an important advantage in many applications. And with modern methods of finishing and enameling it can be given surpassing beauty in color combinations as desired or duplicating the glossiest porcelain tile or the grain of the finest woods.

One of the greatest conveniences of the well-equipped modern home is an efficient clothes dryer for the laundry, built of Sheet Steel and handsomely finished.

The walls and ceiling of this exceedingly attractive and inviting restaurant are of enameled Sheet Steel. It will always be inviting because it can be easily kept immaculate. Used in sheets or in the form of tiles, enameled Sheet Steel makes a beautiful, sanitary and economical wall paneling for kitchens and bathrooms.

For roofing all structures, from handsome residences and public buildings to farm barns, it is economical, efficient and durable. Sparks or embers falling on a Steel roof are harmless. A Steel roof, properly grounded, provides sure protection from lightning damage—an important consideration for farm buildings, summer cottages and like structures.

For architectural ornamentation, such as cornices, store fronts and canopies, Sheet Steel has many advantages. Where beauty of line and finish and sanitary cleanliness are important, as in office and bedroom furniture and kitchen, restaurant and hospital equipment, it is increasingly popular.

And in the home, this same wonderful material gives added service and durability to stoves and ranges, warm air heating systems, refrigerators, kitchen cabinets, washing machines, vacuum cleaners and countless other instruments of modern efficiency.

This continually broadening use of Sheet Steel is a natural development in the never-ending search for improved service, increased efficiency, greater economy. Just as the electrical industry, the automotive industry and the great manufacturing and transportation interests of the country, have found Sheet Steel indispensable in their progress and development, so the general public is coming to a new realization of its manifold advantages.

A correctly installed warm air heating system not only provides ample heat for any home anywhere, with an exceedingly small fuel consumption. It also humidifies the air and insures a healthful circulation of air throughout the entire house.

And modern enterprise and inventive skill are continually working out new forms of service for this material of universal adaptability.

You will be interested in the illustrated booklet, "The Service of Sheet Steel To The Public." It will bring you a new conception of the importance of Sheet Steel in contributing to the safety, economy and convenience of modern life, and of its possibilities for service to you. A request will bring it, free.

Garages of Sheet Steel are quickly erected at moderate cost and provide secure protection from fire and theft. This attractive filling and service station and rows of garages are all constructed entirely of Sheet Steel, as is the roof of the residence in the background.

Any responsible and experienced sheet metal contractor will be able to give you complete information and good service in the installation of sheet metal work.

Plots We Have Met During Recent Weeks In Drama and Opera

They Range in Structure From "Electra" to "Haensel and Gretel"—The Cosmopolitan Origins of Flotow's Opera, "Martha."

By RICHARD L. STOKES,

Music and Drama Critic of the Post-Dispatch.

WITHIN a few weeks the public has been regaled with a varied and instructive assortment of plots designed for musical setting. The list includes even "Electra," which, given here without vocal music, was originally written as an opera comique—that is, with text alternately spoken and sung. The fables range, then, from "Electra," built like a steel bridge by Sophocles, that mighty structural engineer of psychology, to the artless clutter of nursery blocks jumbled together by Frau Adelheid Wette for her brother's "Haensel and Gretel."

In addition, we have seen "Pinafore," with one of those brilliant, logical and topsyturvy denouements of which W. S. Gilbert was master; "The Count of Luxembourg," with alterations for its production in English which are not a little illuminating, and "Cavalleria Rusticana," a melodrama with perceptable likeness to "Electra" itself in speed and directness of action. This week we are once more to examine "Martha," the origins and character of which are of considerable interest.

"The Play's the Thing."

AFTER several scrutinies of "Electra," the phenomenon most impressive to the writer was the towering emergence of the drama itself from the superb ornamentation of its production. Miss Anglin's impeccable direction, Mr. Solari's thunderous exploits of lighting, even that majestic Mycenaean palace which remains in our memory as the one perfect example of outdoor scenography—all of these memorable triumphs dwindled to mere accessories before the grandeur of the play.

Compared to the intense concentration of "Electra," Shakspeare's "Hamlet" appears like a cluster of candles beside the flame of an acetylene torch. The Briton, bewildered by the opulence of his genius, strays into this bypath and that, roves aside for one detour and another, and finally, after much plunging amid brambles and brushwood, contrives to reach the goal. Every intelligent director shears great excrescences from "Hamlet" when preparing it for the modern theater. But the Greek, setting forth on the highroad of his clear thinking, pursues it with inflexible straightforwardness, and strides to his terminus without an uncertain or wasted step.

Ibsen and Sophocles.

SOPHOCLES was aided, of course, by the one-act form of Hellenic drama. Without intermissions, we cannot imagine lapses of time; so that every uninterrupted one-act play is necessarily synchronized with the torrential flow of eternity itself. But the same process may be applied to plays of more than one act—as witness the dramas of Ibsen, the action of which often occupies only a few more hours than actually elapse during the performance. In fact, one might analyze the great Norwegian's vaunted revolution in dramatic writing as an adaptation of the one-act technique of the Greeks to the four or five act form of the modern stage.

Like Ibsen, Sophocles leaps instantly into the midst of things with the arival of Orestes on his errand of vengeance. The events leading up to his appearance are revealed subsequently, in the course of the dialogue. From the very first moment, the audience is taken completely into the playwright's confidence. The suspense takes place in the minds of the characters, and is unraveled serially with the recognition of Orestes after another—first by Electra, then by the chorus, next by Clytaemnestra, and finally by Aegisthos.

Fine Points of Construction.

TO describe the masterly finesse with which the Greek tragedian balances the stresses and strains of emotion, it would be necessary to comment upon every incident of the play. We may mention Clytaemnestra's prayer to Apollo, followed by an immediate but deceptive answer—the false news of the death of Orestes; the crafty building up, through the second entrance of Electra's sister, of the hint of the avenger's coming from incredible possibility to a certainty; and the blind, exultant entrance of Aegisthos to find the swords of the murderers at his heart. And Sophocles was an adept Freudian 25 centuries before psycho-analysis. Electra's hatred for her mother is not merely for the assassin, but for the rival in her father's love. Orestes becomes simply an instrument of this unconscious instinct.

To turn from "Electra" to "Haensel and Gretel" is a shift from expert to amateur. Frau Wette appears to have had a sense of humor, and one hopes she was a better poetess than the quantity of false rhymes coming from the stage in the English version would seem to indicate. But no one save a complete tyro of the theater could have seriously written a second act in which nothing at all occurs, in a dramatic sense; and only Humperdinck's own innocence of the stage, or brotherly piety, could have induced him to accept such a dead pause in the action. The distinction—perhaps the immortal distinction—of this work lies in its music. It is a comic opera score, but the difference between it and the music of the Strausses and Lehars is that between genius and talent. The score of "Haensel and Gretel" is packed so full of brains that it will be difficult for time to slay it.

THE deadly juxtaposition of "Cavalleria" and "Pinafore" on the same evening convinced us once and for all that whatever permanence the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas may attain will be due to their librettos rather than their music. Though Sir Arthur Sullivan did admirable work in his serious but lesser known compositions, one may doubt whether his light opera scores are of lasting importance as contributions to musical art. Gilbert's verses and dialogue, on the other hand, are likely to oc-

Summer Chat of Plays And Players in Paris

By WILL A. PAGE.

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, July 25.

IT is hackneyed to say that Paris at this season of the year resembles the theatrical section of Broadway, but it is a fact that one may encounter more American celebrities at luncheon at Ciro's than one can find at the Hotel Astor in July. In one afternoon I saw Marilyn Miller, Mary Eaton, Eddie Cantor, Fannie Ward, Jack Dean, Jay Kaufman, Julian Johnson and Jack Pickford, all in one room. A star cast. Mrs. David Belasco was giving a luncheon to several friends from New York at the same time.

While London theaters are starving to death, the Paris theaters are playing to immense business. The musical revues of course draw heavily upon the American visitors for patronage, but three of them are giving great shows, and deserve the crowds. The foremost of the music halls is no longer the celebrated Folies Bergere. That has become merely an exhibition of nudity for visitors from the Middle West who have heard that it is always naughty.

The Ziegfeld of Paris.

THE really fine production at the Casino de Paris ranks with the best revues shown on Broadway. The Great Glorifier of Paris is Leon Volterra, and following the usual custom of musical comedy producers in America, he has drawn heavily upon attractions across the Atlantic to make up his show. His present revue "Paris en Fete," enjoys the distinction of being almost half of what the "Ziegfeld Follies," of 1924 were.

One of the big novelties which is sure to be duplicated in America is a pin-wheel effect as the finale of the first act, with apparently every bit of the scenery and even the staircases revolving like colored pinwheels. As for the rest of the show, I was a trifle amazed to see Gene Buck's Broadway Indian number reproduced in every detail by the Tiller girls.

Just as I wondered what was missing—the spectacle of Hilda Ferguson in a few white feathers coming out to do the feature dance—who should come on in a duplicate of the white costume but the well-known young American dancer, Clair Luce? This made perfect the reproduction of one of the best musical numbers ever written by Mr. Buck.

Chorus to Electric Lights.

MISS CLAIRE LUCE, the slender blonde dancer who appeared in the "Music Box Revue" in New York last winter without attracting more than ordinary attention at the time, is the latest

'What Women Do' Is Something Terrible

By Wells Root.

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 25.

THERE was one play last week. It was called "What Women Do?" The question mark is the author's. If women really do such things, then there has been a lot put over on the human race thus far. These women spent their time picking off other women's husbands and admirers. One of the women had a baby just as things were getting a little dull and took it around to the sanitarium where her husband was the doctor. This bitter fellow refused for a time to believe that the child was his, and while he was being persuaded, the infant all but died of spinal meningitis. Naturally the curtain fell on his ultimate belief and initial efforts to preserve life.

It was another of those terribly earnest plays where the audience explodes in hysterics at the moment of deadliest drama. Three nurses and two doctors were bent over the tiny form. Rain beat down outside and all the lights were on half pay. The mother, weary and in black silk, staggered about the stage muttering: "Will he live? Will he live?" And at this melancholy outburst, the audience broke into shouts of delight and, as the curtain fell, surged happily out, vowing that the entertainment was worth every cent of admission, which most of them hadn't paid at all.

First-Night Merriment.

IT is doubtful whether the public will agree. "What Women Do?" is one of the most fatuous of presentations. Long apprenticeship at first nights has taught the professional spectators to laugh at a bad play more loudly than they will laugh with a good one. But even a first-night audience has moderate manners. They do not laugh unless a play breaks into unconscious, but not less real burlesque. The acting in this piece ranged from fair to intolerable and the tale was tedious. The author asks what women do. To which one can only reply that occasionally they write plays like this.

Like the conviction that the job of presidency of the United States is easy, there apparently lies deep in everyone a feeling that the theater is the easiest of nuts to crack. At such a play as the foregoing, the lobby is full of laymen wondering excitedly how anyone could write, act or produce so inept an affair as is presently to be concluded before their eyes.

It is probably one of these same laymen who each year is responsible for one of the half dozen shows which come to town and are greeted with derision. This year there were "Easy Street," "His Queen," "All Wet," and particularly "Flesh." All but "His Queen" were done by hitherto (and subsequently) unknown producers. Even the old hands now and then turn out a production that comes perilously near to caving in.

Where Bad Actors Come From.

IT would be an ingenious plan for some actors' club or organization to assemble the very best of its stars and present them in one performance of the worst play of the year. With the expert direction of Robert Milton and the keen-cut playing of Katherine Cornell, Alice Brady and John Barrymore, one wonders what would happen to "What Women Do?" Probably very much

3 INSTRUCTORS ENGAGED FOR LINDENWOOD MUSIC FACULTY

Miss Gertrude Is'dor, Miss Edna A. Treat and Miss Frances B. Criswell Added to Staff.

The music faculty of Lindenwood College has engaged three new instructors for next season, it is announced by John Thomas, head of the department.

Miss Gertrude Isidor of Fort Thomas, Ky., will teach violin and harmony. She has been head of the violin department of the Florida State College for Women for seven years, and has studied under Dr. Edgar Stillman Kelly, Albert Stoessel and Tirindelli.

Miss Edna A. Treat, who will teach organ and theory, was recently an instructor at the University of Illinois, and is a pupil of Tertius Noble and Joseph Bonnet. Miss Frances Blanche Criswell will have charge of vocal instruction and public school music. She is a graduate of the State Teachers College at Maryville.

Metropolitan Singers Cast For 'Martha'

Joan Ruth, Soprano, and Ralph Errolle, Tenor, to Have Leading Roles in Flotow's Semi-Serious Opera.

TWO singers from the Metropolitan Opera Co. have been engaged for the cast of "Martha," with which the Municipal Theater Association this week makes its second sortie into grand opera. They are Miss Joan Ruth, soprano, a newcomer at the Forest Park auditorium, and Ralph Errolle, tenor, who sang in the first five of last summer's productions at the Municipal Theater.

Otherwise, the cast will be recruited from the organization's light opera forces. It is announced as follows:

Lady Harriet Durham	Joan Ruth
Nancy	Bernice Mershon
Sir Tristram Mickleford	William J. McCarthy
Lionel	Ralph Errolle
Plunkett	James Stevens
Sheriff of Richmond	Detmar Poppen
Footman	Leonard Berry

Story of the Opera.

AS in the case of "Cavalleria Rusticana," this work will be presented in English. The entertaining story is laid in England, during the reign of Queen Anne, at the old market town of Richmond, in Yorkshire, and its vicinity. Lady Harriet, maid of honor to Queen Anne, wearies of the ceaseless round of conventional pleasures at court and carries out a project which seems to promise diversion of a novel sort. Disguised as menials, she, her maid Nancy, and her doting but somewhat aged cousin, Sir Tristram Mickleford, go to mingle with the crowd at the Richmond Fair.

Among the farmers there to engage servants are Plunkett and his foster-brother Lionel, the latter a waif who had been left as a child at the door of Plunkett's father with nothing to identify him except a ring, which, in case of need, was to be shown to the Queen. In furtherance of their plot, Lady Harriet (now known as Martha) and Nancy engage themselves as servants to Lionel and Plunkett, who are fascinated by their beauty and archness, and carry the jest so far as to accept the legal earnest-money.

Sir Tristram, who has been pestered by the fair folk, purchases relief from their torments with a purse, and returns to bid the ladies go back to their homes. They are willing, but Lionel and Plunkett insist upon their rights under the law, and they are obliged to drive off with the young farmers.

The Captives Escape.

ARRIVED at the farm house, an attempt is made to set the young women to work, but in vain, and the men find themselves obliged to instruct them even in the simple art of spinning. Lionel loses his heart to Martha, who at his solicitation sings "'Tis the Last Rose of Summer." The clock rings midnight and the men go to bed, while the women are rescued from their awkward predicament by Sir Tristram, who enables them to flee in a coach.

During the third act, the foster-brothers discover their quondam servants in the hunting train of Queen Anne. They assert their supposed rights under the law, but are repulsed. When Lionel laments the harshness of Lady Harriet, who had masqueraded to make a mock of his peace of mind, she asks pity for him from the courtiers on the ground that he is insane. In his despair, he sends the ring given to him by his unknown father to the Queen, and by its means is identified as the Earl of Derby, son of the old Earl, who had been banished from the kingdom, though innocent of the offense with which he was charged.

Lovers Pair Off.

DESPITE her apparent severity, Lady Harriet has fallen in love with Lionel, even before the discovery of his high rank, and now seeks to throw herself in his arms. But his mind has been turned awry by his sufferings, and he repels her. In this dilemma a remedy is sought in the device of bringing back to his mind the scene of the first meeting. The fair of the first act is repeated, and amid its merriment reason returns to the lover, and with it happiness. Roguish Nancy becomes the prize of Plunkett.

The concluding performance of Lehar's "Count of Luxembourg" will be given tonight at the Municipal Theater. Next week's offering will be "Naughty Marietta," with Miss Ruth in the title role. The season will close the following week with a repeat production of "The Merry Widow."

Graduation Concert.

Commencement exercises of the St. Louis School of Musical Art will be held Friday evening at the Studio Building, Olive street and Taylor avenue. A musical program will be given by graduates and pupils, assisted by Verna Caserly and Helen S. Phillips.

"WHAT WOMEN DO?" IN PLAY SO NAMED IS SOMETHING WEIRD

the same thing that might happen to "The Swan" if the people of this curren company were thrust into the roles, and the Molnar play with $75 scenery. Though we rather suspect that the good play would survive the bad acting, or rather inspire excellence in the most flimsily talented of companies.

After wading patiently through a Broadway season, one speculates as to where all the bad actors come from. What is it that inspires a palpable incompetent to apply week after week for positions with the managers? Finally he lands. He shows himself to all that wish to see as a hopeless detriment to drama. Yet he keeps on.

Good Pay, Little Work.

Is it the memory of church socials or little red schoolhouse recitations in the early days? Or is it the lure of large salaries and little work? Probably the latter. Though on the crust of every actor's consciousness is undoubtedly the feeling that some day he will confound the critics, the majority must realize that they are generally unfit. But it is not a bad life if jobs are not too far apart. Almost every actor has had some sort of a role in a hit at one time or another. Then he had money and no troubles. Few actors are thorough loafers. But it is the peculiarity of the theaters that, for the majority, there is far more work in getting a job than in keeping it.

Actresses are generally better. The percentage of ability among the stars and among the average is far higher for the feminine section of the performing world. It is said that women take more naturally to acting; that acting is part of their routine in life; that they are more utterly at home as someone else.

Good Actors in England.

THIS is an easy explanation and rather obvious. We are not convinced of its applicability. For America, possibly. In London, however, there are scores of good actors. Actors at least that are acceptable. A good majority of them seem to come to America. In England an actor is accepted as a completely respectable member of society and asked to dinner. In this country he is considered a curiosity.

You recall the story of the country farmhouse where a traveling actor stopped for a drink of milk.

"Who's that, Polly?" called the mother from the kitchen.

"One of them actor people!" screamed back the daughter.

"Come right in the house," was the reply, "and bring the cow in with you!"

PLOTS WE HAVE MET DURING RECENT WEEKS IN DRAMA AND OPERA

cupy an enduring if by no means pre-eminent place in literature. His book for "Pinafore" is on a much higher intellectual plane than the libretto of "Cavalleria," which deals solely with emotions of the most primitive coarseness.

Far beneath "Pinafore" lies "The Count of Luxembourg," clever and charming as it is. The descent is not so much in music, as in the intelligence of the story. It deals with insignificant people and unimportant incidents, but is nevertheless witty and coherent enough to raise the work out of the half-witted ruck of its class. It is the man with one eye in the kingdom of the blind. This work had already run its destined course of popularity and interment when it was resurrected for the Municipal Theater.

Those who attended the performances of "The Count of Luxembourg" last week may be interested to learn that it originally had three acts instead of two, the second representing a party given by the prima donna heroine, Mlle. Didier, after her farewell appearance at the opera. Her Christian name, by the way, was Suzanne instead of Angele; it was Count Fernard instead of Rene of Luxembourg, and Prince Basil Basilowitch instead of Grand Duke Rutzmov. The principal change is in the denouement. There was no hideous and aged Russian Princess in the original to appear and claim the Grand Duke as her fiance. Instead, the painter, Brissard, by pretending to be dead, so enhances the value of his canvasses that he is able to return the 100,000 francs paid to Count Fernard.

IN the case of "Martha," this is another work in which general critical opinion considers the libretto to be superior to the music. The story of how it came to be written may throw some light on the judgment. Friedrich Freiherr von Flotow, a Prussian Junker who had become a thorough Parisian, won his first success as composer of an opera entitled "Stradella," which was based on the romantic career of an Italian composer of that name.

It happened that the director of the Grand Opera, in Paris, was under contract with the Government to bring forward each year a new ballet in three acts. As the time approached for the 1844 production, the director, distrusting the ability of his principal dancer, Mlle. Adele Dumilatre, sought to escape from his obligation, and alleged that the ballet would cost the direction 100,000 francs. The dancer heard of the attempted evasion, and one morning a gentleman called at the ministry and offered to make good any deficit up to 100,000 francs.

Matters were instantly placed in motion. A scenario was requisitioned from the Marquis de Saint-Georges, collaborator with Donizetti, Adam, Auber, Halevy and other famous composers. He brought forward a plot entitled "Lady Henriette, ou la Servante de Greenwich," which was said to be based on the personal experience of two of his feminine friends who had amused themselves by masquerading as servants at a country fair, but which, according to Henry E. Krehbiel, was probably borrowed from a vaudeville entitled "La Contesse d'Egmont," itself derived from a popular stage piece of the seventeenth century.

Three Composers, Engaged.

AS time was pressing, it was decided to entrust each of the acts to a different composer. Those chosen were Friedrich R. Burgmueller, Edouard Deldevez and Flotow. The ballet was a success, and Flotow was particularly pleased with its plot. In 1846 he received a commission to compose an opera for the Hofoper in Vienna, and turned for his material to Saint-Georges's ballet. A libretto was written by F. W. Riese, using the pen name "W. Friedrich," and the work was given in Vienna on Nov. 25, 1847.

Considering the subsequent popularity of "Martha," it is curious to note that, despite a rapid and lasting success in Germany, it required 11 years to reach the boards in England, Italy and France. It was actually heard in New York six years before its first production in London and Paris.

Favorite of Coloratura Sopranos.

NO work could have more heterogenous origins. "Martha," with English settings and characters, was composed by a Parisianized Junker to a German text adapted from a Frenchman's plot, and uses as its principal melody an Irish folksong, "'Tis the Last Rose of Summer." Flotow not only interpolated the air bodily, but used phrases from it as the leading motive of the concluding part of the opera. He employed it in the form adopted by Thomas Moore in setting the air to his plaintive poem. It had formerly been a comic song, entitled "The Groves of Blarney," and before that had figured as a popular Irish ditty.

Because of the florid character of the music written for Lady Harriet, the opera has always been a favorite with coloratura sopranos, such as Patti, Sembrich and Hempel. The male roles have attracted celebrities like Caruso and Plancon. Thanks to its amusing book, gracious melodies and lively rhythms, the work has enjoyed a long life on the stage and is likely to persist for a good many years to come.

NO FLIRTING AMONG BABOONS

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 25.—Wife-beating forms a regular diversion for the lords of creation in Berlin's Monkeyville. With the recent arrival of some 30 gray male baboons from Abyssinia at the zoo, the monkey house now is the scene of occurrences such as the oldest holders of zoo season tickets declare they never witnessed before.

The Abyssinian arrivals, who at first battled viciously for the favor of the females, now jealously insist that their mates lead monogamous lives. At the slightest flirtation the baboons seize their wives by the scruffs of their necks, beat them unmercifully and often drag them along the entire length of the floor into a secluded corner of the cage where a regular thrashing is administered. The family scenes usually end by Mrs. Monkey penitently going about her housework, which largely consists of keeping her husband's coat clean.

SUMMER GOSSIP OF PLAYS AND PLAYERS IN PARIS THE GAY

dance sensation in Paris. She has made a tremendous hit in the Casino de Paris revue, and also dances nightly at the Perroquet, the smart after-theater supper club in the same building.

In fact, her personal success has led to such receptions night after night that there are rumors that this is the real reason Mistinguett is withdrawing from the cast. At any rate, the Great Glorifier of Paris has promoted Miss Luce to the position of premier star, and she plays and sings all of Mistinguett's numbers and does all of her dances, in addition to her own musical numbers and dances.

When Miss Luce returns to Broadway, as she will in the autumn, you will see a young star of the future who has developed amazingly. Less than 18 months ago she was a Broadway chorus girl in "Little Jessie James;" now her name is in electric letters in front of the Casino de Paris.

New Musical Comedy.

MISS MARILYN MILLER is quite the most interesting young star in Paris at the present time, and attracts much attention nearly every afternoon when she attends the races. She seems to be having a glorious time, has bought oodles of gowns, and is about to bring her holiday to a close to return to New York to begin rehearsals of the new musical comedy in which she will appear under Charles Dillingham's management at the New Amsterdam Theater in September.

This announcement ought to set at rest for all time rumors that she would not be under the Dillingham management next season. She will—and with a new musical comedy by Jerome Kern and Otto Harlack that is said to be planned on a very elaborate scale with at least five well known entertainers of prominence in her support.

Rudolph Friml, composer of "Rose Marie" and dozens of other successes, is spending a few days in Paris, after visiting his family at his native town of Prague in Hungary. He is due to return to New York in a few days to supervise the production of his newest operetta, founded upon "If I Were King." Mr. Friml, although born in Prague, is proud of the fact that he became an American citizen nearly 20 years ago. He has just paid his first visit to his native land in nearly 10 years.

Naughtiest Play.

AN interesting play which is quite the rage in Paris at present is "Un Dejeuner de Soleil," which literally translated may be called "Breakfast in Sunlight." Mlle. Spinelly, known hitherto in Paris and New York as a music hall singer and dancer, plays a role full of comedy and tragedy, with a suggestion of Zaza now and then. Her work as a legitimate actress has proved a great surprise, and as she already was a great favorite here, the Theater Caumartin, where she appears, is packed at every performance.

Many in the audiences are obviously Americans seeing what is said to be a real naughty play. In fact, it is supposed to be the naughtiest play in Paris, but I cannot see what even a citizens' jury could do to stop it in New York. The story deals with a cocotte who has lost her lover. She is very wealthy, as a result of her amatory experiences, but she conceives the idea that to attract a new and generous lover, she must pretend to have one already, as she fancies that few men want something easy to get, and that they will appreciate her very much more if they think they have taken her from someone else.

The Cocotte's Progress.

IT is an unusual play in that while the love story is strong and even tragic, the author has made the comedy element dominate the play. In the end, Spinelly finds a new lover, a rich banker, while the young man finds employment as a waiter. The rich banker invests the fortune of the cocotte in worthless securities; gives a big fete in honor of his new flame; and the ex-lover is forced to serve champagne to them. During the supper, the banker flees; he is a swindler, the cocotte is penniless, and then, brought together by their mutual poverty, the young people gather up the remains of the repast in a tablecloth and go out into the country to have breakfast in the sunshine and start life anew together.

The one scene in "Un Dejeuner de Soleil" which is said to be excessively naughty—although it did not impress me as being extraordinary—is where the cocotte orders the giggilo to get into bed. The young man, fully clothed, with the utmost propriety, crawls under the blankets. Lee Shubert saw the last week, and bought it for New York. I understand that he has already arranged to have Miss Margot Kelly play the cocotte.

BARRIE CONTRIBUTES TO THE BACON-SHAKSPEARE DISPUTE

Dramatist Tells of Receipt for Fathering Play of Hamlet He Understands Has Been Found.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 25.—Sir James Barrie, the dramatist, in whimsical mood at a luncheon recently given in his honor, chatted gayly about Sir Francis Bacon and other writers, and gave a Barriesque contribution to the perennial Bacon-Shakspeare controversy.

"It has often been said that Shakspeare was like a cuckoo, the bird that lays its eggs in other birds' nests," said Sir James. He then referred to the ghost of Stationers' Hall, saying: "The ghost, I understand, is a scrap of paper which proves conclusively that Bacon did not write Shakspeare's play.

"This document, I am told, and soon I will know for certain, is signed by Shakspeare and is in these words: "Received from Lady Bacon for fathering her play of 'Hamlet,' the sum of five pounds sterling.'"

Then Barrie went on in even a lighter strain, much to the delight of his listeners, declaring "after all, that famous old liveryman of the Worshipful Company of Stationers was probably the wise man who said to Ben Johnson, 'I know not whether Bacon wrote Shakspeare, but if he didn't, it seems to me he missed the opportunity of his life.'"

LEMON JUICE BEST TO WHITEN SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It cannot irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It cannot be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

USE CANTHROX Shampoo

Today's Beauty Talk

Inquiry develops the information that it is dangerous to shampoo with any makeshift hair cleanser. The majority find that to have the best hair wash and scalp stimulator at a cost of about three cents, one need only get a package of Canthrox from your druggist; dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. This makes enough shampoo liquid to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. After its use the hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are quickly dissolved and entirely disappear when you rinse the hair. After this your hair will be so fluffy it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.

NATIONAL GUARD CAMP TO OPEN ON AUGUST 1

110th Air Squadron and 138th Infantry to Attend Encampment at Nevada.

Approximately 400 officers and enlisted men of the 138th Infantry and the 110th Observation Squadron, St. Louis National Guard organizations, will depart by airplane and train Aug. 1 for the annual two weeks' encampment at Camp Clark, Nevada, Mo.

The encampment will be the second in which the air squadron has participated and the fourth to which units of the 138th Infantry have been sent since the regiment was reorganized after the world war. For many of the members of both organizations the encampment will constitute their first field experience. This is especially true of the personnel of the 138th Infantry, and the course of instruction to be followed will be basic, Col. Auswell E. Deitsch, commanding the regiment, announces. Advanced tactical problems will be undertaken by the officers, however.

Eight Planes to Make Trip.

The eight planes of the 110th Squadron will be flown to Nevada, leaving Lambert-St. Louis Field early Aug. 1. The schedule of the flight, commanded by Maj. William H. Leininger, includes a stop at Jefferson City, with arrival at Camp Clark late in the afternoon.

The infantry, accompanied by the enlisted personnel of the air unit, will entrain at the Compton avenue yards at 6 p. m., Aug. 1. The trip will be made in two special trains, which are scheduled to arrive at Nevada early Aug. 2. It has been necessary to consolidate the eight line companies of the 138th Regiment into four companies in order to meet the required encampment regulations of 60 per cent of the authorized enlisted strength for each company reporting at camp. The companies making the trip will be B, C, D and H, the Howitzer Company and Battalion and Regimental Headquarters companies, in addition to the Medical Detachment, which will precede the main group by a day.

Artillery at Fort Riley.

The St. Louis Guardsmen will be joined at Nevada by other National Guard units from throughout the State, exclusive of artillery units, which are at present in training at Fort Riley, Kan. The training schedule includes in addition to fundamental instruction, field problems and terrain exercise in which the air squadron will participate. Three days of the second week will be spent on the rifle range and the encampment will close with a review by Adjutant-General Rumbold.

Both Col. Deitsch and Maj. Leininger urge that all young men desiring to participate in the encampment make immediate application for enlistment in either the air or infantry units at the Armory, Grand boulevard and Market street. Applicants must be between 17 and 45 years of age and must pass a physical examination.

LIGHT DISPLAY ATOP EIFFEL TOWER ENDS IN ADVERTISEMENT

French Engineer Overcomes Opposition to Publicity Scheme—Effect Visible 60 Miles.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 25.—When Gustav Eiffel, engineer and creator of Eiffel Tower, was asked to allow the tower to be used for commercial purposes, he replied: "I agree, provided the towers of Notre Dame Cathedral are so used."

Eiffel died before seeing the nineteenth century creation which he ranked with Gothic masterpieces, used to advertise an automobile. Engineer Fernand Jacopozi first proposed the illumination of the tower as part of the Decorative Arts' Exhibition, but the exhibition company took fright at the cost. A further suggestion by Jacopozi that the tower be covered with advertising aroused the indignation, first, of the exhibition committee; second, of the Eiffel Tower Co., and third, of the Paris municipal authorities, who exercise esthetic control over Eiffel's masterpiece.

Eventually, however, Jacopozi succeeded in persuading all three that art and advertising were not necessarily irreconcilable. The result has been what the illustrated weekly, Illustration, describes as "a luminous poem."

At first the tower at night is outlined in white light. Then a rain of small stars pours from its summit. The signs of the Zodiac follow and an immense red flame lights up the highest point and the dates 1899, when the tower was completed, and 1925 appear in fire below. This is followed by enormous white stars of 600 candlepower, apparently suspended between heaven and earth. These suddenly become comets by the addition of gold-colored tails.

Then comes the advertising part of the scheme, letters forming the name of the automobile advertised appearing between the second and third platforms. The lighted tower is visible a distanec of 60 miles.

Japan to Have Wireless Company.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOKIO, June 26.—Viscount Shibusawa and Baron K. Nakashima have been appointed by Premier Kato members of the committee which will establish the Japanese Wireless Telegraph Co. under joint management of the Government and private interests. The company is to be organized with the Government wireless station at Iwaki, Fukushima prefecture, as its principal asset. This will be supplemented by subscriptions to shares by prominent business men of Japan.

Reducing Your Weight

By Lewis Baker, M. D.

Science recognizes truly the extreme embarrassment, the constant annoyance and the real danger of becoming too fleshy. Particularly is the condition most pitiable during hot weather. If, therefore, this condition can be overcome, as it unquestionalby can in a vast number of cases, I am truly glad to point the way.

It appears to be an established fact that obesity is often due to a partial failure of the thyroid gland to secrete and disperse through the blood an iodine gland substance which nature intended as a regulator of the fat absorption from the food consumed. Science, through myriads of experiments, discovered that the simple administration of the dessicated thyroid gland substance supplies to a degree nature's need for the control of fatty accumulation.

For many years I have recommended Arbolone Tablets as a reliable, non-secret home remedy, as it contains one grain of thyroid gland, with other approved ingredients, that have a tendency to aid in reducing the superfluous fatty tissues and to regulate the perverted craving for wrong foods. Taken as per directions, I have never known them to be harmful: on the contrary, many have gratefully written the facts of their success. Leading pharmacies dispense Arbolone Tablets.

Registered Nurse Reduced With Arbolone

"I have benefited after using for about three months when all other prescriptions did me no good at all. Arbolone, certainly has done for me and another member of my family what nothing else could do, though I had tried for years, etc." (Signed) N. Mc St. Clair, R. N., New York City.

Reduced 15 Pounds First Month

CLEVELAND, OHIO. Mrs. L. Vance, 10811 Detroit Av., Suite 4, writes: "I have been taking Arbolene so far for one month and lost 15 pounds. I feel better and know I look much better, too. Thanking you, etc."

Lost 15 Pounds in Two Weeks

NEW YORK CITY. John D. Strecher, 331 E. 125th St., writes: "I used Arbolone Tablets two weeks and lost 15 pounds. Weighed 170 before and now 155. I am 55 years old, a baker and work every day. It is a great relief for me, so thank you."

Used Arbolone Successfully

RENOVA, PA. Mrs. H. A. Peters, 1122 Erie Av., writes: "I took the Arbolone Tablets and must say they have done me a lot of good. I weighed 180 pounds. After taking a few days I did not have that stuffy feeling, so I kept on, and now I weigh 160 pounds. Thanks to you for the good they have done. I am telling my over-stout friends, because I know they have never done me any harm. Thanking you again, etc."

Arbolone Tablets are sold and recommended in St. Louis by Wolff-Wilson, Johnson Bros., Judge & Dolph Drug Stores and by good druggists everywhere.

This writer was at Oslo before the hop-off, and only a few hours before the news of the departure arrived talked to many Norwegians. None then expected that Amundsen would fly so soon. Many thought he never would fly. Most of them scoffed, saying, "Amundsen is a bluffer; he will never fly," while others declared almost angrily, "He had better fly if he expects to return to Norway. He has had two big failures in two years. The public won't stand any more trifling."

Past Achievements Forgotten

The past achievements of the Northwest Passage and even the attainment of the South Pole seemed to have been forgotten. Amundsen would have had difficulty in borrowing a dollar, that day, in Oslo. During the night the news of the hop-off was flashed from the radio station in Spitzbergen:

"Pole flyers have started!"

The mob turned instantly from sneers to adoration. One couldn't help thinking Amundsen had been pushed over a precipice by the wolf-like howls of the fickle crowd, who were now sorry and anxious to make amends by excessive worship. Certainly when, on July 5, he re-entered Oslo in a triumph befitting a Roman Emperor, it was hard to realize that this was the same man who had been so abused and hounded six weeks before.

The days following the hop-off were anxious ones, for, although the Norwegians were unwilling to confess the slightest doubt of the flyers' safety, they knew in their hearts that the expedition had unprecedented perils to face, and no calculation could foresee them. As Ellsworth himself said to this writer: "The trouble is there is no literature telling anything definite about Polar conditions, because nobody ever stayed long enough to make useful observations. Previous explorers have, of course, been too busy getting there and getting back to study carefully what they saw. Hence, every expedition goes into the unknown—particularly ours, as nobody had ever traveled into the Arctic by plane before."

Invented Reasons for Delay

All Norway knew that the chances were great that the planes had been smashed, the flyers killed or disabled, and even if unhurt would have a slim chance of getting back afoot. Yet every day many of Norway's experienced Arctic explorers invented new and plausible reasons for Amundsen's delay in returning, until they finally had to admit they could not explain his failure to return to Spitzbergen. They said it was virtually certain that he had started for Cape Columbia. They were all wrong and all their ingenious guesses went for nothing. The true reason for the delay was one which they had never considered—namely, the difficulty of building a runway for restarting the planes. These experts were like those others, the meteorologists, whom Amundsen took to King's Bay and who were "absolutely wrong in every prediction." As Amundsen said, "They said when we started it was 'now or never.' The weather was perfect all over the Polar basin, with no fog anywhere. We hadn't been gone two hours when we hit the fog, and we had fog off and on all the time. All the meteorologists did was to observe lo-

PARTY OUTVOTED AMUNDSEN, WHO WANTED TO ABANDON PLANES AND WALK TO LAND

Intimate Story of Epic Adventure on the Frozen Polar Sea as Told by the Actors—The Halo of Hope in the Sky—Weary Work of Building the Runway.

By WILLIAM BIRD.
Special Correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Copyright, 1925, in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Japan and South America by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

OSLO, Norway, July 25.

IN spending many days with the intrepid men who departed amid the doubts of Oslo and returned to its acclaim, I was impressed with the fact that all had a deep sense of having been miraculously saved from appalling dangers. It was my privilege to converse with Amundsen and Ellsworth in moments of relaxed and thoughtful retrospect, out of which the narrative of what is perhaps man's most daring challenge of the unknown gradually emerged. I have endeavored to record these disclosures in a summarized account of the entire adventure, from the disheartening days in Oslo, before their flight for the North Pole, to the blazing welcome afterward.

This writer was at Oslo before the hop-off, and only a few hours before the news of the departure arrived talked to many Norwegians. None then expected that Amundsen would fly so soon. Many thought he never would fly. Most of them scoffed, saying, "Amundsen is a bluffer; he will never fly," while others declared almost angrily, "He had better fly if he expects to return to Norway. He has had two big failures in two years. The public won't stand any more bluffing."

Past Achievements Forgotten

The past achievements of the Northwest Passage and even the attainment of the South Pole seemed to have been forgotten. Amundsen would have had difficulty in borrowing a dollar, that day, in Oslo. During the night the news of the hop-off was flashed from the radio station in Spitzbergen:

"Pole flyers have started!"

The mob turned instantly from sneers to adoration. One couldn't help thinking Amundsen had been pushed over a precipice by the wolf-like howls of the fickle crowd, who were now sorry and anxious to make amends by excessive worship. Certainly when, on July 5, he re-entered Oslo in a triumph befitting a Roman Emperor, it was hard to realize that this was the same man who had been so abused and hounded six weeks before.

The days following the hop-off were anxious ones, for, although the Norwegians were unwilling to confess the slightest doubt of the flyers' safety, they knew in their hearts that the expedition had unprecedented perils to face, and no calculation could foresee them. As Ellsworth himself said to this writer: "The trouble is there is no literature telling anything definite about Polar conditions, because nobody ever stayed long enough to make useful observations. Previous explorers have, of course, been too busy getting there and getting back to study carefully what they saw. Hence, every expedition goes into the unknown—particularly ours, as nobody had ever traveled into the Arctic by plane before."

The N-25 riding on its pontoons off Spitzbergen after the return from the Polar region.

Invented Reasons for Delay

All Norway knew that the chances were great that the planes had been smashed, the flyers killed or disabled, and even if unhurt would have a slim chance of getting back afoot. Yet every day many of Norway's experienced Arctic explorers invented new and plausible reasons for Amundsen's delay in returning, until they finally had to admit they could not explain his failure to return to Spitzbergen. They said it was virtually certain that he had started for Cape Columbia. They were all wrong and all their ingenious guesses went for nothing. The true reason for the delay was one which they had never considered—namely, the difficulty of building a runway for restarting the planes. These experts were like those others, the meteorologists, whom Amundsen took to King's Bay and who were "absolutely wrong in every prediction." As Amundsen said, "They said when we started it was 'now or never.' The weather was perfect all over the Polar basin, with no fog anywhere. We hadn't been gone two hours when we hit the fog, and we had fog off and on all the time. All the meteorologists did was to observe local weather, which was as local and variable in Spitzbergen as in New England."

I first saw Amundsen and Ellsworth in King's Bay June 20, two days after their return, having traveled 20 hours in a 36-foot motor boat on the Arctic Ocean, after receiving the news at Green Harbor. It is an interesting fact that the writer, who received the news in a wireless message from New York, was the first to inform the population of Green Harbor. There are extensive mining works at this little settlement. The writer was the first American to reach the scene after the return, and was eagerly received by Ellsworth, who was eager for American contacts, as well as by Amundsen, to whom America is almost a second motherland. The two leaders were alone there, having sent the others back to Brandy Bay to fetch a plane brackett.

A few minutes after I called at the house of Director Knutsen, of the mining company, Amundsen and Ellsworth came in from a tramp over the fields, where they had been gathering terns' eggs. While Amundsen went to the kitchen with his booty, Ellsworth entered the room, his bright blue eyes flashing and his teeth gleaming. One had expected to find a gaunt, specter-like famine victim.

"You look as if you were just back from Atlantic City," the writer exclaimed.

"Well," he laughed, "we had two days to feed up on seal meat on that whaler, and how we did dive into it! I'll say all my life that seal meat is the greatest food in the world!"

Ellsworth had not yet received the news of his father's death, in Florence, Italy. He at first refused to believe it was true.

Amundsen strode in a moment later on powerful legs which, accentuated by his short coat, made him appear to "bestride the world like a Colossus."

Amundsen Full of Energy

Although fifty-three and weatherworn, Amundsen is full of springy energy and one realizes at the first glance that his exploring days are not over. Moreover his mind, like his body, seems to move in accurate, eagle-like swoops. He is a man of big, bold ideas, yet never rash or fumbling.

They wanted to talk most about intimate everyday things. At lunch we discussed mainly food and drink, Amundsen waxing ironical over Norwegian prohibition, which forbids everything except beer and wines.

"We are children incapable of deciding what we shall drink, and must have an all-wise Parliament prescribe our diet," he said.

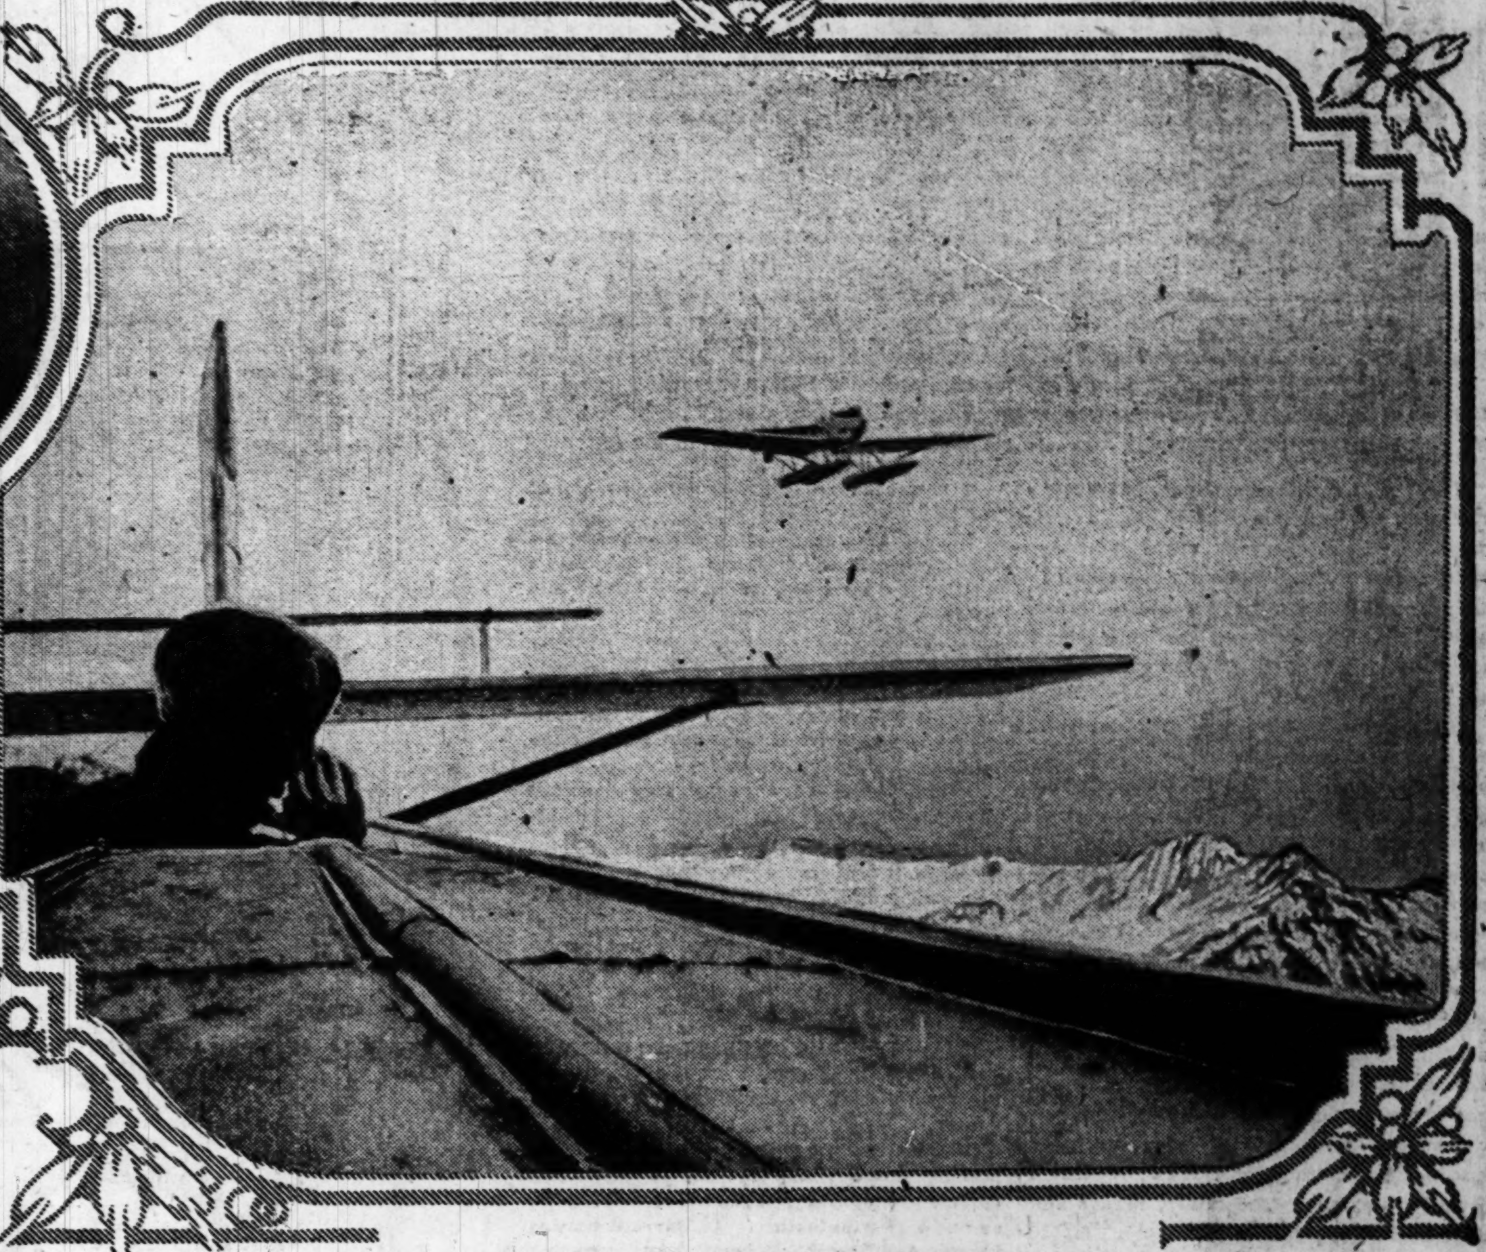
"Did you take any stimulants on the flight?" I asked.

"No," answered Amundsen, "because, while brandy is an excellent reviver if a person can be kept warm after drinking it, it is worse than useless if one continues to be exposed to the cold."

Expressing regret that the remainder of the party were absent, Amundsen said, "They'll be here tomorrow—wait until you see them, and then tell me if they are not a fine bunch of men. He was brimming with almost parental pride as he said this. Ellsworth added:

"An experience like this makes you appreciate the importance of friendship. The most wonderful thing about the expedition to me was our comradeship up there on the ice. Never in a lifetime of ordinary acquaintance could we have come so closely together."

The next evening at supper time, we started from the table as we heard the roar of motors overhead. Amundsen strode out across the muddy fields to meet the returning flyers. Presently he ushered them, an arm around each man's shoulder, in turn: gigantic Riiser Larsen, who dwarfs even the giant Dietrichson; then Omdal, quiet and retiring, and finally Feucht, who entered gravely, making a deep, mechanical German bow.



Rescue plane F-22 escorting N-25.

Human Automaton Suggested

Feucht's whole bearing suggests the human automaton. He has been devoted to machines all his life and has become like them. Amundsen stood aside, smilingly watching them, as they mingled and shook hands. As they took our places at the table, he asked:

"Aren't they a fine bunch of men? Did you ever see such fine chaps?"

I had many talks with Amundsen at King's Bay, as with all the other members of the party. Before leaving, Amundsen invited me to lunch on the plane, where we ate the party daily breakfast ration—a cup of thin chocolate and three oatmeal crackers—and then to take a flight. This was the only pleasure flight the N-25 ever took. At Amundsen's invitation, I returned to Norway aboard the Hobby, the expedition's historic mothership. I next met the party at the Horten Naval Station, the night of July 4, where the N-26 was reassembled and made ready for the flight to Oslo July 5. In this latter conversation I asked:

"Just what do you consider the chief accomplishment of the expedition?"

A "Circle Rainbow" With Airplane Miraged in Its Center Heartened Flyers

OSLO, July 25.

WITH a reverent sense of some deep, mystic significance in the event, Lincoln Ellsworth, American member of the Amundsen expedition, told me of an occurrence which put heart into him. A mirage of his plane—a "loom" they call it in the far North—suddenly appeared in the deepening mists, surrounded by a double halo of light.

"We had been flying northward for about two hours," said Ellsworth, "when we plunged into the mist. Looking toward the east from my place on the observer's seat, I saw an overwhelming sight. There was a complete double halo of unusual brilliancy, with a perfect silhouette of our plane in the middle. I felt a moment of the most intense exaltation I have ever experienced. I kept repeating, 'It means hope! It means hope.' Omdal later told me he had also seen it but Dietrichson, who was driving, had curiously failed to see it.

"The halo is simply a complete rainbow—a perfect circle, instead of an arch. The double ones, that is, one within the other, are extremely rare phenomena."

"There was only one accomplishment, if you can call it that," Amundsen replied frankly. "That was the demonstration that you can't go up there and land on the ice in an aeroplane with any reasonable hope of returning safely. We had wonderful luck in restarting. It would be too much to hope for the same luck another time. So we proved you can't figure on doing that."

"Then do you mean that you must do it by some other means—a dirigible, for instance?"

"I don't know enough about dirigibles to answer that. We should first have to study them carefully."

"But are you quite convinced that you will never take another Polar flight in an aeroplane?"

"No, I did not say that. I say you can't land on ice with safety. But it is not necessary to land. My intention is to fly from Spitzbergen to Alaska, a distance of about 2000 miles. There are planes capable of flying twice that distance. The Farman Goliath carries fuel for 50 hours. I hear a Frenchman is planning a 4000-mile, non-stop flight. If one had sufficiently dependable motors, he could make the transpolar flight without stopping."

"But can one make sufficiently close observations from the air without landing—to give the expedition any real scientific value?"

"Most certainly. If we find new land beyond the pole, as I feel certain we shall, it will be a simple matter to locate it with sufficient precision by observations from the plane. By flying low, we could observe the contour of the land and the information thus gained would be of the utmost value in future exploration. It is by all odds the safest and surest way to make the first preliminary exploration of this vast unexplored territory, the only considerable area still untraveled by man."

"What about the risk?"

"That would lie in two things: motors and weather. But neither involves a greater risk than that which we faced in the expedition just finished. In any other ways it would be less risky because we would not land en route. We should go straight to Alaska on one flight, where, of course, we would have a previously established base. If the motors worked properly and we did not encounter fog and blizzards, we ought to be able to make it in, say 24 hours. And if our navigation should be as good as Dietrischson's on the return to Spitzbergen, when we landed within a few yards of our course, then we should alight alongside our base and go in to supper as if returning from a summer evening excursion.

Taking Risks Part of Business

"But, on the other hand, if we were forced to descend and should be unable to arise again, we would, of course, have a supply of provisions and equipment for walking back. Naturally that's always risky. But—well, taking risks is part of our business."

"What was the most anxious moment of the expedition?" Amundsen drew a long breath.

"That's a hard question. I think, though, that a nut in a nutcracker probably would say that the worst moment in his life was when the steel jaws began to close in on him. Our plane was caught in the icy jaws of an immense nutcracker, which seemed about to crush us like an almond. It was a dreadful moment, but suddenly, just as the plane was about to split open, the pressure relaxed. So there, only a few minutes apart, were perhaps

NEW YORK, July 25.

WHO says that rich men's sons won't work? A good many people have expressed the sentiment. Sometimes it is heard as a sweeping assertion, sometimes the speakers qualify it. Charles M. Schwab, for example, who rose by his own efforts from the humblest beginnings to a commanding position in the steel industry, once said at a hearing in Washington:

"Most rich men's sons won't work as I want people to work for me."

The unlucky inheritors of wealth and position seem to be pitied, even, by the self-made men of whom the American scene has produced so many and such remarkable instances. Now prosperous, these men are quite apt to speak with fond recollection about the sharp spur of necessity. Poverty, and their own invincible spirit, drove them onward and upward. They imply, when they don't say it plainly, that in the silver spoon is a draught which deadens such qualities as enterprise and industry.

Edward W. Bok, who came to this country as a poor boy from Holland and who retired from his editorial duties some five or six years ago a wealthy man, has written in his autobiography that poverty is "the richest experience that can come to a boy."

Perhaps they are exceptions, but some of the most affluent young men in America work hard, carrying big burdens of responsibility and in the common expression distinctly "making good." They had the chance, it is true. But evidently that was not all they had. Upon their own individual merits they have "arrived."

In the group of those who have not waited until after a father's death to emerge from obscurity, consider the case of Charles Edison, son of Thomas A. Edison and 36 years old. The inventor has three sons, all of them interested in the work of their distinguished parent. Upon the shoulders of Charles, the second son, have fallen the heaviest responsibilities, executive and financial.

For several years he had been chairman of the Edison industries when, in February last year, he became financial director of the 33 Edison industries and companies. These organizations extend from New Jersey to Wisconsin, employ more than 6000 workers and manufacture millions of dollars' worth of products annually. The father, always more interested in laboratory work than in the mere making of money, remains the president of the companies.

Charles Edison trained hard for the exacting post which he holds. Yet he found time to complete courses in two educational institutions of high standing—the Hotchkiss School at Lakeville, Conn., and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Also, he has indulged his taste for sociology, the arts and poetry.

Young Wrigley on His Own

Another young man at whose door the wolf never howled but who has overcome the handicaps of a wealthy father is Philip K. Wrigley, son of the chewing gum magnate, William W. Wrigley Jr. Last February, and when he was not yet 30 years old, Philip Wrigley become president of the $35,000,000 corporation which supplies the material for a great American pastime. The elder Wrigley at the same time became chairman of the board of directors.

Philip Wrigley isn't just the son of a very rich father. He himself knows all that there is to know about the chewing gum business. As a schoolboy he used to spend most of his holidays in one or another of his parent's factories—watching the different operations, investigating the machinery, asking questions, getting in the way, just as any other alert youngster with the same opportunity would have done.

The time came when he should enter college, if he intended to go. He was reluctant to spend another four years in recitation room and laboratory. He wanted to go to work, get started on that career. The plea is heard in many American homes where youth frets for its chance in the world of men. At the age of 20, Philip Wrigley sailed for Australia with a cargo of machinery to be installed in a new Wrigley plant there. He remained to supervise the construction of the plant and came back to the United States just in time to enlist for the World War.

After being discharged from the service, he worked in one after another of the chewing gum factories, starting with small jobs and honestly earning the wages which he received. In the course of time, and through his own ability, he won a desk at the main office in Chicago. Soon he was put in charge of the construction of the new Wrigley building. With the assistance of the company's ablest employes, he spent his spare time in studying the financial side of the business. "The Flavor Lasts," and so did his enthusiasm. Presently he won what corresponds to the laurel wreath of the ancients in this present-day world of chicle, candy and cigars—a new brand of chewing gum was named for him.

Neither the steady upward climb nor this final recognition had altered the young man's modest bearing. And he remains simple and unaffected in manner now, when he has become the executive head of a great corporation. William Wrigley Jr. owns the Chicago Cubs and another ball club at Los Angeles and was well content to turn over to his energetic son the active management of the gum business.

Another case of a young man born to the purple who has become a valuable lieutenant of his father is that of Junius S. Morgan, grandson of the J. Pierpont Morgan who founded the great banking house, and son of the J. Pierpont Morgan of today. Now a junior partner of what is perhaps the most powerful financial firm in America, Junius Morgan is held in high regard by the important men of Wall Street. Business associates predict that he may prove to be just as competent a successor to his father as J. Pierpont Morgan Jr. was to J. Pierpont Morgan Sr.

Like most of the young men who have been making extraordinary records in the world of finance, Junius Morgan is modest, quiet and of a retiring nature. At Harvard he was known as "Silent" Morgan. An amusing story is told about his preference for staying in the background when his wealth and family connections would make it so easy to occupy the foreground, the observed of all observers.

Some visitors at Cambridge once asked where they could find Junius Morgan.

"Who is he? What has he done here?" inquired the undergraduate to whom they applied.

"Why, he is the grandson of J. Pierpont Morgan," exclaimed the visitors.

"That so? I didn't know he was in college," was the student's indifferent reply.

When America entered the World War, young Morgan enlisted in the navy and after being discharged he returned to his father's offices. He is another rich man's son who will work, another exception to the common saying about America's gilded youth.

Vincent Astor became master of one of the great American fortunes after his father, John Jacob Astor, went down with the Titanic in 1912. The present head of the family will be 34 years old next November. Educated at St. George's school and at Harvard, he went to work in 1912, and soon demonstrated his sound judgment in the real estate field. The realty holdings of the Astors are enormous.

Vincent Astor in Real Estate

During the World War he saw active service in European waters as ensign and lieutenant in the U. S. Navy. Since then he has been active in the business world. He is a director of the Western Union, the National Park Bank, the United States Trust Co. of New York and various other corporations. He is a member of numerous organizations concerned with trade, history, science and social welfare. Far from being destroyed by his wealth, he has proven his shrewdness and industry in adding to it, while taking an interest in many other things.

Within the last year or so, Vincent Astor's name has been much in the newspapers because of his decision to sell the famous old family mansion on Fifth avenue. It was here that Mrs. William Astor, Vincent's grandmother, reigned over New York society for so many years, here that she gave the balls attended by "the 400" of the socially elect, here that the dinners occurred, an invitation to which marked one as being of the inner circle of the elect.

But rising appraisals of land values for taxation have been driving the millionaires of Fifth avenue into apartments for some years past. With all his money, Astor decided that sentiment must give way to prudence, and disposed of this landmark on the avenue for a figure said to be nearly $2,500,000. The site will be occupied by a 20-story apartment hotel to cost $10,000,000.

Second from the top, reading down: Philip K. Wrigley, Kingdon Gould and Edward Morris.

Kingdon Gould, son of George Jay Gould need not worry about his finances much. He works, however, just as hard as though he needed to keep the wolf away. With a distinguished military record behind him as a divisional observation officer of the 79th Division in France, he is president and director of the Consolidated Coal Co., St. Louis, and vice president and director of the Texas & Pacific Railway. He is 38 years old. Gould, by the way, entered the army as a private at Camp Dix, and by his own initiative was promoted through the grades of corporal, sergeant and sergeant-major. After going overseas, he won his first lieutenancy.

It was only a few months ago that Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. reached the age of 27. Yet he now is a full-fledged newspaper editor and publisher. He is the son of Brigadier-General Cornelius Vanderbilt, wealthy New Yorker who was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for his services in France as commander of the 102d Engineers and as engineer officer of the Twenty-seventh Division. Cornelius Jr. has his war record, too. Enlisting as a private in June, 1917, when barely 19 years old, he was discharged in February, 1919, having meanwhile been a dispatch driver with the Twenty-seventh Division in France and having been decorated with the Croix de la Croix Rouge (French). In the summer of 1919, a scant six months' following his discharge from the army, Cornelius Jr. forsook Newport and its social gayeties to take a job as a "cub" reporter on the New York Herald at $25 a week.

"I wanted to be a repoorter," he said, "because I have always found newspaper men to be the brightest and most alert people I know."

For the next few years he was an extremely busy young man, working as correspondent for newspapers and news bureaus, gaining experience for the plan which he had in mind. The son of Brigadier-General Vanderbilt did not lack for funds, it is certain. And when, in April of 1920, he married Miss Rachel Littleton of Chattanooga, Tenn., half-sister of Martin W. Littleton, the New York lawyer, the wedding gifts were said to exceed $1,000,000 in value. At this wedding, be it noted, the 2000 invited guests included doughboy pals whom he had known in the army, and few of the guests were more welcome.

A Newspaper Editor

Two years ago, at the age of 25, Cornelius Jr. founded Vandervilt Newspapers, Inc., of which he is president. The company publishes daily newspapers at Los Angeles, San Francisco and Miami, all of tabloid form and using many illustrations. The California ventures are said to have been quite successful. The Miami paper still is in its infancy. In addition he is vice president of the United Hotels of New York, and of the Cosmopolitan Bank, along with other business connections.

Marshall Field III, grandson of the famous Chicago merchant, is nearing his thirty-second birthday. As trustee and principal beneficiary of the $150,000,000 Marshall Field estate, the future looks fairly bright for him. Yet, in preparation for the responsibility which he knew was coming, young Field went into a La Salle street brokerage house, Chicago, and worked like any other clerk, to study the bond business.

Previously, though, he had acquired the honorable war record which seems to be the rule among these energetic scions of wealth. Enlisting as a private in what eventually became the 122d Field Artillery, 33d Division, Field participated in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne operations and was promoted through all the grades to Captain.

Some of his importance in the business world may be gained from the fact that he is head of an investment firm, a director of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, of Marshall Field & Co., and of two large trust companies, one in Chicago and the other in New York. On July 7, 1921, Mr. and Mrs. Field were guests at a royal ball at Buckingham Palace, the supreme social triumph in England. Field had been reared and educated in England, but the royal command to attend the Buckingham Palace festivities came after less than a year's later stay in England, and people could not help contrasting the dizzying speed of Marshall Field's ascent on the social ladder with the years and the millions which the late William Waldorf Astor spent before he was fully accepted by the British aristocracy—if, indeed, he ever was accepted whole-heartedly.

A career which clinks and jingles with money? Yes, but there appear to be other ingredients in it, too, such as good sense, ability and a disposition to assume responsibilities soberly.

Then there was the case of Edward Morris, Chicago, elected vice president of Morris & Co., the packers, when his father died. His age then was 21 years. At 23 he became president and served in that position until two years ago, when the Armours bought the company. Only 33 years old today, he is a director of the Stock Yards Savings Bank, the Liberty Trust and Savings Bank and the Fidelity Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago.

AN EARL AND ANOTHER'S COUNTESS WIN FREEDOM BY OPEN MISCONDUCT

The Earl of Craven and the Countess of Cathcart Force Mates to Divorce Them

The Countess of Craven at Last Gives In and Sues for Divorce After Her Husband and His Ladylove Go Off to South Africa Together—The Earl of Cathcart Held Out Until His Wife Charged Gowns to His Account Which She Intended to Use on Her Honeymoon With Craven—Now the "Soulmates" Are Expected to Wed and Re-establish Themselves in English Society.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, July 15.

THE Earl of Craven and the Countess of Cathcart were unhappily married; he to the daughter of the town clerk whom he had loved at 19 but did not love at 25; she to a bachelor of 62 whom she never loved at all. In such a state of affairs three courses were open to them. They might have decided with Victorian primness to have stood by their bad bargains. They might have determined on a clandestine affair holding to the "eleventh commandment," which is that the sin is in being found out. The third course was to love each other openly.

Both being of the new generation of post-war liberals, they decided that the honest and finer thing was to have their association without concealment. For this they have paid the price of scandal and social ostracism. They are not received at Court or in the homes of the conservative nobility. Their behavior has been distorted by tattle-sheets into an affair uglier and more sordid than any of the other notorious scandals which have shocked England. Their open flaunting of conventions has been laid to a lack of common decency. Yet, to one who knows their story all these accusations seem unfair.

It has never been their idea to set up a "free love" union. Through the five years of their association each has hoped to be free to marry the other. Their motive for so frankly doing the unconventional has been to force reluctant mates to release them by divorce so they can marry. The Countess' husband capitulated three years ago. But the Earl's wife, Lady Craven, has remained obdurate until just the other day. Then, she announced that she had filed suit, naming the Countess of Cathcart as co-respondent, as the Earl of Cathcart had named the Earl of Craven. So it is likely that the lovers have gained by their open conduct that which they might never have gained by concealment—freedom to marry each other.

William George Bradley Craven was Viscount Uffington and 19 years old in 1916 when he met and married a girl far below him in the social scale. She was Mary Wilhelmina George, daughter of the town clerk of rdon, a little town in Scotland. The young Viscount had been in training with the Hampshire Regiment, preparatory to going overseas. It was a hurried time and romantic. The Viscount's family had too much of war work to be bothered with protecting the heir to the title from a mesalliance. Class lines were pretty well broken then, anyway. Uffington thought he loved the girl, and married her, and went off to war as a Lieutenant of the Third Battalion.

"The Other Woman"

Meanwhile, Vera Fraser, daughter of a wealthy pioneer of Capetown, South Africa, was living her first romance. She had married Capt. de Grey Warter of the Fourth Dragoon Guards when he was stationed in South Africa. At the start of the war the captain was recalled to England. He took his young wife with him, to wait in London while he fought in France. She, it appears, was badly cast for the waiting role. The young men of her set were all across the Channel, and her friendship with the 56-year-old Earl of Cathcart was, therefore, not so strange.

The war treated Viscount Uffington very badly. He lost a leg and had an arm banged up. But more than that, he lost his love for Lady Uffington. It is probable that he aged ten years in the two he spent in France, and that he saw her with different eyes. Perhaps, too, their love had been too new to stand separation. At any rate, when Uffington came back to England in 1919 it was generally understood that he and his wife were estranged. Twenty-two years old, and an invalid, his romance shattered, his future unsettled—a dreary prospect. Viscount Uffington began by pitying himself and then searching for a woman who would pity him.

While these things were happening to the Earl, Mrs. Vera Fraser Warter was changed by the war from the wife of an army officer to a widow. In 1918 she met the Earl of Cathcart. She has told the story of their romance, marriage and separation in a sensational article published in the Cosmopolitan Magazine of New York.

"I was not altogether enamored of my second husband," she wrote, "in fact, I refused him six times before I gave way to his entreaties. He was thirty-four years older than I was. But he assured me—as men will—that love would come, that I had everything to gain by marrying him; position, social prominence, wealth."

So she married him. Then, she says, she began to learn and repent of her bargain. She liked social life, enjoyed the brilliance of London's smart set, reveled in the color, the gaieties, the flirtations. It was an old story to the Earl, her husband. He soon sent her alone to functions to make excuses for him. While insistent that she dress in keeping with her position, she accuses, he was niggardly and raged over the bill such display necessitated.

When their son was born the Earl's attitude toward her changed completely. He became cold and distant.

"For my pride's sake," she explained, "I'd like to be able to believe that I was wrong, but it was borne in on me with the birth of Lord Greenock, my son and the future Earl of Cathcart, that my husband saw the object of his marriage accomplished. . . . Could anything be more humiliating? It was as if I were a prize animal whose issue had served to perpetuate a valuable pedigree stock. If I am frank, I hope I may be pardoned. I can think of no other explanation."

Her health broke down under the strain of domestic unhappiness and she made a trip to South Africa to recuperate. Coming back on the steamer she met the Earl of Craven. She wrote of the meeting:

"It was a strange voyage that began that day. Two troubled and unhappy souls drifted together and for days on end were swept by a current together toward the scene of their unhappiness. It was inevitable that Viscount Uffington and I should exchange confidences.

"For his part, he told me of his life, of the weaknesses that beset him, and of the unhappy married life that seemingly was to culminate in divorce. I think that my own troubles helped me to find a sympathy for him.

"Most women, I fancy, like to think that some man needs them, and it is not required at all that any question of love should enter into the thought . . . . I was sorry for him, sorry that his early marriage should have been a failure, sorry that he should consider his wife a woman of such strenuous activity that she had no room in her life for her husband, sorry that the love he had for her should have turned into what he called hatred, and sorrier still that drink and other weaknesses were dragging him down."

They parted at the Victoria Station in London, fast friends. The Countess made another effort, she says, toward reconciliation with her husband, but to no avail. She and Viscount Uffington took up their friendship again.

In their rounds of pleasure Uffington soon exhausted the allowance his father gave him, and ran heavily into debt. At Ascot, at Deauville and at Monte Carlo the Viscount and the Countess were seen together. The affair soon reached the proportions of a national scandal and many social censors dropped them from their guest lists. In 1921 the Countess of Craven, long aware of how matters stood between her husband and the Countess of Cathcart, told her lawyers to begin proceedings for restoration of her conjugal rights. At this pass the Viscount's troubles were aggravated by bankruptcy action brought in favor of his many creditors. His father, the Earl, refused to stand good for the Viscount's debts. His mother, who was before her marriage, Miss Cornelia Bradley Martin of New York, appears to have taken a more lenient attitude. Critics laid that to her American upbringing.

Uffington's affairs had reached a crisis when the old Earl was mysteriously drowned in a fall from his yacht. The son succeeded to the father's title and estates. Viscount Uffington became the fifth Earl of Craven, master of 40,000 acres, three country homes and many art treasures.

The staid families of Mayfair sought to make their peace with the new Earl. There is a difference between a bankrupt Viscount and a landed Earl; even his morals are viewed differently. Perhaps, too the conservatives felt that now he was an Earl, young Cravens would abandon his brazen flaunting of conventions. They hoped for an ending of his affair with the Countess of Cathcart. His wife likewise seemed to view the change in their fortunes as a good omen. She withdrew her suit for separation. For some weeks it was a question along Picadilly whether the Earl of Craven and his Countess had made up. They had a son to be thought of. They had the dignity of their line to be cherished. It is known that embassies from Buckingham Palace—very unofficial embassies, yet believed to have been inspired by Queen Mary, guardian of the firesides of nobility—were sent to the wayward Earl with requests that he behave himself.

The Injured Parties

But he would not. He was a new adventurer in the field of noble philandering. An Earl's escapades can be overlooked, officially, so long as he keeps them decently under cover. But the Earl of Craven was so above board. His doings could not be overlooked. It was useless to attempt to ignore his affair with the Countess of Cathcart. It is said that when questioned concerning his affections he used to reply, "Vera and I are soulmates. When two souls find each other they should be brave enough not to want to hide their love."

The attitudes of the injured parties were peculiar. The Countess of Craven seemed determined not to release her husband. A simple Scotch woman of strict upbringing, she viewed divorce with horror. Furthermore, she would sacrifice a great deal if she divorced the Earl. People would speak of her as "The former Countess of Craven," if the Earl married again. Then the quite human determination not to leave the other woman free to marry him entered into it. A divorce was just what the Earl and his ladylove wanted. A divorce they should not have.

So it was with the elderly Earl of Cathcart. He seemed resolved not to see anything but an innocent friendship between his wife and the Earl of Craven. He loved his wife and indulged her. Friends said that her allowance was $4800 a year, one-quarter of the Earl's income, what with the hard times and taxes. While she played about with her young lover, she spent her husband's money lavishly, pledging his credit for extravagant purchases. Yet, he seemed disposed to put up with the state of affairs, and only an accident brought his problem squarely before him.

In 1922 the Countess of Cathcart bought eight gowns from Miss Gray Ltd. charging the bill, $1075, to her husband. Before this she had consumed $6000 placed by her husband to her credit at a bank, spending the money in 10 days. The Earl was forced to call a a halt. Accordingly he refused to pay the modiste for the eight gowns, and Miss Gray Ltd. brought suit to collect her bill.

The case was tried with publicity that spread over all England. Counting all scandal out, it was haled as an important test suit deciding whether a wife has right to pledge her husband's credit without his consent.

The Husband Testifies

The Earl testified before Mr. Justice McCardie, as follows:

Judge: You made your wife an adequate allowance?

The Earl: Several months after our marriage I gave her an allowance of $400 a month. I told her she must not exceed that as it was really more than I could afford.

Judge: What was your income then?

The Earl: I should say considerably under £4000 yearly. I was living on capital.

Judge: Did the Countess do the housekeeping?

The Earl: At times she tried.

Judge: What does that mean?

The Earl: She was not very successful.

Judge: Had she friends to whom you objected?

The Earl: Yes. Many.

Then, the sensation of the trial came out. The Earl admitted under examination that his wife left home on Aug. 14 and went to Deauville with the Earl of Craven. Brought to his senses by this escapade he had divorced her, naming Craven as co-respondent.

Mr. Justice McCardie ruled that the Earl did not have to pay the Countess' bill.

"It is my opinion," he said, "that the Countess bought those gowns on her husband's account to use on her honeymoon with the Earl of Craven."

Although London gasped at the baldness of the testimony, the Earl of Craven and the Countess of Cathcart were not ostracized generally. They came back from Deauville and were still received by most of London society. They had accomplished one thing by the open elopement. The Countess now was free.

The Countess of Craven, however, remained firmly set against freeing her husband. She took satisfaction, perhaps, in forcing her rival into a bad position.

The Countess of Cathcart in her Cosmopolitan article denied that there had been anything improper in her relations with the Earl of Craven prior to her husband's suit for divorce. She said that her trip to Deauville with Craven was an innocent adventure. But when the Earl of Cathcart filed suit——

"The bringing of this action against us tore away the last barriers between my friend and me. He wrote from Como. He spoke of his love for me, a love that had been so long growing it was bound to endure. It was a love born of tribulation and of understanding. He advised me not to enter a defense of the action but to let my husband have his will. We would be married directly my husband had divorced me, for Lady Craven, it was said, had again decided to bring an action against the Earl."

The lovers determined on one last desperate attempt to force Craven's wife to divorce him. They announced quite publicly that they were going off to South Africa together. They did go and stayed several months. On her return from the South African trip the Countess of Cathcart went into bankruptcy. Her extravagances had continued, though she no longer had a husband's credit to use. Once more there was a hearing and interesting testimony. The Countess begged for time. She said she had friends in South Africa who would help her. The Court granted her a respite long enough to go back and try to raise some money. Several months ago she left London for Cape Town.

This final disgrace was too much for the Countess of Craven. The other day she advised her solicitors that she wished a divorce. In her petition she named Vera, Countess of Cathcart as co-respondent. London thinks that as soon as the Earl is free he will marry his "soulmate."

the awfulest and the happiest moments of the entire trip."

Just then Ellsworth came up.

"We were talking about the next time," I said. "Are you ready to try again?"

"I should say I am!" Ellsworth shouted. "I'll never be happy until I have made another trip across the Arctic. It's got me completely."

Then, as Amundsen turned away to greet a group fo admirers who burst in, Ellsworth continued:

"I have been interested in polar exploration for many years. It was no sudden impulse. I knew Peary and often talked to him about the possibility of exploring the polar basin with a plane. Peary believed in it, but died before plans could be made. I was chosen to accompany Borup and MacMillan, but news came of Borup's accidental death and the expedition was abandoned.

"I was in Paris, in the army, in 1917, when I ran across Amundsen. He was just starting to Alaska. I did not see him again until last October. When I chanced upon an obscure news item, I looked him up at the Waldorf Hotel in New York. He remembered me, but was very busy and could spare only five minutes—but the interview lasted many hours and resulted in the plans for this expedition."

"What were the most exciting moments you experienced on the expedition?" I asked.

Ellsworth then gave me an impressive account of sighting the halo, with the mirage of the airplane. I could see that he had been deeply affected by this experience.

"My second thrilling moment," he continued, "was when the plane took the air after slushing through 500 yards of ice and snow. We were all holding our breath and our hearts had almost stopped pumping. In that instant we did not know whether we should rise or plunge into the broken ridges beyond. A fraction of a second decided it.

"The third, and perhaps the greatest of all, was the reception at Oslo. It seemed that not only the city and the nation but the whole world was welcoming us—the world we had left far behind and had almost abandoned hope of ever seeing again. I can't describe my feelings as we were whirled through the capital to the King's palace, and then back through the lanes of flags and cheering crowds to our hotel. We were besieged all day and nearly all night by crowds clamoring for salutes from the balcony. It was great to feel this big, spontaneous welcome."

"There must have been moments of gloom, too," I said. "What was the worst?"

Were Ready for the Worst.

"Well, of course, things looked pretty hopeless at times, and of course we each had to consider the possibility that we would never return. But we had thought of all that before starting. A man does not go on such a trip unless he is prepared to face risks and hardships. We were ready for them and when they came we took them as a matter of course. As a matter of fact, as we look back now, the actual hardships were not as great as we had expected. We were ready for the worst, and—well the worst didn't happen. Therefore the happy moments stand out in memory; the others are forgotten."

Ellsworth hesitated a moment, pondering deeply, and then added:

"Perhaps the darkest moment was when we were asked to vote whether to stick with the planes or start out on foot for Cape Columbia. I couldn't make up my mind to save my life, and I suppose it actually was a matter of life and death. Amundsen and Riiserlarsen were for walking. They thought we would be better off walking—doing something, at any rate, than merely sitting still, to starve and freeze. Omdal and Feucht, the mechanicians, were insistent on sticking to the plane. Feucht said he would stay by the plane if he stayed alone. Amundsen accorded every human the right to do as he pleased, but urged the advisability of all agreeing to do one or the other. Dietrichson and I could not make up our minds. We did not see much chance to restart the plane, but on the other hand the walk to Columbia seemed hopeless.

"Considering that we had no dogs to haul sledges and that two of the party, Omdal and Dietrichson, had lost their skis when they fell through the ice, and that our snowshoes were light cord affairs unsuited for a month's tramp, it was not a hopeful picture. We were on short rations—just about half what Peary allowed his dogs; we also recalled that Peary had started to the pole with a party of 100, going by relays until the final party was only a handful, having eaten many of the dogs on the way; remember these things and then picture us, carrying our scanty provisions and equipment on our backs, across 400 miles of broken ice and snow, at a less favorable season than Peary's—do you think we could have made it?"

It was Ellsworth who pulled Dietrichson and Omdal out of the water, at an instant when they were being swept under the ice. He endangered his own life in doing so, and his companion called it the most heroic exploit of the expedition. Ellsworth left this happening out of his narrative.

"Considering the expedition as a whole," Ellsworth continued, "the darkest hours were shortly after we landed up there and before we found the other plane. Our N-24 was disabled. We had been pumping for two days, but it was impossible to save it. There was no means of getting back unless we found the others. We knew they could not be far, as we had seen Riiserlarsen making a forced landing. We did not know whether they had descended safely or whether their plane had been wrecked and they had been killed. We knew that Amundsen would not desert us, but the long separation made us fear the worst.

The Happiest Incident.

"Just about the happiest time was when we saw the other three waving a flag, as they came toward us over the ice hummocks.

"My first close contact with Feucht was when we took flight in returning by the N-25 while Riislarsen piloted. Feucht was the embodiment of seriousness, never apparently interested in anything outside his tasks. He was constantly busy in the tankroom, pumping up pressure, or in the motor room overhead.

"Like Ellsworth, Feucht speaks only his own language, while all the others spoke at least four. This made him seem less sociable. I later saw him ashore and gathered new impressions concerning him. On the take-off for the return trip, Feucht said:

"I was in the tankroom, pumping pressure, when the decision to restart the plane was made. I was glad, because obviously it was our only chance; but I must confess that I had little faith in our success. Although we had thrown away everything superfluous, and many necessaries, it was a heavy load to lift, considering the friction of the runway. We momentarily expected to be hurled into oblivion."

At Work in Tankroom.

Feucht continued his work in the tankroom. Nothing could be heard and little felt, except the roar of the motors, echoed in the metal hulk of the machine. Feucht had no way of knowing whether they were in the air or still on the ice Suddenly Ellsworth came rushing back from the pilot's compartment.

"He threw his arms around my neck," said Feucht, "and shouted 'we're off.' He was nearly mad with joy, and I think I would have gone mad myself, but I had to keep on pumping.'

Feucht added the last phrase in a matter-of-fact way. He is not a man of the sportsmanlike type of the others, but he certainly could be depended upon in the most trying circumstances. Unfortunately a report of his "breakdown," and of his "quitting" has been published. This gives an untrue picture. It is true that he did not share the optimism of the rest of the party, but that's simply because he is not of an enthusiastic nature. He was ready to die, if necessary, without complaint. When called to do his part he "went on pumping."

Ideal Man in Machine Age.

He is perhaps the ideal man in a machine age. As he himself expressed it:

"I could not consider abandoning the plant. What good is a man without his machine? When his machine is gone a man's gone, too."

As for Dietrichson and Riislarsen, the married men of the party, their wives met them at Horten on their return. I had a moment with this group at 5 o'clock in the morning of July 5, as we were preparing the N-25 for the flight to Oslo. It was useless to ask the wives which was the happiest moment. I did ask Dietrichson whether he would do it again. His eyes were alight as he began eagerly to say "yes," but Mrs. Dietrichsen placed a finger over his lips.

"No," she said, "not again—never."

"Of what importance is all this?" the reader may ask. "Why risk lives just to fly up into the ice and back?"

"What was achieved. Was it worth the risk?"

Question of Pure Science.

It's the old question of whether "pure science" is worth while. The quest after mere knowledge for its own sake is likened by the average man to mere "idle curiosity." This may be true—but then curiosity is one of the most important characteristics of the human race.

The unexplored region about the North Pole, particularly on the Alaskan side, is larger in extent than the United States. Man won't rest until he knows all about it. This knowledge may not do him any material good—but then again it may. It is often difficult to tell just when a particular piece of information about this globe which we inhabit may be useful.

Roald Amundsen first decided to explore the polar basin by airplane in 1913. After years of careful investigation he chose Spitzbergen as the best starting place, on account of its being the most accessible point nearest the pole. The party reached King's Bay, the northernmost settlement of the world, the first week in April. The harbor was still icebound, even on May 21, when they took off.

The planes, according to Amundsen, "each carried half a ton more than the Dornier-Wahl representative said they could lift." Everything not absolutely essential was left behind, to allow the carrying of extra fuel. They thought they had enough gasoline to fly 1500 miles, but owing to the extra load, with northeast winds blowing them out of their course, with fuel also expended on false starts, they found, on their return, that they had barely enough to carry them to safety, and would have been insufficient to carry them to the pole and back. When they were forced down they were 150 miles from the pole and 40 miles west of their course.

The next 17 days took them through one of the most trying ordeals ever experienced by polar explorers. From the first it was certain that it would be possible to use only the one undisabled plane. The party wavered many days between abandoning this single hope and starting afoot on a 450-mile walk to Cape Columbia, which each realized in his heart was impossible. Peary was able to accomplish this task only by elaborate preparations, with dog sledges and full rations, whereas the Amundsen party was not equipped for such an effort, either in living quarters or rations. With no dogs, they would have been compelled to carry their own packs.

They staked all on restarting their single plane, and worked day and night in constructing a starting path.

"Not cold nor hunger, but just plain fatigue was what we suffered most," said Ellsworth. "We were so tired! None of us thought we would ever be rested again if we slept the rest of our life."

But on June 15, the very day the party had decided to start walking if unsuccessful in lifting the plane, the motors started humming and the N-25 charged down the runway to a successful takeoff. Within eight hours they had reached the end of the ice pack. They were forced down off Northeast Land by the aileron jamming, where they were picked up by a sealer. The crew assisted in placing the plane in a safe position and the six explorers were taken back to King's Bay.

Luck Constantly Intervened.

Throughout the entire adventure, luck constantly intervened, when all hope seemed lost. Amundsen is said to be the luckiest adventurer who ever dared the polar wilderness. Many instances of this might be cited.

The most striking was his conquest of the South Pole just a few weeks before Scott, escaping the blizzard in which Scott perished. Although only a few days separate the two exploits, Amundsen's record reads 1911 and Scott's 1912, as New Year's day intervened. In the latest expedition, at least six lucky turns may be noted. Had any one of these chances turned against him, his expedition would have been a failure. The first break of luck came in connection with the injury to the N-24, carrying Ellsworth, Dietrichson and Omdal. When the helpers swung it around too vigorously at the take-off on the ice, rivets were sheared off the hull so that when it landed a few hours later it leaked badly and was finally abandoned. The lucky part was that the damage was not discovered before the departure, in which case the start would certainly have been postponed, and Dietrichson estimates that weeks would have been required for repairs, perhaps forcing the abandonment of the expedition for this year.

Second, the landing was effected in the first lead of open water encountered after the expedition passed the edge of the icepack. It was a forced landing, as one of the motors suddenly and inexplicably stopped. If open water had not been found almost miraculously at this precise point, it is virtually certain, according to all members of the party, that the plane would have smashed on the ice hummocks. In all probability casualties would have resulted. In any case, had the N-25 smashed, it is virtually certain that, considering the damaged condition of the N-24, the whole expedition would have been lost.

Voted on Trying to Save Planes.

Third, when the planes landed and froze in, the task of restarting them appeared superhuman. Ice was piled mountain high around them, constantly shifting with the wind and the tide. The party took a vote whether to try to start the planes or start walking to Cape Columbia. It was decided to keep trying until June 15 and then walk if the planes still refused to rise. By another stroke of luck it was on this last day of grace that the N-25 yielded and the motors started.

Fourth, the runway, on which they hoped to launch the plane, was 500 yards long. Six men had, according to Amundsen, moved 300 tons of ice with no tools except hunting knives and wooden spades, such as children use at the seaside. Over this only relatively smooth, snow-covered track, the enormous plane, carrying six men, must gather sufficient momentum to rise. Failing, it would crash into the craggy ice beyond, with the probability that all would be lost. Providentially, the pilot was able to get up enough speed despite the snow and uneven surface barely to clear the obstacles ahead.

"It was a close call," said Ellsworth. "If the runway had been 10 yards shorter we should have failed."

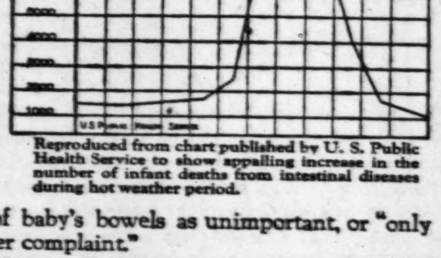
Safety by Merest Chance.

Another providential turn came as the party approached Spitzbergen. The ailerons had been getting harder and harder to manage. Finally, just after the Spitzbergen mountains had been sighted, they jammed all together. Piloting became impossible. Riislarsen was forced to descend. He came down to the sea "just at the edge of the broken ice field upon which a safe landing would have been impossible." Thus, had the ailerons jammed 10 minutes earlier, the plane certainly would have dashed to pieces on the ice hummocks, with the exceedingly small chance of saving six lives. In short, forced landings were necessary both going and returning and in both instances it was the merest chance which brought safety.

Sixth, finally Amundsen had a great piece of luck in meeting the Sjoliv, the fishing smack, at just the right moment. His intention had been to remain ashore at North Cape until he could restart the plane or make contact with the Hobby. The Sjoliv crew reported that the Norwegian Naval Relief Expedition had arrived at Spitzbergen a few days before with two airplanes to search the edge of the ice pack. Amundsen at once exclaimed: "Beach the N-25 quickly and carry us back to King's Bay." Had he remained a couple of days he would have been "rescued," and the credit of returning unaided would have been lost.

WATCH BABY'S HEALTH
CLOSELY IN SUMMER

U. S. Public Health Reports Show Terrific Increase in Infant Mortality From Intestinal Disease During Hot Weather



Reproduced from chart published by U. S. Public Health Service to show appalling increase in the number of infant deaths from intestinal diseases during hot weather period.

"Summer is the purgatory of motherhood," according to Assistant Surgeon General W. C. Rucker and Surgeon C. C. Pierce of the United States Public Health Service, in a Supplement to the Public Health Reports.

From 12 to 20 out of every 100 babies born in the United States die during the first year, and the majority of these deaths occur during warm weather.

The principal contributing causes are given as improper feeding and intestinal disorders. Many valuable suggestions are made for proper feeding, sanitation and general care of children in summer.

The mother should nurse the child for the first year if possible; if not, modified milk is the best substitute. Keep baby cool during hot weather, especially by proper clothing and frequent bathing in tepid water. Give plenty of boiled water. Keep flies away from baby and all utensils used in preparing its food. Never consider any disturbance of baby's bowels as unimportant, or "only summer complaint."

At the first sign of bowel disorder the disturbance should be immediately remedied. In thousands of homes Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is relied on to correct and regulate the bowels. This mild, pleasant laxative, free from injurious drugs, can be given to even the tiniest babies with perfect safety. It can be bought at any drug store.

1000-ROOM HOTEL TO REPLACE ANNEX OF BUCKINGHAM

Louis E. Balson of University City as Head of Syndicate to Buy the Buckingham and Annex.

$1,000,000 IN CASH IS CONSIDERATION

Adjoining Ground on West Pine to Be Purchased for New Nine or 10 Story Hostelry.

By Berry Moore.

Final papers will be executed at noon Monday for the sale of the Buckingham Hotel and the Buckingham Annex, occupying respectively the northeast and the southeast corner of West Pine boulevard and Kingshighway. A total of $1,000,000 in cash is to be paid for these buildings, which are to be conveyed free of encumbrances.

Louis E. Balson, of 7054 Washington avenue, University City, president of the Balson Realty and Building Co., is acquiring the property as the head of a syndicate which has plans for replacing the annex, having a frontage of 90 feet on West Pine, with a 1000-room hotel. The proposed building is to be nine or ten stories in height.

The project contemplates the acquisition of the ground adjoining the annex on the east which would give the cite of the proposed building a frontage of 200 feet on West Pine. The adjoining ground is owned by Thomas Price who, it is understood, is holding it at $1000 a front foot.

Balson is represented in the transaction by Mrs. E. A. Kaune, until recently Miss Blanche Hitzman, a woman real estate agent. Green E. and R. G. Scott Real Estate Co. is acting for the Buckingham Hotel Co., which owns the two hotel buildings. Scott is president of the Buckingham Hotel Co. The other stockholders of the company are Victor Diesing, the Peter Hahn estate and Mrs. Julia Grafeman. Negotiations for this property have been hanging fire for several months owing to a diversity of ideas as to the value.

The Buckingham Hotel has 270 rooms and the Annex 140 rooms, or a total of 410 rooms, with bath, the one a six-story and the other a four-story structure. The buildings were erected 20 years ago, with W. H. Miltenberger as the moving spirit of the building enterprise.

The Buckingham Hotel was originally operated as a club and in this guise was not amenable to the law prohibiting saloons within a certain distance of Forest Park prior to prohibition. As such it was often at issue with the authorities.

Several years ago a syndicate was formed to purchase the Buckingham Hotel and Annex, the Chase Hotel, and the St. Regis apartments, and several other major structures of these types, but a basis for their acquisition in each instance could not be decided upon, with the result that negotiations collapsed.

The Chase and the St. Regis have since been sold, the former to Chicago interests and the latter to the International Life Insurance Co., represented by the Franciscus Realty Co.

A profit of $25,000 has been declined for the 99-year-lease of the Laclede Hotel building and site recently purchased by a syndicate headed by Stanley Epstein. This historic structure is now being painted and rehabilitated to be operated by the new lessees under improved conditions. The site embraces a quarter of a block and is regarded as one of the best available in the central business district for a building on a large scale.

Negotiations involving a number of important properties were brought to a successful issue with the close of the week, but announcements are withheld as premature at this time. There in several instances form the groundwork for extensive building operations to be launched in the early future. Negotiations are going forward on an aggressive scale for holdings in the leading centers of the city on behalf of investors, as well as professional interests, which are regarded as discounting important constructive developments.

JUNE BUILDING PERMITS GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

Total for 210 Representative Cities Shows Increase of 30 Per Cent.

June building permits in 210 representative cities amounted to $351,733,981, according to the reports of the 210 building departments to F. W. Dodge Corporation. This total was a little over that for May and was an increase of 30 per cent over June of last year. During the first half of this year the gain over the corresponding period of last year has been 8 per cent.

Since the five boroughs of New York City account for more than a third of the building total for all the cities, it is well to consider them separately. New York City has during the past six months shown a decrease of 15 per cent from the corresponding period of 1924. The remaining cities have shown a combined increase of 18 per cent. In June there were 142 cities which showed increased permit valuations over June, 1924, and 67 cities with decreased permit valuations.

New York, Atlanta, New Orleans, Buffalo, Baltimore and Milwaukee are somewhat behind last year's record. Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Philadelphia and Pittsburg all show very considerable gains.

The following cities had June permits amounting to more than $1,000,000 and gains of more than 20 per cent over June of last year: Birmingham, Berkeley (Cal.), Sacramento, Denver, New Haven, Washington (D. C.), Lakeland (Fla.), Miami, Tampa, Evanston, Fort Wayne, Louisville, St. Paul, Omaha, Atlantic City, East Orange (N. J.), Jersey City, Newark, Schenectady, Akron, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Tulsa, Portland (Ore.), Erie, Harrisburg, McKeesport, Chattanooga, Memphis, Fort Worth, Houston and Richmond (Va.).

NEW APARTMENT COMPLETED IN HEDGLEIGH PARK TRACT

Northwest St. Louis is rapidly adopting the efficiency apartment idea as is evidenced by a number of new buildings of this type recently constructed in that section. One of the most modern of this type has just been completed at the southeast corner of Geraldine and Palm streets in Hedgleigh Park, the new Bush-Burns subdivision.

This building contains 14 apartments of modern type, consisting of a living room, dining room and kitchen, two in-a-dor beds, built-in tubs and showers. The building was erected by the West End Realty & Construction Co., and is a part of a building program of 50 structures to be erected by this firm in Hedgleigh Park and costing in excess of $1,000,000.

LARGE CROWDS ATTRACTED BY CONCERTS AT DAVIS PLACE

The popularity in St. Louis of al fresco entertainment is demonstrated in the sucess of the concerts that are being given each week at "The Mansion" in Davis Place, under the auspices of the Davis Realty Co. and Scruggs-Vandevort-Barney. Large crowds are being attracted to "The Mansion" every Friday evening, where vocal and instrumental artists of the city are presented in concerts for which no charge is made. In recent weeks additional seating capacity has been provided on the lawn in order to take care of the crowds. The program for Friday evening, July 31, includes the St. Louis Quartette and the Anton Sextette.

Orchestra concerts every Sunday afternoon and evening are also attracting many visitors to Davis Place. The huge lawn provides an ideal spot for audiences to listen to the concerts which are played on the veranda of "The Mansion."

A new note in the way of a dignified development of residential property has been struck by the Davis Realty Co. in providing entertainment as a means to attract visitors to Davis place.

ACTIVE DEMAND REPORTED FOR MAJESTIC HOMES

The Majestic Homes Corporation announces that in the two Majestic communities, Gannondale and Los Angeles (St. Louis), more than a hundred homes will be completed for this fall delivery.

Although this is the most extensive home building operation in the city, indications point to more fall buyers than there are available Majestic homes, it was said. This indication is borne out by the July sales.

All the Majestic homes are individually designed, each home during its erection being under the supervision of the architect. The public interest in the Majestic homes is apparent by the number of visitors. Last Sunday both tracts were visited by many persons. Gannondale is a part of University City at 7500 Delmar, between the Hanley and North and South roads, conveniently reached by automobile, street car and bus. Los Angeles (St. Louis), comprising 200 acres, is 7200 west, just beyond the intersection of the Natural Bridge and Florissant roads and can be reached by automobile, bus or the Kirkwood-Ferguson car line.

At both Los Angeles (St. Louis) and Gannondale one of the Majestic homes have been decorated and furnished by Stix, Baer & Fuller. The furnished homes are open Sunday and daily until 9:30 p. m.

MISSOURI BUILDING CONTRACTS TOTAL $98,374,300 FOR 1925

Building contracts awarded in Missouri during the first 6 months of 1925 amounted to $98,374,500, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation. This was an increase of 47 per cent over the first half of 1924. The half-year record has included the following important items: $50,621,500 or 51 per cent of all construction, for residential building; $17,217,300, or 18 per cent, for public works and utilities; $13,661,500, or 14 per cent, for commercial buildings; $5,712,900, or 6 per cent, for educational buildings, and $2,936,500, or 3 per cent, for industrial buildings.

The Answer to the high cost of your single residence is a Modern Duplex in

DAVIS PLACE

Profits
in Real Estate

THE biggest building boom in history is on in St. Louis. Large construction alone now under way shows a total valuation of nearly $50,000,000. Postal receipts in St. Louis for the year ending June 30 broke all records with a volume of $12,000,000. Only New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia lead us in postal receipts.

St. Louis population is increasing rapidly. The demand for homes of the better sort is growing daily. St. Louis is forging ahead. No one can foretell the tremendous strides we will take in the next five years.

Davis Place, one of the largest residential projects ever attempted in St. Louis, is in the very heart of fast-growing realty values. A fortune awaits those who are investing heavily in this district. Buy as many lots as you can carry in Davis Place. They can be had for a reasonable cash payment and monthly payments.

EVERETT DAVIS.

THIS WEEK
—in DAVIS PLACE

Today

Concert afternoon and evening by the Anton Orchestra at "The MANSION."

Friday

July 31, 8:30 p. m., the St. Louis Quartette in a Free Concert at "The MANSION."

Every Day

Public inspection of "The MANSION," an exhibition of home furnishings and decorations by SCRUGGS-VANDERVOORT-BARNEY. Open daily and Sunday, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

COST?

A DUPLEX IN DAVIS PLACE can be built for only one-third more than a single residence. It is two homes combined on a single lot, which means a big saving in construction, architectural expense, etc.

EXPENSE?

A DUPLEX IN DAVIS PLACE eliminates the burdensome overhead of a single residence because you live in one-half and rent the other half. This income will pay for the Duplex over a period of years.

VALUE?

A DUPLEX IN DAVIS PLACE will be the most sought-after residence property in St. Louis. The same type of two-family dwelling is sweeping the East, and is in great demand in every city where it has been introduced.

PRIVACY?

A DUPLEX IN DAVIS PLACE has a 13-inch soundproof dividing wall between the two units or apartments. Each family has separate entrance, separate drive, separate heating plant, garage, etc.

RESTRICTIONS?

A DUPLEX IN DAVIS PLACE must be built to resemble a single residence. No garbage wagons will be allowed in the subdivision. Every home will have an incinerator. All plans must be approved.

IMPROVEMENTS?

A DUPLEX IN DAVIS PLACE will have the best concrete pavements, built on the Illinois Highway specifications, also water, gas, sewer, sidewalks and street lights.

LOCATION?

DAVIS PLACE is on Clayton Road, adjoining the most exclusive residential section of the city. It is reached by three boulevards and two street car lines.

With all these advantages, with the problems of an expensive single residence overcome, is it any wonder Davis Place is the talk of St. Louis today? Opening price on lots is $70 a foot, including the finest improvements. Everything points to profits of $40 to $80 a foot on lots for those who buy now.

How to Get There

To reach Davis Place drive to the Courthouse in the City of Clayton, then turn south and west to the North and South Road and turn south to the entrance to "The MANSION." Follow the street lights.

Joy Home

We would be pleased to have you inspect a beautiful English-designed home that we have just completed. This home is furnished by E. E. Schmidt & Co. It has a side entrance hall, large living room with open fireplace, nice-sized dining room and one of those handy Joy kitchens and a breakfast room on the first floor; second floor, one master bedroom and two others, and two baths. There also is a toilet and lavatory on the first floor. This home has hot-water heat and an attached garage which is heated.

This home is located on Parkhurst terrace, which runs south of [illegible] between Gray and Jefferson av., the most convenient neighborhood in Webster and I think the prettiest.

This home will be open for inspection from 9 to 9 every day until sold, or if you can't come to see it today, come some day or evening during the week.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

L. E.—Submit the old coins to any coin dealer for valuation.

Mc. — Sept. 26, 1889, fell on Thursday.

MARIE—C. B.—There is no premium on the 1913 buffalo nickel.

J. H. T.—The 25-cent piece of the mint of 1856 is worth from 25c to 30c.

A. B.—Submit your poems to "Poetry," a magazine of verse, 543 Cass street, Chicago, Ill.

SUBSCRIBER. — The printing generally is removed from the flour sack by several washings and boilings.

A DAILY READER.—We do not understand what you mean by touching up a mirror. Write again, being more specific.

RAILY READER.—Try benzine for removing the oil stains in the grass rug. Scrubbing with strong soap and water sometimes cleans this sort of rugs.

T. B.—The maid of honor is a special attendant of the bride in the wedding ceremony, distinguished from the bridesmaids. The best man is the bridegroom's attendant.

PATTY.—There are so many resorts in the Ozarks that we are unable to advise you as to any particular one. Call at the Post-Dispatch information bureau, first floor, Post-Dispatch building, and in all probability they will help you select a place.

MARY.—We do not believe it is possible to remove the marks left by the indelible pencil, it being the purpose of that ink to leave a lasting mark. Acids, such as oxalic acid, which will remove ordinary ink stains, might be tried on it, but would probably harm the material more than remove the marks.

ETIQUETTE.—An informal dinner dress is usually worn to a restaurant; however, the dress would depend on the city, as well as the occasion. You must follow the custom of the place you happen to be in. It is never good form to be elaborately dressed in any public place, and when in doubt as to what to wear always select the plainer dress.

TEX.—In November, 1895, the first electric auto was run in St. Louis. It was invented by Perry Lewis, who was then 21 years of age. In 1903 and 1904 the gasoline cars started to crowd out the steam cars, which were then popular. The St. Louis Motor Car Co. was the first concern to build gasoline cars; the shop was located on Vandeventer avenue, between Page and Evans avenues.

SUBSCRIBER.—A very good and amusing game is "Advertisement Items." Cut out picture advertisements and from them cut out all reading matter. Have a number of them and paste them on plain white paper. Number each and keep a "key" to them yourself. Furnish paper and pencil to each guest and have them guess what each picture represents. The one who guesses correctly the greatest number receives a prize.

H. S.—The recipe for ice box cake, which you call pudding, is as follows: One cake sweet chocolate, 1 tablespoon hot water, 3 tablespoons sugar, 3 eggs, a little vanilla. Melt the chocolate, add hot water, sugar and the yolks of eggs well beaten, then add the vanilla and lastly the beaten whites of eggs. Line mold with lady fingers, turn in the mixture and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

MISS H.—We know of no preparation to darken the skin.

ENTHUSIASTS. — Write to the superintendents of the different Chicago hospitals regarding the training. The Health Commissioner of Chicago will furnish you a list of all hospitals conducting training schools.

GENERAL DEL. — Sprains of the character mentioned as a rule require a long time to right themselves, but generally they do right themselves in the end. Our experience is that treatment is not of much advantage, it is a question of time. We do not know the orthopedists of Omaha. No doubt the Health Commissioner of Omaha would furnish you a dependable list.

DUPO.—Enuresis (bed wetting) may be caused by some abnormal condition present; if so it should be corrected. This includes the presence of pin worms in the bowels. A highly acid urine calls for alkaline drinks and free drinking of water. The child should lead a simple, natural life, preferably in the country. No overtaxing of the nervous system, at home or in school. Excitement should be avoided. Early hours and plenty of sleep. No coffee, tea or beer. Avoid sweets and highly seasoned food. The best diet is milk, vegetables, fruits, meats and cereals. Never punish a child for this trouble; rewards for avoidance are much better. Appeal to the pride. If wetting occurs at night, encourage the child to retain the water as long as possible during the day and discourage drinking fluids in the late afternoon and give none after 6 p. m. See that no condition of ill health and no local irritation such as adenoids are overlooked. Of drugs atropine is best, one grain to two ounces of water, of which one drop represents 1 1000 of a grain. One drop may be given for each year of the child's age. For night wetting at first give the dose at 4 and 10 p. m. After a few days give at 4, 7 and at 10 p. m. This may be very gradually increased until double the quantity is given. It is not advisable to go above these doses, but if larger doses are given the increase must be more gradual. The physiological effect of atropine is first dryness of the nose, mouth and throat; beyond this it is useless to go, besides not being safe, for atropine is a potent, dangerous drug in overdoses, so care in dosage is essential. When the condition is under control, or a cure seems to have been attained, the same dose should be continued for some time and then reduced, the drug being given for at least two months in gradually diminishing doses. This is most important if a permanent cure is to be obtained, as there is always a strong tendency to relapse. Strychnine may be added when atropine alone fails, especially in day wetting. Begin with a dose of 1-100 grain for a child of 5 years, given twice daily, very gradually increasing to double the dose, three times a day. Do not push it further. Careful, intelligent, systematic training of the child is a valuable adjunct to any form of treatment.

In memory of my dear husband and father, August A. Gerst, who departed from life one year ago, July 29, 1924.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow;
For memory keeps you ever near
Though you died just one year ago.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

In loving remembrance of Leonard Kaiser, who died July 20, 1921:
Four years ago he passed away.
We grieved when he departed;
Time was too short to say farewell
To those he knew and loved so well.
We miss his coming footsteps,
We miss him everywhere.
Home is not what is used to be
Since Leonard is not there.
FATHER, MOTHER AND DAUGHTER.

In loving memory of our dear son, Frank J. Wunsch, who depared this life July 23, 1923.
When the evening shadows are falling,
And we are sitting alone,
In our hearts comes a longing,
If our Frank could only come home.

In memory of Fred H. April, beloved husband and father, who died July 24, 1924.
Although a year its veil has drawn,
His voice still lingers in our ears:
His face in memory bright appears,
And love softens the grief our hearts have borne.
Upright and just in all his ways,
Faithful and honest to the end of his days;
Forgotten to the world by some he may be,
But dear to our hearts and memory he will always be.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

In loving memory of our darling parents, Edward J. Cronin, died 9 years ago July 24, 1916, and Della B. Cronin, died 2 years ago June 8, 1923:
You both traveled the journey before us
And know all the cost of the way,
You both paid out the price to its fullness
That parents only can pay.
You both loved when the world was against us
And hoped when our hope sank and died,
And clung to our hand when the clinging
Left scars in your hearts deep and wide.
Sadly missed by
DAUGHTERS, SON, SONS-IN-LAW AND GRANDCHILDREN. (c)

A SALESMAN.

Let's forget for the time being that you are a Salesman seeking a new connection, and that we are a big Organization serving over 22,000 concerns in American business today, but let's get our heads together and see what there is about our big business service plan that is making these concerns renew and buy it year after year.

We cut payroll losses—we cut overhead expense—we increase net profits—we increase production—we not only promise to do it, we DO it, and we carry Proof of these statements over the signatures of Executives who are recognized and respected the country over.

Due to several promotions in the ranks of our sales force whereby we promoted salesmen to executive positions, we are now ready to fill up these ranks with men who can qualify for work such as ours.

These men must be between the ages of 30 to 40 years; must be able to call on chief executive heads in business—must be able to dominate and sell on the first interview. These men must have a background showing an earning capacity of $5000 per year or more. They must have the ability to convince Mr. Executive and they carry unquestioned proof to back up every statement or claim they may make.

We can place a man in a Memphis territory and one in the Dallas territory, which are now open, due to promotions, under exclusive contract with full credit on all renewal business to be secured in these territories, thereby putting him immediately into an earning capacity from $10,000 to $20,000 per year, which is the sum that our average man is earning in this business.

Unless you mean business and feel that your past sales experience measures up to the standard that we require in this work, do not waste your time or our time, but if you do measure up, let's get down to cases and get some immediate action.

J. C. WOLVIN, Statler Hotel.

GUARANTEED Ford used cars

Guaranteed Used Fords

All late models, all in excellent mechanical condition, all have starters and demountable rims and most of these cars are repainted. They all have very good tires and all have A1 batteries.

Each and every Used Ford car sold by us, costing over $100 will be guaranteed to you for 30 days against any mechanical defects. You may purchase any of these cars on a low down payment and on small monthly payments. We have nothing earlier than 1922. We will gladly demonstrate any Used Ford car to any prospect at any time.

We are open until 9 p. m. at night and until 1 p. m. Sundays.

REMEMBER — WE ARE AUTHORIZED FORD DEALERS. If there is anything else you want to know about these cars call and see us or ring us on the phone.

WARRANTS FOR 4 YOUTHS WHO ATTEMPTED PAYROLL ROBBERY

Face Charge of Stealing Dummy Package and Revolver From Venice Bank Official.

Warrants charging robbery were issued yesterday at Edwardsville against the four youths from St. Louis who were caught in a trap laid by detectives after having held up the cashier of the State Bank of Venice Friday. The four defendants are Charles J. Barry, who was wounded in the chest when the officers fired into the robbers' car, Francis Barry, his brother; Thomas Kiely and John C. Gallery. The men are charged with stealing a revolver from I. H. Riley, cashier of the bank, who was also robbed of a dummy payroll package, placed in his machine to lure the four robbers into the trap.

The St. Louis police are seeking William P. Barry, brother of the two Barrys, who is a clerk at the North Market Street Police Station. A policeman's revolver, stolen from that station, was found in the robbers' machine after their capture.

MRS. CUNNINGHAM GETS LIFE TERM FOR POISONING

By the Associated Press.

CROWN POINT, Ind., July 25.—Mrs. Anna Cunningham of Gary, Ind., today was found guilty of murdering her 10-year-old son, Walter, and was sentenced to life imprisonment. She is 49 years old.

The case was given to the jury shortly after noon yesterday. Mrs. Cunningham is under indictment in connection with the death of two other children. She was accused of poisoning the trio. The defense was allowed 30 days in which to file a motion for a new trial.

HEIR TO FORTUNE KILLED

WHEELING, W. Va., July 25.—Clark Fulton, who in a few years would have come into an inheritance of several millions dollars left him by his grandmother, Mrs. A. J. Clark, was killed instantly, and Thomas Bloch, son of Jesse Bloch, wealthy Wheeling tobacco manufacturer, was slightly injured when their automobile left the road and overturned in a fog at Brownsville, Pa., early today.

75-MILE WIND BLOWS DOWN TENT, 25 HURT

Audience in Sidney, O., Caught as Center Poles Crash With Ripped Canvas.

By the Associated Press.

SIDNEY, O., July 25.—Twenty-five persons were injured and damage estimated at $200,000 was caused when a heavy wind swept over this city at 3:30 p. m. today. The persons injured were in the audience at an afternoon chautauqua program being given in a tent in Grammercy Park.

The tent collapsed during the 75-mile gale, burying between 1000 and 1200 persons under it. Those injured were caught by the falling side and center poles.

A number of factory buildings were unroofed, crops were destroyed in a path four miles wide extending north and south of the city, and several farm homes were destroyed.

James Anderson, 14 years old, a boy scout on duty at the tent suffered a compound fracture of the skull and may die. Annabelle Ffeil, 10, suffered a fractured skull, but will recover.

A score of other persons were injured and are under the care of physicians. A short period of nearly total darkness preceded the blow, which came with such suddenness as to prevent escape from the canvas auditorium. Hundreds were pinned under the tent. A hurry call to the fire department brought a rescue force which succeeded in averting a panic and possible injuries to several hundred persons.

Telegraph and telephone communication was paralyzed by the storm. After the first blow the gale raged in milder degree for about 35 minutes. A heavy hail storm which accompanied the wind played havoc with the crops, leveling fields of corn and oats.

Scores of small farm buildings were blown down. Several country residences were damaged. Wooden side-poles supporting the tent were snapped in two and the large center poles were bent double. The business section of the city escaped damage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PANA, Ill., July 25.—A windstorm passed over Pana and Central Illinois at 1:15 this afternoon, doing considerable damage to crops, trees and farm buildings. A mammoth amusement tent was blown down and wrecked. No fatalities are reported. Hundreds of persons sought refuge in basements and cellars.

BROTHER OF CALLES STOPS HERE BRIEFLY

Mexican Consul-General, En Route East, Tells of Country's Gain in Trade.

Arturo M. Elias, elder brother of President Plutarco Elias Calles of Mexico, and Consul-General of Mexico in this country, was a visitor in St. Louis yesterday for several hours on his return to New York, his headquarters.

He was received at a suite at Hotel Jefferson by Alfredo Serratos, St. Louis Consul for Mexico, and other countrymen. The reception was informal and the visitor departed on a late train for New York.

To reporters Gen. Elias explained that he had taken the name of his father, while his brother, according to a Spanish custom, had elected to take the mother's name, by which he is known.

He was returning from New Orleans, where he had approved contracts for $120,000 repairs to the Mexican cruiser "Anahuac." His visit here, he emphasized, was purely social. As to the recent interchange of notes between Secretary of State Kellogg and President Calles, Senor Elias declined to talk.

"Our two Republics are very friendly," he said. "Our exports and imports with the States have increased 50 per cent in the last fiscal period. Our banking transactions within the last six months show an increase of about 37 per cent.

"We are planning to establish, between September and December of this year, a national bank, similar to your Federal Reserve Bank. It will have a capitalization of 100,000,000 pesos ($50,000,000) and the Government will control 51 per cent of the capital. This step will prove to the Republic of the United States that we are financially sound."

Gen. Elias was met here by St. Louis representatives of the Mexican National Railways, of which he is a director.

Woman Killed in Auto Crash.

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 25.—Mrs. Oscar Jarl, 57 years old, of Belvidere, Ill., was killed, and her husband and Mrs. Carl Gustafson were severely injured when their automobile ran off a highway east of this city late yesterday afternoon and crashed into trees.

FRANCE IN POSITION TO START MOROCCAN OFFENSIVE

New Commander Adjures Troops to Have Confidence and Says "Hour Is Approaching."

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 25.—With the valley of the Ouergha cleared of Riffians and with promises from Madrid of active Spanish military co-operation, the week ends with France in a position to start an offensive against Abd-el-Krim and his Moorish forces under the best conditions.

The Franco-Spanish accord relative to the zone limits of the sphere of action in Morocco has been signed. The conference between the Spanish and French delegates at Madrid has therefore terminated.

General Naulin, the new commander of the French forces, in his first general order, adjured the troops to have courage and confidence. "The hour is approaching," he said, "when we will be able to utilize our forces to the utmost."

The presence of the famous Moroccan division ready to go into action has had an enormous effect on the dissident tribesmen and news of the impending arrival of the American flying squad likewise has cheered the troops. Col. Sweeney's airmen will not leave Paris before Tuesday. The Government has determined to squelch the communist propaganda behind the lines. Two communists expelled from Morocco were arrested today at Bordeaux and it is understood that the authorities will proceed against the defeatists early next week.

CROKER'S WIDOW GETS ONLY A DOWER RIGHT

$10,000,000 Homestead Now to Be Shared With Step-Children Under State Law.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 25.—Because of the late Richard Croker, former leader in Tammany Hall, built a home on Palm Beach property which he bought in 1910 and made his home their with his second wife, Buela, the latter, under a decision rendered today by Federal Judge Call, loses in her fight for sole ownership of the Florida estate, worth about $10,000,000, and must share the property with her husband's children, contenting herself with the dower right allowed by law.

By Judge Call's ruling the principal winners are Richard and Howard Croker and Ethel Croker White, all children of the late politician by his first wife, whose action against their step-mother, J. B. McDonald, and the Palm Beach estates, resulted in nullification of contracts by which their father and his second wife sought to transfer his "homestead" to the latter two defendants.

The property, valued at less than $2,000,000 when Croker died, now goes into the general estate, and the widow must take her share with the children as prescribed by Florida law. Had she been able to prove that the property was not a homestead but was purchased merely as an investment, as she contended, the decision perhaps would have been different.

Evidence in the case showed that efforts were made during Croker's lifetime to transfer the homestead—the place where he and Mrs. Buela Croker lived for a time at least—to outside parties for the purpose of having it deeded back to Mrs. Croker.

DR. A. J. OCHSNER DIES AT 67

Chicagoan Was Author of Many Surgical Treatises.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Dr. Albert John Ochsner, famous surgeon, died here early today. Death was due to angina pectoris. His widow, Marion H. Ochsner, survives him.

Dr. Ochsner, who was 67 years old, was the author of numerous surgical treatises and textbooks and a contributor to the medical press. He was born in Baraboo, Wis., and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin and Rush Medical College of Chicago, later studying in the universities of Vienna and Berlin. Since 1896 he had been chief surgeon of the Augustana Hospital and St. Mary's Hospital here. He held a Major's commission in the Medical Reserve Corps of the United States Army and memberships in the American College of Surgeons, Royal College of Surgeons (Ireland), Royal Miscroscopical Society (England) and a fellowship in the American Surgical Association.

DRY AGENTS IN CHICAGO RAID POLITICIANS' FLOATING CLUB

Lockers Smashed Open and Liquor Found, According to Officers.

CHICAGO, July 25.—Prohibition raiders, under the direction of Capt. C. A. Townsend, divisional chief of prohibition agents, took possession of the Fish Fans floating clubhouse in a slip at Lincoln Park today. Liquors were found, Capt. Townsend said.

Former Mayor William Hale Thompson is probably the most prominent member of the Fish Fans' Club, which also includes a large number of his political friends and numerous sportsmen. The prohibition agents began smashing open private lockers in the club, in their search for evidence.

Prohibition agents said Assistant Secretary Andrews of the Treasury Department had sent two men from Washington to make a preliminary investigation on which to base today's raid.

F. A. Fabacher, general manager of the club; R. C. Nazer, manager of the dining room, who was a candidate for Alderman last spring, and Charles Eisman, head waiter, were taken into custody. The agents said they had broken open about 1000 lockers.

At about the same time prohibition agents also seized a carload of beer in the New York Central freight yards which had been sent from the Ackley Milk Co. of Corning, N. Y., and was addressed to J. Schultz, Chicago. It was the fourth carload of beer to be seized here in four days.

Vacation Time
Is Here

Away for a rest when vacation time comes, to the mountains, the lakes, the river or the shore—through the woods or up a broad, winding road—an automobile will take you there and bring you back—comfortably, economically.

A good used car is a reduced rate, round trip ticket to recreation and happiness—everywhere—with stopovers as long as you desire, and any return limit that suits you. A good used car brings opportunities to "rough it," to camp out along a sparkling stream, fishing or swimming to your heart's content—these are yours if your vacation is by automobile.

Road construction programs now in full swing in the state, connect St. Louis and Suburbs with Kansas City, Denver and the Golden West; with Chicago and the cool, lake-dotted regions of Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin; with French Lick, Atlantic City or other Eastern Resorts.

Or if you intend to vacation closer to home, a good used car provides a pleasant, economical means of reaching the Meramec, the Gasconade, the Bourbon, or the picturesque, restful Ozarks.

In the classified Automobile Section of the Post-Dispatch today, you will find a wide range of used cars from which to make your selection. Choose one—get out to those great open spaces and enjoy your vacation this year more than ever before.

The Post-Dispatch carries far more Automobile Advertisements than ALL other St. Louis newspapers COMBINED.

ANGRY MAN RESENTS JESTS AND SHOOTS

William Held Has Bullet in Left Breast Stranger Fires in Saloon.

William Held, 22 years old, of 4368 Hunt avenue, was shot in the left breast and seriously wounded by a stranger whom he and a companion engaged in conversation in a saloon at Tower Grove and Hunt avenues about 10:45 last night.

His companion, Eugene Ward of 4355 Vista avenue, said the two had entered the place a few minutes earlier and were jesting with a man who appeared to be intoxicated, when the stranger became angry and drew a revolver, firing on Held. Ward assisted the wounded man to a nearby drug store and then took him to the city hospital. The bullet penetrated the left lung above the heart.

Painter Shot in Forehead by Laborer May Not Live.

Frank Rutledge, 45 years old, an auto painter, was shot and probably fatally wounded at 8 o'clock last night in a quarrel with John McNeely, 24, a laborer, in front of a rooming house at 3400 Morgan street, where both lived with their families.

McNeely told Police Lieutenant Gunn, who arrested him, that he and Rutledge had had a quarrel yesterday afternoon. Last night, McNeely said, in front of the house, Rutledge called him an abusive name and said he was going to get his revolver and shoot McNeely.

At this, Mrs. Dorothy McNeely, 21, ran into the house and returned with her husband's revolver. McNeely took the weapon and fired three shots, two of which struck Rutledge in the forehead.

Rutledge has a wife and two children, Mildred, 6, and Maude, 7.

U. S. COUNSEL PLAN TO PUT EVOLUTION SUIT OUT OF COURT

Varied Attack on Standing of Plaintiff Planned by Government.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Dismissal of Loren H. Wittner's evolution suit on the ground that the Government employe is without standing in court will be asked of Justice Siddons in the District of Columbia Supreme Court Tuesday by counsel for the Government, District Attorney Gordon, who has been designated by the Department of Justice to represent Frank White, Treasurer of the United States, one of the defendants, said today.

Corporation Counsel Stevens, representing the two District of Columbia officials made defendants by Wittner in his effort to cut off the salaries of Washington public school teachers because of the teaching of biology, will join forces with Gordon, but will ask for dismissal on the ground that the petition has been improperly drawn.

Treasury officials still are awaiting legal opinions as to the legality of the oaths taken by Wittner as a Federal Government employe because he struck from the prescribed form of oath the concluding phrase: "So help me God."

Wittner has explained that since he is an avowed atheist he could not take such an oath without stultifying himself.

PETRIFIED TREES IN MINE

Two Found 412 Feet Below Surface at Zeigler, Ill.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ZEIGLER, Ill., July 25.—Two petrified trees found in the No. 1 mine of the Bell & Zoller Coal Co., in this city, at a depth of 412 feet below the surface, both trees about 30 inches in diameter, and a large portion of the roots and a part of the trunk of each tree have been brought to the top and are on display.

Only top portions of the trees extended on up into the rock roof above the 11-foot vein of coal and these parts were not removed. The bark on each tree can be plainly seen from considerable distance and the roots of each one would measure about 60 inches in diameter.

16TH CENTURY CHATEAU BURNS WITH PRICELESS COLLECTIONS

Historic Souvenirs of Orleans Family and Many Trophies Left in Ashes.

VICHY, France, July 25.—The Chateau de Randeau, originally dating from the sixteenth century, but entirely rebuilt in 1822, was destroyed by fire to day. Several firemen were injured. The Chateau was owned by the Duchess of Montpensier, widow of a younger brother of the Duke of Orleans, pretender to the French throne.

Among the finest collections of hunting trophies in the world, that which the Chateau de Randeau contained was considered by big game sportsmen as holding first place. This view was also attributed to the late Theodore Roosevelt. Randeau sheltered the game trophies bagged by members of the Orleans family, chiefly by the Duke of Montpensier, who spent years in Africa, Indo-China, India and other parts of the globe. These trophies were mounted by expert American, French and British taxidermists and were the pride of the Orleans family and the people of Randeau.

A unique collection of specimens of Japanese art, kept in the Japanese chamber of the chateau, was also destroyed. It was in this chamber that the fire was discovered by the Duchess, who arrived Thursday for a month's sojourn.

In addition to the hunting trophies, collections of silks and laces valued at several million francs, there was also burned a long list of historical souvenirs of the Orleans family.

TO PLEAD 'PRISON PSYCHOSIS' IN STAND TO SAVE SCOTT

Alienists for Leopold and Loeb to Testify Life in Cell Made Him Insane.

CHICAGO, July 25.—A friend and an enemy came to Chicago today to help and to fight Russell Scott, twice saved from the gallows within the past 10 days, almost at the hour set for his execution.

Mrs. Rilla May Scott of Cleveland, mother of the former Canadian financier, sentenced to hang for the murder of Joseph Maurer, came to add her help to that of Scott's wife and father.

Robert E. Crowe, State's Attorney, returned from a vacation to take charge of the State's case when Scott is brought into court on a sanity hearing.

Defense attorneys spent the day seeking facts to uphold their contention that Scott has become insane while in jail. At the insanity hearing on Aug. 3, they will attempt to prove Scott a victim of prison psychosis.

Alienists, including some who testified in the trial of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold Jr., will be called by the defense. Among these will be Dr. Douglas Singer and Dr. William O. Krohn, who have discussed prison phychosis in their book, "Insanity and the Law."

Scott's mother tonight paid her first visit to her son since he entered the jail, 15 months ago.

BIG PACKERS ORDERED TO OPEN THEIR BOOKS TO GOVERNMENT

CHICAGO, July 25.—The Government won today its suit begun by the late Henry C. Wallace, as Secretary of Agriculture, when District Judge Cliffe granted a writ of mandamus directing some of the principal packing companies, Swift & Co., Wilson & Co. and Cudahy & Co., to open their books to the Department of Agriculture.

The defendants, however, obtained a supersedas pending an appeal.

The late Secretary Wallace maintained that in order to administer the packers and stockyards act it was necessary to go through the packers' books. The objecting companies held that the Government was entitled only to supervise interstate business and that their interstate and intrastate business were so mingled on the books that it would not be possible to separate them for Government inspection.

Judge Cliffe held it just and reasonable for the Department of Agriculture to inspect all the books of the packers and that it was not in violation of the constitutional rights of the defendants.

FORMER ST. LOUISAN PROMOTED

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—C. B. Sudborough, who began his career as a railroad man 28 years ago in St. Louis today was advanced to the position of general traffic manager of the Pennsylvania System, succeeding J. L. Eismans, promoted to vice president.

ELEVEN SHIPS TO GUARD PLANE FLIGHT TO HAWAII

Will Be Strung Out at Intervals of 200 Miles Ready for Rescue.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, July 25.—The vast extent of the preparations for guarding the safety of the three great seaplanes to participate in the navy's proposed non-stop hop from the Pacific Coast to Hawaii late in August or early in September was revealed further today with the issuance of instructions regarding material. The orders came from Capt. Stanford E. Moses, commander of the flight project.

The 11 surface ships assigned to guard duty will be strung out at 200-mile intervals. The path will be 2100 miles if the start is made from San Francisco, and 2275 miles if the planes take off from San Diego.

It will be the longest over water flight ever attempted. The choice of starting points is dependent on wind and weather conditions, visibility and other aerological factors.

The commanders of these vessels —the destroyers William Jones, McAuley, Corry, Meyer, Doyen, Reno and Farragut; the aircraft carrier Langley, aircraft tender Aroostook and minesweepers Whippoorwill and Tanager—have been instructed what to do in the event one or all of the planes are forced to land en route.

All plane guard vessels were told to maintain suitable gear and booms in readiness to hoist a stricken plane aboard. Also life rafts are to be ready.

Aerology, the science that deals with the laws and phenomena of the atmosphere, will be depended upon greatly to aid the success of the flight.

Aerological stations will be maintained at the naval air station at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; Aroostook which will be plane guard-ship at a station 1800 miles from the coast; and the Langley, to guard the course at a point 1200 miles out. The base aerological station will be in the office of Capt. Stanford E. Moses, commander of the flight project. He will be at the starting point, either San Diego or San Francisco.

PINCHOT AND PEPPER MEN CAPITALIZE COAL PARLEY

Backers of Rivals for Senatorship Sing Their Praises for Past Actions in Coal Crises.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 25. —Under cover of the anthracite wage negotiations, Pennsylvania politicians are playing a pretty game, with the seat in the United States Senate now held by George Wharter Pepper as the stake.

Out of it the miners have hopes of getting part at least of their demands, either through the intervention of President Coolidge, which would redound to the political credit of Pepper, or through the personal intervention of Gov. Pinchot, who believes he would look well in a senatorial toga.

Openly, neither Senator Pepper nor Gov. Pinchot has made a sound. Quietly, however, "official observers" of the United States Labor Department are singing the praises of the Senators and recalling how he intervened to end the strike in 1922, just as quietly "official observers" of the Pennsylvania departments are reminding those who will listen that it was Pinchot who added $30,000,000 to the miners' payroll two years ago.

EIGHT MORE MILLS CUT WAGES

By the Associated Press.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 25.—Seven textile mills here today announced wage reductions of 10 per cent effective Monday. It was intimated that several more plants which have not posted notices would announce cuts in the near future. Those which notified their employes were the Barnai, Clydesdale, Perseverance, Desurmont and Yarn Co. and Verelin Manufacturing Co.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 25.—A 10 per cent wage reduction effective Monday was announced today by Walworth Bros. Inc., manufacturers of dress goods. The reduction will affect 300 operatives.

AVIATOR MARRIED IN PLANE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 25.—An airplane wedding took place here today 5000 feet above the city. The participants were Miss Dorothy McGonigle and Hartley E. Berglund, an aviator, both of Chicago. They were united by the Rev. Fred. A. Line, temporary minister at St. Paul's on the Midway, and pastor of a church at Tulsa, Ok.

From another plane several hundred feet above the bridal ship a bridesmaid and flower girls showered the couple with roses and lilies.

THE MAN-APE IS DISCOVERED

By A. W. King

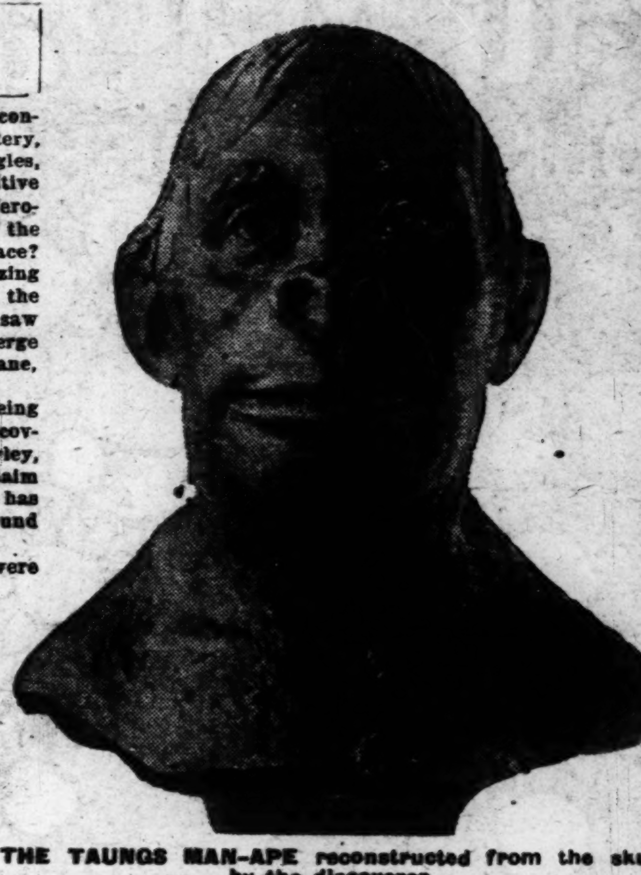
IS AFRICA, the dark continent, with its mystery, its deserts and jungles, its strange, primitive native tribes and its ferocious wild beasts, the cradle of the human race?

Has the tantalizing problem, of locating the region which first saw apelike creatures emerge upon the human plane, been brought near to a solution?

Affirmative answers to these questions are being given by scientists, as the result of a discovery near Taungs, 80 miles north of Kimberley, South Africa. These men of learning do not claim that the puzzle of man's original home on earth has been definitely settled—yet. But they have found a most important clew.

Workmen in the employ of a lime company were blasting a limestone cliff formation when, at a vertical depth of 50 feet and 200 feet back from the face of the cliff, they found the fossilized skull of an ape. The owner of the skull undoubtedly lived from 500,000 to 1,000,000 years ago. Fragments of similar antiquity usually consist of one or two teeth, or possibly a jawbone, from which the fossil experts make their deductions as best they can.

But the Taungs skull, as it is called, is virtually complete—the whole face and lower jaw, and the teeth. While the top of the skull is missing, the discovery included a "natural cast" of the brain case, permitting that intensive study of the brain's size and shape which is so important in determining the intellectual capacity of the animal.



THE TAUNGS MAN-APE reconstructed from the skull by the discoverer.

THE skull was taken to Prof. Raymond A. Dart, professor of anatomy in the University of Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, who had won a reputation in his work with fossils before he left England.

"The specimen is of importance because it represents an extinct race of apes intermediate between living anthropoids and man," reported Prof. Dart, after he had chipped away the enveloping limestone, made measurements of the skull and brain case and compared them with the skulls of the earliest known prehistoric men, of present-day human beings and of living anthropoids, or apes which resemble men.

He also reported that the specimen is juvenile, for only the first permanent molar tooth has erupted in both jaws on both sides of the face. Thus the creature corresponds anatomically with a human child of six years. It probably was a year or two younger than that.

Prof. Dart had to make up a name for the newly discovered animal, and he called it Australopithecus africanus, to commemorate both the extreme southern (australis) place of its discovery and the continent where, as he remarks, "so many new and important discoveries connected with the early history of man have recently been made, thus vindicating Darwin's claim that Africa would prove to be the cradle of mankind."

Whether Prof. Dart and other scientists are correct in believing that Australopithecus really had advanced a stage further in the direction of the human status than any other ape, the skull unquestionably is the first one to be found of an extinct anthropoid ape. And it suggests that relics of still greater value in the history of mankind may yet be found—in Africa. Until rather recently, Asia seemed to be the more promising field for such explorations. And now, with all the opposition to the teaching of evolution in the public schools going on, the Taungs skull turns up and apparently strengthens one theory of Charles R. Darwin, the father of evolution.

WITHOUT going into the technicalities of measurements, it can be said that Prof. Dart found the skull of Australopithecus inclines to the characteristics of men rather than of apes—humanoid rather than anthropoid, as he puts it. This includes the general shape of the skull, the teeth and the lower jaw bone. Study of the "natural cast" of the brain cavity indicates that the brains of adults in this vanished race equaled, if they did not exceed, those of the gorillas in absolute size, also were distinctive in type and instruments of greater intelligence than the brains of living anthropoids.

By studying the relative sizes of brain areas whose functions are well known, Prof. Dart was able to make some surprising deductions and, as he believes, to catch a glimpse of the process employed when lower creatures were transformed into men and women.

"They possessed," he says, "to a degree unappreciated by living anthropoids, the use of their hands and ears and the consequent faculty of associating with the color, form and general appearance of objects, their weight, texture, resilience and flexibility, as well as the significance of sounds emitted by them.

"In other words, their eyes saw, their ears heard and their hands handled objects with greater meaning and to fuller purpose than the corresponding organs in recent apes. They had laid down the foundations of that discriminative knowledge of the appearance, feeling and sound of things that was a necessary milestone in the acquisition of articulate speech."

THE Johannesburg scientist does not claim for the skull of Australopithecus that it represents our oldest known ancestor, antedating the famous "Pithecanthropus erectus" whose skull was dug up by Prof. Dubois in Java in 1894.

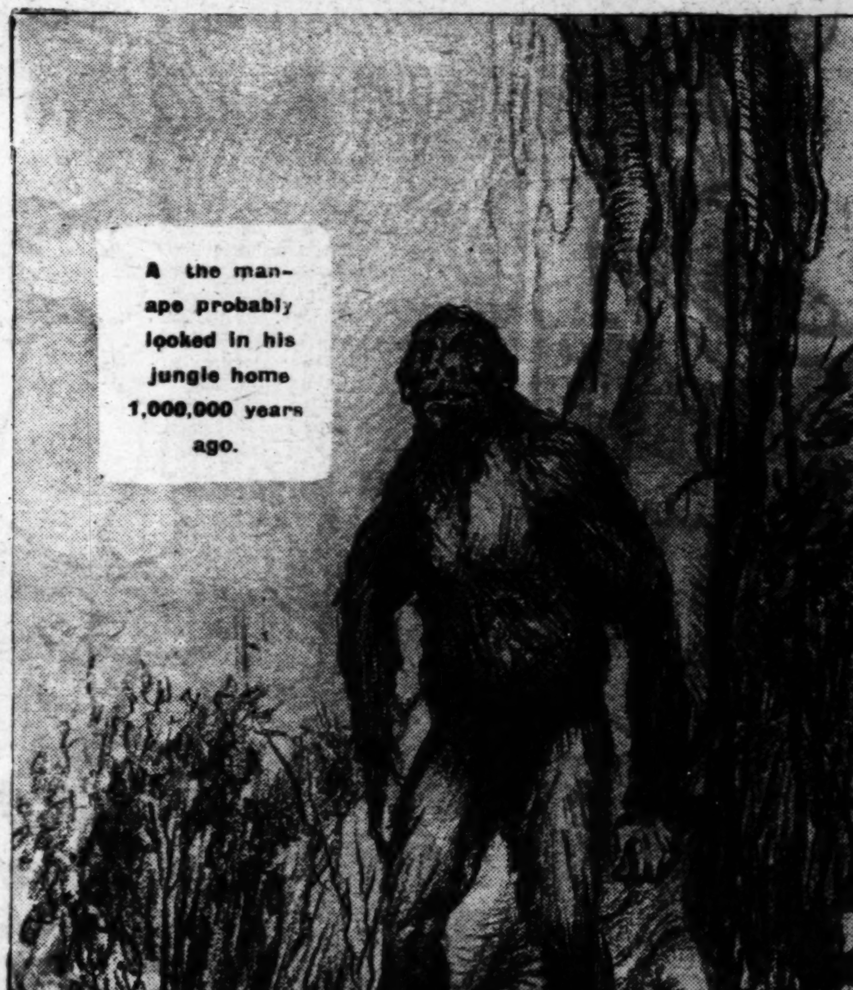
"Unlike Pithecanthropus," he says, "it does not represent an apelike man, a caricature of precocious hominid failure, but a creature well advanced beyond modern anthropoids in just those characteristics, facial and cerebral, which are to be anticipated in an extinct link between man and his simian ancestor."

But study of the brain cast makes it equally evident to Prof. Dart that a creature with only anthropoid brain capacity and lacking certain expanded areas in the brain which appear to be necessary for articulate man, is no true man. He concludes:

"It is therefore logically regarded as a manlike ape."

ANOTHER interesting point, and Prof. Dart calls particular attention to it, is the fact that the skull of Australopithecus should have been uncovered at an extreme southern point of the continent far from the luxuriant equatorial jungles where the ape family flourish mostly today. Fossil anthropoids have not, before now, been found south of Fayum, in Egypt. Living anthropoids have not been seen in recent times south of the Lake Kivu region in the Belgian Congo, nearly 2000 miles north of Taungs, as the crow flies.

"In anticipating the discovery of the true links between the apes and man in tropical countries," says Prof. Dart, "there has been a tendency to overlook the fact that, in the luxuriant forests of the tropical belts, nature was supplying with profligate and lavish hand an easy and sluggish solution, by adaptive specialization, of the problem of existence in creatures so well equipped mentally as living anthropoids are.



A the man-ape probably looked in his jungle home 1,000,000 years ago.

"For the production of man a different apprenticeship was needed to sharpen the wits and quicken the higher manifestations of intellect—a more open veldt country where competition was keener between swiftness and stealth, and where adroitness of thinking and movement played a preponderating role in the preservation of the species.

"Darwin has said: 'No country in the world abounds in greater degree with dangerous beasts than Southern Africa,' and, in my opinion, Southern Africa, by providing a vast open country, with occasional wooded belts and a relative scarcity of water, together with a fierce and bitter mammalian competition, furnished a laboratory such as was essential to this penultimate phase of human evolution.

"We must therefore conclude," writes Prof. Dart, "that it was only the enhanced cerebral powers possessed by this group which made their existence possible in this untoward environment."

Miss Josephine Salmons, student demonstrator of anatomy at the University of Witwatersand, had something to do with the recognition of Australopithecus. A boy friend told her that his father was using a fossilized monkey head, from Taungs, as a paper weight. Miss Salmons secured the object and handed it to Prof. Dart, who thus became interested in the blasting operations at Taungs as a possible source of valuable relics.

After Prof. Dart had received the slab of rock containing the fossilized head of Australopithecus, a month's work was necessary to chip the limestone away from the fossilized bones of the skull.

These discoveries have resulted in a movement to provide endowment for research work in South Africa.

If one man-ape of intellectual powers unequaled by any other known specimens, past or present, once inhabited Bechuanaland, others must have lived there, too. The prospect of what future excavations may reveal is dazzling. Perhaps that great drama, "When the Ape Became a Man," enacted somewhere in the dim past, may yet be reconstructed from the chronicle written in the rocks of South Africa.

WHAT THE GREAT MISSOURI EARTHQUAKE WOULD HAVE DONE TO THE ST. LOUIS OF TODAY.—Drawn by W. A. Byrnes.

If Another Earthquake Came---

by Robertus Love

WHAT would happen to St. Louis, several correspondents have inquired, if an earthquake such as the one which centered at New Madrid, in Southeast Missouri, more than a century ago, should select this city for its chief point of energy?

Before trying to answer this question, which will be answered by describing the New Madrid earthquake, it may be well to disarm trepidation by pointing out that several scientists have expressed the belief that no large city in the United States is more nearly immune to earthquake visitation than St. Louis. This interesting and comforting theory is based upon the proximity of the New Madrid seismic center. Savants who specialize in quakeology aver that any subterranean disturbance which might occur within several hundred miles of St. Louis would be reasonably sure to find sufficient outlet in the general vicinity of New Madrid, where the quake of 1811-12 weakened the earth's crust and left it weakened for future reference, so to express it.

The theory that lightning never strikes twice in the same place appears not to apply to earthquakes. To the contrary, if one quake visits a certain area another quake is exceedingly likely to select that area when the mysterious forces which produce such violence find it necessary to renew operations anywhere within a reasonable distance. Following out this theory, more than one scientist in recent years has predicted another devastating earthquake in the lower Mississippi Valley; but it may not come, they assure us, for a thousand years. Of course, an earthquake is not noted for its courtesy in announcing its arrival beforehand.

You can figure out for yourself what would have happened to St. Louis if this urban center of nearly a million people, with its skyscrapers and its other modern construction, had been located where the New Madrid earthquake expressed itself with the greatest violence in our pioneer days. Instead of inviting a quake to St. Louis for purposes of conjecture, let us take the St. Louis of today down to New Madrid County and back to the end of the year 1811. Then let us tell briefly what happened then and there.

ON DEC. 15, 1811, the little log-built town of New Madrid was agitated by a wave of curiosity that swept through the entire populace. Very early next morning the town and all the country round about suffered an agitation of a character exceedingly different. The occasion of the first excitement was nothing to worry anybody, though some timid rustics trembled somewhat when they heard the snort of the first steamboat that ever appeared in the waters of the Mississippi River. The second excitement was justified without qualification, for it was caused by the most violent and persistent earthquake that has visited the American continent since human records began.

On the afternoon of the fifteenth the steamboat New Orleans, built at Pittsburg by Capt. Nicholas J. Roosevelt and skippered by him down the Ohio on its way to New Orleans, hove to in front of New Madrid and tied up, the idea being to remain there serenely overnight. The beautiful young bride of Capt. Roosevelt, who, by the way, was a grand-uncle of President Theodore Roosevelt, was on board. When the boat was taking on supplies at Louisville, a few weeks earlier, a baby had been born to the Roosevelts. Mother and child were doing well, and Mrs. Roosevelt already was able to be up in the pilot house with her husband now and then, interested in the navigation of the strange new craft through murky and snaggy waters.

The night had set in wild, with a tempestuous wind-blowing upstream. Capt. Roosevelt was aroused at 2 o'clock in the morning by a fierce pounding on the door of his cabin. The watchman was yelling for the skipper to come out and see what on earth was happening to the river and the land. Before the terrified man's warning was completed, Capt. Roosevelt was tossed out of his bunk and hit the floor hard. Mrs. Roosevelt, holding the baby to her breast, screamed in horror as she was thrown out against her husband. They gained the deck, staggering like drunken folk.

Verily, hell's lid had blown off—and still was a-blowing!

A pale moon cast sickly rays through the murk. The Roosevelts and their crew held to railings or clutched whatever object promised to give them security against being hurled off into the black and billowy water. The old Mississippi was heaving like the Atlantic in the grip of a hurricane. They saw things unbelievable. The river bank was rising and sinking like a long and undulant wave. Beyond, up in the village, they could see dimly the undulations of the land. Log dwellings and stores were being lifted high and let down again, crumbling to fragments. The people of New Madrid were running about, or trying to run; as a matter of fact they were tumbling like helpless midgets—as indeed they were—in the grasp of a terrific force beyond all animate control. They screamed, they prayed, some of them uttered curses. Horses, cows, fowls (domestic and wild), added their screams to the mad farrago of fright.

"Great God! It's an earthquake!" gasped Capt. Roosevelt.

THE skipper had the diagnosis right. It was the most stupendous earthquake, as measured from every angle of comparison, that anybody in the United States had experienced then or has experienced since. At intervals several other severe shocks came before dawn, and at longer intervals throughout the ensuing week shock succeeded shock. William Leigh Pierce, an Easterner who was sojourning at Big Prairie, some miles below New Madrid, wrote to the New York Evening Post on Christmas Day that between Dec. 16 and Dec. 23 he had recorded in his notebook no less than 89 separate shocks, most of them frightfully severe.

We have no record as to what became of Mr. Pierce, for his chronicle ends with the twenty-third of December. If he survived until Jan. 23, one month later, he experienced on that day an earthquake tremor that made all those which went before seem insignificant. That was the day, according to the contemporary chronicle, when the horror attained perihelion. The earth gasped, coughed, vomited, in one supreme effort to relieve itself of pent-up violence. She wrinkled up her face in ghastly grimaces. She spewed forth volcanic fire and smoke and gases, deadly gases that caused vegetable and animal life to perish. Residents of New Madrid who had not fled already departed forthwith from the wrecked town, but two families remaining.

But where did they go? Where could they go?

Their first thought was to take to the hills. There had been hills beyond the town. There were hills no longer. For more than a century now that general vicinity has been known as "the Sunk Lands." The disturbance from underground reduced the hills to swamps. Where tall trees had waved their branches, deep lakes appeared, with the tops of some of the trees still visible. Here and there an island upreared itself. On these the fleeing people found temporary foothold. Another quake, and here an island disappeared, yonder another arose.

NOT far below New Madrid, early in the series of shocks, the earth buckled up in a line directly crossing the Mississippi. This caused the waters of the mighty stream to flow in the direction opposite from normal. Literally, the river ran upstream for a considerable time. Capt. Roosevelt's steam craft rode her gallantly. The upended waters rushed off into depressions caused by the earthquake, and it was with extreme difficulty that the skipper and his crew kept their vessel from rushing off likewise. The ordinary channel of the stream had disappeared. Natural islands sank beneath water; quake-made islands appeared elsewhere. The fleet of old-time craft moored at New Madrid was wrecked, but the Roosevelt steamboat managed miraculously to negotiate the stream.

When at last the Mississippi turned tail again and resumed her natural direction, the steamboat New Orleans found herself, and through skillful piloting between perilous obstructions she ran the gauntlet of the quakes and reached New Orleans. That voyage, through more than 300 miles of made-over stream, with new shocks every few hours remaking the channel again and again, surely must have been sufficiently strenuous to have satisfied Skipper Roosevelt's strenuous grand-nephew himself!

AS TO the loss of life from this long series of seismic disorders, no man knows anything approximating the total. The country in the quake area was settled but sparsely. But suppose the St. Louis of today had been located at the center of the New Madrid disaster. From Artist Byrnes' drawing above and from the story just related of the first Missouri earthquake, the reader can judge what would have happened to this city under similar conditions. There's nothing more to say, since the simplest exercise of your imagination should be sufficient to paint the picture yourself.

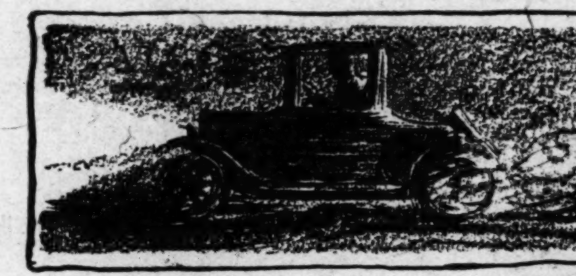
The Auto-Stealing Industry



MELVIN P. GRIBBLE,
Master Auto Thief.

By Harry R Burke

MELVIN P. GRIBBLE, who stole 104 automobiles in three years, tells on these two pages how autos are stolen, how to protect them and — principally — how he found that stealing doesn't pay.

"I HAVE made just one resolution—only one," said Melvin P. Gribble, the man who had stolen over 100 automobiles, as he sat in the hot, dark cage in the United States Marshal's office in the Federal building, St. Louis, where he awaited the hour that was to see him start to Leavenworth to serve 10 prison years.

"Just one," he repeated, "I'll never own another car."

It was owning a car—though the car was only partly paid for—that started this master thief upon a career of stealing automobiles, in the course of which—

He took 104 cars—most of them Fords.

Stole 10 typewriters as a side line.

Impressed police into helping him dispose of his stolen machines.

Was four times arrested, and thrice escaped.

By luck and daring dodged arrest a dozen times.

And finally, after being caught, traveled 3400 miles through five states in company with a Department of Justice agent, helping him recover 64 of the stolen automobiles. Where the other 40 had gone Gribble couldn't remember.

He had pleaded guilty, jumped his bond, returned to "work" as a thief, and had finally been recaptured. Now the 10-year sentence stared him in the face.

IT WAS hot in that stuffy little bullpen, with its old-fashioned walls of walnut and of glass, and with the stout netting stretched across the ceiling to keep a prisoner from climbing out.

On a long bench, like a school bench, were the remains of Gribble's lunch. The man sat, fanned himself with a newspaper, and talked. It didn't pay to steal cars. It didn't pay to laugh at law. And, above all, it didn't pay to live beyond your means.

"I wouldn't talk," he said, "but for one thing. What I've got to say may be a lesson to some of my buddies who were in the war.

"I was in the Marine Corps. A splinter from a shell got me in the right leg. There was a machine-gun bullet went through the length of my foot, splintering the bones.

"You know how it is. The Government offered to train me in some occupation. I got $140 a month from Uncle Sam while I was learning a trade.

"But suddenly the Government, without warning, cut off my compensation. I suppose I had been foolish and lived up to my means. There was $140 a month less to live on now, there was a baby coming, and I had a brand-new car and it was only partly paid for.

"I was living in Louisville, then. But I had enlisted in Missouri. My wife was a stenographer. She had fixed up my bonus papers. I gave her $100 that I had, got into the car and came over here to Missouri and collected my bonus. Then I went down into the State, rigged up a bill of sale and traded my car for a second-hand Chevrolet and $200.

"That was where I first went wrong. The car, you see, was mortgaged.

"I drove on down to Hickman, Ky., and got there on Saturday. I went to the Chief of Police. 'I'm hard up and I've got to sell this car,' I said. 'Do you know anybody who wants one?' He didn't.

"They've got a different way of trading down South. If you bring something into town to sell you can always sell it. The Chief of Police usually will get up an auction.

"Well, Chief Hanby, there in Hickman, auctioned off my car that afternoon. He it for $175. 'What do I owe you?' I asked. 'Ab $2.50.' I gave him $5. Don't think I ever forg that experience. More than once, later, I've had the Chief of Police of some Southern town sell my stolen car at auction for me."

THERE is a quiet Kentucky drawl in Gribble's speech, for he comes from Hopkinsville. Blond hair is combed straight back from a high brow, a brow knit with upright furrows between the heavy eyebrows which overhang frank and merry blue eyes. His face is freckled, the chin is square, determined. And about the straight, full mouth there plays a hint of humorous smile.

But the smile was gone as he continued, mopping his face in that stifling little pen. . . .

"You see, if I'd only lived within my means, making what I earned keep me and putting the r away. . . . There are a lot of old service men in the penitentiaries. Most of them got there through such foolishness. If I can only be a warning them . . . for at any time their Government may be cut off.

"Well, I had a little stake and got me a job with the Aluminum Ore Co. in East St. Louis.

"My wife was ill. I was working nights. A burglar got into our house and frightened her so she jumped out of bed. Her leg gave way. For months she lay helpless in a plaster cast. I couldn't make enough to pay the doctor's bills.

"I had a .25 automatic pistol. A boy I kn wanted to borrow it. He wanted to hold up some one. He was broke and wanted to get back to his home in Vermont. I wouldn't let him have the gun. But I pointed to a Ford on the other side of the street. 'If you'll steal that thing I'll give you $100 for it,' I said.

"He tried to take the car, but he was clumsy in getting it started. I went over and got in it myself. It was the first I ever stole. We drove away, sold it, stole another, and continued to Vincennes, Ind. I wanted to get rid of the kid. I gave him money enough to go home on and stole a car and left Vincennes. I stole another car that very same night. It belonged to the Chief of Police there."

WITH that Gribble was fairly launched on his career.

"Mostly I took Fords," he said. "It's easy enough. There are 24 keys for as many different locks on Ford ignition. I got all the 24.

"You can get keys from dealers, you know, if you put up the right sort of story. And not for Fords alone.

"There was a Dodge. It belonged to a banker down on Broadway. He parked it each day at Broadway and Walnut. I spotted the car because I had an order for one like it. I watched the man, saw that he parked each day, saw that he went to the bank, watched to see when he went to lunch, and where, and then got me a key to his ignition from a dealer.

"Next morning I was waiting when he parked it. Before the engine had a chance to get cold I was in the machine and on my way. At 6 p. m. that day when he came for his car I had it in Terre Haute, Ind., and was selling it."

Gribble never bothered with a car if the engine was cold. He never took one, except it was parked at a corner. "Too much trouble backing and pulling to get it out of line," he said. "Too much chance to attract attention. And besides, from the corner you have three directions in which to get away."

Later he was caught in East St. Louis. He had confessed to taking cars there. He had no money to hire a lawyer and he chose to defend himself, he says. He told the jury that he did take the cars from East St. Louis and sell them, after he had bought the machines. 'I only signed that paper because it said that,' he pleaded. 'I didn't steal the cars.' His frank eyes beat the case.

HE DEVELOPED theft into a ence. He carried a typew

HOW TO PROTECT YOUR AUTO

By M. P. Gribble

Master Automobile Thief.

THE best protection for your car is a "frog"—one of those locks which clamps a sharp point about rim and tire. No thief will dare drive it away if the car limps along with one of those on it. Nor will he dare haul it in with a wrecking car while that sign is proclaiming it's stolen. I surely never did.

The big locked steering wheel is the next best protection, but even when so locked a car can be jacked up and taken into a garage where the lock can be opened.

There's a third lock that's good. A long stem runs down from the steering wheel to connect with a clamp around the crank-shaft. I know a car locked like that that stood for two years and still stands on a corner right close to the federal building. The owner drives it over from Illinois each day. Once or twice I tried the wheel. No use monkeying with that.

Some folks think a little card certifying that "This car is under the protection" of such and such a detective agancy is a safeguard against thieves. It's an invitation instead. I've taken many with that sign. They sold better. "And, see," I'd say to my customer, "the Blank agency will protect you against automobile thieves until such a time. The car is protected." That usually made the sale.

I never used a wrecking car myself, though some men do. It didn't seem worth while. There are too many people who leave their cars unprotected on the street day in, day out. It's easy enough to find the one you've got a customer for without ever bothering with a garage business and a wrecking crew.

And there are so many men in this world who are anxious to take advantage of your misfortune that there's no difficulty in finding a market for anything you steal. I always had a "sick mother" or a "sick wife," and that was reason enough for a low price on the car, though, of course, I always asked a big enough one—one lots bigger than I expected—at the start of our bargaining.

They'd fall for that, especially if I had "papers" on the car. "Papers"—that is, a bill of sale—make a difficulty to smile at. You can buy a blank bill of sale for 5 cents. Any stamp works will make you a notary public's seal for $4.50. A pen and a bottle of ink and you can do the rest.

It sounds easy, and it is easy, but it isn't worth while. You always live in terror of arrest. You never beat the game. Every man's hand is against you.

I was only working a year—yet it was spread over three years. The rest of the time I was trying to start straight with the money I'd stole in automobiles. I never seemed to have luck at it. Always things went wrong.

All the time I knew that if my wife ever even thought I was such a low-down skunk as to steal an automobile she'd leave me. She was a policeman's daughter. I knew what she'd think.

Four times they caught me. East St. Louis, Milwaukee, Memphis and here.

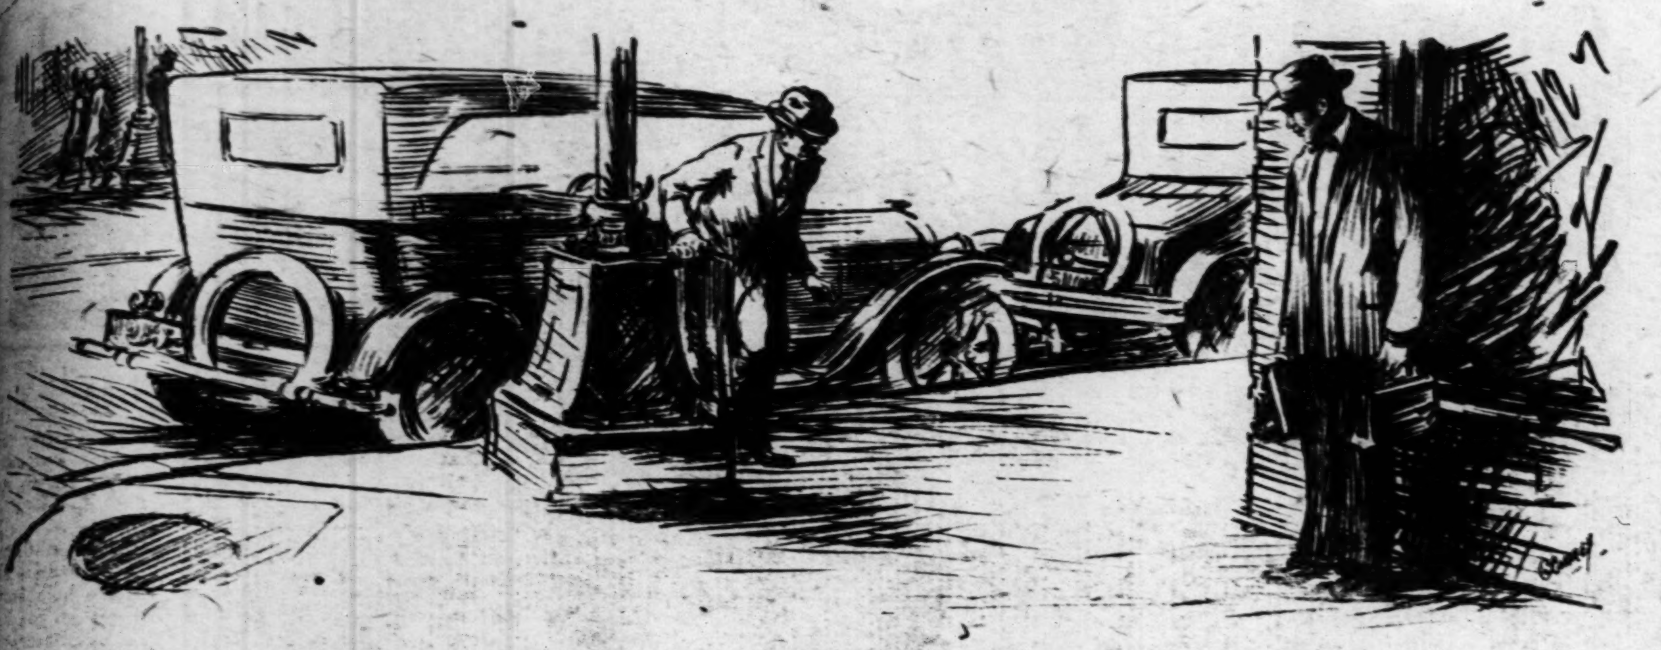
In East St. Louis I beat the case. At Memphis I put up a story and when the judge released me on my own recognizance I beat it. I jumped a bond in Milwaukee and that left me broke.

Here they got me on my birthday—my thirty-second. I saw the jig was up.

I turned in and helped the police every way I could trying to get things straightened up and find cars I'd stole.

And now there's ten years staring me in the face. Ten years in Leavenworth. The best ten yeards of a man's life. I'm broke, flat. For three years I had to live for the most part away from my wife and baby. And ten more on to that.

What did I gain?



"BEFORE the Engine Had a Chance to Get Cold I Was in the Machine and on My Way."

and a small kit of repair tools. They served as his alibi." Also he had with him a printed card giving his name and address.

Suppose you saw him stepping into your car after he had unlocked the ignition. You hailed him. "That's my car!"

A suave and genial gentleman stopped, backed it into place, got out, looked at the license number, appeared bewildered and in a gentle Southern drawl apologized as he lifted his typewriter and tool case out of the machine.

"I'm a stranger," he would say, as he offered you a card which gave the name of Melvin P. Gribble, "expert typewriter repairman." He would flush with confusion. "You see, I thought I had parked my car here. I don't know why I didn't look at the license plates; I just jumped in. I'm so sorry. And when my key fitted I started off. Why, I might have stolen your car."

He was so nice, so apologetic, so seemingly shamefaced at the misfortune that, of course, you could only answer. "Oh, that's all right. We all of us make mistakes." And his knowledge that it is human nature to do just that had saved Gribble from arrest more times than one.

"Often I'd work from town to town," he said. "I'd steal a car, drive it to a place a little distant, sell it, steal another there and go on. I've taken two or three a week while I was working at it.

"Things were going easy. I had an apartment out in University City costing $85 a month. On Monday morning at 8 I would go get my car from the garage nearby and 'leave' on a trip 'to fix typewriters.' I made it a point to get home every Saturday. My wife never suspected I wasn't fixing typewriters.

"Monday when I drove out of the garage I went downtown and scouted until I'd pick out a car, arrange my plan for stealing it, and drive my own into a garage. Then I was off.

"ONCE I ran a car into a little town near Danville, Ill. The dealer was afraid it was stolen. 'Get in,' I said. 'We'll run over to Danville and see.' I had a fake bill of sale, you understand. The papers were all right. And I had changed the license plates on the car.

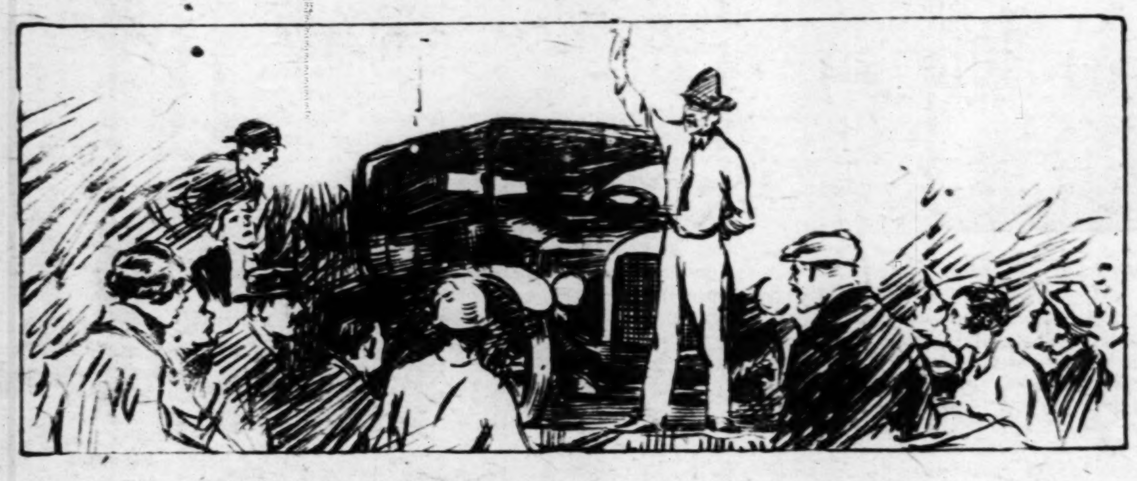
"Of course, the Chief didn't know the thing was stolen. There hadn't been time to report it to him. The fact that I had suggested calling on him made him all the more sure. There wasn't any trouble selling that car.

"In East St. Louis I was making a getaway with a car when it ran out of gasoline. I had to walk five blocks to a filling station. Some policemen were passing in an auto and wanted to know where I was taking the gas. 'Hop in and we'll give you a ride,' they said. I hopped in. After they had delivered me and the gas to my stolen car I thanked them.

"In another Illinois town the police thought I was a rum-runner. An automobile full of coppers took after me. I didn't know why, so I sped on. When I saw they'd catch me, I stopped, jumped a fence and landed in the middle of a bunch of pigs. I galloped off with those scared shoats just as fast as I could on all fours. The coppers never paid any attention to them—nor to me among them.

"Still another Illinois Chief was my friend when a copper picked me up on suspicion. I showed him my passbook from the bank at Hopkinsville, Ky., my discharge papers from the service, my badge as vice commander of my home-town American Legion post down in Kentucky. That fixed it. The Chief gave the copper a bawling out for molesting a good American citizen. H never even stopped to look at the engine number of that 'hot' machine I had."

It was after his arrest in East St. Louis that Gribble started to "go straight" by stealing typewriters enough to start up in business. He bought 10 on the installment plan and skipped out with them. He went down to Hopkinsville, Ky., and started an agency and sales shop with a repair department. It wasn't long until he sold out to his partner.



"CHIEF OF POLICE Hanby Auctioned Off the Stolen Car."

Another time at Parrish, Tenn., he opened an oil-filling station. He went broke at that. "All the time I wanted to get out of it and all the time I got forced back into stealing," he said.

ON Armistice Day, 1923, he was arrested at Memphis, he said. "I was in town and so I marched with the Legion in the Armistice Day parade. After the parade I saw a car right along by where we stopped. The engine was still warm. I climbed in and started off. Well, they caught me that time.

"It dragged on until Dec. 17. I made a plea to the Judge to let me go home for Christmas. My wife came down and helped me with her story. She didn't believe I was a thief.

"Well, the Judge let me go on my own recognizance. He made me promise to come back. You bet I didn't.

"So it kept on. Then on my thirty-second birthday I was arrested on the free bridge here. Patrolman Ledford picked me up in a car belonging to Miss Grace Mrazek, when William Lieser, a chauffeur who worked for her father, recognized the machine. They had me right that time. So I came through and told them all I'd done.

"That's when Agent John Lynch of the Department of Justice and I made our trip. We got back cars in Chicago, Chicago Heights, Pana, Danville, Freeburg, Belleville, Mascoutah, Hoopestown, Georgetown, Teutopolis and a lot of other towns. We found cars I had stolen in Terre Haute, and in Evansville, Ind., in Paducah and Louisville, Ky., and in Nashville and Memphis, Tenn.

"I'd made bonds. Then I was given a tip that State charges were to be filed against me so as to out me under heavier bond. Then's when I jumped out. I went to Milwaukee.

"Maybe my nerve failed me. I don't know. Anyway, almost the first car I took up there they got me. I was thrown into jail. A bond of $1000 was asked. I had that much with me and so I posted it. And I skipped out then."

UNITED STATES DISTRICT ATTORNEY CURRY told Judge Faris as he sentenced Gribble that while he was out after having jumped his bond the young Kentuckian had stolen 35 automobiles. The last of these offenses was in Memphis, Tenn., to which town he had returned. One stolen car was in a garage there and he took another. He was caught red-handed. And Federal officers identified him as the motor thief who had jumped his bond up here.

The end of Gribble's story will be written in Leavenworth prison. "My wife and baby," he said, "will be waiting for me when I get out." There was infinite longing in his voice. "But I don't know why they should," he said.

"It's awful to have to think of her working to support the baby," he continued, "but I should have thought of that a long time ago."

IT WAS always a lone game that was played by this Raffles of the motor world. "Quick turns, small profits," he said with a regretful smile. He didn't belong to any gang. He didn't trouble about a fake garage as a blind for his business. Ignition keys, a license plate or two, his notary seal and his blank bills of sale—these and quick wit were his equipment for entering business. He learned to know a lot about Fords, and something about Chevrolets. Mostly his thefts were of these. But he never bothered with a wrecking car to jack up a machine and haul it away, although he says that game is not uncommon. Nor did he ever attempt to change the engine numbers, or get a new engine block with a new number for a stolen car—things common enough where men transform and deal in many different machines. Carelessness, good nature and surprise—these elements in human nature he traded in. His rule was not unlike the baseball player's: "Hit 'em where they ain't." He did the unexpected and he won——

Disgrace, shame and 10 years in prison.

With Bow and Arrow

In Darkest Africa

By SAXTON POPE.

ARTICLE II.

SIRONERA RIVER, TANGANYIKA, BRITISH EAST AFRICA, April 21.—

HERE in Leslie Simson's camp, armed only with our bows and arrows, we have at last undertaken the study of the lion problem.

We have killed mountain lions in California with the bow and arrow. We have slain grizzly bear in Wyoming and Alaska with our arrows. But the use of dogs and ambush made it possible there to obviate a direct attack by the beast. In Africa, neither of these defensive factors can be employed.

It is true that Paul Rainey and Klein, in taking pictures, have used dogs on lions, but in each instance these men have been backed up by professional hunters with heavy guns.

The use of a brush ambush called a "boma" is quite the usual method of hunting lions by the less experienced big game hunters, especially in Kenya County. It is safe to say that nine out of ten are shot this way. Only the more expert hunters such as Stewart Edward White, Leslie Simson and a few others, go out in the open by themselves and withstand the charge of an infuriated lion.

Of course, with the bow, it is impossible to stop a charging lion, for death depends upon hemorrhage when an arrow is used, and this takes a few minutes at best, while the beast needs but a few seconds to complete his charge and do his murderous act.

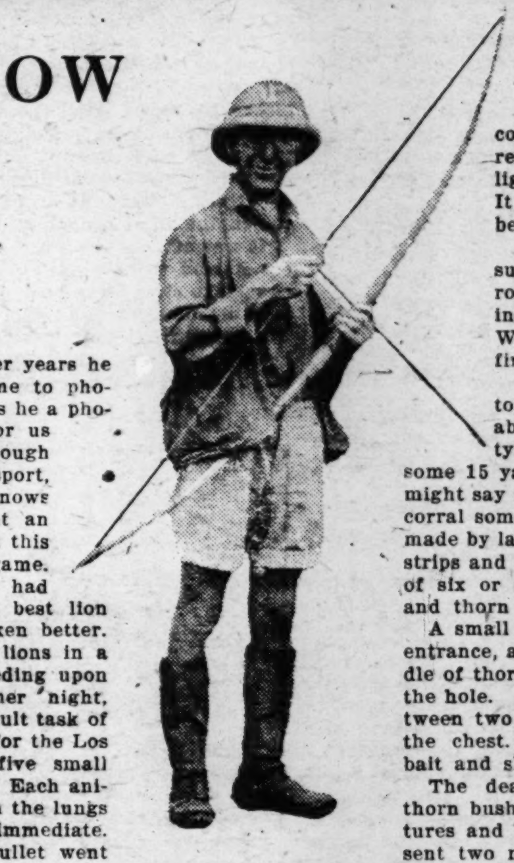
If a gun is employed to assist an archer, we call it a complete failure from our standpoint. We never count animals in our bag that have been shot with bullets. All must be done clean by the strength of our good long bows and the keen flight of our arrows.

It is our intention to use the Massai spearmen to back us in our ultimate lion hunting, to act as a life insurance in place of gunpowder. So far, we have not negotiated with the people for this assistance, but shall do so on our next move to the volcanic district of Nigorongoro.

In the meantime we wanted to prove to our safari and to ourselves that we could kill these beasts with our bows.

Up to date we had seen some nine or ten lions and had even taken a shot or two at several, under what we considered safe conditions, but we knew that to make a complete demonstration and still come off with enough man power left to carry out our expedition we must use safety first. So we chose the boma.

FORTUNATELY Simson had a boma in readiness for our use. He built it within a couple of miles of his camp, in a zone he had reserved for photography. Not only is Simson a mighty hunter before the Lord, like Nimrod of old, but he is a nature photographer. He does not spend all his time killing animals. In later years he has devoted most of his time to photographing them. Not only is he a photographer, but fortunately for us he is also an archer, and although he has not gone in for this sport, particularly in hunting, he knows the difficulties that confront an archer and has patience with this ancient method of getting game.



Stewart Edward White, author and archer.

This particular boma he had used to obtain some of his best lion pictures, and no one has taken better. On one occasion he had 12 lions in a picture at once; six were feeding upon a zebra bait. Upon another night, when he set himself the difficult task of collecting specimens of cubs for the Los Angeles Museum, he shot five small cubs with a .22-caliber rifle. Each animal he carefully shot through the lungs and death was noiseless and immediate.

Unfortunately, his sixth bullet went too high and broke the cub's back. The little one cried with pain and instantly the mother charged the boma. She tried to plunge through the aperture made for camera work and almost succeeded in gaining entrance when Simson shot her in the throat and killed her. This seemed to attract more lions and another female dashed at the opening, roaring with rage. He shot her; then such a pandemonium broke out as few men have heard and come out alive.

At least a dozen beasts attacked the boma, raging at the brush-closed exit and the window, running around and around, roaring so that the very chest walls of Simson and his gun bearer shook and vibrated with the thunderous tones. Dumfounded by the fierceness of the attack, and seeking to avoid further provocation, Simson and his man crouched in a dark corner of the boma and rigidly refrained from flashing on the light till the hubbub subsided. It took nearly two hours for the beasts to leave.

Any man who proclaims that such an episode would not rouse fear in his soul is deceiving himself, but nobody else. We used this very boma for our first real trial of the arrows.

We sent out an expedition to shoot a zebra and drag it about in a wide circle, finally tying it securely to a tree some 15 yards in front of the boma. I might say that this brush ambush was a corral some eight feet wide by 12 long, made by lashing poles to trees with bark strips and covering the sides to a height of six or seven feet with palm leaves and thorn bush.

A small aperture in the rear permits entrance, and is stopped by a large bundle of thorn bush being pulled in to fill the hole. In front was a long space between two parallel poles, the height of the chest. This permitted seeing the bait and shooting arrows out.

The dead zebra was covered with thorn bush to keep off hyenas and vultures and left overnight. Next day we sent two natives to inspect and report progress. They reported that a lion had taken the bait, a leopard had entered the boma and that hyenas had cleaned up the fragments.

We repeated the performance, giving them another zebra, so that they might get the habit. Zebra are the natural lion food in this country and apparently good for nothing else. They occur in tens of thousands about here and are classified as pests.

Next night the bait was again taken so we decided to occupy the boma on the third evening.

After an early supper we journeyed down to the boma before sunset, the four of us—three archers, Arthur Young, Stewart Edward White and I, with Simson to handle the flashlight.

Saxton Pope and Arthur Young with an eland which fell to their arrows.

SITTING in a jungle boma on an African night offers many features of interest. Of course, we keep absolutely silent, don't smoke, show no light—hardly move.

Night descends; the birds give their evening calls; the dove-colored sky streaked with fading gold melts into dusky azure. The stars come out and the night sounds arise. The insects tune up for their long concert; the locust and the flying moth; the boring bettle on the dead limbs of the boma clicking out his death watch. The distant short bray of a zebra, resembling the bark of a small dog; the call of the night hawk; the wailing chatter of a hyena, all fill the minor numbers of the evening program. Then off in the distance we hear the rumble of a lion's roar.

Off in another quarter an answering grumbling bass note tells that the hunting game is on, and that soon the convergence of prowling predatory beasts will round up their quarry and the killing will begin.

Will Men Use Cosmetics?

AND ALSO, ARE COSMETICS HARMFUL?

By A. W. King

TOILET preparations were not found on the dressing tables of our American mothers and grandmothers, some 30 years ago. Almost the only thing of this kind used by them was the cooling starch bag. When they had reached the age of 40 or thereabouts they felt, and looked, no longer young.

Today, the use of cosmetics is so general that even the young school girls carry their vanity boxes and makeup. The contents may include powder, lip stick, rouge, cold cream, puff; mirror and little comb. Compacts make it easy. What some old-fashioned grandmothers think about these practices of dreadful young persons has been said most emphatically in the last few years.

But the grandmothers' remarks are nothing to what the old-fashioned grandfathers may be saying soon.

"Where's your daddy's face powder? Really, daughter, you must let his things alone. He was so impatient last week, when he found that you had emptied his bottle of toilet water."

Bits like this will be heard in the family circle within the next few years, according to predictions by manufacturers of "beauty aids." The sale of these preparations has increased enormously, of course, in the last decade. More and more men are among the buyers.

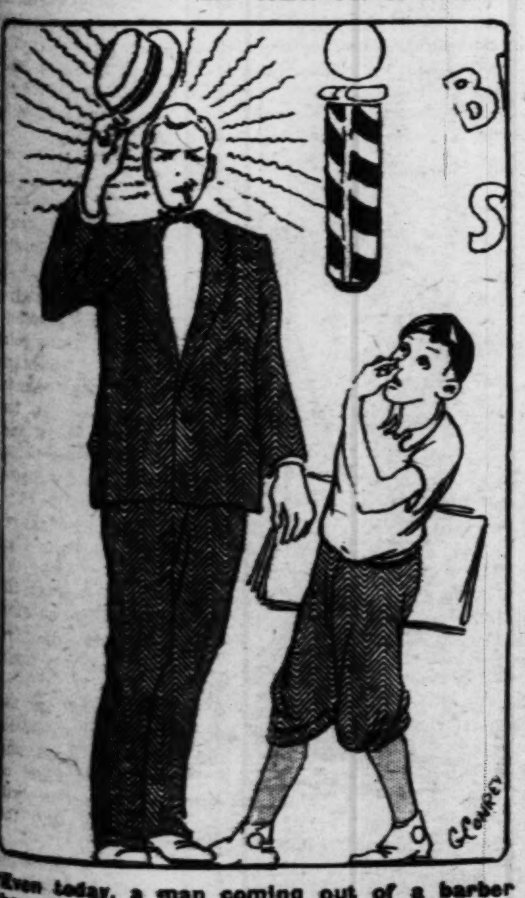
"We predict that in 10 years the women will find it necessary to hide their creams and powders so that their husbands will not use them."

Thus spoke William T. Miles, secretary and treasurer of the Puritan Pharmaceutical Co., St. Louis, who has been in the manufacture of cosmetics for 20 years.

"WITHIN the last few years," continued Miles, "the sale of toilet preparations for men's use has increased five-fold, and it won't be long before the majority of the men are using face powder after shaving, instead of talcum powder, also massage cream, bath salt and toilet water. The demand for lip rouge among the men is not great.

"Some men object to their wives' use of complexion helps. You can depend upon it that the men who disapprove usually are the very ones who go to the barber shop to be shaved and who have the barber apply hot and cold towels, cream and hair tonics, also get their nails manicured and probably call for a massage. Moreover, these men are the first to notice a good-looking woman.

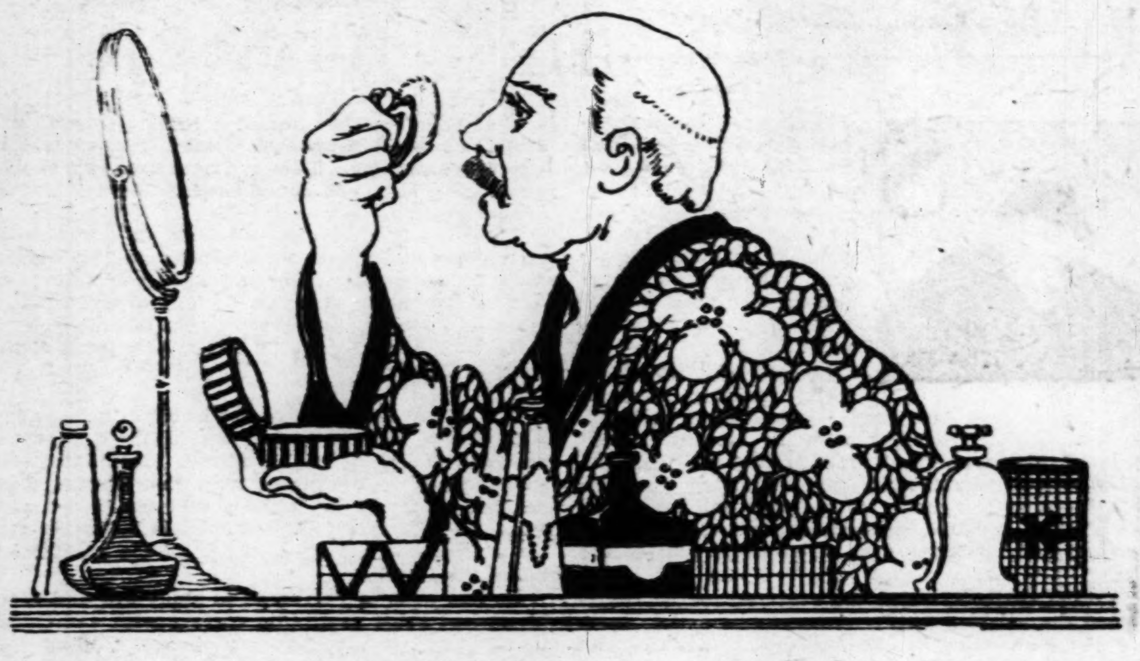
"The men needn't say much about the women's cosmetics. When a man comes out of a barber shop today, instead of one prevailing odor he distributes the aroma of a drug store. This is caused by the barber employing a preparation of different odor each time that he puts something on the customer's face or hair. The day is fast coming, however, when men as well as women will insist that all the cosmetics applied at one time shall be of the same odor."



"Even today, a man coming out of a barber shop distributes the aroma of a drug store."

Then Miles dipped into the philosophy of his business for a moment.

"It is indisputable," he remarked, "that a person feels better, mentally and physically, when nicely clothed, and people not only look younger but feel younger with 'beauty aids' properly applied.



"It won't be long before the men are doing it."

"But American women have much to learn about the proper use of toilet preparations, despite the fact that new beauty shops and parlors are springing up in large numbers all over the country. Very few women would care to attend a social function if the color of gown and hat did not harmonize. But few devote any attention to the perfume odors which they use.

"They will bathe in a delightful rose bath salt and immediately afterward use a bouquet body talcum, a facial cream of lilac odor, a complexion powder of jasmine, a rouge of hyacinth, a toilet water of violet and a perfume of narcissus. This combination of odors frequently does not blend, and neither the user nor those who meet her will get the benefit of any one odor

"We love a flower not only for its beautiful appearance but for its dainty fragrance. Women can make themselves much more attractive by the proper use of a delicate flower odor. More care should be given to the selection of rouge—there are sufficient shades of rouge on the market to match any complexion if rightly applied

"Are cosmetics harmful, to the skin or general well-being? It is an old question which bobs up every once in a while. Most members of the medical profession concede that the women of today are healthier by far than the women of past generations. 'If 'beauty aids' were injurious this would not be the case, since now you hardly can find a woman of any age who does not use some sort of cosmetic.

"After all our experience in making toilet preparations, we feel safe in saying that there is not an item made by any of the larger manufacturers which would be injurious to either the complexion or the health. And that if your appearance is not improved by the use of these preparations it usually is because the directions have not been followed or because your general health is not good."

THE other side of the cosmetics question was presented at the recent annual convention of the American Medical Association, at Atlantic City, when the Section on Dermatology listened to a paper on the subject by Dr. Hiram E. Miller and Dr. Laurence R. Taussig, both of San Francisco. The paper was not a condemnation of cosmetics in general, but the authors in the course of their remarks described cases of skin eruptions which they had seen and which, they said, were caused by ingredients of face powder, rouge, lipstick, hair dye, wrinkle remover and nail polish.

As to face powders, the San Francisco physicians said that the heavy kinds are composed mainly of precipitated barium sulphate and very finely powdered talcum, in varying proportions. The lighter powders are composed principally of starch. The very finest are made of rice powder, which is considerably finer than either wheat starch or corn starch, although all three of them are used. Zinc oxide is sometimes added, but is not a common ingredient. Lead carbonate formerly was used, but is now found only in two or three cheap powders seldom sold in the United States. Bismuth carbonate also was used but now is found only as a suspension in the so-called liquid powders

"Most of these ingredients," said the gentlemen from San Francisco, "are often prescribed for pathologic skin conditions and are generally harmless. Their long-continued use in a cosmetic may, however, cause a mechanical obstructive action on the pores. This is somewhat obviated if the preparation is removed each night by some cream or cleansing lotion."

Powders usually are colored with carmine for the flesh tint and with yellow ocher or umber for the brunette shades. The "bizarre" shades frequently are obtained by the addition of minute quantities of the anilin dyes. This latter substance may set up a skin irritation, just as the aniline derivative, paraphenylendiamin, may when it is used as a hair dye.

Most powders are perfumed, and the doctors stated that some persons have an idiosyncrasy or susceptibility to certain perfumes and will develop a skin irritation even from the minute quantity that they encounter in a face powder. Thus, one patient develops an irritation whenever she employs any cosmetic containing the slightest trace of eau de cologne. Compact powders differ from the loose powders only in causing more of the mechanical obstructive action.

One case of extensive skin inflammation was conquered only when the patient began to use a different make of rouge. Carmine generally is employed to color rouge, otherwise composed of zinc oxide, chalk and sometimes starch. In this case the doctors suspected that the trouble might have been due to an analine dye.

Lip sticks, the doctors reported, are composed of wax, pomade and cacao butter in varying proportions. The pomade is lard scented by natural flowers, although in the cheaper lip sticks perfumed lard may be used. The coloring matter is carmine or aniline dye. Liquid lip rouge is generally carmine or one of the aniline dyes in an alcoholic solution. Two patients had a chronic inflammation of the lip (cheilitis) which cleared after they had discontinued a liquid lip rouge of a bizarre purplish color.

THE physicians said, also, that hair dyes containing the vegetable pigments are seldom harmful, while those containing the minerals or anilin products may cause skin eruptions or general ill health.

The use of phenol as a wrinkle remover, say the San Francisco men, when applied to large areas of skin surface may cause considerable facial deformity and even death.

The sales of cosmetics go soaring upwards, year by year. A few months ago the Legislature of New Hampshire tried to bar them from the State. Those two short sentences epitomize the situation.

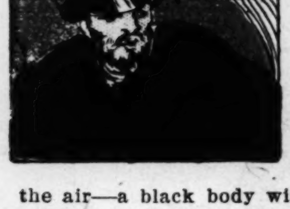
SAVINKOFF, Chief of , led a life of death. Here is the true acc is leadership in The Figh ircle.

By Harry R. Burke



SUN filled the granite-paved court of the State Political Department Prison and even the Moscow skies, on the fifteenth day of last May, smiled down upon its gray and forbidding walls. The sentinel pacing his round in the inner court looked up toward the sun.

He saw a spread-eagled form hurtling through the air—a black body with legs and arms outflung.

With instinctive superstition he crossed himself despite the stanch "red" training that was his. Before he could cry out the body had struck upon the pavement at the corner of the wall and lay there, still, silent, huddled, bruised and broken, with fast-glazing and upstaring eyes which could not see the sun.

"SAVINKOFF!" cried the sentinel, for he recognized the suicide.

"It's SAVINKOFF," he repeated to officers and comrades who came running up. The word went round in a hubub of voices and confused gesticulation. Eyes turned from the corpse below to the unbarred window gaping four stories above.

An officer brushed the men aside. "Back to your duties, comrades," he ordered. "Peter Vassilich, Mikhail Gregorich, pick him up and take him out of here. Then clean up those stones."

That was all. So much from the soviets for the man who would have been their Napoleon.

FOR Boris Savinkoff was a possible Napoleon until that bright morning of last May, the one who at any time might have emerged from the chaos of the Revolution to become a new Emperor of the Slavic race. That was the dream to which his suicide had put an end.

Shrewd, scheming, pitiless, passionate in his greed for power, hating alike the proletariat, the bourgeoisie and the Czarists of the old regime, contemptuous of the financiers who backed him, and paying not even the tribute of regret to those who sacrificed their lives in his conspiracies, Savinkoff was the Master of Terror and the most sinister figure of the revolution.

Bomb, noose and knife had served him in the Czarist days. But money and machine guns had failed him when the bolshevists made the ancient rule of terror pale into insignificance.

He had been jailed by the bolshevists. Yet in Russia itself, and in exile in Jugoslavia, China, France, Germany, Switzerland and America were literal thousands, men and women, who would have offered their lives at the sight of his name on a writ of command—mad, passionate ones whose own life was as nothing to them weighed in the scales against Holy Russia.

None of these would forget, could forget, that Boris Savinkoff had directed the execution of Von Plehve and of the Grand Duke Sergius. They could not forget that with his own hand he had knotted the noose about the neck of the traitor Father Gapon and thrust the fatal knife into the bosom of the agent-provocateur Tatarov.

SMALL and unprepossessing, his dynamic energy, his ruthless directness, made Boris Savinkoff magnetic among the revolutionists of another day. He had an especial and peculiar fascination for the women intellectuals—for those hectic and adventurous feminine spirits who eternally seek excitement in plot and counterplot.

It may have been that in his lonely prison he could see them—the long roll of women each of whom had believed that she alone was all in all to Savinkoff. Happiest were those who had sacrificed their lives in that belief as they hurled a bomb. Others, who lived, had found themselves disowned when face to face with execution. They had been used as a soldier uses a rifle shell—to speed death's message and be thrown away.

With these women he had been as adventurous as a Don Juan and as remorseless as a Borgia. Nevertheless among them and among thousands of men he was never at a loss for one to undertake a mission whose outcome was certain death.

For a decade of years he was master mind of the Russian Terror.

IT MAY have been, as he sat in his cell, Savinkoff could see himself as he was in those generous youthful years; a bright, sunny, lovable boy for whom, when he graduated from the Warsaw gymnasium, neighbors predicted a splendid future. No wonder—his father was prominent in his own right; his mother had belonged to one of the great families of the Ukraine.

He had gone to Petrograd to study law and there his ardent spirit came into contact with anarchism. He preached its doctrine among the working folk and was arrested and shut up in Schlusselbourg prison. It was there his father, honoring the sturdiness of the youth's belief, urged him never to ask forgiveness.

Without trial he had been exiled to Vologda, a settlement at the extreme north of European Russia. There was no intellectual, no revolutionary excitement. To live he had to hire as laborer to brutal, ignorant, superstitious and spying peasants.

Came to Vologda Madame Catherine Breshkovsky—"Babushka"—little mother of the Revolution. With the eloquence of her sincerity she urged him to join the fighting circle, the Terrorist group. He refused his answer for a year. The delegation of that year convinced him. The chill of the Arctic had turned his heart to ice. He escaped by the Russian underground to Geneva and with Babushka's attestation was received into the inner councils of the Nihilists. Dispassionate, detached, shrewd, brilliant, intellectual and daring, he soon had won a post of leadership.

MINISTER VON PLEHVE, in 1904, was condemned by the Fighting Circle to die.

To Savinkoff was given the task of execution. Georges Sosonoff, a trusted boyhood friend, he chose to aid him.

Von Plehve had ruled Russia as Minister of the Interior with an iron hand. He had filled the jails with political prisoners. He had exiled thousands. He had spattered the land with blood. He had taxed the nation heavily to support his secret police. He had allowed, if he had not fostered, the massacre of the Jews at Kishineff. For these crimes he was condemned by the Terrorists.

"Death for death! Wounds for wounds! Dishonor for dishonor!" cried Georges Sosonoff when, at Savinkoff's signal, he hurled his bomb at the approaching carriage of Von Plehve. The Minister was killed. The coachman lost his life. The frightened horses dashed off madly, injuring others as they ran. Sosonoff, blinded in one eye by a splinter of the bomb, was caught at once. Police gathered. Crowds came rushing in. Someone covered the mangled body of the Minister with a soldier's overcoat.

In the confusion Savinkoff escaped, crossed the boundary and in Geneva was banqueted by his comrades.

SIX months later he was again in Russia—for "Bloody Sunday."

A hedge priest, Father Gapon, had suddenly become a leader of the Russian peasants who distrusted the "intellectuals."

SHORTLY after, the Fighting Circle secured evidence that Father Gapon was a spy.

The hedge priest, bewildered by public acclaim, seeing his portrait on picture postcards in the windows of revolutionary bookstores, reading stories of himself that were published in newspapers everywhere, had his head completely turned. Instead of a man with a mission he became, in his own eyes, a great, heroic, world figure. Funds had been intrusted to him by well-wishers of the revolution. He lost them, gambling for huge sums, at Monte Carlo and in other European casinos.

At his wit's end for money he was met by secret agents of the Czar, who convinced him that his influence with the Russian people was immeasurable and that by exerting it a peaceful revolution could be brought about. He was easily converted to the belief that terrorism but postponed the day when the entire peasantry would rally to his standard and seize the Government. He approached the revolutionist Rutenberg, who had rescued him from the crimson slush on "Bloody Sunday," and sought to arrange for him a meeting with the Director of the Secret Police, who was, Gapon said, a secret supporter of his plan.

Rutenberg exposed the priest to brother terrorists. From hiding places they heard Gapon convict himself from his own mouth. The hedge priest was condemned to die. Rutenberg met him in a deserted house at Ozerky, near Petrograd, where he was surrounded and the sentence carried out. Savinkoff knotted the rope about the hedge priest's neck. He was the first to give the rope a pull.

THE Terrorist Fighting Circle bowed to the will of Savinkoff as though he were its Czar. He had become is master—an international figure in political crime. More than ever the Fighting Circle depended upon the brain of Savinkoff.

Came the war. Then followed the Russian Revolution. He removed to Warsaw to aid the Poles in their high-hearted enterprise against the bolshevists.

He believed if Poland won he could seize all Russia. The Napoleonic delusion had grown stronger in his tortured brain. Failure followed his plots. The Polish advance collapsed. And bitterness and disappointment preyed upon him. He saw himself wronged by all the world. He conceived civilization to be in a plot to abase his merits. That way madness lies.

Meantime, from Russia, Poland, China, France, America and everywhere revolutionists were pledging loyalty and urging action. Savinkoff determined on the maddest action of his whole career. He entered Russian under the name of Stepanoff and had his own spies tell the bolshevists of his coming. He was arrested. Tried. And condemned to die.

He wrote from his prison a sensational recantation. His letter was explicit. He confessed his sins against the reds.

"And now," he continued, "I am convinced that I was wrong. Russia can be reformed only from within. The bolshevists are right. I hail them as fathers of the greatest movement ever made to free mankind."

His was a "literary letter"; for he wrote: "When I became convinced of this I thought two courses would be open—either I would be shot immediately or forgiven and allowed to engage in some work."

He had carefully planned his arrest and his recantation. It was a gesture to appeal to the dramatic taste of the soviets. And the appeal bore fruit. His sentence was commuted to 10 years in prison. That was a bitter mockery. Imprisonment was worse than death.

But there was an unbarred window in his cell.....

DAYS dragged to weeks and weeks to months, months to eternities of silent loneliness. Scorned by the reds, Boris Savinkoff was forced to people his narrow cell with his own fancies.

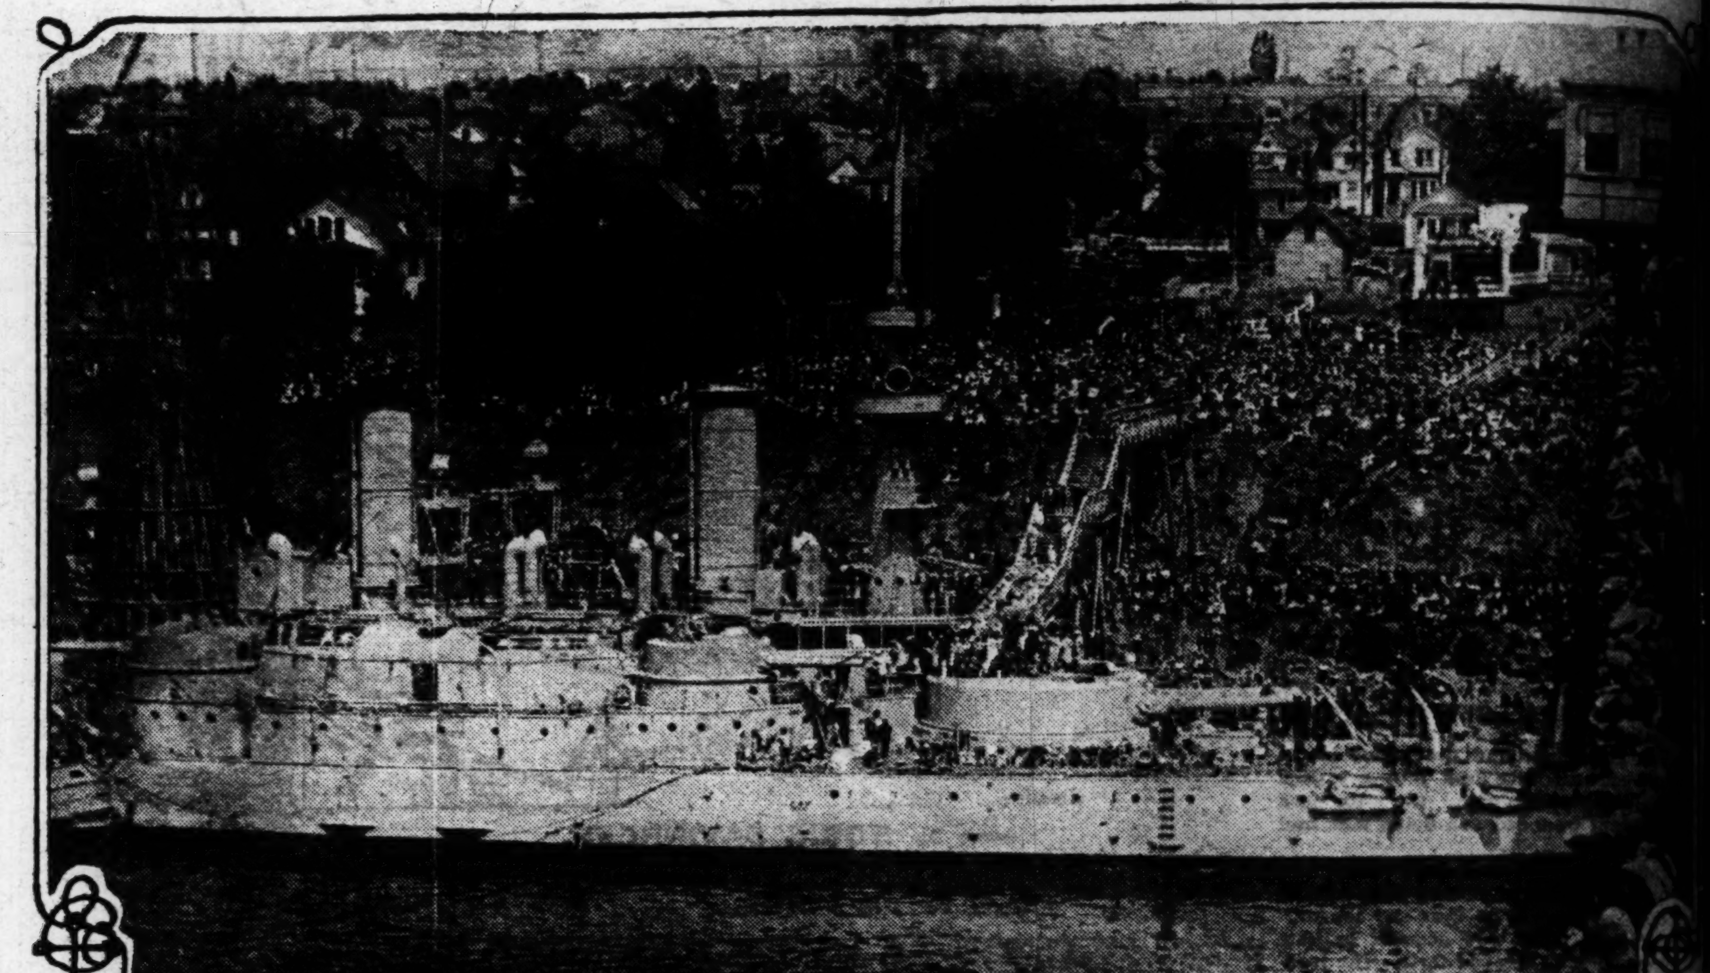
Napoleonic visions of empire, great courtly retinues filed through the room, with generations of peasants and workers proclaiming: "Savinkoff, our savior."

And there were other times when the women he had known filed past and looked at him with beseeching glances, and when the men whom he had betrayed looked upon him with poisoned hate in their glazed eyes. There were others—visions of mangled men, splintered and torn and in blood-stained uniforms. All were silent.

There were times when he cried out in horror to escape the wraiths he saw—and the open window, staring, beckoned him.

It was after a night of tortures such as these that there dawned the cold, gray May 15, 1925. The tramp of the sentry floated up from the granite courtyard. Boris Savinkoff crossed to the unbarred window and looked down into the molten sunlight. It seemed so quick, such a little distance. . . .

He accepted the window's invitation.



IN SNUG HARBOR—The Oregon at rest forever.

"Don't cheer, boys, the poor devils are dying."

THE BULLDOG OF THE NAVY
DROPS ANCHOR FOR THE LAST TIME

By V. W. BAILEY.

TO THE very hour it was 27 years since Commodore Schley signaled the "bulldog" of "the navy that was" "Good boy, Oregon."

Crowds, to be numbered by thousands, lined the banks of the Willamette River in Portland, Oregon, on the afternoon of July 3, and cheered mightily as, by two big tugs, the old pride of the navy—a battleship now no longer—was towed to her final moorage, in the Willamette River, to become a permanent naval museum, the property of the State; to preserve the high tradition of America's men o' war and man-o'-wars men.

Down from Bremerton, whence she had started on that great race against war and the Spanish fleet more than a quarter of a century ago, the Oregon had been towed, with more than 1000 people crowding her decks for that last journey.

Her guns that had once hurled half a ton of lead a distance of 13 miles were spiked. Their breeches had been melted together by oxy-acetelyn. In the heart of the ship—the engine room—20 feet below her waterline, great black holes were gaping in her nine cylinders. And the ship's spine—that stout foot-thick shaft which had sped her to seeming impossible victory in her race down the Pacific coast and up the Atlantic, leaving the world to gasp at her challenge to the proud armada of Spain—this was sheared through so that never again might the old war dog be commissioned.

Within the memory of a generation the Oregon had been the proudest battleship afloat. She had won in a race that experts said was impossible. She had challenged the whole of the Spanish fleet and then made good that daring gesture with her gunfire when Cervera's ships, like long, gray rats, stole out of the harbor of Santiago on July 3, 1898.

FOR 14,000 miles she sailed with a bone in her teeth, and the world looked on. Would the Oregon make it? Could the Oregon make it?

When the threat of war had come two continents divided her from her fellows of the "White Squadron," the Atlantic fleet. Far north, at Bremerton, on the Pacific coast, she was, and Admiral Sampson needed her in West Indian waters. She accepted—this great 11,000-ton battleship—a cruiser's task, driving through tropic seas and frigid, breasting storm and wave, with always the lurking threat of the Spanish torpedo boat Temerario, believed to be skulking somewhere in those southern waters, and the fear that Cervera's armada itself might intercept her.

Day after day America awaited eagerly for news of the pride of our navy. European experts declared she never could come through safely. She wasn't built, this huge dog of war, for such a cruise. Even in Washington there was fear. What would happen if the Oregon met Cervera?

South she had raced from San Francisco through the tropic seas to Callao. And as she sped, with the thermometer ranging from 95 to 150 degrees on board the ship, sea drills began, and morning, noon and night her men were at their batteries and their battle stations. Then south she fought through wintry head gales, her forward decks awash with green seas. There was daily target practice with small arms and sub-caliber guns. As they fought the seas the Oregon's crew prepared to [illegible] the Spaniard.

CHARLES BOYLAN, who tells of the Oregon's race from the Pacific to fight at Santiago.

Fog lifted for a minute on April 16 as [illegible] steamed boldly on toward Magellan Straits, [illegible] despite her doughty effort the Oregon could [illegible] make her anchorage [illegible] night, and so she ro[illegible] before the reefs [illegible] guard the inner anch[illegible] age, with engines [illegible] for instant use and [illegible] anchors out — rode through a wild and stormy night while [illegible] hurricane drove torrential rains upon her. "[illegible] was a night to try the souls of seafaring men," wrote Lieut. E. W. [illegible] le, her second in command, but she rode it out like the great, [illegible] hearted creature [illegible] she was, and the [illegible] day, with her lookouts stationed alow and aloft and her guns all manned and loaded, she drove through the narrow and tortuous channels of Magellan Straits.

There were sleepless nights as the stout [illegible] made her way up to Rio. There the Oregon [illegible] of Admiral Dewey's [illegible] tory at Manila, [illegible] there her men bought yards [illegible] yards of red ribbon which they [illegible] tered with "Remember the [illegible] and made into hatbands to be [illegible] until the Maine was avenged.

"GOOD-BY and good luck," [illegible] the signal as the big [illegible] steamed away from Rio. Next [illegible] summoning all hands on [illegible] Capt. Clark read them the [illegible] sage from Washington—that [illegible] whole Spanish fleet was believed [illegible] be in pursuit of the Oregon.

Five hundred men went [illegible] their cheers for the great battle[illegible] for her commander and for [illegible] hope of fighting. And then [illegible] buckled to her real task and [illegible] great white ship was painted [illegible] tle gray, all woodwork—even the [illegible] hogany of the Captain's cabin—[illegible] torn out lest it might be fired by [illegible] Spanish shell. Orders were given [illegible] throw overboard all boats if the [illegible]

Not a light was burning on the Oregon. There silence except for the throbbing of the engines below the waterline. And with "speed ahead" steamed through the midst of these vessels, but the blackness she could not have been seen—that y death shape—a hundred yards away.

Slowly the double line of lights sank into the ex- of sea at the horizon. The Oregon was safe. she missed battle by her bold action? It will ver be known what those strange lights were. For, cording to the log of the captured Colon at San- go, Cervera's fleet was not off Cape St. Roque on night of May 12.

THEN Barbados. The Oregon made harbor at Bridgetown and the negroes put out in their lit- boats to inspect the warship. "American bully s!" they called from their little craft. "You knock nyard in cocked hat. Then we give you good e."

It was cheering, but danger was not passed. The nish Consul cabled his Government of the Ore- presence. Rumor said the Spaniard was at rtinique, but 90 miles away. There were reports Spanish vessels seen all around within a day or . The Oregon coaled and suddenly cast off her s and steamed out with all lights burning at 9 ., setting a course for Key West. But she was cely out of the harbor before every light was ex- uished and she changed her course, sweeping nd the island to steal northward of the Bahamas come to anchor on May 24, at Jupiter Inlet, rida.

The Oregon was home. Her race of 14,000 miles won. Flaming headlines carried the great news the nation. America was wild with joy. At last Oregon, proudest ship of all her battle fleet, was after an agony of doubt that had lasted for 68 s.

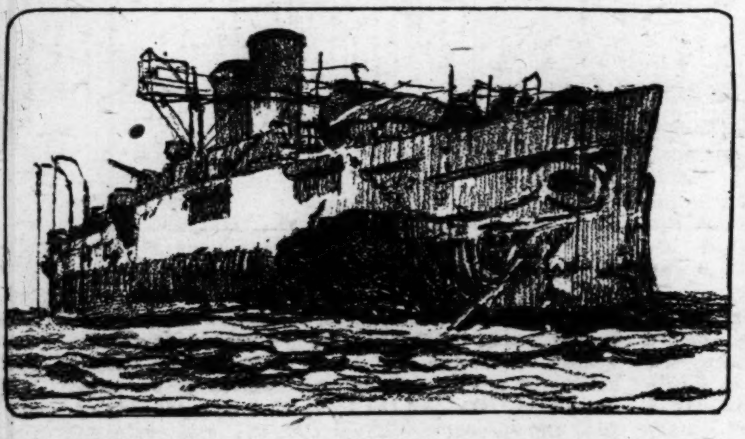
Less than six weeks later she was to swing into on, much such an action as she had invited sin- handed, when Admiral Cervera, after being bot- d up in Santiago Harbor, steamed out to sea with Atlantic fleet on July 3, 1898.

T Charles Boylan tell that story. Boylan is as- sistant superintendent of the old Oregon now that - a museum. But he knows every plate and rivet the old sea fighter. He made the race with her through Magellan Straits and up the coast of South America. He fought in her at Santiago.

"Capt. Clark," he says, "had given the order, when we received the news we were at war, that the Oregan's flag be nailed to the mast so tight that no Spanish shot would ever tear her loose.

"'We'll go to the bottom with every man,' our Captain told us, 'but we'll never submit to defeat.'

"There was excitement enough as we steamed along the coast of South America and into West Indian waters, expecting at any moment to meet the whole Spanish fleet. But there were long and dreary days of waiting until we finally came before Santiago, where Cervera was bottled up. There the American squadron lay, in a sort of half-moon, on the morning of Sunday, July 3.



THE VISCAYA—"You could drive a street car through that hole."

"I will never forget that Sunday. From dawn the hours dragged. There we were, under steam, alert, as we had been for more than a month, the waves dancing under the sun. We had turned out, all dressed in white, for church.

"Admiral Samson in the flagship New York had sailed off to confer with Gen. Shafter, who had command of the land forces beleaguering the town of Santiago There were we, the Gloucester, a converted yacht, at one end of the eight-mile semi-circle, next the battleship Indiana, then the Oregon, then the Iowa and the Texas. Came next the armored cruiser Brooklyn, the flagship of Commodore Schley, who was ranking officer and in command.

"Suddenly, over the tops of a low range of hills the men aloft could see the fighting tops of the Spanish flagship Maria Teresa as she moved forward and started for the open sea.

"Our orders were to the point. 'Fire on the Spanish ships as they pass, but do not pursue them until after their torpedo boats have passed out of the harbor.'

THE SEVERED SHAFT—The Oregon can race no more.

"EVERY man on the Oregon suddenly felt himself wiser than Commodore Schley. How we cursed when the word went round. We could read her signals as the Brooklyn lay there. We damned the commander roundly. We wanted action. It never occurred to us that if we had started chasing the Spaniards with armed cruisers in front of us and the 'torps' behind we would have been between two fires.

"We had orders to fire at once. We did. And those torpedo boats went straight up into the air—as high, and in as many pieces, as if someone had planted a ton of dynamite beneath them. I'll never forget . . . it was a Spanish boy, a runaway to America, who fired the first shot from the Oregon's deck. And all the while he was swearing a blue streak at the enemy in their own tongue. As fast as we could work the shots poured in constant stream from our smaller guns. The 'torps' were settled for.

"Then we began pursuit. Our job was one by one to overtake and give battle. We had a rating of 15 knots. Now we were showing what we were made of, regardless of the figures.

"Down below the water line men stripped to the waist and, black with the grime of coal, were stoking in 15-minute watches, as though their lives depended on it—as they did. They stoked until they dropped exhausted. And others took their places. At the guns we sweated and strained, as they sweated and strained below. I remember seeing the hatband of a mate whose hat had been cast aside. 'Remember the Maine,' it said. I had forgotten all about the Maine until then.

"Our wait for the torpedo boats had given the fleet ships of the Spanish Navy their start. We had to fight yard by yard for our gain on them after we were free at last to give pursuit. We opened in pursuit at 13 miles and our big guns fell short with their 13-inch shells. But we kept gaining. At eight miles we gave the Viscaya the fourth shot the Oregon had fired since the beginning of the chase. 'A hit.' You could have put a street car through the hole we made. Aboard the Viscaya you could see with a glass the Spaniards jumping for water. She was through and they were through with her. We sent her, completely disabled, to the beach to keep from sinking.

"I can smell yet the acrid smoke of powder. I can hear the big guns roar. I have a picture of confused action and excitement. I knew we were getting them. Funny, ain't it? It never occurred to me they could get us or that we were in danger. That is what Capt. Clark's spirit had done to us men.

"The Viscaya helpless and on her way to the beach, we continued after the Colon. The big guns boomed when she got within reach and there, in her heart, was a hole as big as our guns had bored through the Viscaya. The pride of the Spanish Navy was gone. The Colon was sinking. Up went her bow, and with a swirl of waters she settled. Meanwhile our other ships had taken care of the Maria Teresa and the Oquendo.

"'She seems to have been built in Italy,' signaled the Brooklyn, meaning the Colon. 'She may have been built in Italy, but she will end on the coast of Cuba,' Capt. Clark answered.

"'I say,' called an old boatswain's mate in the excitement, 'Captain, give her a 13-inch shell, for God's sake.'

"The Brooklyn's eight-inch shells were falling short. So were the shells of the Colon. Then we landed with a 13-inch projectile under her stern. Her colors dropped at the foot of her flagstaff. Our bugles sounded a 'Cease firing.' The last shot in the battle of Santiago had been fired.

"And Commodore Schley was signaling 'Good boy, Oregon.'

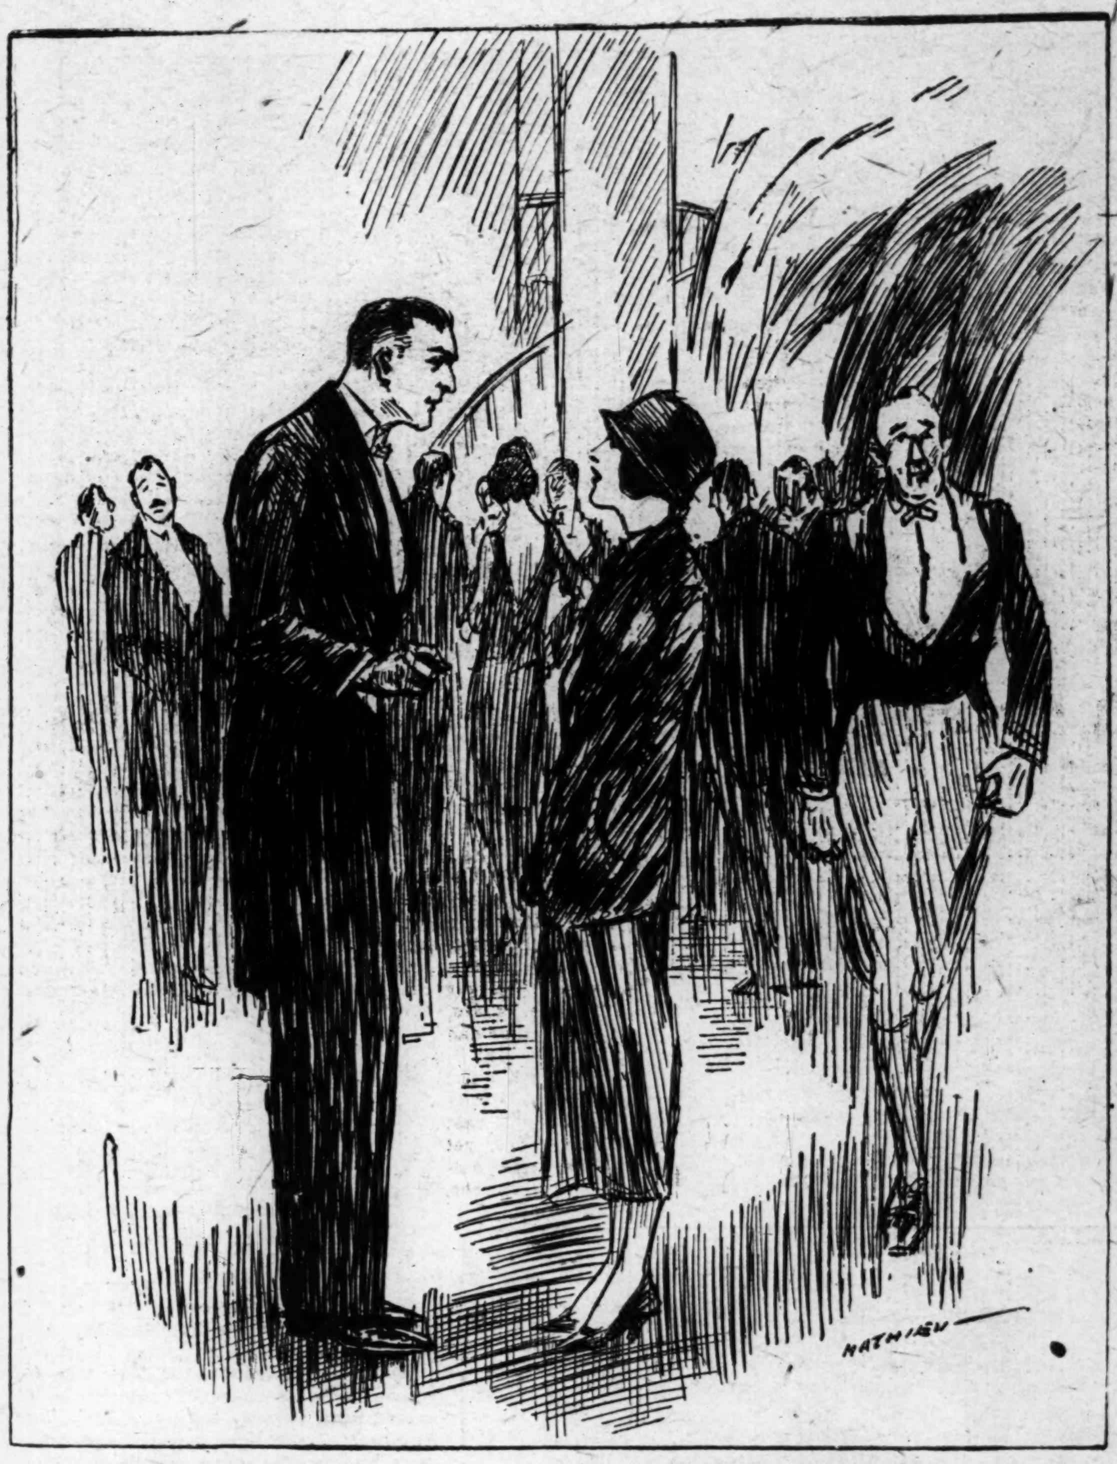
"Capt. Clark was in the group when Admiral Cervera formally surrendered. Cervera slapped Capt. Clark on the shoulder. 'If it hadn't been for him and his old sea-going bulldog, Oregon,' the Spanish Admiral said, 'we never would have been beaten.'

"And," concluded Boylan, "that is why the Oregon was called the 'bulldog' of the old navy."

The Limits of Dominion

By

Arnold Bennett



"But I thought you were ill! . . I couldn't think why else ye should send for me."

BEFORE the war, before the aerial mails, before Emperors had been cast from their thrones, before gold had been superseded by paper, before empty dwelling houses had come to be as rare and precious as pearls, there was a row of 61 new small reddish houses on the east side of the municipal park of Bursley, in the Five Towns. Exteriorly they were all alike, except that 30 of them had the bay window to the left of the front door, while 31 had the bay window to the right of the front door. The street was not grand enough to look directly on the park, but the houses had long if narrow gardens at the back, with a fair open prospect of the colliery-strewn moors which inclose the Five Towns. Interiorly many of the houses were alike, especially in temperament, but some were different; and the most different of all and the most individual, the most independent, the most efficient, the most successful, was No. 41, inhabited by the Furber family.

Dinah, the elder daughter, aged 28, fair, buxom, placid, plain, was the housekeeper. She got up first, went to bed last and received no salary; when she wanted a little money for clothes—she seldom wanted money for anything else—she had to ask for it, as for a favor. Mary, the younger daughter, aged 25, fair, golden, slim, pretty, nervous, critical, too much aware of the frailties of human nature and the risks of being alive, was a dressmaker's assistant, and earned twice what she spent. Maidie, the cousin (really a second cousin), aged 22, red-haired, freckled, fiery, pugnacious, snub-nosed, was a mistress in the Board School at Moorthorne; she earned more than Mary and saved less; still, she saved.

LAST of the young generation came Ralph, 24, of medium height, stocky in figure, with brown hair and a stiff brown mustache. He was extremely uncouth, rather nervous, very untidy, and amazingly rude. He lived in the house like a wild animal, quarreled fiercely with Cousin Maidie and quarreled even with Dinah, who nevertheless was of a notably pacific disposition; also he had dark suppressed feuds with his father; but he never quarreled with querulous Mary, though she made [illegible] attempt at all to placate him. Ralph was employed by the Five Towns Engineering Co., Limited, which manufactured machinery for the earthenware works of nearly the whole world, and for many collieries. It was known and admitted that he was marvelous at machinery, and people said that he was, further, a considerable organizer and that already he had performed various beneficial wonders for the F. T. E. C. He existed solely for machinery and was entitled to be called quite mad. He used the front room as a drawing office, and in such a manner that the girls could not use it as a parlor without much preliminary straightening up and grave family complications.

And he had bought a small, decayed steam engine and renewed its youth and erected it in a shanty indescribably constructed of odds and ends of wood, zinc and iron in the garden. This engine actuated a lathe and other contrivances. When steaming it coughed—a sort of hacking cough. The neighbors complained of it and even invoked the power of the Borough Surveyor against it. Then you should have seen how a family apparently disunited can be united, welded and riveted together! The family defended Ralph's steam engine, which in private the girls detested, with ruthless ferocity. Neighbors for 40 yards on either side were alienated magnificently forever. The appeal to the Borough Surveyor failed. The family spat out triumph on the resentful defeated. The victorious engine continued to cough.

OVER all the young generation stood the widowed Mr. Furber; a workman of the old Five Towns school, with a short iron-filings beard and no mustache; a trade unionist but a conservative, despising all nonsense about democracy. He was senior warehouseman in an earthenware manufactory at Handbridge, whither he went every morning by workmen's train from the station by the park. His uniform at work was shirtsleeves and a flowing white apron, and from an artisan's scorn of the "jacket" (apparel of clerks and other futile persons) he preferred to be in shirtsleeves even at home. Mr. Furber was a broad-minded man. He visited church and chapel impartially, studying the variations of religious doctrine with a detached mind. He kept a first-rate whippet and sometimes did a bit of coursing. But his chief delight was football, on which subject he was omniscient.

Father and son slept in the front bedroom. Dinah and Mary slept in the back bedroom. Maidie slept in the cellule (styled bedroom) over the scullery.

NOW, on a hot summer Saturday afternoon there was an astonishing knock at the front door of No. 41. Mr. Furber, for whom summer meant boredom through the absence of football, was reclining on his bed in meditation. Dinah was cleaning the kitchen. Maidie was in her room mending a glove. Mary was afield with a young man for despite her hypercritical attitude towards life she had admirers to choose from—and she chose. Dinah opened the door, and when she opened it she blushed because the male visitor was obviously a swell and because her hair was in irons.

"Good afternoon," said the visitor. "Can I see Mr. Ralph Furber?" He had a London accent, which real Five Towners regard as affected and absurd, but which intimidates them. He did not say "Rafe," he said "Ralf."

"I think he's in the engine shed," said Dinah, all of a flutter, wondering: "What's afoot with our Rafe?" She added: "If you'll step through."

The visitor stepped through. The whippet in his kennel growled.

"Ralph, you're wanted," cried Dinah, and left the visitor alone to face Ralph and the whippet.

The impressive visitor stayed nearly an hour, and then stepped through again, back to the front door, under Ralph's own guidance; whereupon Ralph had returned to the engine shed and been no more seen.

SUPPER took place in the clean and tidy kitchen, at the bare white deal table, under a gas jet. It began punctually because both Ralph and his father were punctual persons with imperious appetites. They ate cold sausage and cheese and much bread, and drank a glass of beer apiece. The girls were content with nibbles of cheese and bread, and drank water, or milk, or milk-and-water. Mr. Furber and Ralph were in shirtsleeves, Dinah wore her housewife's apron, Maidie, as became a school mistress, had no apron. Mary, freshly arrived from the transaction abroad of affairs of the heart, alone was dressed up. Ordinarily, Mary would have been in a brooding, withdrawn state of mind; but she was by far the most inquisitive member of the family, and her curiosity had now been stimulated almost to exasperation by the murmured news of Ralph's visitor.

However, she did not speak. Nobody spoke. It was not the Furber habit to converse at meals. Meals were for eating, not chatter. Unlike overcivilised and decadent people, the Furber family felt no awkwardness in silence at table; indeed, it scorned mere small talk as being insincere and affected politeness. Dinah, though she would gabble nineteen to the dozen in private with the other girls, rarely said a word at meals. Mr. Furber was uniformly taciturn. And the most taciturn of all was Ralph, whom nothing but the need of something he could not get himself or the desire to carry on an altercation, could rouse into speech. None, not even Mary, dared cross-examine Ralph; being made of dynamite, he might have exploded and blown the entire house to bits.

But something was bound to happen that evening. It happened. Maidie, the red-haired, failed first in self-control.

THE STO

"Of course, we must be thankful if he leaves us even a crust now—with his grand friends and all," she snorted, flushing and lifting her snub nose, as Ralph helped himself to two lumps of cheese, when there were only two lumps on the dish.

It was as if she had put a match to a time fuse; all waited for the bang. Nothing followed. Ralph—sleeves rolled up, hastily washed face, black fingernails, rough hair—Ralph started and glowered, then checked himself. For once in his life he was genuinely anxious to communicate facts to his fellow creatures, and the opportunity had arrived.

"I never saw th' fellow before," he said, with pride. "But his scheme is to set me up in business. There's a works for sale at Longshaw. He's ready to buy it if I'll take it on, and he'll find twenty thousand capital besides. And now ye know." He was careful not to look at his father "And what did ye say?" Maidie asked challengingly, dangerously.

"I said: 'Who are ye codding of, mister?' That's what I said. But he wasn't codding. He's going back to London tonight, and he'll come against next Saturday for my answer."

"And should you be the boss of a great big works?" Maidie demanded, with calculated incredulity.

"Yes, Miss, I should be the boss."

With that Ralph suddenly rose, pushing his Windsor chair gratingly across the tiled floor, and passed into the front room. He was too excited and triumphant to remain another moment with the family. He could not bear the emotional tension of his triumph. The kitchen was scared by the unbelievable magnitude of the event. The meal abruptly ended. No one could eat any more.

Mr. Furber finished his beer, got up, and went to bed, formidably mute.

The girls retired into the scullery, out of earshot of Ralph, and chattered in whispers. They knew naught except what Ralph had told them, and yet they managed quite easily to find subject matter for more than an hour's glib, swift, dramatic discussion of the terrific situation.

WHEN Ralph, last of all, went to bed, leaving the ground floor to dark night and the whippet (who slept in the scullery unless under correction for sins) he found that his father had not put the candle out. The ageing man, with heavy lower lip protruding, lay in wait for the son. He brushed his beard upwards into the air and said:

THE STORY OF A REAL SUCCESS

"Of course, we must be thankful if he leaves us even a crust now—with his grand friends and all," she snorted, flushing and lifting her snub nose, as Ralph helped himself to two lumps of cheese, when there were only two lumps on the dish.

It was as if she had put a match to a time fuse; all waited for the bang. Nothing followed. I wonder who's been stuffing him up with a tale about you, my lad."

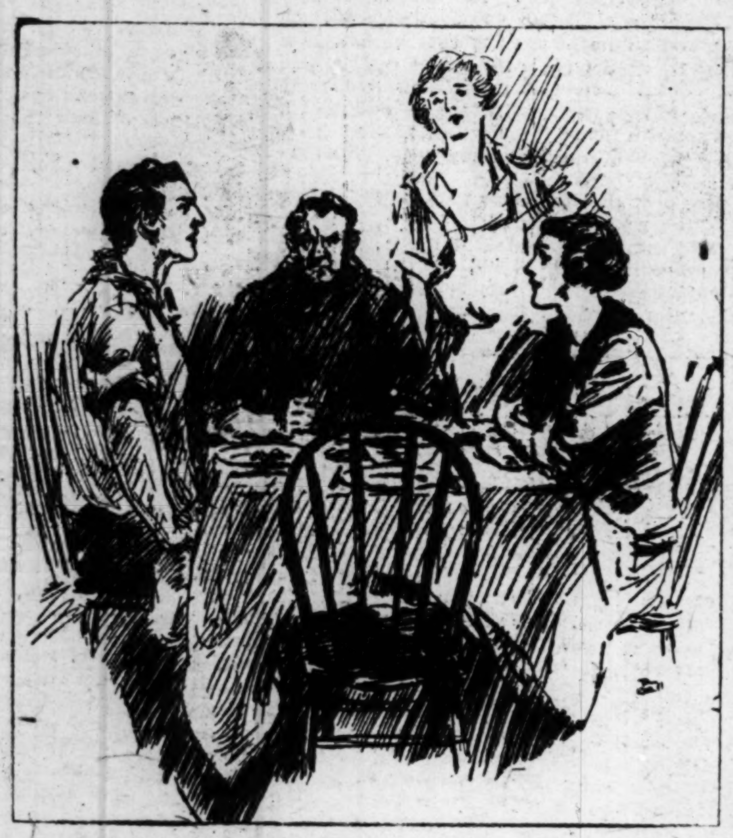
Ralph's suddenly swollen pride was pricked. He saw that he was nobody after all—or almost nobody. The great offer of the afternoon might be marvelous, but it was silly—it was a flighty offer of a flibbergibbet in fine clothes. And also Ralph was secretly afraid of the fearful responsibilities which would attend on acceptance of the offer. And the habit of obedience to the respectable tyrant of the home was very strong in him. Lastly, he began to feel extremely young and diffident.

"Well," he said at length, sharply, to his father, his nose in the pillow, "I don't know what ye're making all this to-do about. I'm not for taking it on, and I never was for taking it on. But I suppose I can mention it without having me head snapped off!"



"'I never saw th' fellow before,' he said, with pride."

A daring speech! (Also a lie! For he had certainly intended to accept the offer.) He had had his head snapped off for less in the past. But even Mr. Furber would think twice before attempting to snap off the head of a personage important enough to scorn such a dazzling offer as Ralph was about to scorn.

THE next Saturday afternoon everything was the same as on the first Saturday. Ralph was working in his garden "shop." Dinah was in her kitchen, but this time her hair was not in irons. Mary was afield in the land of tender sentiment. Maidie was in her bedroom mending not gloves but stockings. Mr. Furber was lying on his bed; he had come home an hour later than usual and had eaten no dinner.

The moment approached for the arrival of the swell. Dinah, to pass the time, had left her kitchen to see whether Mr. Furber was all right. It was as though the house itself awaited a crisis.

During the week not one word had been said by Ralph or Mr. Furber to any of the girls about the mighty £20,000 offer. Nevertheless, the girls knew that Mr. Furber had ordained its refusal and that Ralph would obey, and that nothing could possibly change his resolution, and that still he hated to give a refusal and despised himself. The girls were profoundly disappointed. Maidie and Ralph had had a frightful quarrel because in quite another matter she had accused him of being a miserable coward—and he well knew to what she in her merciless feminine subtlety was referring. Those two had not spoken to each other for three days.

Ralph was all the more annoyed, therefore, when from his vibrating retreat in the garden he saw that Maidie and not Dinah was showing the swell through the back door; the girl must have taken Dinah's place simply from a mischievous desire to quiz the swell. A few seconds later—and before the stranger had reached the engine shed—Ralph saw the back door open again and Maidie reappear.

"Rafe!"

"What is it?"

"I want you!" cried Maidie in an imperious tone.

He strode up the long garden, nodding brusquely to the astonished visitor and passing him without a word.

"What is it, you vixen?"

"Your father's just died in his sleep."

"Wait a minute," said Ralph, and, turning, shouted to the swell:

"Hi!"

And then in a lower tone as they met:

"Summat's happened in th' house. I cain't stop to talk to ye now. But I'll take your offer. I'm ready to take it on—that is if we can come to a proper arrangement."

Dinah and Maidie and Ralph stood in the bedroom together. Maidie was about to run for a useless doctor.

They were all deeply shaken with emotion, and Ralph not the least.

But in his agitated heart Ralph could distinctly hear himself muttering to himself:

"A near thing, that! A near thing, that! A very near thing!"

MR. RALPH FURBER sat in his study on a Saturday afternoon reading a very short letter. The study was a vast apartment, larger than the whole of No. 41, where his father had died, and it was furnished in mahogany and gilt and damask. Emperors had been cast from their thrones, yet Ralph looked little older. He looked fiercer, and jollier.

The letter ran:

"Dear Ralph: We were all extremely disappointed that you did not come down for Mary's wedding after all, and I think you ought to be downright ashamed of yourself. Yours, Maidie."

Mr. Furber frowned and glanced out at the garden which surrounded his mansion and the park which surrounded the gardens. She had a nerve, that young woman had! He was not accustomed to being written to in such a manner. He was accustomed to flattery and to his own way. He was an exceedingly wealthy person. He had made himself rich and he had made others rich, too. He had not fought in the war because the War Cabinet would not let him fight; the War Cabinet had other work for him to do, and the work was of such a nature that he could not help making money out of it, and a lot of money. As an inventor and as an organizer he had had no superiors, and he had developed a talent for most profitably investing the money which the Government compelled him to acquire. He was popularly classed as a "profiteer," but he laughed at the epithet, knowing it to be unjust. Moreover, so far as he was concerned, people might call him what they liked—he did not care. He knew the reality of power and the value of his brain. He cared for nobody and for nothing—except dominion and the wonders of his brain.

Not quite true. He cared for the letter; the letter had pierced him like a dagger between two ribs. He ripped the letter to pieces.

A girl was standing near him with a notebook in her hand—one of his secretaries—but he behaved as though she did not exist.

"Anybody come yet?"

"Lady Eleanor Raysee and Sir Thomas Wrighton, sir."

These were the advance guard of his week-end party; he had parties every week-end. His invitations were seldom refused; and his curious deportment was cheerfully accepted because he was he.

"Tell Chepter he's to take the Packard and start off for the Five Towns at once. It's 170 miles. He's to be at Miss Maidie Furber's, 13 Clayton street, Hillport, Knype, at 10 sharp tomorrow morning to bring Miss Furber here, and tell him he's to get back here with her before tea time. Telephone a message to Miss Furber to say the car will be there for her, and she'll oblige me very much by coming. I want to see her on urgent family business."

"Yes, sir."

LADY ELEANOR wandered into the room, although the room was his den. Mr. Furber permitted, even encouraged, his week-end guests thus freely to wander about, on the understanding that they did not expect sustained attention until dinner. He had no objection to some of them listening—or pretending not to listen—while he transacted business.

Lady Eleanor was young, beautiful and beautifully dressed. She indeed had style, pedigree. She was the daughter of an Earl and she had married the brother of a Baron. It was impossible that any woman should be as innocent as Lady Eleanor looked, and Lady Eleanor was not. She had seen life. She had in fact had to get rid of the Baron's brother. She was now free again. Ralph, with his insight into human nature—of which he was secretly very proud—knew that she would not be free for long. He admired her. She was so slim, so lithe, so elegant, so expensive. She had such a quiet, tranquilizing voice, and such a way of looking a man—trustful, reassuring, appreciative to Ralph that such a jewel of a girl, who knew familiarly the whole of the great world, should be on familiar terms with him. Ralph, the brother of Dinah, who had married a jobbing builder, and of Mary, who had married a Prudential insurance agent, and whose father used to eat in his shirtsleeves in a house of which the rent was 8 shillings a week! He took her soft hand somewhat violently and she yielded it touchingly to his violence.

"So that affair's all over and settled now?" he began, referring to the late proceedings against the Baron's brother.

She nodded.

"Shall ye get yer costs out of him?"

"Heaven knows!" she exclaimed, with a sign and a smile. "I hear he's off to Central Africa."

They sat down side by side on the blue sofa in the immense bow window.

THE secretary soon afterwards returned into the room. Mr. Ralph Furber did not move from the sofa. He continued to talk in a playful, rough tone to Lady Eleanor, and then suddenly he faced the secretary and began curtly and rapidly to give her a long series of varied instructions, which she scribbled down, about the electric light installation, the purchase of Treasury Bills, his new suits, a hammock, champagne, a works dispute at Newcastle, etc., etc.

"And tell St. John," he finished—St. John was his principal secretary—"tell Mr. St. John to draft that letter about the Charing Cross Echo. Tell him the figure's twenty-one thousand. Tell him to make it final, and I'll give 'em until Tuesday to decide."

The secretary departed once more, fully laden.

Lady Eleanor said:

"You know you'll never buy the Echo for twenty-one thousand. It's the oldest-established evening paper in London, and Steinhell won't take less than twenty-six thousand. He might take twenty-five, but I don't think so. It's cheap at twenty-six."

"Cheap, is it? I know it's losing close on thirty thousand a year. And I'm to pay twenty-five thousand for the privilege of losing four hundred a week!"

"But you'd soon turn it into a paying concern. Besides, you want a daily! Owning a paper would round you off. I quite see that. You wouldn't get one that was paying its way for a quarter of a million. Everybody says it's dirt cheap."

Ralph seized Lady Eleanor's hand and looked her in the face loweringly.

"Listen to me, Lady Eleanor," he said, with a mixture of grimness, cynicism and benevolence. "You're going to get a commission out of Steinheil if that paper is sold to me for more than twenty-one thousand."

"Why do you say such a thing?"

"Because it just came into my head, that's all. I shouldn't be surprised if he's offered you half of everything over twenty-one thousand. It's quite all

Ring Lardner's Letter to the Editor

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE other night a few of us was disgusting the evolution case down in sunny Tennessee and some of us was on Darwin's side and others on Bryan's side and the affair had all but reached a deadlock when Dr. Harry Wallem who nobody had noticed was in the party up to that time but who nevertheless is a noted scientist spoke up and advanced a new theory. I cannot remember his words verbatim, but will try and report the conversation as near as possible on acct. of it being so interesting that before we was half through the majority of the party had went home to bed.

"We are not all descended from monkeys," said Dr. Wallem in so many words, "because it is apparent that a great many of us is descended from other animals."

He pointed straight at me irregardless of manners.

"I am confident," he said, "that you are descended from a leopard because you have got so many spots on your suit."

At this point the laughter was general.

The Dr. went on to say that he thought Mr. O. O. McIntyre, who is one of the swellest dressers in N. Y. was descended from a elephant. Knowing Mr. McIntyre as I do I could not refrain from coming to his defense and asking Wallem why he made such a remark. He replied that his thesis was based on the fact that Mr. McIntyre cannot even move across the street without a trunk. At this point the laughter was not quite so general.

Dr. Wallem then made the remark that he was absolutely confident that Gerald Chapman's ancestors was zebras.

"How do you reach that conclusion?" I asked the doc.

"Well," he said, "he only seems to be at home wearing stripes."

For a few moments they was a complete quietus in what I lovingly refer to as our house. At this time two or three of the guests was well on their way to slumber land. They all looked like they had not got their alloted eight hours for several years. Dr. Wallem himself seemed as if he was in another world. But we was all disappointed, for pretty soon he woke up and made the remark that he had been over in France, or the other side as I call it, and seen hundreds of men that was descended from frogs. Most of them was amphibious he said, which means that you can throw right or left handed.

"Now let me continue uninterrupted," said the doctor.

"I will pass over that remark," I said, "if you will tell us anything worth hearing.

"Now," said the doctor, "let us get right down to cases. To prove my point, I will tell you a whole lot of individual cases. For inst. they's the case of Borden who must of been descended from a cow, because while a cow gives milk, this man has [illegible] up so far that he sells it."

"Go on," said the only remaining person [illegible] party, who by this time was very sleepy himself.

"Well," said Dr. Wallem, "I don't want [illegible] you long or keep you long, but here is my theory about certain other people who may be more or less famous. We will take for example Mr. Ed Wynn who is always laughing, and it is my contention that he is descended from a hyena. Or we will take [illegible] Gene Buck, who has always been a lamb. And [illegible] know lots of people who are elks, eagles, owls, [illegible] and etc., and always look like them."

At this point there were quiet laughter on the [illegible] of the host and nobody else was left in what I lovingly refer to as the shack so I got up and [illegible] Dr. Wallem, "Would you mind spending the rest of the night in your own new domicile?"

He turned around to me and said in a quiet [illegible] as he was passing out.

"You also know that they's a lot of gals who are perfect deers."

I asked him who, but by this time the bird had flown.

Next week I will give you a exhibition of a [illegible] not quite as tedious as Dr. Wallem.

The Limits of Dominion

right. Business is business." He laughed indulgently, as at a rather mediocre joke.

A deep blush spread over Lady Eleanor's cheeks and down to her neck and throat.

"Then I guessed right," he exclaimed, savagely, and then burst into a roar of laughter.

"Listen here. I won't give Steinheil more than twenty-one. But I'll make you a present of two and a half thousand—for your trouble."

Lady Eleanor wept.

There was an irruption of guests into the room, headed by Sir Thomas. Lady Eleanor rushed pell mell through the open French window into the garden. She was holding her hands to her face, and between her hands cataracts of laughter seemed to escape. But only Ralph knew that it was hysterical laughter.

"BUT I thought you were ill!"

This exclamation came from Maidie as she stepped out of the Packard on the following Sunday. The whole of the week-end party was trailing into the house after various games and distractions. And the week-end party seemed to Maidie to be alarmingly distinguished, smart, fashionable, Londony, and sure of itself. The women therefore intimidated her. The week-end party thought that Maidie must be some secretarial messenger arriving with important news bearing on the host's private affairs.

"Why did ye think I was ill?" asked Ralph, ignoring completely all his other guests.

"Well, I couldn't think why else ye should send for me. I asked the chauffeur, but he didn't seem to know much about you. I certainly shouldn't have come if I hadn't thought you were ill."

"I wanted to see ye."

"Oh, my!" she murmured involuntarily, gazing at the formidable double staircase which rose grandly, bifurcating out of the main hall. She was outfaced by the splendor, and the result of her fright was that she became brusque, hostile and hedgehog-like. Ralph Furber reflected quickly.

"Which room is Miss Furber in?" he questioned the attendant butler.

"The Regency room, sir."

"Find Miss Hummel and ask her to go up there at once."

"Very good, sir."

Miss Hummel was the factotum secretary who took notes and whose entire existence was devoted to the great autocrat. He had decided that Miss Hummel and Maidie stood a chance of "getting on" together.

"Am I supposed to sleep here?" asked Maidie, in the glittering Regency bedroom to which Ralph had personally conducted her. She had never before had the opportunity of witnessing Ralph's way of life. She knew he was a millionaire, but she had not imagined the state of being a millionaire. She had the sensation of having stepped somehow into the unreal pages of a novel.

"But who are all those people downstairs?"

"Oh, just a job lot here for the week-end."

"But who?"

He mentioned some names.

"Well, I'm not going down to have my tea with them folk and so you needn't think it, Ralph Furber!"

"All right, silly! All right!" he agreed, testily.

IN SPITE of his unique and disconcerting manners to friends, Ralph thought he had cast off most of his old Five Towns peculiarities. Perhaps he had. But in the presence of Maidie they all seemed to come back again. There she sat, the very symbol of Five Towns, with her red hair, her freckled face, her snub nose and her non-nonsense attitude. Dowdy, constrained, nervous, utterly provincial, she was yet sturdy enough in her mind to repudiate all "them folk" downstairs. So much so that Ralph actually felt somewhat ashamed of knowing them and having them in his house. He felt apologetic even for the house itself. He felt that in putting on grandeur he had somehow betrayed the rugged ideals of the Five Towns.

And she had only come because she had thought he was ill! . . . The goods! The stuff! That was what she was, the vixen! Being a realist, he admitted to himself that if he persuaded her to go to the drawing room and be introduced to his job lot, he should be ashamed of her—do what he would. And yet he admired the girl, confound her! Miss Hummel appeared, and, worried, he left the two young women to make acquaintance.

"Mr. Furber's compliments, and he hopes you'll begin dinner without him, as he has just had a very urgent message from town which must be attended to immediately." Thus the butler to the assembled drawing room when the dinner gong had sounded.

And upstairs, in a litte sitting room which had somehow got mislaid among the bedrooms, Maidie and Miss Hummel were hovering expectantly round a table laid for two when Ralph, whom they were certainly not expecting, seemed to pounce tigerishly upon them, and at a hardly perceptible sign from him Miss Hummel departed, in search of another dinner elsewhere in the house.

"BUT what about the people downstairs?"

"Hang 'em! I've got to talk to you," said Ralph.

"D'ye always have dinner at this time?"

"Yes. Usual time."

"Ye know very well it isn't. And do ye always put on evening dress?"

"Well, it's evening, isn't it?"

He winked as he examined her anew. It seemed to him that she positively had not changed. The same slimness, the same fresh if freckled complexion, the same bright, girlish, bold, fighting and yet innocent glance. Difficult to believe that she was past 30. How different she was from the women downstairs! He thought, in his instinctive partiality for the place of his origin:

"There's something in her that the others haven't got."

Before the parlor maid who served them could bring the fingerbowls he abruptly told her to go—partly because he feared that Maidie might silently and witheringly sneer at the notion of him, Ralph Furber, employing fingerbowls. He thought of the old suppers in the parlor of the cottage by the municipal park.

"So ye think I ought to be 'downright ashamed' o' myself," said Ralph, quoting suddenly from her letter to him.

"Mary was most frightfully hurt, and ashamed, too. . . . As if you despised her. . . . Too grand, now to come to your own sister's wedding! . . . And crying off at the last moment, too!" Maidie's voice was hard, and the light of her eyes was hard. None of the ladies dowstairs would have dared to stand up to him as Maidie was doing. Not one! They all, whatever their lineage, kow-towed to him when it came to the point. He saw that Maidie would need handling.

"Listen here," he said, subduing his natural harshness of tone. "I sent for ye because I was very anxious for ye not to think wrong about me. I"——

"Yes," she interrupted him, in quite her old manner, "that's just like ye, that is. You think that everyone's at your beck and call, you do. You always did. And I'm brought all the way down here to be put in my place and made to feel small. You're a snob, and you know it, but you want to make us believe you aren't. Well, you can't do it."

Mr. Furber achieved marvels of self-control.

"Listen here"—his voice sank nearly to a murmur—"I'm telling ye I really couldn't come. I've got very important interests. Very important. I sh'd doubt if you realize how important"——

"I don't care what your interests are. You haven't got any interests as important as Mary's wedding was to Mary. She expected to be married 10 years ago and she ought to have been. Run after she was! And at last it comes off, and you were to give her away and all. And you throw her over and she has to be given away by that stupid old Ezra." (Ezra was Dinah's husband.) "And it was a scandalous shame. You're the head of the family still, even if you do have lords and ladies and things at your precious week-end parties. I suppose you'll say you gave Mary a thousand pounds for a wedding present. If I'd been her I'd have ripped the check in half and sent it back to you in an unstamped envelope. That I would! You're a disgusting snob. And you think everybody's afraid of you and you can do what you like and we shall lick your boots. Not a bit of it, my lad! And I'll thank you to send me to the station early tomorrow as I'm going back by train, if you please. You aren't the only independent person in the world."

AT THIS point Mr. Furber picked [illegible] his fingerbowl and dashed it on the carpet, water and all. He let himself go. Hammer and tongs were personified with astounding vigor in the little sitting room. A report of the dialogue between the hammer and the tongs would not be edifying, but it constituted a great scene in the finest tradition of the Five Towns. It was interfered with by the sound of the gramophone from the hall. A foxtrot. The week-end party was solacing itself for the absence of the host in a dance. Silence fell between the second cousins. Then Mr. Furber left the room. Leaning over the rail of the corridor he saw the heads of the dancers below. Lady Eleanor ran up to him and leaned over by his side.

"I know you hate me," she said, in a low, poignant tone, while maintaining a vapid smile for the benefit of the upward public gaze. "I know you've done with me. But if you only knew how I"——

"I don't hate yer," he answered. "I admire you for that commission [illegible]. Business is business. Don't forget, I'm a business man myself. Why shouldn't you have made a bit out of the sale of this paper? You shall. Go down again now."

"But I must talk to you tonight. I must explain myself. You must let me defend myself. Meet me in the kiosk at 11. I'll slip out. I shall expect you."

She glided down the stairs. He watched her. She was indeed highly ornamental. What an ornament for a rich man's home! How intensely feminine.

"She's got me," he reflected. "She was going to make a commission out of me. And I've forgiven her, and she's got me. Kiosk, eh?"

It was a relief to him to admit to himself that he was at last caught.

"Anyhow she adores me."

HIS ear caught a strange sound. It came along the corridor as from a distance. It reminded him of the distant gigantic breathing of the great blast furnaces over at Cauldon in the Five Towns. Only it was very, very faint. He went towards it. It came from the little sitting room. It was Maidie sobbing with singular regularity. He shut the door and approached the auburn head anxiously, hoping that he alone had heard the sound.

Here! Listen here!" he said. "I was wrong not to go to that dashed wedding. But ye've been saying a lot of very wicked things. And ye know ye have. Very unjust. But ye can't control yerself. Never could. And why aren't you married, I should like to know! . . . Fellows are afraid of you. But I'm not. I'm not. At least I don't think I am."

She smiled pitifully.

"Now why am I kissing her?" he asked himself as he kissed her. No, she did not draw back. She let him kiss her fair and square. And the terrible strangeness and mystery of destiny shook him. For he was a man who could comprehend and appreciate big things.

"A near thing, that!" he said to himself. "A near thing, that. A half-hour later, and I should ha' been"——

Thus he reflected as he went out to give exactly two minutes to Lady Eleanor in the kiosk. He was armed now against the weapons of Lady Eleanor in the summer night.

On the first day of his ownership of the Charing Cross Echo appeared therein an announcement of his marriage (ceremony strictly private) to Maidie Furber, daughter of the late, etc., etc.

With Bow and Arrow in Darkest Africa

the gloom. Now the insane laughter of a hyena sounds close at hand and pattering feet tell us of the entrance of these detestable creatures on the scene. Suddenly there is a scurrying of padded feet and all is quiet.

A soft, purring grunt denotes that lions approach and all other animals leave in haste. Your heart goes at gallop speed and your breath is held from jerking by a conscious effort. A lapping sound comes clicking in the darkness—you can all but see the great furry tongues licking in the pool of blood that rests in the disemboweled carcass outside the boma.

We wait and wait, then softly creep to the aperture. Our bows are ready strung, our quivers strapped upright to the framework of the inclosure. We notch an arrow each and rise slowly, shafts drawn to the head.

ON GOES the brilliant white light, and in startling distinctness there lie the striped hindquarters of the zebra, the dense thorn background, and three lions standing in the spotlight.

No one knew what a lion would do when struck with an arrow. There are no statistics on the point. We shot together. We struck! Two beasts bounded out of vision and not a sound occurred. The third lion stood dazed in the glare of the light. I drew an arrow quickly and shot.

Simson saw it hit her neck. Then the flashlight went out and absolute black dropped before our eyes. Off in the night we heard the whining grunt of a lion, presumably wounded with an arrow. This slowly faded in oblivion and the minor sounds of the night arose to audibility again.

Then out of the immediate stillness, with never a preliminary note, we heard that licking, lapping sound again. Lions were at the bait!

Again we flush with eagerness and turbulent mixed emotions. We creep to the boma window, notch our arrows, rise, and on goes the flash.

TWO lions are in illumination. The larger, apparently a female, lies broadside to us, her head at the zebra's side. All three archers shoot at her. We hear the welcome thud of striking arrows, there is a bounding streak of yellow light, a grunt of surprise and pain, and the stage is empty, save for the dead striped bait.

Out in the night we hear a lion cough. She coughs and breathes hard and tries to roar, but seems unable to force the air from her throat. A pang of sympathy strikes us. She is grievously wounded: lung shots!

Hour followed hour. Some in the boma dozed, while others watched. We felt confident that we had struck three lions, and that at least one lay dead near the boma.

EARLY in the gray light we sallied forth with great caution. We searched in vain. We scouted all over the plains and made all the racket we could on the outskirts of the jungle, but no sound returned. So we set two boys to watch and returned to camp, considerably crestfallen and disappointed.

There is no satisfaction in wounding any animal and letting it escape—no matter how cruel and bloodthirsty that beast may be. We fully believed that one lion died and that at least one other was mortally wounded, but we had no positive evidence.

At evening we returned to get the report of the boys and to see if the vultures told a story, but the jungle gave forth no sign.

Young and I sat out another night in the boma. Rain fell on us, hyenas and jackels howled and barked. Simba, the great lion, prowled and roared off in the distance. Herds of zebra stampeded past the boma and soft-purring grunts circled us not far off, but no lions came in the circle of light.

Our lion encounter to date is inconclusive and not to our liking. The boma type of shooting does not appeal to us. We shall try something more radical and definite in the near future.

A Trouble-Proof Ford Timer
Entirely new principle. Needs no oil, no attention. Can't go wrong. Endorsed by auto engineers as the most practical Ford Timer made. Think of it! A timer that starts your motor quicker, makes a cleaner, hotter, surer spark. Puts more pep in your engine—more miles in your gas. No missing, jerking or bucking at any speed. As good after 10,000 miles as after one mile. Genuine Bakelite Shell and Brush—entirely waterproof—no chance to short circuit. Just put it on and forget it.
NEEDS NO OIL
SEND NO MONEY. Just write, and we will send one, absolutely guaranteed by a big responsible company. Costs only $1.50. Pay the postman. If not all we claim after 500 to 1,000 miles, send it back and get your money. It'll be the best investment you ever made.

Health Restored By Radium

The wonderful curative power of Radium has been known for years. However, the benefits of this precious health-giving substance have in the past been only within the means of persons of wealth.

Since the invention of Degnen's Radio-Active Solar Pad, any man or woman, poor or rich, can afford this treatment which offers so much relief from suffering and disease.

Degnen's Radio-Active Solar Pad is worn next to the body day and night. It pours a constant stream of radio-active energy into the system while you work, play or sleep, helping to build up weakened nerves and tissues to a strong, healthy condition. It creates a vigorous circulation of blood, thus removing congestion, which is the real cause of most diseases.

To prove just what this remarkable treatment can do for you, we will send our appliance on trial with the understanding that we will not charge you a cent if it fails to give satisfactory results. This offer is open to any person who has pain of any kind, nerve weakness, high blood pressure, stomach, kidney or liver complaint, bladder trouble, or disease of the lungs or heart. No matter what your ailment or how long you have had it, we will gladly let you try the appliance at our risk. Write today for free literature giving complete information. New Goitre Remedy

Great interest attaches to reports of a remarkable method for treating goitre recently demonstrated at the W. T. B. Laboratory, 119 Minty Block, Battle Creek, Mich. It is used by the patient herself in her own home and it is said that the largest and most hideous goitres begin to recede in almost a day. They gradually get smaller until in three or four weeks they are often gone entirely. The treatment is perfectly safe for anyone to use and many believe it will prove the long-sought specific for all goitres. A little book issued by the laboratory explains the method fully and will be mailed free for the asking to anyone interested

OXFORD-CAMBRIDGE VS. YALE-HARVARD INTERNATIONAL TRACK AND FIELD MEET

This interesting event in intercollegiate athletics was won by the Americans, who, under the English scoring system had 7½ points to their opponents' 4½ points. The rival teams were equal in firsts, but under the English system seconds also count in tie scores. The meet was held at Soldiers' Field, Cambridge, Mass., July 11.

Slender Figures

So easy now

Mark the slender figures you see everywhere today. Think what they signify. Excess fat is not one-tenth so common as it was.

Everywhere you see how people now abhor fat, as a blight to beauty, to efficiency and health. And you see very clearly that multitudes have found the right way to combat it.

That way is Marmola Prescription Tablets. They have been used for 18 years. Users all the world over have proved the results, have told them and shown them. Now people are taking 100,000 boxes of Marmola every month.

Ask your slender friends. You will find Marmola users all about you. Let them tell you how amazing, how beneficial are the results.

Marmola acts on the cause of fat. Requires no abnormal exercise or diet. We state every ingredient and explain how it acts, so every user understands.

Investigate the famous treatment which for 18 years has been doing so much for so many. Which has won the topmost place as a scientific fat reducer. Do that in justice to yourself.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. Send this coupon for our latest book a 25-ct. sample free and our guarantee. Clip it now.

"A YEAR AGO two friends and myself stayed nine weeks prospecting in an isolated, arid region—living on what we could gather of the crude supplies the country afforded—and hope. My stomach was weak from abuse. My bonanza was a coarse, irritated skin—a breaking-out all over my body. I used a horde of 'positive cures,' and then, discouraged, tried Fleischmann's Yeast. I mixed the yeast with jelly for a bread spread. In two months I was as I am today. My skin was better than 'back to normal' and I was ready for every 'let's go'." V. C. Spies, Barrett, Cal.

"FOR SIX YEARS I was ailing, nervous and depressed, interested in nothing, accomplishing nothing, rarely for twenty-four consecutive hours free from pain—all caused I know now by intestinal putrefaction. At last I began eating Fleischmann's Yeast, three cakes daily. Relief from constipation and pain followed. I continued to take it as a tonic and food, regaining strength and energy and the long-discontinued compliments on my complexion. Today I am vigorously well—praise be to Fleischmann's Yeast." Kate D. Meares, College Place, S. C.

Now they are really well

Vital, joyous, certain of their power again, thousands have found the way to glorious health through one simple food

NOT a "cure-all," not a medicine in any sense—Fleischmann's Yeast is simply a remarkable fresh food.

The millions of tiny active yeast plants in every cake invigorate the whole system. They aid digestion—clear the skin—banish the poisons of constipation. Where cathartics give only temporary relief, yeast strengthens the intestinal muscles and makes them healthy and active. And day by day it releases new stores of energy.

Eat two or three cakes regularly every day before meals: on crackers—in fruit juices or milk—or just plain. For constipation especially, dissolve one cake in hot water (not scalding) before breakfast and at bedtime. Buy several cakes at a time—they will keep fresh in a cool dry place for two or three days. All grocers have Fleischmann's Yeast. Start eating it today!

And let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Health Research Dept. 784, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York.

Protects Frictional Surfaces

Polarine provides a thin film of oil between the moving metal surfaces and protects your engine against the ravages of friction.

The Polarine film is a tough, resistant, resilient cushion of oil. It maintains its lubricating properties at all temperatures and under all operating conditions.

Polarine conserves power. The Polarine film is the enemy of repair bills. Drain your crankcase every 500 miles, thoroughly cleanse it with Polarine Flushing Oil and refill with fresh Polarine in the right grade.

Follow this practice and you will drive your car much farther without overhauling.

Consult chart for the correct grade of Polarine for your car at Any Standard Oil Service Station and at Any Authorized Garage.

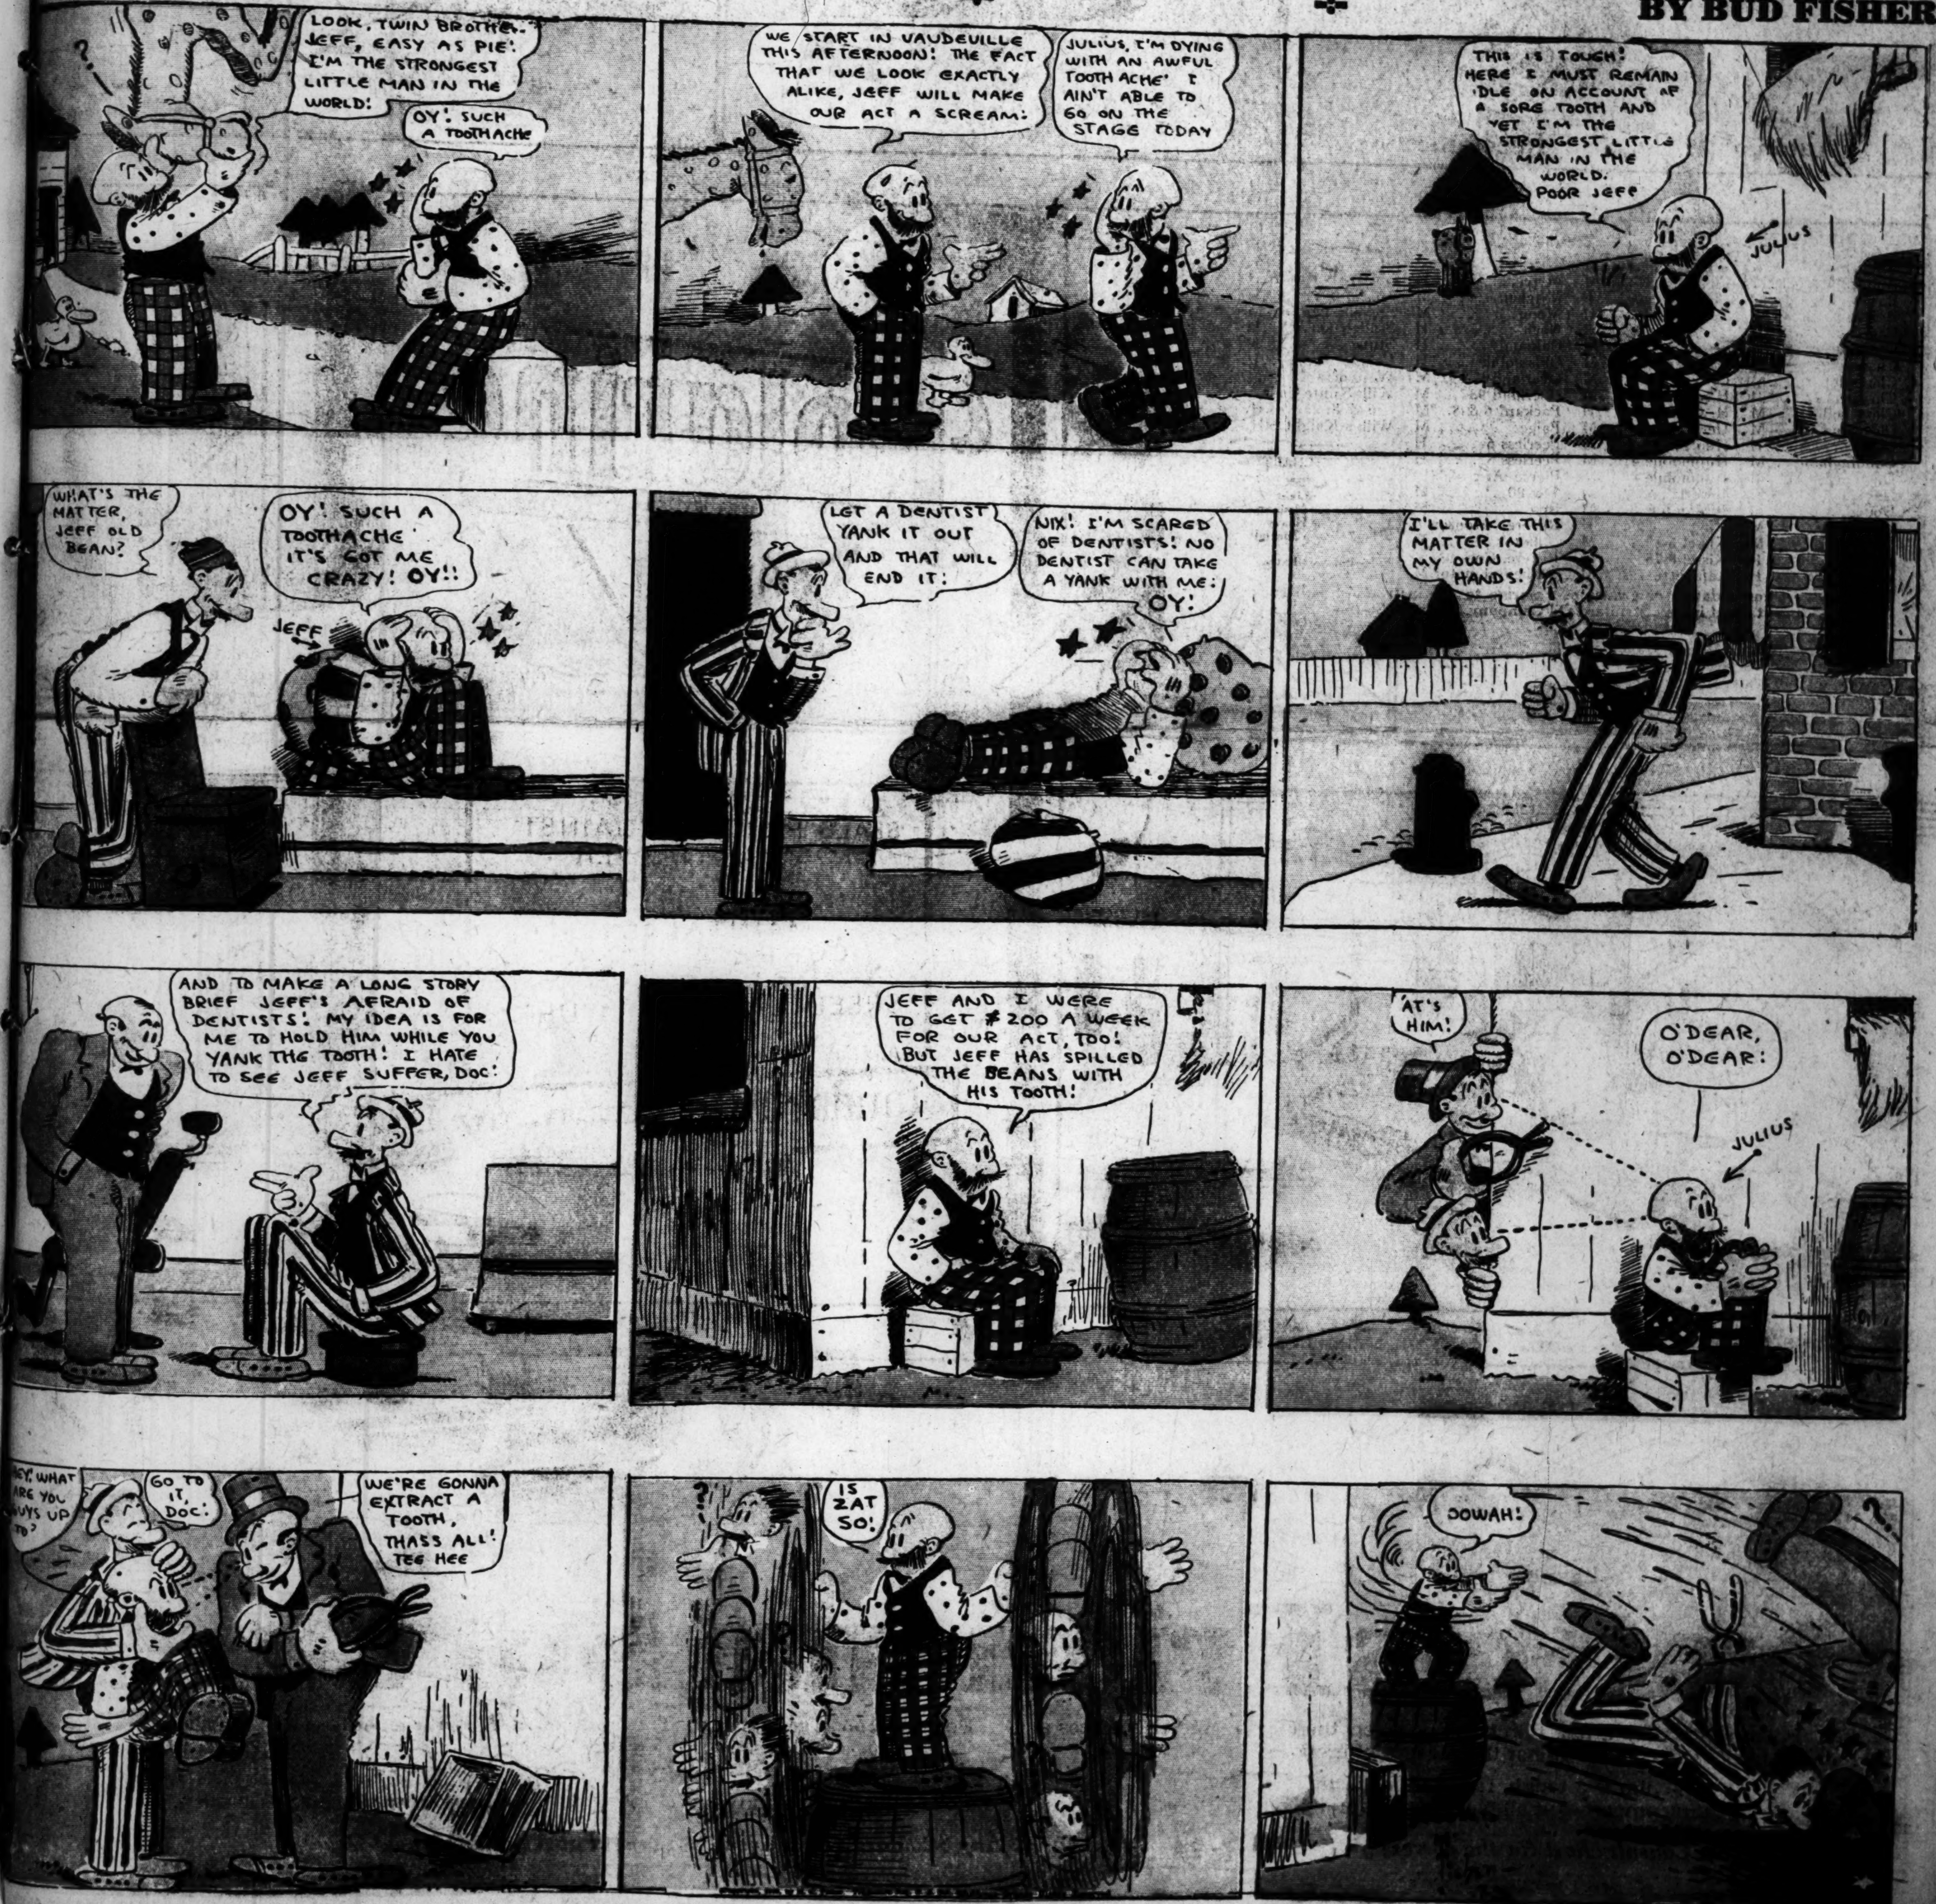
UTT AND JEFF

BY BUD FISHER



LOOK, TWIN BROTHER. JEFF, EASY AS PIE! I'M THE STRONGEST LITTLE MAN IN THE WORLD!
OY! SUCH A TOOTHACHE
WE START IN VAUDEVILLE THIS AFTERNOON! THE FACT THAT WE LOOK EXACTLY ALIKE, JEFF WILL MAKE OUR ACT A SCREAM!
JULIUS, I'M DYING WITH AN AWFUL TOOTH ACHE! I AIN'T ABLE TO GO ON THE STAGE TODAY
THIS IS TOUGH! HERE I MUST REMAIN IDLE ON ACCOUNT OF A SORE TOOTH AND YET I'M THE STRONGEST LITTLE MAN IN THE WORLD. POOR JEFF
JULIUS
WHAT'S THE MATTER, JEFF OLD BEAN?
OY! SUCH A TOOTHACHE IT'S GOT ME CRAZY! OY!!
JEFF
LET A DENTIST YANK IT OUT AND THAT WILL END IT!
NIX! I'M SCARED OF DENTISTS! NO DENTIST CAN TAKE A YANK WITH ME! OY!
I'LL TAKE THIS MATTER IN MY OWN HANDS!
AND TO MAKE A LONG STORY BRIEF JEFF'S AFRAID OF DENTISTS! MY IDEA IS FOR ME TO HOLD HIM WHILE YOU YANK THE TOOTH! I HATE TO SEE JEFF SUFFER, DOC!
JEFF AND I WERE TO GET $200 A WEEK FOR OUR ACT, TOO! BUT JEFF HAS SPILLED THE BEANS WITH HIS TOOTH!
'AT'S HIM!
O'DEAR, O'DEAR!
JULIUS
HEY! WHAT ARE YOU GUYS UP TO?
GO TO IT, DOC!
WE'RE GONNA EXTRACT A TOOTH, THASS ALL! TEE HEE

NORRIS ASSAILS REACTIONARY PLAN OF PRESIDENT

Senator Charges Coolidge Is "Packing" Government Commissions With Men of "Big Business."

"EXECUTIVE ACTION REPEALS STATUTES"

Nebraskan Asserts Policy Is Destruction of Law by a Process of "Boring From Within."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27. — A charge that the Harding administration inaugurated and the Coolidge administration has pursued a persistent system of "packing" the various Government commissions with "reactionaries" was made by Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, in a formal statement made public last night through the People's Legislative Service.

"It is not only the Federal Trade Commission, but also the Tariff Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission," Norris said to which such appointments have been made." Referring then particularly to the appointment of William E. Humphrey to the Federal Trade Commission, the Senator said that what should be done "is to advocate and if possible, carry out the repeal of the law providing for the Federal Trade Commission."

Partisan in Its Makeup.

"Everybody knows," the Senator added, "that the majority of the Federal Trade Commission, able and honest, though they may be personally and individually, is so imbued with reactionary sentiment and so partisan in their makeup that they would not see a wrong committed by a big trust or monopoly, even though it did appear as huge as high Olympus."

"So what is the use of having a Federal Trade Commission? If we are going to let the big fellows eat the little ones up, why not let them do it directly without burdening the tax-payers with the expense of selecting some reactionary men to give approval to the devouring process?

Repeal by Executive Action.

"What good, after all, does it do to pass laws if the President is going to appoint men to administer them who have no sympathy with them? It is in effect, the repeal of statute by executive action. It is the destruction of the intent of the law by a process of 'boring from within.'"

Referring to a published report that the Federal Trade Commission would not follow the Senate resolution, of which he was the sponsor, calling for a thorough investigation of the General Electric Co., Senator Norris said he wanted "to give Mr. Humphrey credit for his courage in that respect.

"He is the representative of big business," he added, "and he now controls the Federal Trade Commission.

PAY OF 10,000 WORKERS CUT

Many Woolen Mills Put 10 Per Cent Reduction Into Force.

By the Associated Press.

ONECO, Conn., July 27.—Small woolen and worsted mills scattered over eastern Connecticut and Rhode Island have generally joined the American Woolen Co., today in a 10 per cent wage reduction, bringing the number of employes whose wages have been cut up to 10,000.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 27.—A wage reduction of 10 per cent went into effect today in most mills of Greater Lawrence. Mill officials said there was no reduction in the number reporting for work. At the Merrimac Paper Co., employing 200, it was stated that a 10 per cent cut became effective today.

THEATERS DROP BRYAN SATIRE

Action by New York Houses Is Mark of Respect.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Out of respect for the memory of William Jennings Bryan, New York theaters have decided to delete scenes satirizing his part in the recent Scopes trial.

A scene in the "Garrick Gaieties" portraying Bryan as the prosecutor in a "monkey trial" will be dropped tonight. Lines from the Grand Street Follies referring to the Commoner are to be deleted, and other comedies in Manhattan theaters which have been satirizing Bryan by word, suggestion or tableau have had all such parts stricken out.
